DRURY GETS COALITION'S CONFIDENCE

FARMER AND LABOR MEMBERS AT CAUCUS ADOPT RESOLUTION OF CONFIDENCE IN THE PREMIER UNANIMOUSLY—ALL IN HARMONY IN GOVT.

FARMERS MEET TO-DAY

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 19.— Farmer and Labor members of the Legislature are absolutely in accord with Premier Drury. The Government caucus held at the Parliament Buildings yesterday lost no time in going on record as backing the Prime Minister. A few minutes after proceedings opened a resolution of confidence in the Premier and his Cabinet was moved, seconded and passed unanimously. Nearly all of the members who were elected on the Farmer and Labor tickets were at the caucus.

While the resoltion contains nothing in actual words about the difference of opinion between Mr. Drury and Mr. Morrison on the "broadening out" policy, it can be taken that the members are lined up with the Prime Minister, and not with Mr. Morrison. Caucuses have been held often by the Farmers, and until the present differences occurred the members have never considered it necessary to move a vote of confidence in the Leader. The present disturbanes in the Farmers' party affairs undoubtedly prompted the resolution, which carried without any dissent.

Premier Drury replied briefly, thanking the members for their loyal support. He made but one reference to the difference between himself and Mr. Morrison. The Premier said that his speech was not misquoted, but apparently Mr. Morrison had "misinterpreted" it. The matter, so far as the caucus was concerned, closed with the resolution.

BRIDGE SOON OPEN FOR ALL TRAFFIC

ENGINEER OF THE RAILWAY BOARD MET REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COUNCIL HERE YESTERDAY.

Permission to open the Hunter street bridge for general traffic ws given by H. W. Middlemist, engineer for the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, at a conference here yesterday afternoon with Ald. Hamilton, chairman of the Bridge committee, Mayor McIntyre, H. L. Seymour, representing Frank Barber, C. J. Townsend, Fred Christie and City Engineer Parsons.

The new bridge will likely be thrown open some time next week. The only essential work remaining is the filling of two joints, and this can probably be carried out in a day. One of the joints is at the crown of the arch, and requires only a narrow filling of cement.

BEAMSVILLE FACTORY DEETROYED BY FIRE

(Canadian Press)

HAMILTON, Jan. 19. — The Beamsville basket and Veneer Company's plant was burned to the ground early this morning with a loss of forty thousand dollars and only eleven thousand dollars insurance. The factory was situated in the heart of the village and firemen had a desperate fight to keep it from spreading. About seventy-five employees will be thrown out of work.

DROPS DEAD AT MEETING

REV. CHARLES H. COON, PRESIDENT OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE OF THE METHODIST CHURCH, COLLAPSED IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS

Rev. Charles H. Coon of Lindsay, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church, died suddenly last evening while presiding at a meeting of a co-operative committee of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, held in St. Paul's Presbyterian church here.

Rev. Mr. Coon was just about to open the evening session of the committee and had been chatting cheerfully with the other members present, when he suddenly collapsed, and, it is thought, death was instantaneous. Heart failure is assigned as the cause of death.

Rev. Mr. Coon was well known here having formerly been pastor of Mark street Methodist Church. His son, Horace, resides in the city.

The late Mr. Coon was born in Frankford, sixty years ago, and received his education for the ministry at Albert College, Belleville. His earlier life was spent in mission service on the small circuits. In 1908, he was appointed pastor of the Mark street Methodist church, Peterboro, and had been pastor of his present charge, the Queen street Methodist Church, Lindsay, for the past four years.

There are left of the immediate family his wife and nine children, Miss Marion, a misionary in China; Mrs. M. Dobbin, of Lindsay; Horace, Winnifred and Caroline of Peterboro; Willard of Toronto; Gladys, Helen, and Elma, of Lindsay.

The funeral will take place in Lindsay, on Friday afternoon.

The city shivered again to-day in the unabated grip of King Zero, while the official mercury slipped down to 19 below this morning, one degree below yesterday morning's record. But as the day progressed a slight moderation was noticeable, bearing out the weather man's belated prediction of milder weather to-day, with snow or sleet to-morrow.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 19. —Wheat acted weak to-day and rallies were feeble, as the only buying in evidence was from shorts who wanted profits. The failure of the market to hold its advance yesterday in view of the reported big exoprt sales caused buyers to lose confidence and much long wheat was sacrificed to-day and pressure from bears also was noted. Some of the fatcors which had influence on the market included a cable that the continental European financial situation was disturbed, that Manchurian wheat was offered 10 cents below American in Liverpool, and the Italian government was reselling wheat. On the break 1 million bushels of wheat was reported worked to Switzerland via the Gulf. A better domestic milling demand was reported for wheat on the breay to-day. Cash premiums were unchanged. South-west reported offerings of wehat from the country much smaller than of late. The cash demand also was reported slow in those markets.

Corn sold to within 3-4 cents of the lowest price on the crops before enough buying developed to carry the prices back a little. The big factor in corn is the heavy movement. In addition to 450 cars estimated for today the country is offering corn freely to arrive and one houhe states that they were offered 175,000 bushels from one point to arrive for nearby shipment. There was a little better domestic shiping demand on the break, but exoprters were reported less keen after corn. Although some corn was worked. Unsettled weather is likely to interfere with the movement for a day or so.

Oats also were lower. There was pressure mainly from locals, while fair buying by commission houses was noted on the break.. One export house gave up 75,000 bushels futures for the cash indicating that some business may have been worked. A few cancellations were reported by local shippers. Cash oats basis was unchanged.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AT NEW YORK TO-DAY ..... 87.37 CTS

Prosperity Is Outlook

By SIR GEORGE E. FOSTER, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

(Copyright by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

After a two months' stay and observation of Europe, my appreciation of Canada's condition and opportunities is greatly strengthened. In lighter burdens of taxation, greater freedom from privation or want, fuller opportunities for individual effort and betterment, a more hopeful outlook for the future and a less obstrusive background of war casualties and sufferings, the contrast is wonderfully in Canada's favor. With disordered credit, inflated finances and confused and unsable exchanges, the economic situation is certainly growing no better. The present living conditions are almost intolerable and the future is distressingly uncertain for the nations of Europe. They are reaping the full and harvest of the seed sown by the war. Canadians have burdens and difficulties, but not comparable with those in Europe. We shall overcome them much more easily and earlier than can the other countries. Later we will receive great contributions of the very best European immigration, which is now looking anxiously to the freer areas. It only remains to set our house in order for the large development which is certain to come to us. To all Canadians the courage, hope and best wishes for the New Year.

To - morrow — VINCENT EASTWOOD, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

ACTIVITY IN THE MARKET

REALLY ACTIVE TRADING DEVELOPS FOR FIRST TIME IN THREE DAYS, DUE TO A GENERAL COVERING MOVEMENT.

SEVERAL ISSUES UP

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 19. — A general covering movement set in on the stock market toward the end of first hour to-day, resulting in really active trading for the first time in three days. Some of the shorts apparently had taken warning from the action of the specialties yesterday. The traders included United Fruit, which reached 109 3-4 or the equivalent of 219 1.2 for the old stock. General Asphalt which got up 30 points fro last month's low, reaching 62; U. S. Realty with an early high of 50 7-8, up 1 3-8; Kelly Springfield, which touched a new high of 48 3-4, up 2 3-4, Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil which got above 32, again off 2 points, and California Petroleum with a new high of 35, up 2. Rails were slow, although Canadian Pacific gained 1-2 at 116 3-4. Southern Pacific was unchanged at 97 1-4.

Prices at the opening included: U. S. Steel 83 1-8, unchanged; American Smeuting 38 3-4, up 3-4; Central Leather 42 1-2, up 1-4; American Tobacco 118, up 1-4; Pan-American 75 1-2, unchanged; Canadan Pacific 116 3-4, up 1-2; Corn Products, 70 7-8, up 5-8; Crucible Steel 98, up 1-4; Anaconda 38 1-4, off 3-4; Atlantic Gulf 72, unchanged; U. S. Rubber 68 1-4, up 5-8; Food Products 20 1-8, off 3-8; Southern Pac., 97 1-4, unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Foreign exchange was lower at the opening today. Sterling 3.74 1-4, off 1 1-4 cents; Francs .0627; Lire .0347; Marks .0155; Canadian Dollars .87.75.

In the early afternoon Rails joined the Industrials in advances, led by Reading, which reached 86 3-4. Studebaker also was strong and reports were circulated that the old bull pool was buying the stock. U. S. Realty made a new high on the movement, advancing 2 3-8 to 51 7-8.

TO-NIGHT SKATING at Brock St. Rink. BAND

W. F. O'CONNOR SAYS ALMOST CERTAIN NOW

BACK TO THE SCENE OF BATTLE COMES THE MAN OF MYSTERY, WHERE HE WILL REMAIN UNTIL HIS INDECISION VANISHES.

REITERATES HIS VIEWS

Back to the scene of battle came W. F. O'Connor, of Ottawa, to-day, who told the Examiner on previous visits that he would "likely" be a starter in the race for the seat. When seen this morning he changed the probabilties on his entrance to "almost certain." Mr. O'Connor intimated that he would remain here constantly now till the election is over. He would not state whether or not he would take the platform in support of his policy.

Mr. O'Connor believes that the tariff of United States and Canada should be on an even keel. Canada's should be the same as that of the Union he declared. If the tariff in this country is changed now, the new Republican government in the States will in all likelihood raise a high tariff wall and trade in this country will fall off. Canada he maintains and states that he has many supporters of equal views should set a flexible tariff this session and when the United States alters theirs change Canada's similarly so that United States may buy at no greater preference than she allows Canada. Mr. O'Connor stated to-day that much interest was evinced in Parliamentary circles at Ottawa over the by-election.

PETERBORO OLD BOYS' REUNION

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF TRADE APPOINT COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SPECIAL WEEK FOR NEXT SUMMER.

Owing to the visit of Sir George Foster and Sir Henry Drayton to the city on Friday evening next, the 21st inst., it was considered inadvisable by the Executive Council of the Board of Trade to hold the regular general meeting on that date, and owing to the general interest of the electorate in the by-election, Tuesday, February 8th at which time a considerable number of contentious subjects will be considered, among which is the advisability of changing the regular day of the municipal election, which has already been considered at Hamilton and Guelph. The matter of fire insurance will also be considered, from the report to be submitted by the Fire, Water and Light committee, of which Mr. W. H. Bradburn is the chairman.

The Nominating committee will be appointed at this meeting to bring a slate of thirty, frorl which fifteen will be elected, to constitute the Executive Council for the new fiscal year, commencing March 1st.

A special committee will also be appointed to consider the proposal of reserving a special week during the summer for Peterborough 'Old Boys' Re-union.'

At this meeting on Tuesday, February 8th, all citizens interested in general community welfare will be cordially welcomed.

ROLAND DENNE,
Who last eevning was re-elected President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board for the fourth consecutive term.

EXHIBITION PROSPERING

ANNUAL MEETING OF DIRECTORS LAST EVENING LOOKED FORWARD TO BIGGER AND BETTER EXHIBITION THAN EVER BEFORE

DENNE RE-ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition Board was held last evening in the Board of Trade rooms. Despite inpropitious weather practically all the directors were present, President Roland Denne presiding. The president asked that he be allowed to retire and said that Mr. Reg. Turner, 1st Vice-President, could ably fill the chair. The board would not hear of Mr. Denne's retirement and from the members came on all sides praise of his administration. He was unanimously re-elected and with him the 1920 officers. On motion of Mr. W. G. Cox, seconded by H. Webber the following officers for 1921 will be:—

President—R. Denne.
1st Vice-President—R. H. Turner.
2nd Vice-President—W. G. Cox.
Secretary —F. J. A. Hall.
Treasurer—Vincent Eastwood.
Superintendent—Thos Brown.

New Names Added

To the list of directors several names were added. These were W. Barrie, E. F. Mason, Gordon Matthews, P. Card, Thos. McIndoo and W. H. Dunsford. On the suggestion of Mr. W. R. Breyfogle the reeves of the townships in the county were elected to the directorate.

The financial report of the year presented to the board was eminently satisfactory to the board and indicated unusual progress along every line. A small overdraft has occurred this year, but in view of the improvements made on the grounds the board are more than peased with the year's success.

Progress of Fair.

To indicate the progress made by the fair in 1920 the following figures are impressive.

Amounts spent on permanent improvements previous to 1920, $19.174. Improvements during 1920, $6376.07. Total assets $25.550.07. These figures do not represent the amount of money saved by the board by voluntary work of the directorate, a saving estimated at hundreds of dollars.

Following the meeting the board adjourned to the Empress Hotel, where with invited guests representative of both city and county they sat down to the festive board, and with optimism and confidence in the possibilities of the Peterboro Industrial

VETERANS TO PLACE ENTRY IN CONTEST?

MEETING CONSIDERED FOR TO-NIGHT TO NOMINATE A CANDIDATE INDEFINITELY POSTPONED AND PLAN SO FAR VERY VAGUE.

NOTHING OFFICIAL

"Officially the Great War Veterans will not participate in the by-election, but what plans may be entertained by returned soldiers outside the organization I do not know," Sidney Whatley, secretary of the Association, stated to the Examiner to-day.

Rumors regarding the likelihood of a returned soldier entering the contest have been current for some time and a meeting was under consideration for to-night, but has been postponed indefinitely and perhaps permanently. The plans are very vague, and it is feared that in event of a candidate being entered there would be no assurance that the soldier vote would swing entirely to him, rather than splitting partially toward one or other of the old parties.

LESSONS

Unless I learn to ask no help
From any other soul but mine,
To seek no strength in waving reeds
Nor shade beneath a straggling pine;
Unless I learn to look at grief
Unshrinking from her tear-blind eyes,
And take from Pleasure fearlessly
Whatever gifts will make me wise
Unless I learn these things on earth,
Why was I ever given birth?
—Sara Teasdale.

"It is better to wear out than to rust out." To "retire from business" sounds well but it doesn't feel so well after the first year or so.

The best bank ever known is a bank of earth; it never refuses to discount to honest labor. The best share is the plowshare, on which dividends are always liberal.

The whole world is looking for happiness yet such a very small percentage of the world ever finds it. In fact those who go out in search of happiness for themselves never gain the quest. Happiness is a golden by-product of right living and we come upon it when we least expect to find it and in the places where those who conscientiously seek it never look.

One of oldest books in existence is a collection of proverbs by Ptahhotap, an Egyptian, who lived somewhere about the time of Abraham. Among his injunctions is the following, which we commend to the writers on woman's emancipation, domestic economy, and other popular topics, who may think that the subjects which they discuss are fresh and suggested by the increased intelligence of modern civilization: "If thou be wise furnish thy house well; woo thy wife and do not quarrel with her; nourish her; deck her out, for fine dress is her greatest delight. Purpose to make her glad as long as thou livest. She is a blessing which her possessor should treat as becomes his own standing. Be not unkind to her." This counsel is none the less useful at the present day, because 3,500 years have elapsed since it was given.

Sometimes we are inclined to agree with the children that it is rather a waste of time for them to "learn by heart" so much poetry. Yet as we grow older we may find moments when some beautiful poem we have learned early in life will help us over a rough place. Is there anything that could fight temptation better than the beautiful thought contained in that poem, "The Watcher," by Margaret Widdemer? for those of us whose mothers have reached Home first is there any greater weapon for life's battles than the thought that our Mother is "waiting till we come home to her, anxious if we are late, watching from Heaven's window, leaning from Heaven's gate." Only God could put such beautiful thoughts into the minds of mortals.

Shall we make memory merely a rendevous for the odds and ends of life, or shall we make it an armory for the weapons to fight the battles of life?

There is in every community a class of people who seem incapable of receiving any education outside of their own limited experience. Life runs along easily for them until their children begin to grow up and look forward to something broader for themselves. Then the battle for supremacy begins in earnest. The child seems ungrateful to the parent and the parent seems tyrannous to the child. It is hard for a mother who has laid down precise ideas of how her life and belongings shall be arranged to find that her own daughter is one of the chief opponents to these ideas. Yet this is exactly what happens to the woman who fails to learn. Progression is the law of the universe. It is an inexorable law and no amount of argument will stay its onward march. So your child tells you that "Mimalaya" is pronounced differently now than you pronounced it when you went to school change your pronunciation. That is only a small thing but if the child finds you are not abreast of the times in small things he will not expect to find you so in greater things. There is something pitiless in the power that often carries the child so far beyond the parent. One parent is to study with his child—to know his interest and to know the things that are forming the gray matter in his little head. Then the parent can be a mentor in times of need—a safe unfailing guide and companion. To do this is to fulfill in the highest sense the truest heaven has laid upon parents.

Woman now has, or should have, the right to govern her own home. The right to vote is insignificant when compared to this. She must be its mistress, but never its slave. That she has made it immaculate in cleanliness and resplendent in beauty is not enough. She must feed the love and truth which should unitedly govern it. What power or dignity can reach higher? What is the ability to sway large audiences over a home with such skill that husband and children shall rise up and call her blessed? To be the ruling spirit in such a position is a more sacred honor than to rule an empire. "Woman's rights!" Has man any higher or more noble? And when husband and wife see eye to eye and heart to heart one in the interest of home, they have reached as near perfection as we are allowed to hope for while on earth.

Every husband can have good coffee if on some morning, the coffee is a shade too brown to suit your taste, do not scold about it; and, on every other morning when it is delicious, say so. Try this way, and you will find your coffee and everything else, to your taste much oftener; and besides, you will give the ones you ought to love best the sweetest consciousness that they are doing the work well, and giving satisfaction to the one, of all others, they most desire to please — thus inspiring them with renewed energy to strive for the merited reward of kind, appreciative words. And so shall an atmosphere of peace and sweet home happiness come to pervade the whole house, born and nurtured into beautiful, fragrant blossoming by your own kind words and deeds.

If the little child gets a bump or a fall or a cut or skinned finger, mother will say: "Come to your mother and let her pet you," and she will kiss the bumped head and wrap up the cut finger with a few kind words. Then the child know you love it, and it will love you and always respect you, and when years have passed and gone and they have grown to manhood and womanhood they will look back to their childhood days as the happiest days of their lives.

No man is ever likely to accomplish any more than he resolutely sets himself to accomplish. The tendency is to drift, to float with the current, to let the stream of life sweep us whither it will. That is the easier way doubtless, and the banks are very beautiful and pleasant as we glide between them; but our true journey lies the other way, the real treasure mines of life are in the hills near the sources of the river; and we must row, row hard against the current if we would reach them. Let us row, not float through life; steer, not drift.

Do you know how many books are in the Bible? Let us tell you one good way to remember, so as never to forget. First write down the word "Old Testament." Now how many letters are in the word "Old?" Three. How many in the word "Testament?" Nine. Put three and nine together and you will have 39, the number of books in the Old Testament. Next write down the words "New Testament." There are also in "New" and "Testament" three and nine letters. Now multiply 3 by 9 and you have 27, the number of books in the New Testament. Of course by adding 39 and 27 you have 66, the number of books in the Bible. Any boy or girl who will read this over twice will never forget how many books are in the Bible.

Did you ever realize that nothing on earth can smile but a human being. Gems may flash reflected light but what is a diamond flash? A face that cannot smile is like a bud that cannot blossom, and dies on the stalk.

Youth and age have too little sympathy with each other. If the young would remember that they may be old, and the old remember that they have been young, the world would be happier.

No less than a quarter of a million women in this country are operating their own automobiles.

MUSICAL EDUCATION AT STATE'S EXPENSE.

At the forty-second annual meeting of the Music Teachers' National Association, held recently in Chicago, there was emphasized the question of the function of music in the educational system of the United States, a subject of ever increasing importance and concern. The programme of the convention states: "Through pressure on the part of parents, who see no reason why the State should not undertake the musical as well as the general education of their children music instruction—vocal, instrumental, theoretic and esthetic—is becoming an integral part of our governmental school system from the kindergarten to the university. It will doubtless surprise many to be told that we are confronted by the immediate prospect of a comprehensive musical education, being obtained at state expense. It is only a question of time when public instruction in music will become quite general."

STOMACH ON A STRIKE

"Pape's Diapepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once!

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.

MINTO-COOK WEDDING BIG SOCIAL EVENT

SOCIETY OF THREE COUNTRIES AMONG GUESTS AT NUPTIAL CEREMONY IN MONTREAL THIS AFTERNOON.

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Jan. 19.—A wedding which has excited society in Canada, Great Britain and the United States was celebrated this afternoon when the Earl of Minto was married to Miss Marion Cook of Montreal, in St. Patrick's Church The groom is a Protestant and his bride a Roman Catholic.

Among the guests were their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. The Countess of Minto, mother of the groom, represented the family. A congregation composed of the most noted people in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto, and also many well known society people from the United States attended.

Among the presents received by the bride were: From the Earl of Minto, a diamond and emerald plaque a pearl and diamond acorn brooch and a diamond tiara; from the Countess of Minto, a pearl and emerald necklace a diamond and pearl swan brooch, a diamond and sapphire four-leaf clover, and old lace; from Lord and Lady Cromer, the latter a sister of Earl Minto, an ostrich feather fan with white tortoise shell handle; from Lady Frances Scott, also a sister of the groom, a long chain of cut crystals in an antique box; from Lady Maud Mackintosh, Lady Blanche Cobbold and Lady Dorothy McMillan, diamond and sapphire veil pin; from Lady Loder an ivory and gold pen holder; from Sir Frederick and Lady Orr Lewis a cheque; from Mrs. George Cavendish a cousin of the Earl a white enamel box; from Mr. and Mrs. O'Meara grandparents of the bride a Georgian period silver tea service in the family for over one hundred and fifty years; from Major John and Lady Violet Astor a diamond hair bandeau.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Dorothy Cook as maid of honor. Her two younger sisters Misses Audrey and Sarah Cook; Lady Rachel Cavendish daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire; Lady Margaret Scott daughter of the Duke of Buccleugh; the Hon. Marguerite Shaughnessy daughter of Lord and Lady Shaughnessy; Miss Sheila McEachran daughter of Mrs. Charles McEachran formerly Miss Allan Montreal and Miss Adelaide Beardmore daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Beardmore Montreal were the bridesmaids Four little cousins of the bride the sons of Mrs. Gerald W. Farrell acted as pages they being Masters Gerald Mark, Desmond and Charles Farrell. Captain Oswald Balfour, military secretary to His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire and nephew of the Right Honorable A. J. Balfour, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Stuart MacTier Mr. Alex. Paterson, Mr. Hartland Paterson and Cadet Herbert Cook, a brother of the bride.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cook. She was born on August 16, 1896, at the old family homestead, 'Edgehill", near Morrisburg, Ont Her paternal ancestor, John Cook, of English and Dutch ancestry, was a United Empire Loyalist. Deprived of his lands in the Mohawk Valley, near Schenectady, N.Y., he came to Canada shorty after 1776 and settled in the unbroken wilderness, which then covered what is now the County of Dundas, and there five succeeding generations of his family have been born. The members of the family have always taken an active part in politics. A grandson of the old Loyalist, also named John, represented the riding of Dundas in the old Assembly of Upper Canada for over twenty years. The bride's grandfather, James William Cook, was also member for the County, while one of his brothers, Simon S. Cook, was returned in the elections for the first Legislature of Ontario, following Confederation, while another brother, Herman H. Cook, represented East Simcoe in the House of Commons for many years. The bride's mother was a Miss O'Meara of Quebec, daughter of Mr. D. D. O'Meara, for many years an inspector of customs.

The bridegroom, Victor Gilbert Lariston Garnet Murray-Kynnymond Elliott, Earl of Minto, Baron of Nova Scotia, Baron of Minto and Viscount Melgund, is the fifth peer to bear that title, well known in the Scottish Borderland and in British military and diplomatic annals. He is a son of the fourth Earl of Minto, who was Governor General of Canada from 1898 to 1904 and Mary, daughter of General the Hon. Charles Grey, during his father's lifetime he was known as Lord Melgund. He was born on February 12, 1891. He first served as a Lieutenant in the Lothians and Border Horse Yeomanry, and then became a second lieutenant in the Scots Guards in which he attained the rank of captain and saw service in he war. He succeeded his father in the Earldom in 1914, inheriting about 25,000 acres, located chiefly in Roxburghshire, in the Scottish Border. he family seat is Minto House, at Hawick in that county. In the autumn of 1918 Lord Minto arrived in Canada to take up his duties as Aide-de-Camp to His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, the Governor General. Following the example of the Prince of Wales, the Earl has purchased a ranch in Alberta.

LABOR PREPARES UNION SHOP FIGHT

GOMPERS CALLS MEETING IN WASHINGTON FEB. 23 TO DISCUSS METHODS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The direct charge that powerful financial and industrial interests have entered upon a publicity campaign in the hope of shaping public opinion against organized labor, with the disruption of the trade union movement as a goal, was made to-night by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, in announcing that a meeting of the National and International unions affiliated with the Federation will be held here Feb. 23.

Meetings of this kind have been held in the past only when matters considered to be of the most vital importance to organized labor were in the balance. Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation, will be back from Mexico to attend the meeting, and the response to the call indicates that representatives will be on hand from all of the unions.

Labor leaders who are willing to discuss the forthcoming meeting at all agree that it will be one of epochal importance in the history of the American Federation of Labor. For some time there has been growing steadily talk that the labor interests are being made the object of concerted, subtle and unfair attack on the part of certain industrial and financial groups. A study of the situation was begun several weeks ago, and the conclusion reached that the labor unions must organize and fight back, or lose much of the ground won for various principles during the war period.

It is the belief here that the meeting of the principal leaders of organized labor in this country will at least bring to a direct issue the charges which are heard in labor circles here that "big business" has organized to fight trades unionism.

GRAIN RUSH OVER.

Freight business on the main line of the Grand Trunk has assumed normal proporitions, with the rush of grain from the lake ports ended. There is still better traffic however, than on other parts of the system On the Midland division, it is said, there is a particular slackness, a number of crews having been laid off at Lindsay.

MR. BURNHAM'S ELECTION ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Owing to my resignation, a by-election will be held here on February 7th. I resigned because when Liberals and others joined in electing me to support the Union Government of Sir Robert Borden in 1917, I promised, as did Sir Robert Borden and those supporting him, to go to the People in a general election when the war was over. Without that promise it would have been useless and unfair to ask for Liberal support. Union Liberals were warned against a trap, but they could not believe that anybody would betray their trust. And who would have believed it? The Union Government was elected for the period of the war, and no longer.

But the war ended and the Union Government ended, and why was the promised general election not held? Because, without any mandate or mission from anybody on earth but themselves, Messrs. Meighen and Calder seized the reins of power and announced to an astonished Canada a new government and a new party, "The National Liberal and Conservative Party." The members of the Conservative Party and of the Liberal Party were directed to hand in their submission to the new party without delay. Was there ever such a hold-up staged before? This is the age of hold-ups, it is true, but till now no one has attempted to run off with two parties and a whole state.

A local committee of the Meighen Government's supporters were directed to secure a Liberal as candidate for the new party at this by-election. The committee went around accordingly asking prominent Peterborough Liberals to take the job, but they were met with very definite refusals. A convention therefore of members of the new party (if there are any) is called to try and get a candidate. As I am a Conservative I shall not attend and on no consideration will I desert or try to break up the Old Party. Its fate may be said without exaggeration to depend upon this election. It is in fact a common cause—this effort to get back to where we were before the war. And the new government is already in difficulties, and it cannot last, for no party can be two parties at one and the same time—both Liberal and Conservative. No man can be both Grit and Tory. There cannot be two policies. A party must have one policy, a united following, and one name, unless it carries an alias. I stand as a straight Conservative, which the Prime Minister truly says his new party is not. But at this election my only policy is a demand for an immediate general appeal to the People.

It is most dangerous to government by the People that governments should be seizable with impunity. Where will it end? And the Conservative Party shall not pass. In the interests of Canada it and what it stands for must not be allowed to pass. How dare a clique elect itself to office and seek to wipe out the old parties, and all organized opposition to itself, and to treat the people with contempt? A defeat for the new Government here will mean an immediate general election with the old parties lined up against each other as before. It would then be a clear issue and a clear conscience, and a re-establishment of the rule of the People. And who do you think is behind the new government? It is not the People, for they were not asked. It is not the soldiers, for I knocked out Calder in one round when he tried to shut the soldiers out, and threatened that the government would resign. Who then? And watch for the comments of that branch of the Press when they begin to turn their mud-guns upon me. They have begun already. For the safety of popular government therefore, I ask your support.

J. H. BURNHAM.

LITTLE ONES ARE STARVED IN RUSSIA

BREAD SUBSTITUTES GIVE CHILDREN CHRONIC DYSENTERY IMPOSSIBLE TO CURE.

(Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Frederick J. Libby, commissioner of the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers), who recently returned from Reval, brought back information that many children are starving in Russia. Mr. Libby obtained his information fror Arthur J. Watts, an English Friend, who has been engaged in relief work in Russia. Mr. Watts gave Mr. Libby a translation of the reports of Russian commissars from various Russian cities. It is upon these Mr. Libby bases his information.

It appears from the commissars' reports that the situation of the children varies greatly in the different centres. In some cities, such as Vitebsk, it is reported by the commissars that whole families are perishing from starvation. In others, such as Smolensk, Yaroslav, the children are reported to be obtaining sufficient nourishment. The report from Vitebsk stated that the bread substitutes give the children chronic dysentery, which it is impossible to cure. The commissars reported that in several centres the children had been unable to obtain bread for a long time and that in others no kind of fats or meats were obtainable and that milk was received rarely.

The children of Moscow were declared to have no sugar nor fats and were reported to be either starving or falling ill due to undernourishment. Inmates of the children's homes in Novgorod are starving, the reports stated. They receive no meat, butter, potatoes, milk or salt, but live on a daily portion of sour cabbage soup, millet cooked in water, and black bread made from bad flour. They are suffering from scurvy as a result of undernourishment.

The children in the schools of the Bashkir republic are reported to be in rags, barefooted and hungry.

BRITAIN'S HOME SHORTAGE NOW ONE MILLION

LONDON ALONE IS SHORT 150,000 DWELLINGS, ACCORDING TO LLOYD GEORGE IN COMMONS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—It is estimated that London is short of 150,000 houses and Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the House of Commons, has placed the total house shortage for the whole of the United Kingdom at roughly 1,000,000. A house for rent notice board in London quickly attracts a crowd.

Housing is a department of the Ministry of Health, and, by legislative act, local authorities are required to submit housing schemes. Thousands of schemes have been submitted, but progress has been very slow.

Perhaps the chief reason for this has been the economic factor. Houses which cost three or four times as much to build as before the war, cannot obviously let or sell at pre-war figures.

Nevertheless, according to Government statistics, some 60,000 new houses were started in 1920 and the number contracted for has risen during the year from 10,408 to 133,301.

One striking feature of the effort to provide houses is a housing scheme conducted by the Office of Works, which was empowered to spend £6,000,000 spread over 18 months. Its operations started in Camberwell, a south London borough. An arrangement was made by which the Office of Works supplied the plans, material and supervision, while the local federation of trades unions supplied the labor and the Borough Council assumed responsibility for the finances. The plan worked smoothly and houses were built for £780 apiece, a saving of at least £200, making a total saving to taxpayers of £400,000. This scheme may become the embryo of a state building department.

The financial difficulties connected with the housing problem have been responsible for the creation by local authorities of interest bearing "housing bonds," which are in some localities a fairly popular investment.

In the north of England, concrete houses have become popular, as machinery largely replaces man-power in their erection. In some parts of London, too, such houses have been built recently, owing to the shortage of bricks, the high rate of wages and other difficulties.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1921.

A CLEAN FIGHT.

It is a matter upon which all the candidates are to be congratulated, and for which the majority of the electors are devoutely thankful, that the political campaign in which West Peterborough is involved has been, up to the present, conducted on clean lines with an absolute absence of personalities or mud slinging. No doubt this condition of affairs will prevail until election day and although political platforms may be attacked vigorously and each party will do its best to demolish the contentions of its opponents, there will be no personal attacks. Even though the contest is a hard fought one there is no occasion for the candidates to indulge in the old policy of abusing each other. The day for that kind of a campaign seems to have passed, and more support is alienated than is gained by such tactics. The local camaign has been singularly free of personalities and may it continue so until the fight is over.

HELPING THE HOSPITALS.

The annual report of the Nicholls Hospital, especially the figures in regard to the cost of maintenance, suggests the thought that the Provincial grant to such institutions is not as large as it should be. The time seems ripe for a joint effort on the part of the hospitals of Ontario to place their claims for assistance before the Provincial Government and to endeavour to secure more generous aid than has been given in the past. Millions are spent by the Government in enterprises pertaining to the improvement of cattle and other live stock, but when the health of the people is involved there seems to be difficulty in convincing the legislators of the need of adequate financial assistance from the Province. The hospitals of the province have had a hard battle during the past few years in the face of abnormal prices of everything they ectors are devoutedly thankful that the fication for asking the Government to deal justly with them in the matter of grants. It should not be difficult for the management of the hospitals to prepare a convincing case and a co-operative effort to awaken the Government to a realization of the situation might have distinctly beneficial results. The experiment is worth trying.

CONDESCENDING ANYWAY.

There are times when Secretay J. J. Morrison, of the United Farmers of Ontario, reaches what might be called a condescending mood. In a speech at Harrowsmith the other night he informed his audience that while the farmers did not want the assistance of any other parties in formulating their principles, the outsiders could vote for their principles if they saw fit to do so. That is rather decent of Mr. Morrison, for from some of his addresses people might be inclined to think that the U.F.O. secretary did not even want votes from any one outside the orgainzation of which he is dictator. No wonder Premier Drury's talk of broadening out and his suggestion that other classes must be taken in if the Farmers' political movement is to succeed has caused Mr. Morrison to see red. From his viewpoint, such talk as that amounts to treason, and he must be sorry that Mr. Drury was not left "to plough his lonely furrow" at Crown Hill and that some other head had been secured for the Government, some one who would swallow the whole Morrison version of the U.F.O. creed. At all events the clash could not have been avoided much longer; there has been trouble brewing for a long time and the present controversy will occasion little surprise.

THE FIREMEN'S HOLIDAY.

It appears that in spite of all the arguments that have been advanced concerning the necessity of the members of the fire department having one day off in seven and the doleful pictures drawn by some advocates of the system of the hard working firemen, slaves to their duty, the firemen would prefer not to have their holiday if they are only to be paid on the basis of six days a week. It is said that they would rather work seven days a week and retain their full wages, and the admission is only another proof that the day-off-in-seven regulation passed by the Legislature at the last session, was a mistake. There was no demand for the change, which was pushed through before the municipalities had an opportunity to state their views or consider the effect of the legislation. The council of practically every city in Ontario has, by resolution, expressed strong objection to the system, and the members of several fire departments have gone on record as being opposed to the new regulation being put into force. The Act should be considered at the coming session of the Legislature; it was an ill-considered piece of legislation that never should have been passed.

BRIAND FILLS THE BREACH.

There is nothing surprising in the latest turn of political events in France and the acceptance by M. Aristide Briand of the task of forming a new Cabinet. It would indeed have been strange if any other man had been invited, for no one in France is better qualified for the reconciliation of warring parties within the State or for the settlement of those differences which threaten to estrange France from her Allies.

There was a wagging of tongues when Briand was passed over last October and Leygues was chosen by Milerand to head the first Cabinet. It seemed at first sight like an act of ingratitude on the part of the newly-elected President, for unquestionably Millerand owed the virtual unanimity of his election to Briand's persistent lobbying on his behalf and the tact with which he smoothed over the opposition.

The truth of his rejection is probably to be found in the declaration made by M. Millerand that he intended to exercise more personal power in performing the functions of his office than his predecssors had done. M. Briand would hardly be liked to consent to assume office if he was obliged to conform to the dictates of the President. The new Premier is a man of strong personality and earnest convictions, and he would never consent to assume a responsibility before Parliament for a policy which was not his own and with the full intent of which he might not be in sympathy. M. Millerand's declaration with regard to his office was accepted by the people of France largely because of his personal popularity and prestige. He was chosen President on the morrow of the complete success of his Polish and Russian adventure, which had a touch of chivalry which caught the popular fancy. He was unwilling that his foreign policy should be reversed by a Premier who might not see eye to eye with him or a chief lieutenant who might modify his plans by dictates of prudence.

M. Briand secured his golden chance when he entered Parliament at the very height of the controversy that centred around the separation of Church and State. He was quick to realise the desirability of conciliation, and he set about drafting a Separation Bill that should be aceptable to all parties. His tact and his oratory were the most important factors in the enactment of this legislation, and in 1906 he was offered the portfolio of Minister of Public Instruction by M. Sarrien in order that he might apply the law he had done so much to enact. The Extreme Socialists were furious at what they termed the "desertion" of their comrade, his allying himself with a bourgeois Cabinet, but M. Briand was not at all perturbed. M. Clemenceau, the next Premier, entrusted him with the delicate task of Minister of Justice, and his handling of the railway strike, involving vigorous repressive measures, led the Socialists to expel him from its ranks as a traitor and a renegade.

Since then M. Briand has on many occasion proved the "man wanted." President Fallieres entrusted him with the formation of his first Ministry in 1909. To-day again he steps into the berach, and his coming is an assurance of a strengthening of the Anglo-French Entente, a healing of the differences that threaten to disturb political parties and of wise statesmanship.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

February 7th will be another cold day—for all but one of the candidates.

In the U.F.O. scrap most city people are neutral. They don't care whether Morrison or Drury wrecks the Farmers' organization.

For the benefit of the women's voters, Sir George Foster ought to explain why he went outside of Canada for a bride.

The fundamental difference between Drury and Morrison is that one thinks the U.F.O. Government needs city votes as well as rural support, while the latter wants the Farmers to carry on alone.

Every time the door bell rings these days the housewife says, "Another man after a vote," and she is generally right.

Most of the candidates are "going to the country" these nights. Mr. Burnham, the lone exception, is certainly having the most comfortable campaign.

In some of those polling sub-divisions in the north, the candidates will get about a vote each if the sentiment is divided.

Our bachelor friend says that if there is a silent vote in the local campaign it is not found among the women voters.

"What is your hurry?" is the new slogan of the Motor League. It is appropriate and applies to many car owners.

With J. J. Morrison making it hot for him, Premier Drury need not worry about the cold weather.

CAR REPAIR SHOPS AT LINDSAY BURNED

LINDSAY, Jan 18.—The Grand Trunk car repair shop, situated at the corner of Victoria Ave., and Melbourne streets, just south of the freight sheds, caught fire yesterday morning shortly before 11 o'clock. By the time the fire brigade was called the fire had gained great headway The brigade made a strong fight under adverse weather conditions, but the flames practically destroyed the building. Two streams of water were played on the fire. Difficulty was experienced with a frozen hydrant, which necessitated moving the hose several blocks.

The cause of the fire is, as yet, unknown. The building contained materials for repair work, oils, etc. The damage is considerable.

RADICALS DYNAMITE UNION CHIEF'S HOME

MAN WHO LED PENNSYLVANIA MINERS TO VICTORY IN FALL OPPOSED A NEW STRIKE.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 19. — The store and house of James A. Joyce, Pittston merchant and leader of the Pennsylvania Coal Company miners, was wrecked and several other houses were badly damaged at 4.30 o'clock this morning by an explosion of dynamite. Four men have been arrested by the Pittston police. The charge was placed by the miners of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, who are displeased with the stand Joyce has taken in the present strike situation.

Joyce led the miners to victory in the fall, and the coal miners are now getting more money than ever before. His recent policy has been to restrain the men from striking, because he believed they have not a just cause. He opposed insistent demands of radical insurgents at a meeting of the General Grievance Committee last night, and though he did not win his point definitely, neither did the other side, and when the meeting adjourned conditions were badly muddled.

John L. Lewis, International president of the United Mine Workers, was here, and it was intended that he should meet with the Pittston miners to-day, but the Pittston police have issued orders against a meeting of any kind within the city limits.

Some miners favor a strike to-morrow and others favor work. The former are called radicals. The latter are mostly English-speaking miners. A meeting was to have been held to-morrow night, at which time the representatives of the 10,000 miners would get a report of the meeting of their committee with President Lewis this afternoon. Since all meetings have been declared off, it is considered likely that work will be resumed. Lewis has declared against a strike. He left here to-night.

During the last week Joyce's life was threatened many times, but he showed no fear.

10 Houses Wrecked in Four Months.

Ten houses were dynamited here during the last ten months, nearly all owned by Italian-speaking men, and this is the first time that a resident of Mr. Joyce's prominence was placed in danger.

Three persons were sleeping in the house, and were thrown from their beds to the floor. The entire front of the store was blown out and the stairs leading to the bedrooms wrecked. Windows were broken throughout the house, and a large section of the stone foundation caved in. A near-by garage is badly damaged, and windows in the Pittston laundry and Greek Catholic Church are broken.

A patrol has been placed at the Joyce home. Mine foremen and others who have counseled against another strike have made appeals for police protection.

Besides the Pittston police, the entire troops of State police, located at Wyoming, are searching for the men who committed the crime. The valley's prominent residents are making insistent demands that some of the large force of Secret Service men now operating here against the brewers, turn their attention to the strike and get the leaders.

SOLUTION IN SIGHT OF HOLLAND MURDER

WARNING TO THE MANAGER.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18. — It is believed that Chief of Detectives LePage holds the solution of the murder of Wm. A. Griffith, is brought to trial at the next term of the court of King's Bench. This the statement ... to-day by a man in close touch with the events that preceded the actual shooting.

Chief LePage at the inquest Saturday indicated that something was being held in reserve when he asked Coroner McMahon not to press him too closely for information at the inquest.

Warns Manager.

E. R. D. Applegath, head of the firm of MacDougall Bros., stated to-day that he had seen the two men at his office on the morning of Friday and had ordered them out. Turning to Mr. Holland while Griffith and Coffey were still in the room, Mr. Applegath said to his manager:

"If you don't have that fellow arrested I will; he is going to kill you some day."

On going out Major Grifith opened the door with his left hand, his right hand being in his pocket. He turned to close the door with the hand he had used in opening it, and Mr. Applegath said to him, "Never mind that door: Ill see to it."

ALBERTA'S EXPORTS.

CALGARY, Jan. 16.—Alberta's exports to the United States during the year 1920 were approximately $3,000,000 less than in 1919, due wholly to the decrease in the export of cattle, according to the annual declared export return compiled by S. C. Reat, United States consul in Calgary. The decrease in the value of cattle shipped across the line by Albertans during 1920, as compared with the year 1919, was $6,979,861.

However, large increases are noted in the export of wheat, oats, rye and barley, as well as meat and meat products.

WEST AFRICA IS THE LATEST COUNTRY TO SEEK HOME RULE

MISSION IN LONDON TO PRESS THE CLAIMS OF COLONY FOR SELF-GOVERNMENT—MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS IN PRINCIPAL TOWNS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 19.— West Africa is the latest country to seek home rule. A mission, representative of educated opinion in British West Africa, has arrived here to urge upon the Colonial Office a number of reforms in the internal administration of the four West African colonies and protectorates, Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast, Nigeria and the Gambia, says the London Times.

The Mission has been sent to this country by the National Congress of British West Africa, and seeks in the first place the creation of a legislative council which will be composed one-half of members chosen by the crown and one-half of members elected by the people, and for a house of assembly which would have complete control of the revenue and expenditure.

As to the local government, the mission urges that municipal corporations should be established in each of the principal towns of the colonies.

The judicial system of British West Africa, in particular Nigeria, is criticized by the mission which states that at present "it is the practice to appoint to judicial offices Europeans who have not received any legal training and who are not competent to exercise judicial functions."

Among other suggested reforms they seek: The establishment of a West African University; the removal of the color bar in the West African medical service, and the introduction of immigration laws to prevent the influx of undesirable aliens to British West Africa.

He also has conceived the brilliant idea of ridding the home of mice in a very novel manner with dynamite, and those interested in house management and will receive, in all probability, many other "helpful hints" on making home more endurable, from his latest First National comedy, which is to be seen at the Allen Theatre, beginning Thursday.

SHERLOCK HOLMES OF EDMONTON NOW

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, Jan. 19.—Detective John Watson, familiarly known as Sherlock Holmes around the city police station, has been at it again. The intrepid sleuth had a most peculiar assault case to investigate. A man complained to the police that he had been seriously assaulted in a rooming house by a man designated as "Pete." With nothing but this slender clue to work on Watson set out, located his man and brought him to the city police station.

The most remarkable part of the story is contained in the concluding sentence of the detective's official report: "I found in his possession a key used to screw on his wooden leg and it corresponded with the wounds in the complainant's head."

A STEED'S SOLILOQUY.

A city-bred steed, long accustomed to fare
Of the choicest, good grooming, good quarters and care,
In gay trappings caparisoned, wont to appear,
His master's chief pride, owning never a peer,
By misfortune's harsh hand, now reluctantly led
In rude drudgery drooping, his uncurried head,
Soliloquized thus, with a deep equine sigh,
As he mused on the good times, forever gone by.

Sad, and sore is my heart, for, to direful disgrace
And dishonor, has fallen my whole noble race,
We're ousted by fashion's new-fangled decree,
From City and Town, where we loved well to be,
By the outlandish automobile thrust aside,
Our speed, as slow snail pace, they scoffing deride,
Out-of-date, so they say, fit only for toil,
In far rural scenes, tilling unpromising soil.

We think of the breed, of old Pegasus we,
To keep pace, with demon of haste, must need be,
Even were we possessed of his winged speed, we know,
'Twould be all in vain, they would deem us too slow.
How as true, trusty servants, we served, long and well,
Our now ingrate masters, let horse history tell;
Patient, docile, obedient, it runs in my mind
That, more worthy and faithful, not soon, they will find.

Just some poor Rosinante's ill-starred, luckless nags,
Debased by vile wretches, to gathering old rags,
On the streets of the proud City, now may be found
Dejectedly trudging, a mean, menial round;
But with horses and men, 'tis the same case I ween,
No matter, how useful, or great, they have been,
When they're needed no more, it somehow comes about
They're neglected, forgotten, and soon down, and out.

APSLEY NEWS

APSLEY, Jan. 19. — A delightful evening's entertainment was enjoyed by a small but select audience at St. George's Hall on Friday last, provided by the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, under the direction and training of Mrs. Spence.

The feature of the programme was a miracle play, "The Nativity," in which the young performers acquitted themselves very creditably. The stage setting was excellent, the stable at Bethlehem, the snow clad hills, and the star all being very realistic. The three wise men were represented by Phyllis Spence, Stella Jones and Amy Lean, the Shepherds were Herb Lean, Roy Spence, Alma Jones; angels, Cora and Ruth Johnston, Joseph and Mary, Wilbert Johnston and Cicely Spence.

The programme also comprised Flag Drill, Hoop Drill, First Aid, Semaphore Signalling, and other items all executed remarkably well and reflecting great credit on Mrs. Spence's tuition and training.

Social Club.

The Men's Social Club has been reorganized and a committee and officers elected as follows: President, Rev. C. A. G. Spence, Vice-President, Mr. Charles Smith; Secretary and Librarian, Mr. E. L. Spence, Vernal Windsor, Stewart Brown, Tom Lean on the committee.

The report showed 32 members as having joined the club last year.

It was decided that the membership fee be 25c with an additional charge of 10c per month. Refreshments will be provided every club night (Wednesday). Mrs. Spence promising to provide tea, sugar and milk while the eatables will be supplied by the members severally in rotation An effort will be made to procure a horizontal bar and parallel bars for gymnastic exercises, but at present there are not sufficient funds for this apparatus.

Fire at the Post Office.

Some excitement was caused in the vilage on Wednesday evening by a chimney fire at the Post Office. Help was soon available and Vernal Windsor climbed the roof of the building and extinguished the blaze. Half an hour later word was brought to the Men's Club that the roof was ablaze and the members turned out en masse. A small part of the roof had caught but the fire was speedily put out with no serious damage done.

For Chinese Famine.

The offertory at St. George's church on Sunday evening was devoted to the Chinese Famine Fund and amounted to the handsome sum of $34.10.

FIND MORPHINE SOLD IN UPPER BROADWAY

POLICE MAKE TWO MORE ARRESTS IN EFFORT TO BREAK UP DRUG TRAFFIC.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—After working for a month in an effort to clean up a traffic in drugs reported to the police as being carried on in the upper Broadway and Riverside Drive district, Detective Harry Salls of the narcotic division at Police Headquarters, posing as a valet to a mythical millionaire drug addict, caused the arrest last night of two men who described themselves as Napolian Gervais, a waiter, of 251 West Fifty-fifth street, and Elmer Sullivan of 910 Eighth avenue. Sullivan is charged with trafficking in drugs and Gervais with conspiracy in aiding and abetting Sullivan.

Following numerous complaints made several weeks ago to Special Deputy Police Commissioner Dr. Carleton Simon, in charge of the Narcotic Division, Detective Salls was assigned to the upper Broadway district to gain information concerning the alleged drug ring. With a motor car at his disposal and a roll of bills which he displayed freely, Salls began his operations by going daily to an upper Broadway restaurant, much frequented by denizens of the Tenderloin, where he became known to patrons of the place as "Miller, valet to a Riverside Drive millionaire."

After several days Detective Salls approached Gervais, a waiter in the restaurant, who, according to the police, told him of a saloon in Eighth avenue, near Fifty-fourth street, where he could obtain drugs by asking for Sullivan. Both went to the saloon, where Gervais introduced Sullivan to Salls.

Sullivan, the police say, sold Salls a bottle of morphine for $15, and Salls made an engagement with him to get more drugs.

The detective and Sullivan were in the restaurant last night, as were also Detective Sergeant J. J. Mooney, of the Narcotic Division, and Ralph Oyler, Internal Revenue agent. Sullivan, the police say, passed Salls a bottle of morphine and two hypodermic needles and received two marked $20 bills in return. As soon as the sale was made Mooney and Oyler arrested Sullivan and a few moments later took Gervais into custody. Both men, the detectives say, admitted the charges.

The two men will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock.

Commenting on the arrests last night, Commissioner Simon said: "We will scour this city from the hovels of the east side to the palaces of Riverside Drive until this vile traffic is stopped."

The arrests of Gervais and Sullivan, Commissioner Simon believes, may lead to the cleaning up of the traffic in the upper Broadway district.

The annual meeting of the Douro and Dummer Agricultural Society was held in Warsaw Town Hall last Wednesday evening.

U.F.O. Club.

Quite a number from Warsaw went down to South Dummer on Thursday evening to attend a special U. F. O. meeting, at which Mr. A. A. Powers spoke. The South Dummer U.F.O. Club are holding a series of social evenings, and on March 26th will hold a debate, in which they have asked the Warsaw Woman's Institute to assist. The Institute has accepted. The subject is not yet announced.

Joint Meeting.

Last Wednesday evening there was a joint meeting of the Presbyterian Board of Managers of Warsaw and Cotessloe in Warsaw church. The Warsaw annual congregational meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, in the church.

Woman's Institute.

Thursday afternoon the regular meeting of Warsaw Woman's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. F. Choate.

Mrs. Henry Clements gave an excellent report of the convention. She dwelt a good deal on the child welfare address.

Mrs. Choate served a delicious afternoon tea, for which there was a 10c collection in aid of the Institute funds which have been rather depleted by the many calls and practically no income.

Mrs. Smith very gracefully and very sweetly wished all the ladies present a very happy New Year.

The place of next meeting on Feb. 10th will be announced in good time. Rev. G. Graham, B.A., will address the Institute on "Christian Citizenship."

Temptation Was Great.

One of the Warsaw ladies had occasion to visit the school Friday forenoon and did wish she could stay for the noon hour, as a delicious meat pie was in the making.

"The Ten Virgins."

In the Baptist Church Mr. Bray, of Toronto, spoke on "The Ten Virgins." Mr. Vose will likely occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

Sermon Subjects.

Thursday evening last Rev. G. Graham continued his notes on the life of Christ, dealing principally with the stories of His nativity and early childhood. Dr. Munro gave some sacred selections on the violin and Messrs. Ralph Selby and David Miller sang "Yes, There's One."

At the Sunday morning service Mr. Graham's subject was "If Ye Continue in My Word Then Are Ye My Disciples Indeed." Christ walked, he said, among men as a free man among slaves. He showed these men who gloried in their descent from Abraham that they were slaves of sin. The Christian is free; not to do what he likes, but to do right, and in so doing he has a freedom and joy unknown to others. We are free to help others.

The evening subject was closely allied to the morning, viz., "If Any Man Will To Do His Will." If any man really determines to know the will of God he will never rest until he does. He will not allow the little, trivial things of life to stand in his way. God's will will be first in everything, even in the home—husband and wife will be more to each other, because each puts God first.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Chinese Famine Fund. Another one will be taken at the S. S. next Sunday.

OUR PLANS FOR CANADA

ARTICLE FROM THE PEN OF THE RIGHT HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, P.C., PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA.

Our Trade With the U. S.

Nor is it easy to grasp the mental processes of those who cry that we are shutting out imports; one wonders if they ever read the trade figures of the country. For the truth is that we are importing to-day at a prodigious rate, at three times the highest rate we imported when Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government was in office. This year we shall buy from the United States alone more goods than we bought two years ago from all the rest of the world combined. Indeed, we are buying so much from our American neighbors that after we have sold them all the goods they will buy from us we still have this year a balance of 500 or 600 millions to pay them in United States' dollars. All of which explains why American dollars are so difficult to buy.

Those who talk lightly and glibly about slashing down the tariff—they say they will do so without inquiry—appear to think that the way to buy less goods from the United States and more from ourselves is to make it easier to buy more from the United States and pay them more millions in exchange. Mr. Crerar tells us that we have to buy goods in order to sell; and that is true. But we do not have to buy 1,100 millions to sell 500 millions. The truth is that for us now the more goods we can sell in excess of what we buy, the better for us as a nation. Just to that extent we become a creditor instead of a debtor country.

So much for the Government's fiscal policy let; let us see what are the views of its foes. Their attitude, it must be confessed, is not always easy to define. Mr. Crerar, chief of the Agrarian party, stands upon a platform that denounces the protective principle as iniquitous, unjust and unsound. But notwithstanding that he believes it to be all of these things, he has just assured the country that under any Government which he might form protection would be removed only by "easy stages."

Is Mr. Crerar Hedging.

Why? If protection is unsound, if it is robbery, why not get rid of it at once? One cannot reconcile two such conflicting ideas without doing violence to logic, and the only conclusion possible in explanation of Mr. Crerar's inconsistency in platform and words is that with other Agrarian leaders he has begun to hedge on his demand for free trade.

The fact, however, is that in dozens of speeches carefully reported, the leader of the Farmers' political party has proclaimed unequivocally his adhesion and the adhesion of his party to free trade. The whole movement carries the free trade banner, the platform expresses it, the cry "On to Ottawa," is inspired by a determined purpose to implant that principle either suddenly or stealthily in Canadian policy. In an atmosphere of devotion to that principle the whole movement took its birth, and the triumph of the movement means the triumph of the principle. It is time that Canadians everywhere should be fully seized of this truth.

As for Mr. King, he has given expression to so many conflicting fiscal views that it is impossible to discern where he stands. He can be quoted on almost every conceivable side of the tariff issue; and my quarrel with him is not that he stands for a wrong principle, but that he stands for no principle at all. Rather than be left in company with that dismal thing, failure, he has been exhausting the capacity of change.

Mr. King's Hesitancy, Shuffling, Incoherency.

Whatever may be Mr. King's opinions, or whatever may be his purpose, the cold practical fact is that neither his opinions nor his purpose can be put into effect except by the support of, and under the dictation of, the farmers' political organization, whose tenets I have already defined.

In contrast to this hesitancy, shuffling and incoherency, the Government stands consistently for the protective principle. It believes that any other policy would visit disaster upon our country, and so believing it has set its course, prepared to abide by what it brings.

A word, before concluding, about unrest. Undoubtedly Canada is not free from this world-wide epidemic; how could it be? But when all is said and done, when all the facts are considered, the truth stands out that there is not a country on the face of the earth to-day which is freer from unrest and turmoil than is this Dominion. Examine the statistics, and what do they show? For the year 1919, the time lost during strikes in Great Britain was approximately 30 million days. In Canada during the same year the time lost was approximately 4 million days; and 1919 was in this regard a heavy year for Canada. Proportionate to population the loss in Great Britain was nearly twice what is was in this country.

In the state of New York alone, for the year ending June 30th, 1920, the time lost in strikes was 10,600,000 days. This is at a rate of more than twice that of Canada. A single strike of miners in Australia, which extended over a period of two years, and which has just ended, cost the country approximately sixty million dollars, which is stated to be about the total cost of strikes in Canada for the past nineteen years.

For this favorable condition we in Canada owe much to the fair-mindedness and sanity of Canadian labor. Indeed, it has been the experience of the Government that labor has been just as reasonable, just as sane and just as patriotic as any other section of the country. It has been willing to co-operate, and its co-operation has been of the utmost value in solving problems that have been extremely complex.

Our Unemployment Problems.

To-day we are faced by the prevalence of unemployment. This is serious enough. It challenges our best thought and demands our best practical assistance; but I ask those who are inclined, as some appear to be, to attribute what is taking place to the Government, to look at conditions in other countries. Look at Great Britain! Look at the United States, where unemployment is upon a magnitude unheard of here, and where returned men are being merely promised measures to-day that have been in operation in Canada for upwards of three years. The fact is that, taken all in all, Canada to-day is a land of happiness compared with most if not all the rest of the world. It has its problems, its difficulties and its obstacles, but when we expose them in comparison with the troubles of other countries gratitude is all we can rightly feel.

As for the future, I look ahead confident and unafraid. There are some who, surveying the havoc wrought by the Great Tempest, viewing the pity and the terror of some or much of the world, are inclined to pessimism and gloom, but I am not one of them. Nothing is going on among the nations abroad that could not be expected after the war of wars. In most of those nations the will to work, the passion for restoration and rehabilitation, are already being fruitfully exerted.

If the long debauch of the Soviets is not yet ended, we know that it must end, because human nature and experience cannot permanently be defied. Disturbances, reactions, revolutions—these, after all, are but the slowly receding waves of the ocean of disaster. There are no more disappointments and disturbances than are the natural sequels of the cataclysm. They are temporary. Labor, order, freedom are permanent instincts and forces of the modern world. With compassion, charity, with hope and not with fear, we can look upon the troubled scenes of Europe and of Asia.

In our own country we know that we have a nation larger and better than before the war. It may not be all that we wished it to be—it is not wholly the fulfilment of our prophecy or our hope—but in all fundamentals, in all the essentials that make a people great, we have a better country. We have broadened our horizon; we are doing more work and bigger things at home and playing a better part among the nations of the world. We have enlarged our population, expanded the capital of our industries, uncovered new resources and strengthened the foundations of our trade. The flag of our country is seen on the seven seas, and the name of Canada is regarded everywhere with good will, respect and pride.

The Canadian people, inspired by the heroism of their soldiers, are a more courageous people than they were. The breath of the north, which has helped us overcome many obstacles of nature, the demonstrated soundness of our national constitution and of our economic structure, these have been reinforced by the memory of Canada's greatest achievement, and of the assured invincibility of our race. And although the heroic ardor of the war may have cooled, our people, I believe, are still resolute to fulfil the tasks of peace and reconstruction, to maintain and promote justice and freedom and progress, to play in the affairs of mankind the part which befits the youngest and most virile of the democracies of the world.

In fulfilment of those tasks mistakes will be made and misunderstandings occur; passions, prejudices and national heresies will arise to cloud our vision and weaken our resolve, but if we stand true to the doctrines and institutions which experience has shown to be wise, if we march steadily in the paths which have brought us where we stand, march onward, in improvement and real reform, and not backward or merely traversely for the sake of change, I believe that we shall rear upon enduring foundations a nation which no storm can shake and no enemy destroy.

COULD NOT LEAVE HOUSE FOR WEEKS

TORONTO WOMAN SPENT MOST OF HER TIME IN BED—TANLAC RESTORES HER.

"Nobody will ever know how much I suffered till I tried Tanlac, and I do say it is the best medicine I ever knew or heard of," said Miss Helen Barr, who lives at 7 Matilda street, Toronto.

"I was in a distressingly weak and run-down condition as a result of stomach trouble, from which I had suffered for two years. I had lost my appetite and ate only enough to keep alive. I worried so much and was so nervous I could not sleep well at night and in the morning felt so tired I could scarcely drag myself out of bed. I had a cold nearly all the time, as my system didn't have strength to throw it off. I was just wasting away and lost weight so rapidly I had a dread of what the outcome was going to be. There were weeks at a time when I felt so miserable I couldn't leave the house and I spent most of my time in bed.

"I'll never forget the debt of gratitude I owe a friend who told me about Tanlac. This medicine has made such a complete change in me I can hardly realize I am the same person. Before I finished the first bottle I felt a wonderful improvement and as I kept taking it all the old troubles left me. I have a splendid appetite, have gained in weight, sleep like a child, and in the morning feel bright and cheerful. Since Tanlac built me up I have thrown off that cold that hung on so long, and in fact, I have nothing left of the old troubles except the memory of them.

"It's a truly wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

REPORT ON SURVEYS IN NORTHERN ALBERTA

WILL BE SUBMITTED TO OTTAWA BY J. S. TEMPEST, ENGINEER FOR RECLAMATION OF INTERIOR.

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, Jan. 19.—A report in connection with surveys carried on throughout northern Alberta during the past year will be submitted to Ottawa by J. S. Tempest, engineer of the reclamation branch of the federal department of interior. Mr. Tempest will take up each of the schemes with the Ottawa authorities during the winter, and when he returns to Edmonton in April he will have full information and working plans for such projects as the government may decide to inaugurate next season.

A number of survey parties have been in the field during the summer and autumn, and Mr. Tempest has supervised the work from this city. Extensive improvements on Lesser Slave Lake and adjoining lands are among the schemes which the engineer will report to Ottawa.

Among the other projects now ready to proceed with and likely to be commenced next summer are the Winagami and Cygnet Lake drainage schemes. Both these lakes have been fully surveyed, and a large area of good farming land will be opened up in each case.

It is the intentions of the reclamation branch to continue its survey in other parts of the province and in northern Saskatchewan, the latter forming a part of the field covered by Mr. Tempest and his staff.

S. S. STAPLES, M.P.P., GIVES ACCOUNT OF HIS STEWARDSHIP

MILLBROOK, Jan. 19.—S. S. Staples, M.P.P., East Durham, addressed a well-attended meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday, January 13th.

The purpose of the meeting was to make clear to the people the various bills enacted during the last session of the Legislature, and to receive any suggestions that might be offered for future legislation.

"I feel it my duty," said Mr. Staples "as your representative to keep in touch with you and inform you on all legislation passed by the House; and it is the duty of every citizen to keep informed on these matters, so that they may offer constructive suggestions or criticism."

Mr. Staples was followed by Mr. W. J. Wood, reeve of Millbrook. Mr. Wood said his object in speaking was to make clear certain matters pertaining to fees being charged for pupils outside the village.

Addresses were also delivered by Rev. S. T. Tucker, Rev. C. R. Spencer and Rev. Dr. Lee.

The Rev. Tucker, who spoke at considerable length on the matter of consolidated schools, warmly commended the Government on its action in enacting the Mothers' Pension Bill and the Minimum Wage Bill.

Rev. (Capt.) C. R. Spencer and Rev. Dr. Lee spoke along similar lines, the latter moving a vote of thanks and appreciation for services rendered by Mr. Staples, which was seconded by H. Gardiner and unanimously carried.

CONSIDER HIM TO BE SECOND SIR WILFRID

ERNEST LAPOINTE, M.P., WHO SPEAKS HERE SATURDAY EVENING, REGARDED AS THE COMING LAURIER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.— Mr. Ernest Lapointe, M.P., who speaks in Peterborough on Saturday night, in the interests of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough, should draw a large crowd. No member of the Opposition in Ottawa has come to the front as swiftly or more brilliantly than he. When he entered the House at Ottawa not so many years ago his command of the English language was so negligible that is was with difficulty that he could make a speech in English. With characteristic determination he rapidly overcame this handicap and now his speeches in the House are masterpieces of pure English, and a treat, no matter what the subject under debate.

He is a member for Quebec East and is one of the younger French-Canadians who has come to the front rapidly in recent years. He entered Parliament as a member for Kamouraska, by acclamation, to succeed Hon. H. G. Carroll, Solicitor-General, who was elected to the Bench. In 1919 he resigned this seat in order to contest Quebec East, the constituency which Sir Wilfrid Laurier represented for many years, and was eleted by the large majority of 3,939.

Mr. Lapointe was educated at Rimouski College and Laval University and was created a K.C. by the Quebec government in July 1908. He is a very successful lawyer and is town attorney and Crown Prosecutor for the district of Kamouraska. He is deeply interested in political history and the constitution, and can speak forcefully and well along matters of that nature. His illustrations are apt and frequently humorous, so that the electorate in Peterborough who have not heard him before, are sure of a treat. His strongest point, however, is his politcal judgment, which is excellent. Peterborough will find him one of the best representaives of French-Canadians and a man of broad Canadian views.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT DIES IN THE HOSPITAL

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 19.—Joseph O'Connor, aged 16, son of Patrick O'Connor, Hinchinbrook, was the victim of a fatal accident on Saturday afternoon while out hunting with two companions, his cousins, named O'Connor and Hickey. In some unaccountable way, one of the guns was accidentally discharged and the shot entered Joseph O'Connor's leg at the knee. His companions obtained an automobile and took him to Dr. Geddes, at Verona, where first aid was given, and then the journey by auto was made to Kingston. The party reached Kingston Hospital at midnight, and everything that could be done was done for the unfortunate lad, but he suffered from shock and loss of blood and subsequently passed away.

A MOVEMENT FROM STATES TO CANADA

MANITOBA WILL GET FAIR SHARE OF FARM IMMIGRATION THIS YEAR—CANADIANS RETURNING.

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 19.—Manitoba will receive her fair share of farm immigration this year from the United States, according to W. J. White, of the department of immigration, Ottawa, a recent visitor to this city. He is superintendent of immigration agencies located in the United States.

Mr. White stated that the movement o Manitoba would be largely influenced by the consistent and uniformly good crops which have been grown in the province.

An interesting feature of the immigration is the fact that many Canadians who had taken up residence in the United States for various reasons, chiefly health, were considering returning. This was particularly noticeable in the southern states, chiefly Florida.

Within the last year or two many American farmers had disposed of their holdings at high prices and were now looking around for some pace to locate. They were considering western Canada in a great many cases. Mr. White also expects many American farmers who have been renting land at high prices to come to SCanada, and in the most of the cases purchase land.

The superintendent of agencies also predicted a movement from California to Canada, but the majority of these immigrants would locate in British Columbia.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

(Canadian Press.)

KINGSTON, Jan. 19. — A vacant tenement house on the farm of Thomas Russell, of Selby, was burned to the ground under circumstances which indicated arson. Chief Barrett, of Napanee, was notified, and after an investigation, he started in pursuit of a United States tramp, who gave his name as William Whok, after being arrested at Linsdale. He was brought to Napanee and after a preliminary hearing this morning, was remanded for eight days.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE DEVASTATES WORCESTER, MASS

ORIGIN UNKNOWN, BUT POLICE HAVE ONLY FAINTEST SUSPICION OF INCENDIARISM.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 19. — This city was spotted by fires early to-day with a loss that ran upwards of a million dollars.

Two business buildings on Main street, heavily stocked with merchandise, were burned out a few blocks south of the city hall. While this epidemic of flames engaged all the city's apparatus, another fiery spot developed a few blocks north, where the wood-working plant of the M. K. Smith Corporation was burned, with a loss of a hundred thousand dollars.

The origin of none of the principal fires was determined definitely, but the police said they had only the faintest suspicion that incendiarism was involved.

YOUR HEALTH

DR. COPELAND OFFERS HAND TO MANY NEW FRIENDS

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D., F.A.C.S. Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Of all the men you know, there is only one man whom you are free to call upon any hour of the day or night. He may be at dinner, at the theatre, in bed or in his bath. It may be Sunday, a holiday or his birthday.

He may be tired to death and himself half sick.

It may be sleeting. The roads may be all but impassable, with the taxi-drivers on strike, yet he must come.

This is your friend—the doctor.

I have been invited to supply articles on medical topics of general interest, and that engagement will admit of no holidays or self-indulgence. This is a rare privilege, however, in itself—to send into countless homes, messages of health, to give a word of advice to some worried soul, perhaps to aid in extending the span of life of some of my fellows. This is an opportunity to be envied!

Boards of Health have paid great sums for space much less valuable in order that public health knowledge might be spread.

It will be well if you, my readers, and I understand each other from the start. It is not intended to give any advice that could be given better or more properly by your family doctor. It is not our purpose to make that important character less important.

Your Doctor Your Friend.

On the contrary, if the advice in this column is heeded by all who read, it is probable that many consultations with your doctor will follow that otherwise might not occur. I hope these articles will make you more appreciative patients, more considerate perhaps, of the hour of rest to which your doctor is entitled. If I impart some information of health matters that reduces the number of unnecessary visits to the doctor, I am sure he will be glad. The conscientious physician wants to spend his energies where they are really needed. He will approve his patients getting all the information possible on how to keep well.

For two or three years my chief job has been to prevent disease. It is the function of health departments to deal with preventive measures. In writing this column I shall have in mind chiefly, not how I can cure somebody, but rather how I can help some readers from getting disease. I can adivse on many things, but for treatment your sure refuge is your family doctor.

Make your doctor your friend. Next to your minister or your priest, he should be most in your confidence. The doctor worthy his high calling can be both doctor and priest. No secrets should be kept from him. He should have immediate knowledge of all his patients' follies and physical weaknesses. Frankness on your part may spare you hours of worry, days of suffering, and possibly your life.

There is an old Jewish proverb in the Babylonian Talmud which reads: "Live not in a city where dwells no good physician."

My first word of advice, then, is that you choose for yourself a doctor. When he can spare the time tell him all about yourself, and then, when trouble comes, call him at once.

Truths That Are Vital.

Among other things I shall try to tell you something about the human body, its anatomy and physiology. I shall tell you about the various organs, and try to explain why they may become diseased if you are careless or ignorant of their function.

I am sure you will forgive me if at times I seem to preach a little. When one has practiced and taught medicine for more than a quarter of a century he feels sure of some things, and is eager to give the benefit of what he knows to all humanity. I want to serve my readers, and to feel that they are benefited by my endeavors. You will be free to ask me for advice. I shall gladly give it, or refer you to someone who can advise you better regarding your particular problem.

Have we now shaken hands?

THE EXAMINER
PETERBOROUGH

EXHIBITION PROSPEROUS

Exhibition as a valued promoter of prosperity in the city and county alike, the seventy-five men looked into the coming year. The banquet was a complimentary one by the directors to Mr. Denne, who for four years has been president, and who has guided the exhibition through perilous times, injected new vitality into the enterprise, caugh a vision of a greater exhibition, worked to this end and with the cooperation of the directors and the support of into the enterprise, aught a vision realized. The rural and urban population of the county know and appreciate what Mr. Denne has done, and under his guidance greater things may yet be expected.

Last night's gathering was an usually happy one. Doubtless most of the mottos hung around the walls of the banquet room expressed the enthusiasm for the exhibition of most of those present. Certainly no such enthusiasm has been shown at previous meetings. Several of the slogans might well be reproduced.

Seal of Victory.

Over the head of the main table was this one: "Our exhibition is the seal of unity betwen city and county folks." Others were "Peterboro must be the location of the Fat Stock show for the Midland district." "A greater fair means a greater Peterboro", in two years Peterboro Industrial Exhibition has been made a provincial affair. Why not make it a National event in the next two? "Peterboro is the natural centre for the greatest fair between Toronto and Ottawa and it has proven so." The directors all look upon this year to be an epoch making time in the history of the exhibition, and said so last night. It is said that all of the directorate of forty were at the banquet.

At the head table sat Reg. H. Turner 1st Vice-President, who was toastmaster, R. Denne, President of the Exhibition Board, Rev. C. G. Phelan, Judge E. C. S. Huycke Mayor McIntyre, Warden Nichols, Mr. E. A. Peck, Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. W. H. Dunsford, Reeve G. McIntosh, Mr. V. Eastwood, Deputy Reeve B. Middleton of Smith Township.

Add Turn rule in Ex. Board rS

The Toast List.

The toast to The King was proposed by Mr. R. H. Turner. He spokee briefly following the toast and said that this year the directors had decided to honor Mr. Denne instead of they being his guests. He spoke warm ly of Mr. Denne's service on the board, and as an example of the faithfulness of the directorate, too, he pointed out the admirable attendance, although many of the men live many miles from the city. "We cannot help but think they have our fair at heart."

To Judge E. C. S. Huycke fell the honor of proposing the toast to Peterborough city and county. His Honor's message to the board was to all work together for the common good. The exhibition promoted prosperity in the city, he said and this in turn made the county greater and wealthier. "Team work is what counts," he said. "Unless the directors and exhibitors and unless the people of the city and county unite together, this exhibition can never be what it should be."

Judge Huycke as revision officer of the voters' lists, said he was shut up this week doing work he didn't exactly like to do. There is lots of fun at an election, said Judge Huycke, but wounds and hard feelings are almost sure to result as well. He asked gentlemen present that no matter who was defeated or elected there be no hard feelings and next day they turn in just as hard as ever and work for the interests of the city and county. That the entire campaign of every candidate would be pure and clean was Judge Huycke's earnest hope.

As Peterborough is the best city between Toronto and Montreal, it should have an excellent fair. "There are some things I would like to see done in the county," he said. The first was that South Monaghan be included within its boundaries, and the second was that a winter live stock show be established here. In Eastern Ontario, Peterborough was the only logical centre for such a show, he said.

Mayor McIntyre.

Mayor McIntyre replied to Judge Huycke's toast. "I am sure I am pleased to be here to-night. He spoke of the cordial relations between city and county and for their splendid work he said the fair board deserved great praise. He assured the board of his continued interest and assistance at all times.

Ald. Joseph Crowe also replied. His ironical references to the early struggles ow the fair were responsible for considerable merriment. As Ald. Crowe was born in Monaghan, Ireland, he said he hoped S. Monaghan would be brought into the county. Ald. Crowe launched into the bridge finances at last night's meeting and in the course of his remarks said that he considered that right along money was thrown around lavishly—too generously to suit him. "I'd like to know who is pulling the city's leg." He assured the fair board he would do anything to further their cause.

Ald. Turner paid a tribute to Mr. Denne's guidance of the board's affairs in replying. He regretted that Ald. Crowe had brought the troubles of the Council to the meeting, but he assured them that the city's money was not carelessly estimated or spent as might have been deduced from Ald. Crowe's remarks. He felt sure, he said, that Ald. Crowe did not intend to leave this impression. Ald. Turner went into details of the cost of the structure and said, "We do hope to finish it within the amount last voted by the people. Personally, I would not go back and ask for any more money from the people." To boost your exhibition is to boost your city, said Ald. Turner. The fair was bound to succeed, he declared. The city would do all to assist them he said.

Wardes Nicholls.

Warden Nicholls congratulated the board on their efforts and the improvements made in the last two years, efforts which he believed were appreciated by the people of city and county.

Vincent Eastwood proposed the toast to the guest of the evening. He warmly eulogized Mr. Denne. He dwelt on the progress made since Mr. Denne took the reins. He emphasized the great part the fair should play in endeavoring to turn the industrial movement of recent years "back to the farm." It is now past the parting of the ways, he said, and now was the time for the exhibition to do much to make for greater development of waste lands. Speaking of Mr. Denne he said he was the chosen friend of Israel. He referred to Mr. Denne's wide interests in the city, particularly his work on the Board of Education. He expressed the hope that grants from the city and county councils might become more liberal.

The President, in reply, expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him by his colleagues again. "I wanted to leave and take my old job on the Light Horse committee, but they wouldn't let me." Speaking of the board he termed it the ideal board of Peterborough because of the co-operation, genial and warm feelings permeating the officers and directors. "My whole ambition on the fairboard is to have the fat stock show here." He hoped Mr. Tooms would put forth every effort to see if it could not be secured. He re gretted the fair dates last year had clashed with Lindsay. I would like to make a remark in regard to what the judge said about the fight I am in. "It doesn't make any difference to me whether I win or lose, I'll be just the same Rolly Denne."

The Communications.

Communications were read by Mr. Turner expressing the inability to be present, but wishing the board continued success, from R. H. May, electrical superintendent Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. H. W. Cressman, Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., Mr. Edgar Worth, President of the Board of Trade, and a verbal message was conveyed from Ald. G. N. Gordon by Mr. Turner.

The toast to the Dominion and Province was proposed by Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P. He congratulated the board on its splendid composition and work. The exhibition is an asset to the whole community and he expressed satisfaction in the improvements being made in live stock in this district. He dwelt on the incalculable value to this district of a fat stock show and an experimental farm. Canadian graduates in scientific agriculture should be kept in this country, he declared and not allowed to be enticed to other countries who see their value.

Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., in reply, said: "Right here in Peterborough I know of no organization more worthy of support by both rural and urban dwellers than the exhibition board. Next year he said he hoped to have Premier Drury, with Hon. Doherty, open the fair. He said it would be his one endeavor to get an experimental farm in this city.

Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M.P.P., who replied for Mr. Sexsmith, who could not remain, congratulated the directors on their achievements and hoped soon there would be a week's fair here. Mr. Peck appealed for more consideration of the difficulties besetting the path of our public men. Harshness should be eliminated in public life, and he believed the Municipal, Provincial and Dominion Governments could take a lesson in unity and good will from the exhibition board.

In proposing the toast to the Exhibition Board he emphasized the value of the fair to the community and he said a debt of gratitude is owed to the directors.

Rev. C. J. Phelan, with successful men in it, could see nothing but success for the fair. He hoped to see larger grants given it. He said the citizens should do their part and every one be a booster.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Mr. John Gillespie. On behalf of the Lindsay board members who were guests of the local fair board last night, ex-Mayor McLean spoke briefly. The more that was done to boost Peterborough fair, indirectly boosted them and vice versa. He dwelt on the happy relations between both boards and regretted there had been a conflict of dates last year. Speaking apart from politics, he praised Mr. Denne. 'That's the kind of man you want at Ottawa," he said.

Get Together.

Mr. Reg. Turner reciprocated ex-Mayor McLean's words and he favored both fair boards getting together and discussing matters of mutual interest.

The ususually excellent after-dinner programme was brought to a close by Mr. T. Brown, the superintendent, being presented with an easy chair by the board. Mr. Brown replied suitably to this unexpected presentation. I assure the board I will do all I can to help the work. A large bouquet of roses to Mrs. Brown conveyed to her some part of the board's appreciatin of their combined efforts in the interests of the exhibition.

During the evening an unusually fine musical programme, embracing solos by Mr. Frank Pratt, Mr. Douglas Carlisle and Mr. George Chandler, and recitations by Mr. T. McLaren, was given.

Girls Cooperated.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the fact that the Senior Girls Auxiliary cooperated with the Woman's Auxiliary. During the evening the reports read by the different officers proved the organization to be in a prosperous and encouraging condition financially and from a standpoint of membership and work accomplished.

In a short address the president pointed out that the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints Church was founded in 1885 by Miss Tilly who gave the organization the present motto, "The Love of Christ Constraineth Us."

Congratulated Organization.

Rev. R. B. Crobb congratulated the organization upon the splendid results of their efforts and also referred to the faithful work of Miss Sisson and her girls. During the evening Miss Sisson was presented with a handsomely bound hymn and prayer book, a token of the appreciation of the Girls' Auxilitry for her faithful work.

Daniels Asks Board to Take Up the Row in the North.

ROCKAWAY, N.Y., Jan. 19.—Lieuts. Kloor, Farrell and Hinton were asked to appear before the session of the naval board of inquiry here to give first-hand reports of their balloon flight into Northern Ontario.

In his order creating the board to investigate the trip, Secretary of the Navy Daniels directed that it examine "the conduct of the personnel," as well as incidents relating simply to aircraft. This was taken to mean that the men would also be questioned regarding the dispute between Farrell and Hinton soon after they arrived at Mattice after several days of hardship in the uninhabited Hudson Bay regions.

BUT FEW OFFERED FOR THE WORK PROVIDED.

The Belleville Board of Works abandoned the snow plough in favour of hand shovelling to provide work for the unemployed in that city. All that accepted this offer of employment, however, was a bakers' dozen.

FOR A PRETTY NECK AND SHOULDERS.

Always wash the neck with warm water and soap, and dry it thoroughly before treatment. Rub a small amount of pure cold cream on the hands and neck so as to lubricate the skin and prevent irritation. Then work in front of a mirror.

Position: Sit upright on a stool, or chair.

First—Place the right hand on the right side of the neck and lift the left hand on the left side, the fingers facing backward. Hold the fingers close together, and with a firm, rotary motion work outward, downward, and backward, pushing the flesh to the centre of the back, until you can raise the muscle from the normal point of attachment. Do not try to accomplish this at the first sitting.

Second—Work with rotary motions around the excess fat.

Third—Stroke the muscles outward from the centre to the shoulders. Do not work on the spinal column. Repeat five to ten times.

Fourth—Tip the head backward, then forward.

Fifth—Draw the chin far in. This is excellent for the muscles at the back of the neck. Do it slowly at first. Repeat three times.

Sixth—Turn the face one way as far as possible and then in the opposite direction. Repeat five times.

Walking with the Wand.—For this purpose a round stick is sufficient. The stick should be passed across the back through the arms. The arms are kept upward and pressed firmly back and close to the sides, the body being held as upright as possible. Walk around the room for five minutes or longer.

This exercise, while it assists in strengthening the shoulders and back muscles, is principally to form the habit of correct carriage, and to correct slight defects of faulty habits.—Good Housekeeping for January.

Dozens of well-known people of this city are willing to give Testimonials for the benefits they derived from Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills. For instance, Mr. Arthur Pinch of this City says that they have done him more good than all the other medicines that he has taken.

Boys and Girls Clubs In The West

To make one's life more attractive; to give it an outlook; to make one realize that his avocation is going to call for mental ability of high order as well as for physical strength is an important and interesting task. If this can be done, and at the same time, pleasure had and lasting friendships formed, profit and recreation will happily mingle.

This is done through Boys' and Girls' Clubs and the teaching in the public schools of Manitoba of Agriculture and Home-Making. In 1912, seven such clubs were organized with an initial membership of 750 and so popular has the movement proved that there are to-day 240 such clubs, 1,500 branch clubs and a total membership of 30,000. Practically all girls and boys, between the ages of ten and nineteen years in that province—outside of the cities—are members of the clubs with the result that future emphasis in this connection is directed towards making the work more efficient.

Government encouragement of the movement is shown in the provision of 50 per cent. of the money paid out in cash prizes on agricultural and home economics a.d 50 per cent on school exhibits up to 15 per cent of the total Government grant, the amount required for such purposes this year, was $20,000. Manitoba is the only province that tangibly assists clubs to hold fairs in this manner and after four years' experience, they are evidently well satisfied with the result and convinced that such assistance has materially contributed to the success of the movement.

The number taking part in the various projects shown by the following list, namely, gardening 15,000; sewing 12,000; cookery 12,000; poultry 5,000; canning 5,000; live stock 4,500; grain growing 2,500; dairying 2,300 and woodwork 1,800, indicates that some subjects are more popular than others. The difference is more a question of circumstances. Many club members living in towns cannot go in for livestock, grain growing and dairying to the extent that they would like, and generally, these cannot be taken up in the country except by the teen age members, while in the projects like gardening, poultry raising and sewing, all members can take part.

The four leaf clover, the emblem of good luck with a capital "H" on each leaf, has been adopted as the club emblem. The four "H's" typify the all round development which club work stands for, "Head, Hand, Heart and Health."

The feature of club work that makes it superior to practically all other teen age organizations, such as the Boy Scouts, Cadets, Tuxis Squares, Trail Rangers, etc., is ownership. Practically all the good features in these splendid city boy organizations are included in the Boys' and Girls' Club scheme, and in addition, provision is made for each member to raise chickens or pigs or calves and sheep. To plant a garden and preserve the products, to have a quarter acre plot of certified disease free potatoes and lastly, to be able to sell their product and open a snug bank account, not for the purpose of hoarding, but to have it available for use when a favorable opportunity presents itself.

Neither the boy or girl who has no money to spend nor the one who gets all he wants to spend, has any idea of the value of money or how to advantageously spend it when they do happen to have it, compared with the boy who earns it and is free to invest it as his judgment suggests.

A feature of club work developed during the past year that offers great possibilities, is team demonstration work. A demonstration team consists of three girls or three boys, a captain and two assistants. Such a team will take an agricultural or home economics subject and by dramatizing it, invest it with such interest that not only do the members of the team, but those who have the opportunity of listening to them, see in it a subject capable of untold interest and investigation.

The members work together with such clock-like regularity that one or other is always speaking and the two are doing the actual mechanical work at the same time, and when the demonstration is completed, the table is cleared and everything packed away.

By these means, agricultural education is being made a joy and entertainment to thousands of Manitoba's boys and girls. The movement will make for better and happier homes and greater agricultural future output.

The Modern Canning Team Champions of Manitoba.

The captain of a cow-testing team for instance, will give an interesting review of dairy cattle from the time of the Pilgrim Fathers, when John Alden is said to have taken Priscilla Mellen to their future home on the back of a Holstein Bullock, up to the present when magnificent herds of Holstein, Ayrshires and Shorthorns are to be found in many parts of the province. While she is giving this description, her teammates are busily unpacking a Babcock tester and preparing for a demonstration of its use. Not more than ten minutes is taken by the Captain with the historic part of the program. She then steps aside and is soon busily engaged with a part of the mechanical work connected with the dembnstration while one of her team mates takes her place and explains the theory of cow-teating and its advantages. The third member then explains the make of the machine, tells something of the inventor and shows how to use it.

Team demonstration work develops co-operation, the ability to speak in public, habits of reading and research, neatness, accuracy and speed, local pride in the community and a good practical knowledge of the subject.

Manitoba has teams on canning, cookery, sewing, garment dyeing, stock judging, vegetable judging and grain inspection. Recently one section of the district champion demonstration team spent a whole week in Winnipeg in sight seeing, entertainment and education, as a reward for achievement in club work for their respective districts.

PETERBORO WON DISTRICT CUP GROUP BUT LOST TANKARD GAMES TO LINDSAY

MILLBROOK RINKS GAVE BEST AND M'DERMID A RUN IN THE DISTRICT CUP GROUP, BUT THE LOCAL TANKARD RINKS WERE CLEANED UP BY LITTLE AND O'CONNOR OF LINDSAY.

Peterborough curlers won the local section of the District Cup group from Millbrook and lost the Tankard group to Lindsay yesterday afternoon. Skips Steele and Edmunds, of Millbrook, gave Ray Best and J. W. McDermid a lively argument in eighteen ends, finishing only four points down. In the major league contest Larry O'Connor and George Little combined for a grand total of 43 shots to the 15 collected by Myles Hamilton and W. H. Taylor. The Lindsay rinks opened up early, got away to a fast start and were never headed. They settled down to business at the start, showing a midseason form that was scarcely expected after the prolonged mild spell. The Lindsay curlers have had no ice until quite recently, and this may have worked out to their advantage, for the Peterborough players have been curling on soft ice and were scarcely accustomed to the hard surface provided yesterday.

The scores were as follows:

Lindsay	Peterborough
R. Butler	W. Montgomery
W. McLennan	J. Skinner
F. McWilliams	W. M. Lang
L. V. O'Connor	M. Hamilton
Skip 20	Skip 7

Neill Trophy Final.

The final game for the Robert Neill trophy between Walter Oke and Wildman, of Norwood, will be played on Thursday, probably in the afternoon.

The Norwood club was not represented in the District Cup games yesterday, and the absence of their rinks was regretted by the other district clubs.

A reminder that the Peterborough Bonspiel is drawing near is found in the sheet on the notice board for the names of those who intend to enter.

BELL TELEPHONE BOWLERS

On Monday evening at the Water street bowling alleys, the Phantoms took three straights from the "Sideblocks," a repetition of the same stuff which the Phantoms doled out to the Dynamos on Friday evening last. The game, however, was not of the type of Friday evening's game, the scores being low. Both of the teams had a night off ,the following scores resulting:

PHANTOMS:
Thornton	159	149	141—449
White	111	111	80—302
Adlam	120	120	120—360

Robinson	140	139	172—451
	666	600	612 1878

There is keen competition among the four teams of this league and on Friday evening next the "Generators" and "Dynamos" will meet in the Water street bowling alleys when the Dynamos will endeavor to make restitution for their defeat at the hands of the Phantoms by a victory over the Generators.

HAMILTON'S AND C.G.E TOOLROOM WIN FROM DE LAVAL AND BANKERS

CITY LEAGUE AGAIN PRODUCES HIGH-CLASS HOCKEY WITH DE LAVAL SPRINGING SURPRISE.

City Hockey League supporters were treated to another bill of high-class hockey at the rink last night, when Hamilton's defeated De Laval by 5 to 4 and C.G.E. Tool-room finished on the big end of a 5 to 1 score. Hamilton's lead at the half by 3 to 0 and C.G.E. by 2 to 1. The standing of the teams is:

	W.	L.	T.	P.
C.G.E.	2	0	1
Hamilton's	1	1	1
De Laval	0	2	1

Next week's games will complete the first half of the schedule. Bankers play Hamilton's and De Laval meet C.G.E.

There was no lack of "pep" in the Hamilton's-De Laval battle last night, in which the Westerners seemed to have the game cinched in the first half by scoring three goals. Collins played great hockey in this half. Two rather easy shots early in the game beat Bergoine, who probably was a bit shaky. The third tally was a beautiful piece of combination play by the Graham brothers, who took the puck to the north of the net, "Gamey" Graham scoring. De Laval were shaping up well, but could not beat Murray. And he was supported by a classy team.

Sheehan, playing his first game for the Southerners, did not strike his stride until the second period, when he let loose some nifty hockey, rushing and shooting in a manner that kept Hamilton's working overtime to prevent scores. Ranger, used at centre, besides showing some nice stick-handling, combined effectively with Sheehan. It was quite evident, too, that De Laval made no mistake in signing Hambly. When this trio step out on the ice, again look out for scores!

The second period was a scream. De Laval opened it with a score by Hambly, to be quickly followed by a Sheehan-Ranger play, on which Sheehan landed the puck into the nets. These two almost repeated the play, but missed the puck in front of Murray. Then Bergoine was unfortunate enough, after blocking a shot, to kick the rubber into the nets and Hamilton's were two goals ahead. They increased it to three on a shot by Graham. Murray repeated his performance of last week by dashing through the defense and scoring and Hambly went it alone for the last goal of the game. Both teams finished strong.

The teams:

De Laval—Goal, Bergoine; defense, Coughlin and Murray; centre, Ranger; right wing, Hambly; left wing, Sheehan. Subs.—Dugan and Meehan.

Hamilton's—Goal, Murray; defense, Le Barr and Evans; centre, Collins; left wing, Foley; right wing, Graham. Subs.—F. Graham and Kenneally.

Referee—Walter Miller.

System Beats Bankers.

Although outscored 5 to 1 C. G. E., the Bankers were not beaten that badly on the play, as they chased the Tool-makers hard all the time. The winners had a surplus of what the losers lacked—both system and condition. C.G.E. also used good strategy in subbing Abbie Rose and Ed. Dugan. These two came on the ice when the Bankers were hard pressed, and with snappy combination, rushed the puck home behind Legros. It was the fourth C.G.E. goal and it practically eliminated the Bankers' chances for the night. Manager Bradburn was disappointed at the last moment when Frost was unable to play, and this broke up his plans for the game.

Bartley started the scoring for C. G. E. early in the game. Thornton got it back for Bankers, when, after several unsuccessul rushes, he tore around the nets and beat Butcher with a tricky shot. Bartley put his team ahead by accepting a pass from Halpin, the play being right in on top of Legros. Bankers gave Butcher plenty to do, and had they followed up their shots, might have batted some of the rebounds into the nets. Butcher was given plenty of time to clear.

A speedy shot by Rose gave C.G.E. a two-goal lead after the opening of the second half. Thirnbeck got through for a fine chance to score for Bankers but there was nobody on the job to take the pass and a shot. Bartley heaved a high shot at Legros, who blocked, only to have the rubber roll off his shoulder into the nets. Then along came Dugan and Rose, combining all the way to the goal, Rose scoring.

Bankers used a new player, Joe Kennealley, on the defense and he gave C.G.E. a whole lot of trouble. Pethick, of the Juniors, played splendidly against the heavier and more experienced players.

C.G.E.—Goal, Butcher; defense, Halpin and Helson; centre, Butcher; left wing, Bartley; right wing, Barrie. Subs.—Rose and Dugan.

Referee—Walter Jackson.

ALL SET FOR THE CLASH BETWEEN OLD RIVAL TEAMS

Everything is set for the battle between Lindsay and Peterboro intermediates at Brock street rink to-morrow night and a crowd that will nearly bulge out the sides of the ice box is certain. The fans know that every time the two teams meet a real game is assured and with fast ice a certainty there are confident that to-morrow night's fixture will surpass in interest any of the games between the two of the rivals. This Lindsay gang are confident not only of keeping the Petes from obtaining a good lead but of walloping the green shirts right at home and they will take a lot of stopping too for fast ice suits most of them just as much as it does the Petes. The game is called for 8.30 o'cock sharp and there should not be a slow moment from gong to gong.

JACK LONDON TALE ON SILVER SCREEN

"The Mutiny of the Elsinore" a Metro Release, Coming to the Empire Theatre.

Beginning to-morrow, "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," the Metro picturization of the famous Jack London novel, with an all-star cast, will be the feature attraction at the Empire Theatre. This picture, which presents the famous London novel of the sea on the screen for the first time, is a special Metro production with an all-star cast, and will be the leading attraction at the Empire Theatre for three days.

"The Mutiny of the Elsinore" is one of the late Jack London's last and most notable works. It is a strong tale of the sea, in which a crew of city gangsters attempt to take over the control of the ship from the officers in charge; and in addition there is a charming love story, the thread of which is crossed by the evil passion of Andreas Mellaire to possess the beautiful daughter of Jason West, a half-owner of the "Elsinore." Margaret West is in love with Dick Somers, the captain's son, and she resents the attentions of Mellaire, whom she distrusts and fears; and Mellaire, to accomplish his purpose of possessing Margaret, incites the crew to mutiny.

Vote for Gordon

Because he's a go-getter. Look up his professional and municipal record. He's a big man in more ways than one.

A GREAT BILL AT THE GRAND

"TRUMPET ISLAND" AND HAROLD LLOYD AS DOUBLE ATTRACTIONS.

A well-balanced and mos meritorious bill of moving pictures is that offered Grand patrons for the first half of the week. The feature picture is "Trumpet Island", from the story by Goveneur Morris, the screen version of which is a masterpiece of clever acting and magnificent photography Few more interesting pictures have been seen here. The thrilling scene in which an aeroplane is wrecked in the midst of a thunderstorm is alone sufficient to make "Trumpet Island" notable but without the thriller, the interest of the story, the cleverness with which the action is developed and the beauty of the seascapes would carry the film to triumphant success. The caste is well balanced and capable.

The bespectacled comedian Harold Lloyd is seen at his best in "Get out and get Under". If you can keep from laughing during the wild chase of Lloyd to escape from the motor cycle cops you are immune; you'll never laugh at anything.

A British-Canadian Pathe News Picture rounds out the bill.

AT THE ALLEN

EXTRA! SENSATION! BETTY BLYTHE WANTS A LOVER

Wanted—A lover; must be six feet three. Apply to Betty Blythe.

Are you six feet three, Mister Movie Fan? If so, communicate at once with Miss Blythe at the Hotel Hollywood, Hollywood, Calif.

Miss Blythe seeks a permanent lover—for film purposes. The one requisite is that he be of proper longitudinal dimension. The star, being unusually tall, and most leading men in pictures being unusually short, has issued a call to the colleges of the United States for a young man, preferably good-looking, who is interested in becoming a screen actor and who measures the said number of inches. He must be of athletic proportions in keeping with his height; he must be of the rugged masculine type with the ability to swim, ride horseback, drive a car, dance and look intelligent.

A college man is preferred as the star believes that brains as well as brawn are demanded nowadays by movie fans. Miss Blythe intends to see to it that the right applicant gets a fair showing before the camera immediately. As may be seen by watching Miss Blythe's work in "Nomads of the North," which will be presented at the Allen Theatre Thursday, the lucky discovery must be also strong in ability to make love.

"THE GEISHA"

F. Stuart Whyte's elaborate revival of the world-famous musical comedy, "The Geisha," the most famous and the same time most delightful of all the long line of musical comedies which followed closely upon the Gilbert and Sullivan era of thirty years ago, will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre on Thursday.

This revival has been made in response to the wide-spread demand for more of this type of real musical shows.

The music of "The Geisha" is considered by most people to be so far ahead of the tuneless jazz offered by the present-day so-called musical comedies, that it's melodious tunes will seem like a "breath of fresh air to a fever-striken man dying in the desert" when compared with the musical fare which we have had dished up to us in the last few years.

In selecting a cast for this charming musical play of old Japan, Mr. Whyte has chosen Miss Kitty Arthur for the title role. Miss Zara Clinton for the part of Molly, Miss Grace Reynard as the French maid and Mr. John Barrett-Lennard for the principal comedy character, all the other parts having been filled adequately with a large number of the foremost English musical comedy artists now available.

MR. A. PINETTE WON PLAY OFF

Last night in the play-off, A. Pinette won first place with the score 672, Joe Marsden second with 637, Pete Travers third with 617, Curvin 602, Arrowsmith 594, Barrette 575.

ANNUAL MEETING LOCAL Y.M.C.A. REFLECTED GLOW OF OPTIMISM

MESSRS. J. J. TURNER, JOS. WEARING, W. A. RICHARDSON AND E. B. FOWLER RE-ELETCED TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

FINANCES ARE HEALTHY.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last evening in the association building with Mr. Thomas Barrie, vice-president, in the chair. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Mr. R. L. Dobbin, recording secretary, and the reports from the various departments were read to the meeting and confirmed. The Board and members gave expression to general satisfaction felt over the healthy condition of the association at the present time, and the whole reflected a cheery glow of optimism for the coming days. In response to congratulatory references to the administration, the secretary, Mr. Roper, expresses appreciation of the staff and asked that the prayers of the membership be directed towards the program that the more serious things be not overlooked. The Nominating Committee recommended that Messrs. J. J. Turner, Jos. Wearing, W. A. Richardson and E. B. Fowler be elected to succeed themselves as members of the Board of Directors for the three-year term. This was adopted.

Report of General Secretary.

Mr. G. H. Roper submitted the following report:

On looking back over the year 1920 we find many things for which we should feel deeply thankful. The support of the membership in general and the support and goodwill of the citizens during one of the critical years of the reconstruction period are matters for which we should be deeply grateful. The spirit of the membership of the Association was never more splendid than that shown during the past year in many ways, two of the most notable of which are the way in which the membership served unselfishly and with such fine spirit during the campaign in October, resulting in the best campaign of some years. Then the spirit shown by the business men in building up the Business Men's Class from an average of 35 to an enrolment of 71 was very fine.

From a financial standpoint the year just closed had some difficulties. The cost of coal was $500.00 above the estimate for the year. On account of rising prices during the year, it was found that supplies, repairs, etc., had greatly exceeded the estimated cost of these departments, so that nearly $1,000.00 had to be raised in order to avoid a deficit. It was not necessary to appeal to the citizens for extra subscriptions, and it was found unnecessary to increase the membership fees, which are at present the lowest of any Association in Canada, but the amount was raised by securing a number of new members, and increased revenue in all departments.

During the fall, the beautiful bronze tablet, containing the names of 55 of the members who gave their lives in the Great War was installed.

The appearance of the building still maintains its attractiveness, the result of wise expenditure two years ago, and almost every visitor makes complimentary remarks about its appearance.

The religious work programme has been incorporated in the programme of each group, and the members of these groups have supported this feature in a ratifying way.

The reports of the Boys' Work and Physical Departments will cover in detail the activities of these phases of the work.

Everyone is looking forward to the year 1921 with hope and optimism. Peterborough Association stands ready at the beginning of the year without any handicaps of debt or mortgage, and with prospects, which, if realised, will make the year 1921 stand out as a landmark in the history of the Association, and make possible even greater service to the men and boys of the community.

Report of Physical Department.

Physical Director D. A. Loomis, in his report, called attention to the splendid enrolment and record of attendance. At this time last year we had on the roll for October, November, and December a total of 278, as compared with a total this year of 386. The attendance for these same months last year was 2,446, as compared with 3,499 for 1920.

In addition to regular membership, we have the Collegiate Calisthenic Classes, numbering 16 periods per week, with a total attendance for November and December of 2,999. Thus the total of all records available shows that 10,866 persons made use of the gymnasium during the closing three months of the year.

Three Basketball Leagues were run through successfully. The City League, composed of Belmont Club, Cressman's Eko Club, and Canadian Packing Company, was won by the Belmont Club for the second time. The Manufacturers' League, composed of teams from the William Hamilton Co., the De Laval Co., Cressman Co., and C. G. E., was won by the C. G. E. team. The Y.M.C.A. League, composed of teams from the Collegiate, Business Men, Seniors and Young Men, was won by the Business Men.

In the spring of the year a swimming campaign for the pupils of the Public Schools was put on, and 156 boys of all ages took advantage of the opportunity to learn to swim.

The Physical Director was co-director for the annual boys' camp (Lee's Point), 28th June to 10th July. In the department we are hearing experiences over and over again, which augurs well for this year's camp.

In addition to the physical work within the building, the physical director also conducted a week-end camp down the river for 15 boys; acted on committee and offiiated at the Field Day of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association; acted as official umpire for the Manufacturers' Baseball League, and served on the Otonabee Regatta Committee.

Junior Department.

Mr. F. G. McNeely, in presenting this report, did so with a deep sense of gratitude for the progress permitted to be made during the year 1920. In all divisions of the membership, he said, we have been enabled to get into very close touch with the lives of boys and young men, and this in itself goes a long way towards the greater service which is the aim of every employed officer.

At the beginning of the fall term, a reorganisation of the divisions of the membership was deemed advisable and so the Young Men's Division was created in order to take care of the young fellows from the age of 17 to 19 years. Previously these young men, on attaining the age of 18 years, were grouped with the more mature seniors, and were dropping out, but with the Young Men's Division, which is neither Senior nor boys', they have found a foundation peculiarly their own, and are building a successful group upon it. The total membership of the Junior Department now stands at 251, of which 72 are members of the Young Men's Division.

Every division, with the exception of the Beginners that is the Junior School, Intermediate School, and Employed and Senior School Young Men) meets once a week as a club group for Bible study and to discuss the affairs of the Association as directly linked with its own interests.

In all the affairs of the Junior Department we are very closely linked with the Physical Department, and the successful programme which has been ours is only due to the cordial spirit of co-operation which has existed between the two at all times. Five hikes and one war canoe trip were carried out during the year. In connection with our spring programme, a series of observation tours to leading factories was carried out, and attended by 225 boys. The Public School swimming campaign brought in 158 boys who could not swim, and even with the limited facilties at our disposal a fair number of these acquired sufficient confidence to enable them to take care of themselves in the water. Stunt Night in February provided amusement for 60 boys. Two illustrated educational lectures were held during the fall—"The Underprivileged Boy of India," by Mr. Perry Park, of Delhi, and "The Feet," by Mr. Taplin.

On New Year's Eve the boys of the Intermediate Division held a watch-night service, which was attended by 40 boys.

Financial Statement.

Mr. J. J. Turner submitted an exceedingly commendable statement of receipts and disbursements. The total receipts for 1920, including $308.95 in hand from the preceding year, were $12,813.60. The expenditures were: For administration $4,994.35, operating expenses $3,266.23, buildings and equipment $2,313.39, taxes and insurance $276.00, religious work $195.26, in physical department $186.35, social work $81.01, educational work $136.47, National Council Y.M.C.A. $850.00, miscellaneous $451.61. The balance in bank and on hand is $62.93.

Auditor W. R. Morrison certified to the statement being correct in every respect.

Mr. F. B. Brower, district travelling representaitve of the Travel Script System of Canada, arrived in the city last night and is registered at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Brower is here to complete arrangements with a number of the leading merchants of the city who are interested in boosting business for the home town, who will issue free travel script.

The system is worked out on the basis of one mile of free travel on any railroad for every dollar spent.

The operation of this system is made possible by the generosity of a number of the leading merchants in each city, who co-operate in giving free travel script coupons with every dollar cash purchase made through them. The idea of this system is to greatly increase business by getting the people of the city, as well as the surrounding country to buy all their goods in the home town.

An effective advertising campaign is being put on in the newspapers through the Norris Patterson Advertising Agency of Toronto, which will thoroughly explain the operation of the system to the buying public.

RACHMANINOFF INTERPREATS DELICATE THEME.

A lovely number, a grateful gift from the hand of a master is' Le Coucou" played on the piano for a His Master's Voice Record by Sergei Rachmaninoff. The pianist, himself a composer, understands the spirit of what he plays as no mere performer can. "Le Coucou," a delicate little rondo in archaic form, has for one of its essential themes a cuckoo-call which any child could recognize. It is heard first among a delicate whirl of notes like the clattering of leaves, then passes to the treble, and later into a deep, rich, sonorous quality farther down the keyboard. Exquisitely and delicately recorded, this record is one that every music lover will enjoy.

Edward Johnson, whom we have heard in opera, and as a balad singer, is this month entering a third domain —that of the oratorio. His first record in purely sacred music, "If With All Your Hearts," from Mandelssohn's "Elijah," is sung with all the beauty of voice, and with all the depth of feeling that such a complete personality, under the full spell of the music, alone can bear into it. Vocally this His Master's Voice Record is almost beyond praise. With his splendid, ringing quality it is apparent that another great interpreter of the foundation-truths of religion, as expressed in music, has come among us.

Billy Murray unfolds the story of "The Simple Simon Party" in his inimitable way, and tells how all the heroes and heroines of our nursery rhyme days are taught to "Shimmie Prance". On the opposite side of the His Majesty Voice Record the Peerless Quartet gives W. M. Cook's most notable composition "Swing Along" in true darky style, swaying, swelling and finally bursting forth at the big climax. It is a masterpiece of rhythm.

"There's a Vacant Chair at Home Sweet Home (When the World Goes Back on You)" and "Take Me" by Joseph Phillips are splendid songs on the same His Master' Voice Record. One tells of "Home" the other the appeal of a sweet heart.

His Master's Voice Light Opera Company have responded to the demand of thousands who enjoy popular music and have sung for an His Master's Voice Record Gems from "The Maid of the Mountains" and Gems from "Chu-Chin-Chow". These two musical shows are enjoying such huge popularity on their Canadian tours that records apart from their distinct musical worth are certain to entertain thousands and bring back pleasant memories of the enjoyment which the shows provide.

"Turkish March" from "The Ruins of Athens," one of the most spirited marches of all time, is played by Mischa Elman on the violin. Unexpected harmonics leap out here and there like brilliant blue sparks. The melody is repeated in double stops, then returns to the single string, to be again repeated, near the close in harmonics, some of which give effects altogether wonderful. You will enjoy this His Master's Voice Record even if you do not stop to wonder how some of its extraordinary effects are produced.

Reinad Werrenrath in the "Stein Song" does not bring back the banished stein, but puts his rich, powerful voice into the glorious thought of goodfellowship which the stein used to stand for. If he had never made another record, this one would stamp him as a great interpreter of the things thought and felt by strong hearted men. To hear it will do your soul good.

CHARGE CROWN FORCES

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Crown forces are charged with the burning of public buildings and stores in Cork and ensuing looting on the night of December 11-12 in a report issued by this afternoon by the Irish Labor Party and the Trades Union Congress through the British Labor Party.

Voice Of The People

Ed tor Examiner,

The Government machine has issued an advertisement, 'Why Doean't the Government get After the Profiteers?"

My answer is, that the profiteers are the gang that is putting up the money for the Government machine in West Peterborough. That is the reason the Government does not get after the profiteers.

The advertisement says that there is an income tax. Yes, there is an income tax. If a single man is supporting a widowed sister and her children, and is earning over $1000.00, he pays income tax. If a girl is earning above $1000.00 and requires to support an invalid father and mother, she pays income tax, but the man who made $4,000,000, in war profits out of munitions in four years, is making the Government candidate dance to his tune.

This is the reason why the Government does not tax the war profiteers It is afraid to do it because they own the Government.

Yours truly,

G. N. GORDON.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir,—It would be a pity to disturb Sir George Foster's equanimity on Friday evening, but people are entitled to know what authority he received for proceeding to govern the people of Canada in conjunction with a few congenial friends. When the Union Government dissolved and disappeared who was it that gave him and his friends a mandate to go on? Also he might be asked who this brand new high falutin party that he has got up belongs to anyhow? It is not fish nor flesh but I will admit that it has a fishy smell. If he is not asked he will not touch upon that point. The Prime Minister thought best to let it severely alone but the short and lurid history of the formation of the new double barrelled centra fire party would be very interesting and then how dramatic it would all be when Sir George having explained the creation of the new party went on to explain how the new party created by the government turned round and created and gave a mandate to the government. It reminds me of the ring-around a-rosy of my young days. It might have been possible for the Meighen-Calder government to bluff the electors into admitting that the present government is the men that took possession on the death of the Union Government, but when it makes no such such claim and sets itself up on a new party foundation built by itself how in the wide wide world can Sir George expect to bluff the people and the two old parties into admitting the right of the new party to ignore the right of the people to say what should be done when the new era of goverment began

The total vote on election day here will probably be four to one the government and how Jim Calder would yell with delight if the government succeeded in fooling the people after all.

AT THE THEATRES

"Earthbound," the famous photoplay from the pen of Basil King, which is showing at the Allen to-day for the last time, has created a deep impression on the large audiences who have seen this picture. The powerful story portrays the strength of a woman's charms and how finally the lives of two families are blasted, and the woman follows its victims even into the hereafter. It is in theme and setting most remarkable and represents the massed labour of the Goldwyn studios for months.

Ritchie Company, Limited, which is being held this week at the King 7dward Hotel, with representatives present from all parts of Canada, the United States, Great Britain, Australasia, China, Japan, and South America, is the spirit of optimism with regard to the business outlook. The general feeling of all the representatives in attendance as outlined in opinions expressed yesterday was that the period of depression had about run its course, and that a widespread renewal of business activity was due in the immediate future.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

WORCESTER, Jan. 19. — The area of the million dollar fire which broke out here this morning was too great to be covered by the city's fire fighting resources and Boston, Clinton, Millbridge and Westboro were called on to send additional apparatus. All responded, engine number 26, a motorized unit, coming over forty miles of bleak road from Boston in quick time. The exposed wooden roofs of the tenement district beyond developed blaze after blaze, while the people they had sheltered turned out in the streets in night clothing.

As far is is known there was no loss of life, but there was one sensational rescue. Leslie G. Kingborn, manager of an autontobile agency, was rescued from a window ledge on the seventh floor of the Knowles building. A seventy-five foot- extension ladder was put up and he was taken down by firemen.

FARMERS' SUN ENUNCIATES COMPLETE PARTY PLATFORM.

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—Application of the principles of proportional representation, initiative and a direct referendum in elections, are among the principles enunciated in the Provincial platform of the U.F.O., as published in this week's issue of The Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario.

The platform also advocates the enactment and enforcement of such liquor prohibition legislation as the people shall demand by referendum, the abolition of party patronage, rigid economy in public expenditures, the cheapening of Hydro-Electric development, promotion of reforestation, and provision of equal educational opportunities for children of all people by improving the facilities in the rural districts.

ADJOURNMENT IN RATE CASE

WITNESSES REGARDING NORTHERN ELECTRIC NOT PREPARED.

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—The Bell Telephone Company increased rates inquiry before the Railway Commissioners, was adjourned at noon until to-morrow, because witnesses representing the Northern Electric Company, who will give evidence as to the sales of material and equipment to the Bell Company, were not ready to go on the stand to-day.

Opponents of the application for higher rates have maintained that the prices paid to the Northern Electric Company are too high, and that this is one reason why the Telephone Company are in need of higher rates. The company, however, contend that the prices paid are fair and reasonable.

RICKARD DENIES 'BOUT CALLED OFF

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER FIGHT RUMORS DISCOUNTED BY PROMOTER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Tex. Rickard, one of the promoters of the heavyweight championship bout between Jack Dempsey, title holder, and Georges Carpentier of France, denied this morning that the bout was to be called off, as announced by the New York Times. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, also denies the report in an interview in San Francisco.

All the principals have posted the deposits required under the terms of the contract. Rickard declared, and the contract has not been violated in any way. Plans for the bout are being continued by the promoters, he asserted, and it is now expected to stage it in July in England or Canada.

VOTE FOR DENNE

AND

A GREATER PETERBORO AND DISTRICT

The Electors of West Peterboro Can't Be Bought!

Meighenism seems to imagine that the electorate of West Peterborough can be bought.

That is the contemptible idea behind the suggestion assiduously rumoured that if the candidate of the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government is elected the Canadian mint will be put on a special run, turning out money to be spent in Peterborough.

Forget it.

This is an ancient election dodge—mere bait for the credulous.

You don't hear the Honorable Arthur Meighen handing out that stuff. It's beneath his dignity. Besides, his tune is the tariff in this piece.

But listen to the wheeze of some of his agents.

"Send a Government man to Ottawa and everything will be jake for this town. The Government won't forget it."

A new Customs House. That is the vague promise floating about. The promises are so high, wide and handsome, but beautifully indefinite, that you go away with the impression that there will probably be two Customs Houses or some other prodigal expenditure.

The boosters of the Government know its weakness. There is no counting the sixpence when they loose the strings of the people's money bags.

Election Promises

And they can be just as prodigal of promises. More so, for promises are cheaper, and the life of the National Liberal and Conservative Party and Government, and the whole outfit, is near the end of its string.

"The Government will be generous to Peterborough if it comes through clean."

Are you going to fall for that kind of appeal?

If your Member of Parliament ever accepted a bribe you could never have confidence in him again. Your condemnation would be spontaneous and final.

He could never hold his head up in the community again.

And yet there are not a few electors lending their ears to the pernicious suggestion that West Peterborough might as well sell its votes — and its honor — to this so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

Politicians of the same stripe and kidney used to peddle five and ten dollar bills at election time in the old days.

A New Method

Now they go after the whole electorate— not with bills but with public buildings.

West Peterborough wants from the Dominion Government only what it is entitled to.

And it places the inalienable right to representative government as its highest and only desire in this by-election.

The Honorable Arthur Meighen can restore that right to West Peterborough and to the Dominion of Canada by immediately resigning and going to the people for a mandate instead of taking his orders from the profiteers.

Vote for G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, as a protest against Meighenism, and as a repudiation of the base idea that West Peterborough has a price.

IRISH RAILWAYMAN TESTIFIES—O'CALLAGHAN ORDERED DEPORTED.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The refusal of the Irish railwaymen to carry armed British troops and ammunition was a "mistaken policy," and was working economic ruin in Ireland, Frank Dempsey, chairman of the Urban Council of Hallow, and locomotive engineer, said to-day before the Commission of the Committee of One Hundred investigating Irish conditions.

The decision of the railway unions to operate troop trains was due to this discovery, and not to any weakening in their determination for an Irish Republic, he said.

"The Irish people depend on the railroads to transport all the food and other necessities," he said. "When we refused to carry their armed troops and ammunition. The British authorities sent over boatloads of lorriest o transeport their troops. The railwaymen who refused to operate troop trains were dismissed, and the roads were badly crippled. Our people were suffering, and our stand was not helping the cause. Therefore, we abandoned it."

Dempsey described four raids on his home which, he said, had been made by the British military.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Counsel for Donald O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, who arrived in the United States recently without a passport, was directed to-day by Secretary of Labour Wilson to deliver the Lord Mayor promptly to the immigration inspector at Norfolk, Va.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Harry Boland, secretary to Eamonn de Valera, said to-day there might be some doubt whether Donald O'Callaghan would be surrendered to the immigration authorities as ordered.

Boland said the decision rested with the Lord Mayor's counsel, who had protested against deportation.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR NEURASTHENIA
Neurasthenia or Nervous Prostration, call it by what name you will, is so common in these dys of rush and hustle that it has been aptly named THE AMERICAN DISEASE. Among some of the symptoms are Headache, Mental Depression, Sleeplessness, General Irritability, Affections of the Vision, etc. Neursthenia yields very readily to Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, and many cases can be quoted which have completely recovered after a few Adjustments. Severe cases, of course, take a longer time; but if the Adjustments are persisted in, the patient has every chance of making a good recovery. For any form of Nervous trouble you will be acting wisely in consulting your Chiropractor.

CITY HEALTH DEPARTMENT CONSIDERED

MEETING OF THOSE INTERESTED IN HEALTH AND WELFARE WORK YESTERDAY LED TO DEFINITE PLANS BEING LAID FOR SUCH.

FURTHER STEPS LATER

The foundation of a City Department of Health to be formed through the co-ordiantion of the different public welfare workers was laid yesterday afternoon in the Empress Hotel when some of the leading physicians of the city and others actively interested in the health of the city, met Miss Minnie H. P. Bridges, Field Supervisor of Nursing Service of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, for an informal discussion of the matter.

What Might Be Done.

Miss Bridges outlined the work which has already been done in the city by Miss Lillian Simons, nurse for the local Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and what might have been done and could be done through her affiliation with other public health associations. She observed that under the present system there is more or less duplication in the nursing services, while co-ordination would save time and allow for the accomplishment of more work and in all probability more effcient work.

Same Idea.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, stated that Miss Bridegs had outlined the identical scheme which he had laid before the Board of Trade recently, stating that under the present system there would, in the course of a few weeks be five nurses doing the same work in the city, namely, the Public school nurse, Miss M. J. V. Jory, the Health Association nurse, Miss Hamilton, the Metropolitan nurse, Miss Simons, the proposed nurse for the Babies' Welfare Clinic, and the nurse who will be identified with the Veneral Clinic, which will doubtless be established in the city presently. He further staed that it is time that a Health Department with a full time Medical Heath Officer, should be founded in Peterborough, and supported by a municipal grant.

Appointed Chairman.

After a brief discussion it was unanimously agreed that a co-ordination of the services of the welfare nurses of the city would prove the most efficient manner in which to handle the city's health. Dr. A. W. McPherson, Public School Medical Officer, was appointed chairman of the scheme to discuss the matter with the authorities in the city and to arrange a suitaable time for a further conference, which will probably be arranged about the middle of February by special invitation to those personaly interested in the Health and Welfare Work of the city. Mr. W. E. Dyer, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, consented to act as secretary.

MIGHT STAGE FIGHT HERE

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER BOUT MAY TAKE PLACE IN CANADA IF PLANS OF PROMOTER MATERIALIZE.

DIFFICULTIES NUMEROUS

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. —The latest developments in connection with the projected Carpentier-Dempsey bout, have suddenly turned the attention of the boxing world to Canada as the possible scene of the encounter. Promoter Tex Rickard has received several propositions from Canadian sportsmen, but it is not considered that he has given serious attention to the possibilities offered by Canada until to-day. The withdrawal of two of the promoters of the $500,000 bout, however, has brought about the situation which has resulted in serious ocnsideration of offers from the Dominion. Rickard said this morning that the withdrawal of his partners in the promotion of the fight, Wm. A. Brady and Chas. B. Cochrane, as announced last night by Brady, will deter him from staging the contest. He declared that he will immediately procure other promoters and attempt to hold the fight in Canada.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 20.—The wheat market was a weak one to-day. There was a little pressure to sell at the start on a report that the Argentine export tax had been removed. This was denied shortly after and sellers rushed to cover forcing a rally. On the bulge heavy commission house selling developed and one very slight rally thereafter. It looked as though some of the big long lines were going overboard and some of the selling was coming from houses with export connections. The fact that there had been no clearances of wheat from the seaboard for two days and that clearances of wheat and flour for to-day were only 408,000 bushels, led the trade to discount much of the export business.

Cash premiums in the local market were unchanged. Milling demand was fair. There was no evidence of any export demand and even the break failed to bring out any reports of the business done.

Corn held steady. The feature was the buying of a big line of corn thought to be for a local short and this aided in absorbing the hedging sales and offset the effect of the weakness in wheat. Theer is less disposition shown to press the corn decline much further, as many of the bears believe the selling side is becoming too popular for comfort and they are inclined to cover and secure their profits. There also was some buying against weekly privileges. Cash basis was unchanged. Export bids were reported 3 1-4 cents out of line, but a moderate amount was worked.

Oats were slightly lower. There was good buying in a break by cash, but the pressure was more than sufficient to supply the demand. Cash demand was slow.

Provisions were easier. The feature was the selling of a big line of ribs by Armours.

MEETING OF WAR RELIEF COMMITTEES

PATRIOTIC FUND AND RELIEF ASSOCIATION WOULD DIVERT SURPLUS FUNDS ON HAND TO RELIEF OF EXISTING DISTRESS BY ACT OF LEGISLATURE.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS

Last evening of this week was held the annual meeting of thelocal War Work organizations, known as the Patriotic Fund and the Relief Association. There was a fair attendance of members, those most closely identified both now and in the years that have passed, with the work. In the absence, the perpetual chairman, (otherwise engaged in city business), Mr. J. A. Aylmer filled the chair.

As an important matter was to be dealt with affecting the operations of the Relief Association, and which is referred to in the report of that organization, the reading of sundry minutes and annual reports was dispensed with, for the time being, but the reports are here submitted for general information.

Peterborough Relief Association

In conformity with the Constitution and By-Laws the officers in charge are those of the Patriotic Fund. The function of the Association is to look after local relief for and among the civilian population, as distinctive from the military service.

The Relief Fund was instituted to assist those in adverse circumstances on account of the war, confining its work to cases within the City of Peterborough.

At this distance from the close of the war it has been increasingly difficult to define who were in "adverse circumstances on account of the war" and since last July (1920) the Relief Fund had ceased to function, the trustees pointing out that the money could not now be given out unless the terms of the constitution and by-laws were violated.

As it seemed desirable that moneys in hand should be accessable, should the need arise, it was decided to ask the County Judge to advise as to the course to be followed, and in conformity with suggestions, (given out of Court and in a friendly way) application is being made to the Legislature for approval to change the conditions, or rather to vary the same, so that the moneys could be used for purposes of general relief within the city.

In addition, the Trustees of the Relief Fund desired to be relieved from further responsibility, in that they had in hand the care of a sum of money that was practically locked up and could not be used under the existing circumstances. Mr. F. D. Kerr, Solicitor for the Association, and with the assistance of Mr. Widdifield, City Solicitor are in charge of the formal proceedings, and it is expected that assent to the proposition will be given by the Private Bills Committee at the ensuing meeting of the Legislature, in February next.

The Prayer of the Petition is that the Trustees of the Fund be authorzed to hand over to the City of Peterborough, any balance of unexpended monies to be used for relief purposes and the alleviation of distress in the will receive the same on behalf of the wil receive the same an behalf of the corporation, and further on its uses defined.

Chairman,

Secretary.

Peterborough Branch, Canadian Patriotic Fund.

Report for Civic Year, Jan. 1920-21.

Carrying on under instructions from the Advisory Board of the Patriotic Fund at Ottawa, the Local Branch has functioned during the year past. With authority from Parliament, the Fund at Ottawa, was authorized to enlarge the perview of the work and to take up classes of assistance to which it had not given attention in the years previous Largely because these cases were non-existent uptil after the close of the war.

Despite the Liberal provisions made by the Government in the way of pensions, the services of the Soldier's Civil Re-establishment and other branches of the remedial service it was found that many cases developed that might not be taken care of under any one of the above services. Such as the position of widowed mothers, whose son had given military service, and returning married and taken on the responsibility of his own household. The cases too frequent, of the desertion of wives and children by ex-soldiers returned from service. And cases where the family ties and responsibilities had been broken up owing to misconduct of the wife and mother. All of these left children to be cared for and supported And there had been no definite provision made by the Government.

The Patriotic Fund, having on hand a considerable sum of money,

Prosperity Is Outlook

By VINCENT EASTWOOD, Manager of the Local Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

It is quite likely that we are facing a long period of declining commodity prices. Many people will assume from this statement that we will have no real prosperity during such a period. This is an entirely wrong conclusion to arrive at. Greater prosperity can exist during a long period of declining costs than during a period of boom.

The necessity for doing business under competitive conditions and on smaller margins makes for efficiency. Production under such conditions tends to build up, while speculation finally pulls downward. The oft-used expression to the effect that "competition is the life of trade" is absolutely true. If our Governments, Federal and Provincial, together with corporations and individuals, will positively cease from their extravagant methods, which are to be seen on every hand, we shall very soon readjust our affairs in Canada, and incidentally in Peterborough.

The fundamentals of real prosperity are raw material, labour and capital. These we have, and with them all energetic people have always prospered.

To-morrow—J. C. CAMPBELL, candidate of the U.F.O. in the West Peterborough by-election.

PRICES GENERALLY HIGHER AT OPENING OF MARKET BUT SOME, ESPECIALLY GENERAL ASPHALT POOL, SUFFERED.

SEVERAL NEW HIGHS

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The general Asphalt pool encountered heavy offerings at the opening level on the New York Stock Exchange, and retreated, causing a recession from the opening of 66, which extended below 65 at the end of the first hour. Traders believed an appreciation of more than 100 per cent. in amounts was sufficient for the present.

The first hour's trading was featured by Texas Pacific Coal and Oil, which ran up to 35 1-4, a gain of four points. The technical position of this stock was believed to have been strengthened by the acquisition of a large block that was in "weak" hands.

International Paper made a new high of 62, an advance of about 24 points over last month's low.

Early trading indicated it was still a specialty market, and most of the stocks featured in the previous session were at higher levels than yesterday.

American International advanced 1¼ to 48 3-4 shortly after the opening. Crucible at 98 1-2 was up 1-4, but U. S. Steel lost 1-4 at 83 3-8.

Leading stocks were generally higher at the opening of the Stock Market to-day. U. S. Steel, however, was off 1-8 at 83 3-8, Central Leather 42 3-4 up 3-8, Rubber 70 1-4 up 1-4, American C. and F. 125 1-8 up 1-2, Sinclair 24 1-2 up 1-4, Studebaker 13 1-2 off 1-2, American International 48 1-2 up 1, General Asphalt 66 up 3-8, Gooderich 42 3-4 off 1-8, General Motors 15 up 1-8, Crucible 98 1-2 up 1-4, Texas Co. 44 3-4 up 1-4, International Paper 60 up 1-4, New York C. 72 5-8 unchanged, California Petroleum 37 3-4 up 3-8, Baldwin 91 1-2 off 3, International Cons. 55-8 up 1-4, Mexican Petroleum 164 up 1-2.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Foreign exchange opened slightly higher: Sterling $3.77 1-4, Francs $.0654, Lire $.0357, Marks $.0162, Canadian dollars $.8775.

U.F.O. CLUBS ENDORSE THE DRURY STAND

MANY TELEGRAMS OF SUPPORT RECEIVED—FARMERS' EXECUTIVE HOLDS LATE SESSION BUT ISSUES NO DECLARATION OF POLICY.

EXPECT ONE TO-DAY

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Jan. 20. — Premier Drury is receiving telegrams of support on the stand he is taking against the element of the United Farmers led by Secretary J. J. Morrison from U. F. O. Clubs in many parts of the Province This indicates that the organization is not solidly behind Mr. Morrison on the question of broadenng the scope of the Farmers Party as far as politics are concerned.

The U. F. O. Executive went into session here yesterday which was not adjourned until 1.30 o'clock this morning. The press was told after the meeting that the question of the differences between the Premier and Mr. Morrison were barely touched upon during the meeting and that discussion regarding these would take place to-day.

Three Cabinet Ministers, Hon. F C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer and Hon. Beniah Bowman, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, were present to give "an accounting of their stewardship" but the Premier was not invited, although he told the press that he would accept an invitation to speak a the meeting should it be offered him.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—Hon. E. C. Drury, Premier of Ontario, whose difference with J. J. Morrison, organizer of United Farmers, has developed considerable discussion, was invited to the meeting of the U.F.O. executive at noon and spent some hours in conference with his colleagues of the party. Hon. Manning Doherty emerged from the conference about 1.30 o'clock, and said there was nothing to report, but stated that the Premier might have a statement later.

ALBERTA FARMERS ADVOCATE CREDIT BE NATIONALIZED

CRERAR SAYS ALL CANADA BELIEVES ONTARIO ADMINISTRATION BEST.

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, Jan. 20. — A resolution advocating the nationalization of the Canadian Banking and Credit System was passed last night by the United Farmers of Alberta in convention. Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive Party, in his address predicted the early formation of a farmers' organization in Nova Scotia and said that the impartial testimony of all Canada was that the Ontario administration was the best in the Dominion.

PULP AND PAPER MEN ASSEMBLE TO-MORROW

DOUBTFUL WHO ARE TO SUCCEED TO OFFICES.

(Special to the Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Jan. 20, — The annual meeting of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association will be held here to-morrow. One of the interesting points of new business to come before the meeting will be the election of a new chief executive and a new vice-president. As a rule the retiring vice-president is in line for the higher position upon the retirement of the president, but this rule is not infallible. This year it may be broken, the present incumbent of the position of vice-president, for personal reasons, not seeing his way clear to assume the greater responsibility. The retiring president is George Chapoon, Jr., general manager of the Laurentide Company, and the vice-president, Howard Wilson, of the J. C. Wilson Paper Company. It is expected in quarters close to the Association that Percy B. Wilson, vice-president of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills, Sault Ste. Marie, will be elected to the presidency of the Association, while George M. McKee, general manager of the Donnacona Pulp and Paper Company, will be elected to the vice-presidency.

OBJECTIONS TO MONOPOLY

CASE OF WOMAN WHO DIED IN TORONTO FOLLOWING INJECTION OF SERUM RAISES IMPORTANT POINT REGARDING DRUG MANUFACTURE.

DOCTORS OBJECT

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—"It is a terrible thing that to protect any enterprise for private gain a whole country should be shut out from free access to the curative remedies of the world of science." These are the words of a practicing physician in Toronto in discussing the Canadian embargo on preparations for the treatment of blood diseases. Recently two women died in Toronto following treatment with one of the preparations so protected by embargo in this country."

The boards of health of two provinces have been refused permission, the one to import and the other to manufacture preparations much used in the treatment of a disease which is a heavy menace to the public health.

These refusals by the Dominion authorities have been in the nature of an embargo protecting the commercial privilege of private enterprise in the manufacture and asle of such a preparation. In addition to this, a well-known British firm whose product was used throughout the war by the great British war hospitals, has been denied the right of importation into Canada.

The whole matter has become the subject of public inquiry by reason of the deaths of two Toronto women following treatment with one of these protected preparations, "neodiarsenol," manufactured by the Synthetic Drug Company of this city.

Many medical men are bitterly opposed to this restriction upon the liberty of the profession in their choice of a method of treatment for blood disease. These base their complaint, not upon any criticism of the worth of the protected product, but because they feel that, where the public health is concerned, no consideration of the protection of a private commercial enterprise should be allowed to bar the way of full and free access to any and all the remedies produced by the world of science and medicine.

THE WEATHER

The rapid rise in temperature that has taken place within the last few hours is worthy of remark, and of a memo in your diary, if you keep one. Early yesterday morning it was 19 degrees below zero. This morning it was 37 above. At noon the mercury was up to 46 degrees in the shade. 46 plus 19 gives 65 degrees change in temperature in a few hours. In some portions of the world there is not 25 degrees change during the twelve months. While I have not made a research of old registers I do not recall such a great change before in so few hours.—W. NEW FRENCH GOVERNMENT MAKES BOW

LENGTHY DECLARATION OF POLICY DRAWN UP THIS MORNING WITH PARTICULARS BEARING ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS TO BE SUBMITTED.

LONG TIME FRAMING IT

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Aristide Briand's new ministry, made its bow before Parliament to-day and the new Premier read the Cabinet's declaration of policy. M. Brian and Philippe Berthelot, general secretary of the French Foreign Office, sat until after midnight finishing the declaration which was submitted this morning for final approval to the whole Cabinet. The meeting was held at the Elysee Palace and was under the chairmanship of President Millerand. It was forecasted that the declaration would not be of the kind which says, "Our programme can be told in a few words." On the contrary it was said to be of considerable length, attempting to give, as far as possible, that light on the foreign policy of France, the refusal of which brought about the downfall of the Leygues administration.

The prime purpose of the Briand ministry in directing the government of the nation will be to obtain real security for France through the disarmament of Germany, it was declared in the new ministry's statement of policy presented to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon. "We have a treaty of peace with Germany," the ministerial declaration read, "but we have not a real peace as yet, peace which will solidly establish France's essential rights and assure her security. We shall obtain that security only if Germany is disarmed. That is for us the vital question, marking out for the government its first and most sacred duty. We shall not fail in it." Reparations comes next in the government programme. On this the declaration says: "The reconstruction of our ravaged soil, our destroyed industries and the equilibriuni of our finances are possible only if Germany executes the reparations clauses of the Treaty of Versailles. To this end our Allies give up their support."

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. A great many perfectly good teeth are being extracted these days, thus greatly injuring powers of mastication, which is necessary to good health. Pyorrhoea is quite curable. Results are very gratifying. Consultation free. Electrical apparatus used in examination. — 158 Charlotte Street, corner George Street.

WORK ON STREETS IS TOO EXPENSIVE

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 20. — There will be no extraordinary public works activities this winter, the council decided at an informal meeting when the members met Welfare Worker Miss Smith and Miss Yeomans, in reference to the mater of unemployment. The situation is such that the council will back the efforts of the social workers. It was felt that sewer work, for instance, would be so expensive, that it would be out of all proportion to the need. It was likewise felt it would be difficult to get men to work in the open during the severe weather.

CONDITION OF LIVE STOCK PROMISING

LARGE NUMBER OF FARMERS WELL STOCKED UP WITH CATTLE.

The following is a summary of the reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Live stock may be said to have entered 1921 in good general condition, and are being more freely fed on the whole than in more recent years. Hay is the only fodder not in full supply, there being a generous quantity of grain, roots, silage, and straw on hand. Of the latter the Leeds representative very practically says: "If farmers generally would appreciate the benefit of cutting straw and using a mixture of ensilage and straw as the basis of a bulky ration for cattle, there would bt fewer of them reporting a feed shortage. Most owners of cattle are not economical feeders even of the supplies they may have on hand."

A large number of farmers are well stocked with cattle, but hogs are less in number than for several years. The former are being marketed at prices ranging from 6½ cents to 9 cents a pound, and well finished animals get higher figures. Dufferin reports that seven carloads of cattle were shipped from Orangeville last week. The Lennox and Addington representative states that there are some complaints of cattle being trouble with lice, for which he recommends linseed oil treatment.

The milk flow has ben keeping up well for the time of year. A number of farmers in Lennox and Addington are planning to go more extensively into winter dairying next year. The Napanee branch of the Belleville Creamery made 211,000 pounds of butter during 1920, an increase of 55,000 pounds over the output of the preceding year.

Grey says: "Holstein Station, in Egremont Township, becoming a heavy shipper of both milk and cream—indicating a gradual decline from producing butter."

Hogs are being sold at a somewhat heavier weight, and grain is cheaper than for several years. Bacon hogs on foot are now selling at from $14.75 to $16.00 a cwt.

At an auction sale held recently in the County of Grey, the 100-acre farm sold for $15,000. Two horses brought $245.00 each, grade cows $150.00, Shropshire ewes $28.50, with ewe lambs selling from $15.00 to $18.00. Horse buyers are making regular calls at shipping centres in the same county, and are picking up a number of good animals at prices running from $150.00 to $200.00. They are chiefly for shipment to the West.

Grey states that inquiries for sweet clover seed are coming from the West. Local buyers are now offering $3.75 a bushel, but farmers are slow to sell at that price.

Fall wheat fields have been bare in many localities a week or two, but the crop so far has shown little or no ill effects from the exposure.

Welland speaks of the unusual sight of some farmers ploughing during the past week. Two other representatives report horses and cattle running out at time of writing.

Waterloo reports that a number of men who have been working in town are now looking for jobs on the farm. York says that very few farmers are inclined to hire men at present, holding back for a lowering of wages.

HOMAGE TO FORMER EMPEROR AND WIFE

(Canadian Press.)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 20.—Dr. Ruy Barbosa, sole susvivor of the prominent men who in 1899 caused the bloodless overthrow of the Empire of Brazil, set up a republic, and banished the Imeprial family, will play a part, as representative of the League of National Defence, in paying homage to the former Emperor Dom Pedro II. and his wife when the Brazilian battleship Sao Paulo brings their bodies back from Lisbon. The obdies are expected to arrive here within a few weeks.

Responding to the League's request that he represent it at the landing of the remains of the late Emperor, Dr. Barbosa said that the banishment of the Imperial family had not been an act of proscription and revenge, but merely a precaution, an elementary guarantee of security for the heads of the old regime and for the calm birth of the new. He was glad that, at what was practically the end of his public career, the opportunity had arisen for revocation of the act of banishment and thankful to be able to take part in the ceremony.

NEW COLLEGE AT BELLEVILLE.

Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church, was in Belleville attending the annual meeting of the management committee of Albert College and to meet the building committee of the proposed new college which, it is estimated, will cost $600,000. It is confidently expected that work on the structure will be commenced this spring. A suitable site has already been procured, plans approved of and a large amount has been subscribed.

STATEMENT FROM THE FORD MOTOR CO.

NO FURTHER PRICE REDUCTIONS CAN BE ENTERTAINED.

The following is a copy of a letter from the Ford Motor Company, to Duffus Motor Sales, Peterborough, which speaks for itself

January 6th, 1921, — Many inquiries have recently come to us concerning the likelihood of another reduction in the price of our cars. As these inquiries no doubt emanate largely from prospective purchasers we want to state with emphasis that Ford cars are already being sold in the case of some models at a figure actually below cost and in the case of other models at a figure so close to cost that for an indefinite period another reduction is not at all contemplated.

Our price reduction in Canada was not proportionately as great as in the United States but it was as large as we felt justified in making in the face of manufacturing conditions, condition of the raw material market, and the fact that the Ford Company in equipped with many improvements (such as one-man top, ventilating wind shield, improved upholstery, etc. all of which add to the cost of production) which have not as yet been adopted by the Parent Company.

We believe the public will be fair enough to thoroughly appreciate the frankness of the above statements when they consider that such price cut as we made was an evidence of our desire to contribute towards satisfying their demands for lower living costs, notwithstanding our sacrifice in marketing our cars at a loss until we are able to materially reduce present cost through lower material prices and greater manufacturing efficiency. While we have, of course made some progress in bringing down operating costs, we still have a long way to go before any thought can be given to further reductions in present car prices, so we have no hesitancy in making these open statements to acquaint you with the true situation.

You can therefore give assurance to prospective purchasers of Ford cars that now is their real opportunity to buy at very close to or below cost and obtain delivery. Everyone is familiar with the heavy demand for Ford cars in the spring and summer and this year will be no exception, as in spite of conditions, business is already commencing to accumulate so that many who desire Ford cars will be obliged to wait perhaps until midsummer, or perhaps later, for delivery.

We mention these circumstances to guide dealers; and we expect you to protect the interests of prospective purchasers in your community by placing these facts before them.

Yours very truly,

MUST FACE THE MUSIC.

PORT HOPE, Jan. 20.—At the last meeting of the Public School Board in 1920 the request of the teachers for an increase in salaries was left over for the incoming Board. The ratepayers being very considerate, returned the old Board by acclamation, and now the members who attempted to place the responsibility on other shoulders must face the music.

The old-time plantation flavor in your cooking

THE secret of many a Southern dish lay in its sugar cane molasses! Now the old-time delicacy is yours again. The taste carries you back to childhood joys!

Two Louisiana boys, spurred on by memories of sugar cane down on the old plantation, decided to revive this bygone Southern sweet. They called it Brer Rabbit, after the hero of the plantation stories.

Get a can of Brer Rabbit at your grocer's. Use it everywhere you are now using molasses and see the difference its plantation flavor makes in cooking.

Have Brown Bread for lunch

One and a half cups graham flour
1 cup corn meal
One-quarter cup rye flour
1 cup raisins
2 cups sour milk
Three-quarters tablespoonful soda
1 teaspoon salt
Three-quarters cup Brer Rabbit Molasses

Mix and sift dry ingredients add molasses, milk, raisins; beat well, turn into greased moulds, filling two-thirds full. Grease mould covers, tie down tightly. Set mould on rack or folded cloth to prevent burning. Set in water half way up mould; steam two hours.

In a funeral procession of an officer, it is customary for a horse follow the casket with the boots the soldier reversed on the saddle.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1921.

THE "UNITED" FARMERS.

Premier Drury seems to have won first round in his controversy the secretary of the U.F.O. The mer and Labour members of the ernment have passed a vote of fidence in the Premier, and the lution is a veritable ultimatum the Government does not intend allow itself to be run from U.F.O. dquarters. What the result will is rather difficult to prophesy. Sec- ary Morrison, if his reputation not belie him, is not likely to pt the decision of the members the Government. He has a strong ence over the farmers generally, if he wants to declare ruthless fare on Mr. Drury and his asso- es he would undoubtedly be a rn in their sides. He has promis- hat "there will be something doing n," but the confidence shown in Premier by his followers has rath- upset his calculations. He may t to try his hand with the various mers' Clubs and if that does not mise to be successful, Mr. Morri- may be glad to make peace with Premier. Recent events have wn that the word "united" is not ays an appropriate adjective to In mentioning the Farmers' or- ization.

THE EXHIBITION.

o local organization is permeated a greater enthusiasm on the part ts members than is the Peterbor- h Industrial Exhibition, the annual ting of which was successfully on Tuesday. From the president n to the newest director every nber is brimful of confidence in future of the Exhibition and ap- ently determined to do everything is power for the success of the erprise. It is this careful confi- ce and this determination that bined have resulted in the vast des that the Peterborough Indus- l has made in the last few years that will make this year's Exhi- on a record-breaker from all points view. Enthusiasm is infectious, the spirit of the directors has been ght by the people of the city and rict, who are "boosters" now, nd of the Exhibition, delighted the progress that it has made and ious to see new heights of success ched each year. Incidentally, the ibition has been a means of pro- ing a better feeling between city county, for the association of ur- dwellers and farmers in the work the Exhibition Board has been an cation for both. They have grown know each other better and have ned to see things from the other ows' viewpoint, and that is know- e of the right kind. All success to Peterborough Industrial. May prove the most glorious year in history is the wish of the people the city and county.

THE CAMPAIGN.

esterday's developments in the st Peterborough campaign were announcement from W. F. O'Con- K.C., of Ottawa, that it is "almost ain" that he will be a candidate, the practical certainty that there be no war veterans' nominee. As he former, Mr. O'Connor may be arded as a sure starter, although he not frankly committed himself. platform was announced a few ago in a communication to the miner. It is simply a belief in a ble tariff arrangement for Canada will always correspond with that he United States. If the new Re- lican regime establishes a high f against Canadian goods, Mr. onnor would have Canada place tariff on exactly the same level. t is the principle he proposes to before the electors of West Pe- orough if he finally decides to e his political fortune in the local ggle.

ance with the wishes of the Dominion command, which, according to the Dominion secretary, Mr. G. C. MacNeil, remains non-partisan in the issues now before the electorate and is concerned less any branch create impressions to the contrary. That eliminates the possibility of an official G.W.V.A. candidate, and while the returned soldiers could, of course, act Independently of the Association, it is not considered likely that any such action will be taken. The individual veterans will be left free to use their own judgment in the matter.

A PLEA FOR BETTER BOOKS.

There are few things which have so great an influence upon young boy sand girls as the books they read. Their minds are so susceptible to the ideas which they find in them that a certain part of the moulding of their characters can be traced to what they read. This is especially true of boys and girls from fourteen to eighteen. For they are, at that age, peculiarly impressionable, and the impressions made then have, in many cases, a direct bearing upon after life.

This being the case, it is to be deplored that the average boy or girl has not a better taste for literature than is reported. A Boston librarian, after making a careful and searching investigation into the type of books read by girls, declares that young girls, with very few exceptions, are reading trashy fiction. They do not appreciate good books, not even standard fiction, and as for books dealing with subjects of the day, they are passed over completely.

"Girls fifteen years old are reading books not fit to be read by even an older person," says this librarian, a woman of much experience. "They prefer the trashy novels with their impossible plots and questionable situations to the more wholesome stories of the standard authors. From these highly colored and altogether impossible stories they form their views on the great problems of life, and so is it any wonder that these deluded girls have a wrong attitude towards their moral responsibilities? Not that I think they should be made to read the classics if they don't wish to, but there is a great field of literature that is not strictly classical, yet is of good sound principles and withal is entertaining. There are stories of girls, interesting and amusing stories, much better for a fifteen-year-old girl than the sensual, sexual nonsense written by some of the so-called popular authors of the present day. Then there are many instructive books written in such a manner that they are as interesting as any fiction and have the added advantage of being true."

This condition of affairs is one in which there is considerable food for thought. Too many parents are apt to take no notice of what their children read, and very few try in any way to direct the reading of their children. Yet they have a direct responsibility in the matter that cannot be evaded.

Mothers should find out what sort of books thir children are reading, and if they are not desirable they should replace them with books that are. Parents can and should consult with librarians more than they do, and from them learn what new books are good and what are to be avoided. They can learn what books are suitable for certain ages, and in this way do much to raise the standard of their children's reading matter. Such a course might take a little time and trouble, but we believe that it would be found worth while.—Kingston Whig.

CORRECT CARE OF YOUR KITCHEN KNIVES

The correct way to sharpen a knife is to hold the steel or whetstone firmly in the left hand, then holding the knife at a slight angle to the steel start at the steel and draw the blade down from the handle end to the point, circumscribing a semi-circle, allowing play of the right wrist. Alternate the stroke, first on the top of the steel and then underneath. Knives can be kept in much better condition if one person does the sharpening, because everybody holds the knife at a slightly different angle.

To keep the knives bright and shining, rub them frequently with one of the coarser friction soaps into which a large cork has been dipped. Better still is a cleaner now available made of hard rubber well impregnated with a friction powder. It not only cleans but produces a wonderful burnish. Keep this close to your sink or in your sink cabinet, so that the knives can be brightened up each time they are washed. If this is made one of your unwritten rules, it will mean the saving of many minutes spent in renewing the badly stained knives. Then, too, form the habit of rinsing off the knife immediately after cutting acid foods.

The Tide Has Turned

When commodity prices decline, when the wheels of commerce and trade slow down, and labor, that mighty force in industry, competes for employment, then, according to the laws of business, and the history of finance, the demand for money gradually lessens, money rates gradually decline, and bond prices move slowly towards higher levels.

It requires no seasoned financier to recognize these conditions as existing to-day. High grade bonds cannot remain at their present low levels. The fore-sighted investor who takes advantage of present conditions, and places every available dollar in Canadian Bonds, will see his judgment sustained in the next few months.

AIRSHIPS FOR ATLANTIC ROUTE

BY MAJOR C. C. TURNER
(British Aviation Expert.)
(Special Correspondence Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, December 18.—The Atlantic has been crossed by aeroplane, by flying-boat, and by airship, and of these three divisions the last-named is the one clearly destined to open up regular trans-ocean aerial communications. The flying-boat may one day also be used for such services, but more probably its employment will be restricted to the shorter routes.

There is no reason why a limited cross-Atlantic airship service should not soon be attempted—say, within the next two years; and, as Mr. H. B. Pratt (of Vickers), in his book on "Commercial Airships" points out, it would be better at first not to attempt a regular time-table service of two crossings each day per week except in the May to September period. He also explains that whereas the eastward journey, on account of the prevailing winds, could be direct from New York to London, it would be necessary for the westward journey to take a more southerly line, leaving Europe at Lisbon, or thereabouts. This, of course, would mean that travellers would have to go to Lisbon by railway or aeroplane. From Lisbon to New York the distance is 4,250 miles, from New York to London it is 3,500 miles. As there would often be helping wind all the way across eastward, it would probably be found in practice, taking into account the time spent in getting to Lisbon, the average times would work out at something like fifty hours for the eastward journey and 120 hours for the westward.

In proposing cross-Atlantic airship services a comparison is sought with the most efficient marine services in the world, and far greater advantages of aircraft could be shown in parts of the world where existing transport is not so good. It says much for the confidence of airship engineers that they do not hesitate to make even this comparison, and in spite of the fact that the weather of the North Atlantic is so difficult, Mr. Pratt makes lautious reservations on the score of the weather conditions, which he says must be further studied; but he claims that crossings would be practicable on 300 days of the year.

Organization will be necessary for such an experimental service as is proposed, but it is sufficiently remarkable that without postulating airships of greater speed than some already in existence it is not unreasonable to propose a summer season Atlantic service on the lines suggested by Mr. Pratt. In some parts of the world the airship proposition is so evident as scarcely to need advocacy; there are the regions of reliable weather or very light winds.

The airship has the great advantage that it can remain aloft if necessary with its engines idle, and that in a favorable wind it will suffice to maintain merely steerage or manoeuvring way, thus economizing fuel. It is a long-distance craft, and can often choose the weather areas in which to travel, and dodge storms. Aeroplanes have on many occasions done a certain amount of storm dodging, but they are relatively short-distance craft, and their flight is so limited in duration that in their case the question scarcely arises.

Airship experts appear often to be over-cautious and fearful lest they should claim too much. Mr. Pratt nowhere assumes vessels possessing a greater air-speed than 75 miles an hour at the maximum (full power), and a normal air-speed of 60 miles an hour. For an aeroplane, with its limited duration, such a speed would be ridiculously low, but in an airship it is said to be good enough; many people, indeed, think it is sufficient for a summer season service across the Atlantic, using Lisbon as one of the termini.

Increase of speed in airships built on present lines would no doubt involve a more than proportional increase in fuel-consumption, but it is unreasonable to assume that no improvements in airship design are possible—improvements which would give greater speed on the same, or even less fuel. Bearing in mind the progress in all classes of aircraft during the past few years is it not unreasonable to accept the Bodensee, with its maximum speed of 81 miles an hour, or the L71, with its maximum speed of 75 miles an hour, as unsurpassable airship types, each having a cruising air-speed of not more than 60 miles an hour? Are German airship engineers content with this?

Meanwhile, let a beginning be made with airship services in some favored region, or even a two-way fine-season Atlantic service. It is of the highets important that a beginning should be made and practical data secured relating to the avoidance of bad weather areas and the utilization of good ones.

The cost of airship transport even on the present basis is so low that with the provision of all necessary organization it should not be difficult to put it on a commercial footing. The cost, according to figures given by Mr. Pratt and by experts at the Air Conference, is about 66 cents per ton per mile, and it has been shown that by using bigger ships it could be reduced by 40 per cent. There is good reason therefore for making a full-scale experiment, and securing the working experience indispensable before wider efforts become possible. Meanwhile, airship engineers can tackle the vital problem of increase of speed, which is probably not insoluble; and the more hours that are spent on a journey the more stores must be carried.

With regard to the influence of the wind on the Atlantic route, it must be borne in mind that with the south-westerly prevalent streams in these latitudes every increase of altitude almost invariably means an increase in the strength of the wind, helpful for the eastward journey, but opposing the westward; nor are easterly winds usually met even at high altitudes during the prevalence of the westerly type of weather.

AIR TANK BURST

Port Hope Doctor Had Narrow Escape from Injury

PORT HOPE, Jan. 20.—An accident occurred at Low's garage Monday morning, and it was miraculous that no serious results followed. A compressed air tank belonging to Dr. W. W. McKinley, was being filled at the garage by the same means as air is supplied to tires. Dr. Henry was holding the tank under his right arm, and Dr. McKinley had charge of the air tube. The maximum working pressure of the tank was fifty pounds, but it was filled to a capacity of one hundred and nine pounds when it suddeny burst, and flew to the ceiling burying itself in the rafters. In the ascent the tank struck Dr. Henry's hat and cut off the rim as clean as if done by a razor. Had the doctor's head been extended the least bit he would have been seriously if not fatally, injured. Dr. McKinley suffered quite a painful injury to one of his hands but both men are congratulating themselves on their fortunate escapes.

THE SUNDERED TIE

By ALLEN CHAPMAN

Once a year, in the latter part of June, Mabel Trescott spent two weeks with her mother. Once a year—it was at the holiday season—her father came to Euston, put up at the local hotel for half a week and saw a good deal of his daughter during that time. For eight years Mabel had practically lived at the Euston seminary except for these breaks. It was just after her sixteenth birthday that she solved for the first time in her life the mystery of the strange separation of husband and wife since she was a little baby. Her mother had never told her. A stern, joyless woman, when the subject was broached she said, austerely:

"We could not agree and it was for the best."

Once Mabel pleaded with her father to explain the strange condition of affairs.

"My child," he had said sorrowfully, "your mother is a peculiar woman, and I probably made a mistake in taking her from the farm home where all her life was centered."

Later a schoolmate, who had learned the real story from her mother, related it to Mabel. "Your mother had been brought up in a quiet, congenial family," she said. "For a year she and your father seemed contented and happy. Then you were born and your mother grew homesick for the old folks and the old life. She hated the city. She insisted that your father return with her to the old farm. In vain he pleaded that it would be at the sacrifice of a promising business career. Your mother made a home visit and—never returned."

Mabel was seventeen years old when an annual visit of her father came around. She was restless and excited on this occasion, and he noticed it. She had introduced to him a favorite school friend, Nellie Roberts, and then her brother, Harold. Both attracted the liking of Mr. Trescott.

"A very charming young lady, Mabel," he told his daughter, "and an equally fine young man."

"Oh! I am so glad you think so," cried Mabel, ecstatic over the trap she had led him into. "Dear papa, mamma likes him, too, and after our graduation next June, please may I marry him?"

There was no resisting that loving heart, but when the wedding had come and gone and the happy pair settled down in a town near the farm where the mother lived, Mr. Trescott felt lonely and dissatisfied. So long had he been parted from his wife that he feared she might resent a visit on his part to his daughter's home, and he never went there, despite constant invitations. At the end of two years, however, there came an urgent letter from Mabel.

"I want to see you, papa," she wrote, 'and so does Harold, and so does the dearest little baby grandchild in the world. We have named her Sarah, after mamma, and she looks like you. It is all arranged that you are to come to us next Wednesday and stay over the week-end, and oh, we will all be so happy!"

Not a word was said of Mrs. Trescott, and her husband judged that Mabel too fully understood the situation to embarrass them by having them under the same roof at the same time. More than that, he did not believe that his wife would consent to break in upon the strange silence that he had so patiently borne. In all charity he had accepted the general decision that she was a notional, peculiar woman.

He was enchanted by his welcome at the Roberts home. He had said that Harold was "a fine young man," and he indeed presented the semblance of a model son-in-law. Their little home was a paradise, the baby the most wonderful creature the world had ever held! Comfort, serenity, perfect love filled the little cottage, and as he was shown to his room Mr. Trescott experienced memories that particularly sweetened the occasion.

Strongly was he reminded of the blissful year when his wife had revealed herself as the typically perfect housekeeper. A bureau drawer gave out an odor of sweet lavender that reminded him of Sarah; the smell of apples in another wafted a like memory of those lost days, and the aroma of newly baked bread wrapped in a towel caused him a longing, cherished sensation that fairly suggested the home he had not known for years, but here was its glowing counterpart.

And then the meal! Had Mabel duplicated those old-time dinners when he and Sarah had been so happy? He expressed himself with a choking sensation, his emotion overcoming him, as after the meal he whispered to his daughter:

"Mabel, dear, it seems as if I had come back home after all the years of weary waiting!"

"Father, it will be that, indeed, if you will have it so. Somebody is waiting for you after all the years—oh! forgive and love."

She had gently pushed open a door and the mystery of those old reminders was explained. There, near the kitchen table, sat Sarah Trescott, cooing to the little babe in her arms. Her eyes met those of her husband in one soft, longing, half-frightened glance. Then they drooped, and the tears came. She was the suppliant, but he would not have it so. He knelt beside her and drew her head to his shoulder, where it belonged.

THEN IT HAPPENED

'I wonder if you could?" mused the Cheerful Idiot.

"You wonder if you could what?" demanded the Wise Guy.

"Why, I wonder if you could say that a divorce is merely the correction of a Miss-take?" replied the Cheerful Idiot.

NEW FORM STANDING FIELD CROP COMPETITIONS FOR THIS YEAR

GOVERNING REGULATIONS AS SUBMITTED TO PETERBORO INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION BOARD BY SUPERINTENDENT WILSON.

REGISTERED SEED

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board, held Tuesday night, the following report on "Combined Standing Field Crop and Seed Competitions" was submitted by Superintendent J. Lockie Wilson.

The regular Standing Field Crop Competitions will be held as formerly. A new form of competition, however, is available this year for those who wish to enter. This is to be known as "The Combined Standing Field and Threshed Grain Competition." Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the combined score on crop in the field and the threshed grain. Competitors will make their entries in the same manner as in the regular Field Crop Competitions. Special entry forms will be sent to the secretaries. The Standing Crop will be judged first, but in this competition the threshed grain will also be judged in the bins or sacks of the competitors, the combined scores determining the final award. The society will decide the kind of crop in which to enter.

The regulations governing the new form of competition are as follows:

1.—Societies that decide to conduct this special competition will not be eligible to enter the usual Standing Field Crop Competition with the same kind of grain; they may, however, enter the Standing Field Crop Competition with another kind of crop.

2.—Societies deciding to enter this combined competition should have 15 entries.

3.—The cleaned seed will be judged either in the sack or bin on the premises of the competitor on or before Jan. 15th.

4.—The seed used by the competitors must be registered seed, or, if this is not available, seed approved by the Provincial Seed Committee, of which I am secretary.

5.—The minimum quantities of cleaned seed to be judged in the bin must be not less than the following,

Wheat	75	Bushels
Barley	75	"
Oats	100	"
Peas	50	"
Buckwheat	50	"
Corn	50	"
F. Beans	25	"
Potatoes	100	"
Clover and Timothy	10	"

6.—Prizes. Seven prizes will be offered in each of these competitions; 1st, $75.00; 2nd, $60.00; 3rd, $45.00; 5th, $35.00; 6th, $20.00; 7th, $10.00; total, $2.75.00. Of these splendid prizes offered the society is obliged to contribute only $25.00.

7.—All competitors are required to sow the same kind of grain and the same variety. That is to say, if a society decided to enter in oats, it will decide what variety of oats it will select for this competition and each competitor must sow the same variety, all of which must be registered seed, or, if this registered variety is not available, the seed must be that approved of by the Provincial Seed Committee. The following are the varieties from which selections must be made:

(a) Cats—Banner, O.A.C. No. 72, Virtory, Gold Rain and O.A.C. No. 3.

(b) Barley—O.A.C. No. 21 and Mandscheuri.

(c) Spring Wheat—Marquis, Red Fife, Huron.

(d) Peas—Arthur, Golden Vine, Canadian Beauty.

(e) Corn—North Dakota, Longfellow, Quebec Yellow and Quebec 28.

(f) Potatoes — Green Mountain, Dooley, Carman No. 1, Irish Cobbler, Early Ohio and Gold Coin.

8.—Registered seed of most of the above varieties may be obtained at reasonable prices. Information re sources of supply may be had through this office. Where registered seed of a given variety is not available at the time of making entry, our Provincial Seed Committee will take the necessary steps to secure seed which will be acceptable.

9.—Where registered seed is sown by a competitor, the Canadian Seed Growers' Association will accept the fieds score of the field crop competition judge and will issue certificates of registration providing the field score warrants this. In other words, the competitor becomes automatically a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and may have his seed registered and catalogued, provided he has any for sale.

The large prizes offered for this competition are to encourage the production of high-class seed of approved varieties and in substantial quantities.

LOCKIE WILSON,
Superintendent.

AMERICA OBTAINED M'NAUGHT COLLECTION OF BURN'S WORKS

MR. JOHN GRIBBELL, PHILADELPHIA, U.S.A., BOUGHT UNIQUE COLLECTION.

America has again added to her rich store of literary treasures of our country through the recent purchase by Mr. John Gribbel, Philadelphia, of the unique Kilmaurs collection of first editions of Burns, etc., the property of Mr. Duncan M'Naught, the widely-known president of the Burns Federation. When on his recent visit to Scotland, Mr. Gribbel examined this collection, which he truthfully characterized as "the finest collection of early editions of Burns in the world," and he determined not to leave for America until he had concluded purchase. The amount paid has not transpired, but as it is common knowledge that Mr. M'Naught has repeatedly refused £1000 for the uncut Kilmarnock editions alone, it may be assumed that the price runs pretty well into the four figures. Mr. Gribbel gave the assurance that the collection would not be broken up, but would be retained under the name of its collector, Mr. M'Naught. The first editions are all in beautiful condition, and several of them are as clean and white as when newly issued from the printers. The collection in all consists of 600 volumes, including old magazines from 1760 to 1910, pamphlets and magazines relating to Burns and Burnsiana, 20 portraits and engravings of the poet, and a number of superb photographs of scenes in the Burns country.

LABOUR ADDRESSED COUNTRY MEETINGS

MR. M'MURRAY BELIEVES HE WILL RECEIVE STRONG SUPPORT.

The farmers in the county should not be at home many nights from now till the election is over. All the campaigners, with the exception of Mr. J. H. Burnham, addressed meetings in the country last night.

Mr. G. N. Gordon and his Liberal party were at Centreville. Mr. Roland Denne at Nogie's Creek. Mr. T. J. McMueray at Bridgenorth. Mr. J. C. Campbell at Lakehurst.

In the interests of the Labour candidate, Mr. Thomas Tooms addressed a meeting at Selwyn, later returning to address the gathering in the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth.

Mr. McMurray was given a very good hearing. The Labour Party are holding a meeting in Buckhorn tonight. Mr. McMurray to-day was confident of receiving strong support in the northern townships of the county.

set aside as a rest fund from the war year's contributions, assumed the care of conditions as they may be found, and during the year has handled in this city very many, substantially and even liberally, maintaining families otherwise deprived of assistance, and also adding to the incomes of many, who were in straightened circumstances. Then again a class of case has developed, where a ex-soldier, with dependents, found himself unable to carry on owing to disability, not pensionable, or inadequately so assisted. In sickness in difficulties for want of facility to earn at his best. Such cases presented features that could no have been taken care of judiciously from the Government sources.

The Fund has eased the situation for men, under disability, and claiming attendance in a medical way from the military establishments, if ordered to Kingston, or other point, for possible treatment, the Fund has been enabled to assume the care of the dependents until the case was determined as one for pay and allowances. If such were granted then repayments were expectd. If nothing grantd then the Fund assumed the expense. In many ways the Fund has been of the utmost use, and being self-contained and subject to no departmental rules could and did act along the lines of real helpfulness.

Particularly in the case of the wife, left without support by the husband who has gone away and disappeared. Families are now being cared for and in such way the municipality is relieved from contingent expenses and the welfare of mother and childen assured. In spite of all our hope and anticipation that "after the war" things woud speedily right thmselves we are forced to the conclusion that matters are becoming much more strenuous.

Attention is directed to the continuity of service given by the Distribution Committee of the Fund, locally. The same committee and same members are in service as during past six years, with one or two changes owing to withdrawal from city, Messrs. Buller, Stabler, Stocker, Bunton, Whatley, Williams, Lynch and Rush, have all been most faithful and painstaking. Mr. Buller is chairman and Mr. Bunton has been of the very largest possible assistance in investigation work, assisted in this service by Mr. Stabler and Mr. Stocker. Meeting regularly, once each week, the distribution has been efficiently carried on.

It was anticipated two years ago that at the close of the war the Patriotic Fund would cease to function, the objects for which it had been constituted having been fulfilled. Such has not been the case. The needs of the returned man and his dependents, are ever present in many features and outside the purview of the departmental source of assistance. The Fund is taking care of all whose circumstances come within the reasonable rules laid down by the Advisory Board of the Patriotic Fund. Already a very large sum of money is being disbursed and the outlook in line with the changing conditions in civic life shows that for some years assistance will be required. And it may be pointed out as a matter of civic concern that the best investment the City of Peterboro ever made was to affiliate with the Canadian Patriotic Fund in its endeavour to meet needs of the war. For the local branch has now behind it moneys that are being used to alleviate and assist and which do not cost the city one cent from month to month, moneys to which the city does not now contribute nor is it asked to do so.

Figures such as might accompany an annual report are not at the moment available owing to the fact that the year of the local organization is the calendar year while the Patriotic Fund year runs from April to the ensuing March, inclusive. At that time the auditor will make up the yearly statement which will be in due course submitted.

Respectfully,
F. H. DOBBIN,
Secretary.
A. A. McINTYRE,
President.

BY G. G. HOAG.

(Honary Secretary, American Proportional Representation League, who has been in Europe recently in the interests of proportional representation and has visited the United Kingdom, Sweden, Denmark, Germany and Belgium. In two of these countries, Sweden and Denmark, he witnessed Parliamentary elections under the proportional system, and in the others he had the opportunity of consulting leading statesmen and election experts in regard to the working and the effects of recent proportioual elections held in them.)

(Special Correspondence Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

Perhaps the most interesting of all the recent trials of the proportional system in the countries I visited was that in Ireland, where the system has been applied this year generally to all country and municipal elections throughout the country. In spite of the intensity of the political feeling in Ireland, the new election system scored a triumph, winning in most localities the praise of the press of all parties. A method of electing city and County Councils that could commend itself, in actual trial, as fair to all factions in the Ireland of 1920 may be said to have made good indeed.

The prescription of the "P.R."—the usual short name for proportional representation—for local governments in Ireland was the natural result of the success of the system in one Irish city, Sligo, in 1919, and in Scotland, where it was applied to school boards a short time before. What its striking success in election throughout all Ireland—some 326 of them—will lead to next I cannot predicts but the House of Lords has already given its assent to a bill making the system optional for British cities, and it would not surprise me if a determined effort were made during the lifetime of the present parliament to get the assent of the House of Commons to the use of the new system for its own election. The House of Lords is strongly in favor of the change, as was shown in 1918 when it voted for it, 132 to 41.

Supporters of the reform are to be found in all parties of England, among the officers of the P. R. Society being statesmen so widely separated by party affiliations and otherwise as the Marquess of Lansdowne, the Marquess of Selborne, Lord Robert Cecil, Sir John Simon, and Mr. Robert Smillie. At the luncheon which was given to me, as representing our American League, at the House of Commons on November 3rd, it was significant that the chairman and the Speakers included an independent Coalition Unionist (Lord R. Cecil) a member of the Government, the Chief Whip of the Liberal party, and an M.P. of the Labor party.

In Sweden, Denmark, Germany and Belgium, as in other non-English-speaking countries where the proportional system is used, the method of carrying out the principle is different from that used in Great Britain, British Colonies and the United States. The difference is simply that whereas our system—usually called the "Hare system" or the "single transferable vote"—gives the voter complete control of his vote, the Continental system restricts the voter more or less and therefore leaves somewhat more power in the hands of the party organizers. The fact that this weakness of the old voting system had not been wholly eradicated by the Continental methods of applying the proportional principle was well-known to me, of course, before I came abroad this summer; but it was interesting to have it come out in a conversation which my companion (Mr. Humphreys of the English P.R.) and I had with a score or more of leading statesmen and experts whom we had the privilege of meeting in the four countries we visited. The chief thing, however, that we carried away from these conversations was the fact that the principle of proportional representation itself is no longer called in question in any one of these countries. Though the countries of applying it vary, and some produce better results than others, the main principle is accepted by almost everyone as fundamental to health and stability in a democracy.

In Canada the movement for proportional representation is making rapid strides under the leadership of such men as James W. Robertson, LL.D., the President and Ronald Hooper, Honorary Secretary of Canada. They can be trusted to guide it wisely. The success of the P.R. in Vancouver, Victoria, Calgary, and Winnipeg—the "single transferable vote" or Hare system, of course,—has led to the serious consideration of the system for parliamentary elections in several of the provinces.

Miss Ella Johnson Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My trouble began as small pimples and in a few months they got worse and my forehead was just a mass of large pimples. They were hard and red and caused me to scratch, and I was disfigured for the time. They made me embarrassed when out in company. I tried sassafras tea but it was of no help. I saw a Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement and sent for a free sample. After using them I bought more, and when I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment for about a month I was completely healed." GET RID OF THAT COLD IN THE HEAD

IF NEGLECTED IT MAY LEAD TO PLEURISY OR PNEUMONIA

Just as 'tall oaks from little acorns grow," so is a common cold often the seed from which spring serious diseases such as pleurisy pneumonia and other lung troubles, taken at its start, a cold yields to proper treatmen. Neglect it and it not only causes serious inconvenience but is very liable to develop into diseases which are rightly dreaded by all

That cold can be relieved in a single night by starting to take Grip-Fix as soon as the trouble appears.

This remedy strikes right at the root of the complaint. It keeps the system open. It relieves the muscular pains. It relieves the feverish conditions. It comes in capsule form and acts promptly. Two capsules taken three hours apart give wonderful results, and one capsule at two-hour intervals there-after finishes the work.

Have a box of Grip-Fix in the house. Never be without it these days On sale at all druggists. 35c per box.

NAVAL REDUCTION GIVEN FAVORABLE REPORT--NO VOTE

U.S. SENATE COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN RELATIONS REPORT FAVORABLY ON BORAH'S PROPOSAL.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator Borah's resolution proposing negotiations for the reduction of naval building by the United States, Great Britain, and Japan, was reported favourably to-day by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In lieu of the original proposal that negotiations look to the reduction of 50 per cent. in the future building for five years, the Committee proposed that the negotiations provide for such reductions as can be agreed upon. No record vote was taken on the Borah revolution, but that offered by Senator Walsh, Democratic, Montana, proposing that the United States have a representative participate with the Disarmament Commission of the League of Nations, was defeated by 8 to 3 on a straight party alignment.

For five cents the Chicago School Board furnishes a lunch consisting of soup, bread, milk or cocoa and fruit or pudding. There are between 40,000 and 50,000 customers a day.

CONSTRUCT ROADS AND BUILD HOUSES

THIS IS PROPOSAL BY BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO ALLEVIATE UNEMPLOYMENT.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The proposal by the Government to alleviate unemployment by big roadmaking and house-building schemes and other work of public utility is called inadequate by the leaders of the unemployed.

Official returns give the number of registered workless in the United Kingdom on 10th December as 591,074, an increase of 70,721 during the preceding fortnight. London alone accounts for 141,533, and the proportion of men to women out of work is roughly as 3 to 1.

Labour leaders say these figures are incomplete. They declare that at least 250,000 other manual workers and as many clerical workers are out of jobs, though not on the Government books. These would bring up the workless army to well over one million, and counting their dependents, a grand total is arrived at of clost upon 4,500,000 sufferers from lack of work in one way or another.

Clamour for re-opening trade with Russia is growing, and the chairman of the London Unemployed Council has told The Associated Press representative that by acting in concert with all other labour organisations, they were confident of being able to force the Government's hands.

"If an American business man is able to get $3,000,000,000 worth of contracts out of Russia, that means that there is another $3,000,000,000 worth waiting there for British trade," he said.

Meanwhile, public charity has been deeply stirred by reports made by social workers on many cases of genuine distress, with the result that gifts, both in money and kind, have been pouring into the different local unemployed centres. The danger of food riots which threatened some weeks ago, has apparently, to a large extent, vanished.

THE MAN YOU WILL LISTEN TO SATURDAY

A "CLOSE-UP" OF HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING, WHO MAKES HIS FIRST OFFICIAL BOW TO PETERBOROUGH.

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, January 20. — Peterboro voters, who have read much about Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party in Canada, will have an opportunity to get a "close-up" of him on Saturday night when he speaks in Peterboro in the interests of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate in the coming by-election. They will find him personally one of the finest chaps imaginable, a hail fellow, a good mixer, and a clever, convincing platform speaker. He is now in his 46th year, and a bachelor. His father was John King, K.C., a Canadian of Scotch descent, a well known lecturer at the Ontario law school and a writer on legal topics. His mother was the youngest child of William Lyon Mackenzie, a leader in the struggle for responsible government in Canada.

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie Kings University course was taken at Toronto University, University of Chicago, and abroad.

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING.

He has specialized in social and industrial problems. From 1900 to 1908 he was Deputy Minister of Labor, served as chairman on several Royal Commissions on Labor and Immigration Problems and settled numerous difficult labour problems. He acted for the government also in negotiations relating to immigration from the Orient, from Great Britain and from India.

In 1908 he was appointed Minister of Labour and was in Parliament until the defeat of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911. During the war he rendered important service in settling disputes of an industrial character and assisted in continuous and maximum production by concerns engaged in producing war supplies.

It was in 1919 that he was elected leader of the Liberal party at a large and thoroughly representative convention, Ottawa, a free, open and fair election, the most democratic choice ever made in Canada. Mr. King is a student and profound admirer of British institutions and during the session of 1920 a large part of his criticism was devoted to its departure from the spirit of those institutions. At the opening of the session he moved a resolution calling for a general election as the best means of removing unrest and restoring stability and confidence in responsible and representative government. He retains in public life the thoroughness and exactitude of thought and statement which characterized his student days. But he is a student of human nature as well as of books and the human side of public questions attracts him.

CROWDS ATTEND THE STENSON SHOE SALE

A DEMONSTRATION OF WHAT AD VERTISING WILL DO IN SELLING GOOD FOOTWEAR.

The extraordinary shoe sale put on by the firm of J. T. Stenson & Sons, 364 George street, attracted crowds of shoppers on the opening day of the sale. It is not too much to say that the Stenson store has been crowded as never been crowded before with anxious bargain seekers as the past two days. The amount of stock offered for sacrifice is figured at $30,000. The offerings are certainly startling, some of the "extra specials" being like this: $7.00 women's shoes for $1.98 in kid and patent leather tops." It would look as if it was not a question of how much the firm have made up their minds to lose, but how quickly the stock can be disposed of.

PRINTERS REMOVED KICK FROM LETTER

Mr. J. H. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, said to The Examiner to-day that a printer's omission in the heel of his last letter took the kick out of it. He intended to say that the feeling in the riding was admittedly overwhelmingly against the government, but it could not stand too much dividing up. "We must remember that it was no less a man than Lincoln who said that the people suffer because they do not know how to protect themselves. The reason the combination government won't go to the people is that they and their friends could never get away with the Grand Trunk purchase scheme as it is to be, in the world. It is the most awful spoliation of the people I have ever seen. I will explain it at my meeting in Victoria Hall Feb. 2nd. Why was the new combination formed? Now you have it. The old parties would not stand for it.

RAID ALLEGED SINN FEIN CENTRES IN LONDON

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 20.— Alleged Sinn Fein centres in this city were subjected to simultaneous raids by Scotland yard detectives late last night, says the Daily Graphic. Buildings, notably in Bayswater, Barnsbury, Paddington, Stepney, East Ham and Panwell, were raided and it is stated that a number of important documents were seized. Local importance is attached to the raid on a four story house in Colville Terrace, Bayswater, which was thoroughly searched for hours.

J. C. CAMPBELL AT LAKEHURST

FARMERS' NOMINEE WAS RECEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM LAST NIGHT —CITY COMMITTEE ROOMS ARE OPEN.

A very well attended and enthusiastic meeting was held by Mr. J. C. Campbell at Lakehurst, in Harvey township, last night. Over seventy-five farmers were present to hear Mr. Campbell and Mr. F. G. Sandy, Farmer M.P.P. for South Victoria.

The U.F.O. nominee received an excellent reception on this, his first appearance in the northern township, and to-day the Examiner was informed at the Hunter street committee rooms, opened above Campbell and Best's hardware store, that Mr. Campbell will be in that part of the county till the end of the week. To-night he speaks at Nogie's Creek and Saturday night at Buckhorn.

The new U.F.O. headquarters in the city are being fitted up and two men are in charge to-day. No U.F.O. organizers have yet appeared at the seat of war, but it is evident that some are looked for.

THE EXAMINER

PETERBOROUGH

THIS SPACE will be occupied daily with reading matter supplied by the National Liberal and Conservative Committee. It has been found necessary to pursue this course for the purpose of conveying information to the electorate of West Peterborough, and to correct mis-statements. The committee had hoped to be able to conduct this by-election without resorting to a newspaper publicity campaign, but unfortunately the repeated mis-statements of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the MacKenzie King candidate, made on the platform and in the Press by advertisement and otherwise; the daily aspersions he is casting upon members of the present Government, and upon the business men of Canada generally, has forced the local committee to take the present course. Plain, unvarnished facts will be placed daily before the men and women of West Peterborough; policies, not personalities, will be dealt with, and a defence made of unjust and untrue accusations concerning, and attacks on, the personnel of the Government and the business men of the country, as well as other public-spirited citizens who are engaged in the building up of our great Dominion. It is not the intention to make wild assertions here, no vague charges will be brought, no falsities suggested. Only definite statements of fact will be published for the information, and, it is hoped, for the guidance of the electors.

THE FACTS AS TO SHIPPING

In his speech accepting the nomination of his party, Mr. Gordon said, among other things, by way of criticism of the Government:

"Dealing with the enrichment of the shipping ring, Mr. Gordon said that previous to the formation of that combine the cost of shiping the Canadian crop to the Old Country was $2,030,000. This had increased to $6,100,000 in 1914, and in 1918 it was $40,000,000.

Do you wonder that the people go hungry in Britain? That money went to capitalists in Montreal and prices were raised so high that the people had to pay twice as much as they should have because a combine of millionaires could fix the prices. They reaped their profits on the daily food of men and women and children in a most heartless and shameless way, and as Mr. Hall has said, some made profits enough in one year on watered stock that they could pay the whole capital on the profits made in that year."

No more absurd charge was ever made. No one should know better than Mr. Gordon that the Ottawa Government had no more to do with the increased cost of sea transportation than the man in the moon. The facts are that almost from the very moment the war began, prices of ships and the cost of shipping transportation began to soar, all over the world, and when the submarine campaign destroyed ship after ship—thousands of them—the demand for ships became so much greater than the supply that prices went to almost unbelievable heights. Indeed, the scarcity of ships became so great that Argentine and Australia, with their large stocks of wheat and meats, were wholly eliminated for a long time as a factor of supply.

During the last few years of the war the Joint War Purchasing Commission of the Allies bought and handled all food supplies of Canada and the United States for the Continent. They controlled all ships and shipping and took charge of the consignments at the closed seaports. The Ottawa Government had no more control over the matter than over the phases of the moon.

Mr. Gordon will be well advised to turn his batteries on the British Government and its Allies. His charge against the Ottawa Government is absolutely baseless.

UNEMPLOYMENT--FORCES

Why Misrepresent the Facts?

So far as this political campaign has gone, it appears clear that Mr. Gordon and his principal supporters are playing the part of demagogues. In this connection Mr. Gordon's election address is an extraordinary document. Let us analyze a few choice planks:

"Protection of labour is absolutely necessary to protect the workingman against being put out of work by the labour market being glutted instead of its being kept with an even supply which will continue steady employment and not cause unemployment for large periods, with excess overtime at other periods. Labour has as much right to be protected as industry has."

What does he mean by protection of labour and how does he propose going about it? We now have an exceedingly strict immigration law for the protection of labour. What does Mr. Gordon propose to do? What are his plans? He has strung a lot of nice sounding words together, but he is silent as to the constructive steps that should be taken. How is he going to prevent the labour market from being glutted? How is he going to provide an even supply of labour at all times and overcome excess overtime periods? Please be practical Mr. Gordon! It does not suffice to string nice phrases together. You must tell us what you have in your mind, else you will stand convicted of trying to fool the working man whom you profess to love because you want his votes.

In another part of his election address he states that he is opposed to a tariff that will develop millionaire profiteers who squeeze from the masses of the people extraordinary and unfair profits, and again he says: "I am absolutely against the piling up of enormous profits from the earnings of the masses for the benefit of the few."

Here we see Mr. Gordon at his best as a first class demagogue. He seizes hold of the worlds 'profiteer' and 'millionaire' and hugs them to his bosom, but he carefully refrains from giving any specific instances. The industries of Peterborough have as much protection as any other industries of Canada, yet, he cannot and dare not point to one of them as a profiteer or millionaire squeezer. He knows, or ought to know, that while large profits were realized during the war in many lines, these profits were not due to the action of tariffs or governments. All over the world large profits were made by reason of war necessities. The tariff of countries had nothing whatever to do with these profits. If a man had the goods required for war he got almost any price for them. In free trade England profiteering, as it is called, was rampant, if not more so, than in any other country. Moreover by far the largest portion of the money spent for munitions in Canada was spent by and under the direction of the British Government, and the Ottawa Government had nothing whatever to do with such expenditures.

If Mr. Gordon had wanted to be fair he would have told the people, as we propose to tell them now, what the Ottawa people did in the way of taxing profits. From the 1st April, 1916, to date, no less a sum than $139,000,000 was collected under the Business Profits tax in Canada. The first year of the application of the tax was 1915 when the tax was 25 p.c. on profits in excess of 7 p.c. and from then on until last year the tax was one of the stiffest in the world, being as follows:

25% of all profits earned in business over 7% and under 15% on the capital employed.

50% of profits between 15% and 20% and 75% of all profits over 20%.

On this latter basis the business profits tax meant a tax of between 35% and 40% on all profits earned over 7%, a very substantial tax indeed.

The reduction in the business profits tax effected last year is as follows.

The exemption of profits is raised from 7% to 10%

The tax is 20% on profits in excess of 10% and not exceeding 15%.

The tax is 30% on profits in excess of 15% and not exceeding 20%.

The tax is 50% on profits in excess of 20% and not exceeding 30.

The tax is 60% on profits in excess of 30%.

Income Tax

The Income Tax was increased in 1918, again in 1919 and again last year. It is now as follows:

On incomes of $ 5,000	$ 126
On incomes of $ 10,000	$ 619
On incomes of $ 20,000	$ 2,089
On incomes of $ 30,000	$ 4,084
On incomes of $ 50,000	$ 9,649
On incomes of $ 100,000	$ 32,749
On incomes of $ 200,000	$ 97,849
On incomes of $ 500,000	$318,349

The income tax on corporations was increased from 4% to 6% and last year from 6% to 10% plus 5% of the amount of the tax.

The total sum collected by way of Income Tax up to date is $51,000,000.

The excise taxes on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes were doubled.

By Order-in-Council the Government took as a tax 50 per cent. of all profits of packers, between 7 and 15 per cent—and took all the profits over 15 per cent. In addition the packers had to pay the ordinary Business Profits Tax. The net result is that the maximum profit the packers could keep was less than 10 per cent.

Denne and a Great Peterboro

One of the speakers at a recent Liberal meeting wanted to know what Mr. Denne would do to make Peterborough greater. One of the things he will do when returned to the House of Commons will be to support a leader and a party whose policy is such that Peterborough's industries wil be protected in a sane and reasonable manner and not jeopardized by coquetting with Free Trade, either through the medium of Mr. MacKenzie King's shiftless and unstable policy or the "easy stages" route of Mr. Crerar. The Farmers' leader candidly confesses he will reach Free Trade by "easy stages", but as to Mr King—well none really knows what route he intends taking towards it's goal of Free Trade. It all depends whether he is facing East or West, doesn't it?

Full Regimental Band at the Armoury Rink To-Night!

Protecting Industry

Mr. Gordon says he stand for protection of Canadian industry, protection for the people as a whole, not protection only for the few. What does he mean by this? What is he driving at? We suspect he knows little about the Tariff, and is merely trying to fool the people with a demagogic phrase which sounds well but means nothing. The existing Customs Tariff is based upon protection to all essential industries and is the very reverse of protection for the few and not for the many. It is practically the same Tariff as was framed and put into operation by Mr. Fielding in 1907, and surely Mr. Gordon would not charge that Liberal statesman, than whom no more honest man ever lived, with designing a Tariff made to protect the few and not the many.

The truth is that Mr. Gordon's attitude is mere buncombe and playing to the gallery. He knows he is sailing under false colors on the Tariff. He knows he must say he is in favour of Protection, notwithstanding the fact that his leader, Mr. MeKenzie King, hedges, twists and turns on the question and that the platform of the Liberal Party is in favour of low Tariff with Free Trade as the goal. In a word, Mr. Gordon is willing to be a political hypocrite for the sake of being elected.

THURSDAY-FRIDAY-SATURDAY

MR. TATTERSALL'S RECITAL

A programme of surpassing excellence was presented in St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening by Mr. Frank Tattersall, the brilliant English pianist, assisted by Mr. Albert Downing, tenor.

Not in years have the music-lovers of the city been so manifestly and markedly impressed as they were by Mr. Tattersall, while Mr. Downing was also accorded an enthusiastic reception.

The programme contained excellent examples of the styles of several of the greatest writers who have enriched pianoforte literature, each of which was rendered in so magnificent a manner that every ember of the capacity audience realised that Mr. Tattersall's attainments are such as to make the city exceedingly proud that she can claim him amongst her many gifted musicians.

Wonderful Technique.

In the comparative short years of his life, Mr. Tattersall has acquired wonderful technique, which enables him to deal with the truly formidable array of difficulties as that presented by the compositions which made up his programme. To this he adds vigour and enthusiasm and that faculty of identification with the composer which is the chief step toward faithful interpretation of music.

During the programme he clearly demonstrated his mastery of every technical difficulty, and gave examples of manipulative skill and verve.

The Programme.

The programme opened with Chopin's Scherzo in C sharp minor, followed by the composer's Nocturne G minor, Op. 37, and Polonaise A flat, Op. 53, each of which was rendered with indescribable impressiveness.

The three movements coming early in the programme gave evidence first to Mr. Tattersall's skill, the range of his abilities, his insight and depth of feeling. His chords and pedalling was always remarkable; his left hand is as facile as his right, but his technical acquirements need not be enumerated.

The Chopin group was followed by Praeladium Op. 40, by Greig. "Si oiseau J'etais, a to' je voldrais," by Henselt; Caprice Espagnol, by Moszkowski; Nachstucke in F (Night Visions), by Schumann; and Polka de la Reine, by Raff. In the latter he again showed his mastery of difficult themes and was warmly recalled to acknowledge the compliment to his skill at its close. In Etude No. 2 and Etude No. 3 (La Campanella) by Liszt, the labyrinth of sounds which weave themselves around the melodies by the composer were produced with telling effect, from the delightful ripples to the pounding of the instrument, which is often, though not always, an adjunct to the proper rendering of Liszt's pieces.

The artiste concluded his programme by two Legendes St. Francois d'Assise, "La Predication aux Oiseaux" by Liszt, and the composer's St. Francois de Paule, "Marchant sur les Flots," in the garden scene.

Mr. Albert Downing.

Mr. Albert Downing who assisted in the recital, was warmly received by the audience and his magnificent voice thoroughly appreciated. Like Mr. Tattersall, was insistently recalled after each number, and responded gracefully to each encore.

NAMES ADDED TO THE VOTERS' LIST

A total of 178 Names have been added to the voters lists by Judge Huycke, the revising officer, up to last night. On Monday 48 names were placed on the lists; on Tuesday 50; and yesterday was the record day with 80 new votes resulting from the busiest session the revising officer has yet had.

Although this number may not appear large it must be considered that nearly double this number of persons have been looked up. Unpecessary confusion and work has resulted from innumerable persons not ascertaining whether they were on the lists or not before the seek the revision officer. It is expected that to-morrow and Saturday will see the last minute rush and to eliminate needless confusion Judge Huycke said this morning that he wished it impressed upon the people that before going to the sittings persons carefully make sure that their name is not on the lists.

CHARGES THAT JAPANESE SOLDIERS INDISCRIMINATELY SHOT HUNDREDS

STORY OF ATROCITIES IN MANCHURIAN COMMUNITY — GOVERNMENT SENDS TO CHIENTAO A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE.

(Associated Press)

TOKIO Dec. 20.—Charges that the Japanese troops sent into the Chinese district of Chientao, a Manchurian community just over the Korean border, indiscriminately shot hundreds of the villagers without semblance of trial, burned villages, schools, churches and crops, are made public by Canadian missionaries stationed in Manchuria and Korea.

Replying to these charges, Lieutenant Colonel Hata, of the Japanese Imperial staff, at the Japanese War Office stated that the Japanese soldiers had burned churches and schools only after evidence had been obtained that they were being used as centers of intrigue by Korean malcontents. He said the villages destroyed were those in which the inhabitants had been in league with the outlaws. He declared that the villagers were executed only after inquiry by the military and civilian authorities.

Will Investigate

The Japanese government has sent to Chientao a commission to investigate the conduct of the troops. This body is headed by Coonel Mizumachi formerly militay attache at Washington.

One of the missionaries, Dr. S. H. Martin, of Newfoundland, a physician attached to the Canadian Presbyterian Mission at Yongjung, who visited the village of Norabawie, on October 31, two days after the Japanese went through that district, states.

"The facts recorded below apply to the whole district of Kando or Chientao, in the southern part of the provinces of Kirin, China.

"Japan, under the strongest protest from China has sent over 15,000 men into this part of China with the seeming intention of wiping out of existence, if possible, the whole Christian community, especially all young men.

Villages Burned.

"Village after village is daily being methodically burned and the young men shot, so that at present we have a ring of villages surrounding this city that have suffered from fire or wholesale murder or both. The facts below are absolutely accurate:

"At daybreak a complete cordon of Japanese infantry surrounded the main Christian village of Norabawie and starting from the top of the valley, set fire to the immense stacks of unthreshed millet, barley and straw and then ordered the occupants of the house outside. In each case as the father or son stepped forth, he was shot on sight, and as he fell on his face, perhaps only half dead, great piles of burning straw were thrown on top of him.

"I was shown the blood marks on the ground caused by the bayonet thrusts inflicted on the men as they strove to rise from the flames, in spite of the fact that they had been shot three times at close range. The bodies were soon charred beyond recognition. The mothers, wives and even the children were forced spectators of this treatment of all the grown males of the village. Houses were fired and soon the whole country was full of smoke which was plainly visible from this town. The Japanese soldiers then spread out and burned the houses of Christian believers in other villages all the way down the valley to the main road. Then they returned home to celebrate the Emperor's birthday.

Wailing Women

"As we approached the nearby villages we found only women and children and some white-haired men. The women with young babies on their backs were walking up and down wailing.

"I photographed ruins of 19 buildings, among which were old men tearing their hair and crying while mothers and daughters were recovering bodies or unburned treasures from the burning ruins. So many women were crying and I was so angry at what I had seen that I could not hold my camera steady enough to take a time exposure.

"We have names and accurate reports of 32 villages where murder and fire have been used. One village has had as many as 145 inhabitants killed. Houses have been burned with women and children in them. At Sonuntung 14 were stood up in front of a large grave, then shot and their bodies destroyed with burning wood and oil. This is typical."

Churches Burned.

The Rev. W. H. Foote, Canadian Presbyterian missionary at Yongjung, names several villages in which the homes, schools or churches of Christian natives were burned and says that in one of them 25 people were shot and the bodies burned. Those cases he declares are "absolutely authentic," premises having been inspected by four missionaries and a custom official.

Quoting Koreans as his authority, he says that 23 persons shot and seven burned to death in their own houses at Cheng San; that 80 were shot at Un Tong Ja and that these were all Christian villages.

"The soldiers and commanding officer who go to these places," asserted Mr. Foote, "as a general thing have no conversation whatever with the people but do their diabolical deeds and pass on. Ku Sei Tong is the only place where any reason was given to the people at all for the action. A Korean accompanied the sodiers and told the people that the officer said he had evidence that the owner of the house had collected money for Korean patriotic purposes. If only the offenders suffered even the Koreans would not seriously object; but it is because the perfectly innocent and helpless are done to death without even an opportunity to say a word in their own behalf that the injustice and hardship appears."

Soldiers Brutal

Describing the action of the Japanese soldiers at Kan Chang, Rev. Mr. Foote said that the young men of that village were "herded in front of a Korean house and without even a form of examination, shot down, 25 in all. Then bodies were heaped together in two pits and covered with wood and burned. While the fuel was being placed on them some of the wounded still were able to rise but were bayonetted to the ground and met their fate in the flames.

"I know these people well," Mr. Foote continued. "They live in an out-of-the-way glen. The land was not fertile and fire-wood is scarce. They were a quiet hard-working people, who struggled hard to make a living, their church and school, their Bible and hymn books, their Sunday worship, and above all, their Savior, were their joy. They were not patriotic soldiers and disapproved of th church taking part in politics."

Miss Emma M. Palethorpe, of Ontario, a member of the Canadian Presbyterian mission at Yongjung, tells in her statement of the execution from the village of Suchilgo who, she says, were led by the Japanese soldiers to the top of a hill about three miles from Yongjung and there put to death.

Victims Slashed at.

"In the top of the hill," she declares, "there is quite a large hollow not visible from the road or village. The victims were made to sit at the bottom of this where they were slashed at with swords. It is reported by an eye witness that swords were broken and then the awful work was finished with bayonets. Then the loose earth was pulled down from the sides of the hollow to cover the mutilated bodies."

In answering inquiries at the Japanese War Office, Lieutenant Colonel Hata, told The Associated Press correspondent that the number of Japanese troops employed in the Chienta affair was 5,000 not 15,000. Villages had been burned, he said but only in cases where the majority of inhabitants were known to be in league with the outlaws.

Referring to the charge that an organized attempt was made "to wipe out the whole Christian community," Colonel Hata said that it was possible that a majority of those who had been executed were Christians but they wer not punished for their religion but for banditry and rebellion. No charge was made against the missionaries.

Colonel Hata, while admitting that harsh measures had been adopted, said bad conditions had exisited in that district for a long time owing to the unchecked activities of Chinese bandits, Korean outlaws and Russian Bolsheviki. He said he was confident that the Japanese soldiers had not been guilty of the barbarities with which they had been charged.

BRAZIL WANTS A BIGGER NAVY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 20.—The Committee on Naval and Military Affairs of the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies wants a bigger navy. It has called upon the President to present to the next session of congress a programme of naval construction drawn up by the general staff of the Admiralty, and to be carried out for a term of years.

The reason given for this proposed increase is that it is necessary because of Brazil's new position in the world as a signatory of the Versailles Treaty, and as an effective member of the League of Nations. Another reason ascribed is the necessity of defending a long coastline.

PAINFUL NEURALGIA TORTURING SCIATICA

BOTH COME FROM THE SAME CAUSE—THIN, WATERY BLOOD.

Most people think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease are the same. The pain in neuralgia is caused by starved nerves. The blood which carries nourishment to the nerves has become thin and impure and no longer does so, and the pain you feel is the cry of the nerves for their natural food. You may ease the pains of neuralgia with hot applications, but real relief from the trouble comes by enriching and purifying the blood. For this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are strongly recommended. These pills make new, rich blood and thus act as a most effective nerve tonic. If you are sufferiag from this most dreaded of troubles, or any form of nerve trouble, give these pills a fair trial, and note the ease and comfort that follows their use.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer, or by-mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NARROW ESCAPE.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—As the ferry steamer Ferdinand was leaving her dock at Ogdensburg for Prescott at 11.30 a girl from Prescott named Miss Loretta Quinn made an unsuccessful attempt to leap from the dock to the moving craft. The distance proved too great and she fell into the water, after making frantic efforts to save herself. The boat was immediately stopped and the girl was quickly lifted on board. She continued on her way to Prescott. Miss Quinn was a member of a party of Prescott High School students who crossed the river with the school team to attend the basketball game with the St. Mary's girls' team.

T. H. LANE RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL

JAMES A. DODDS AND T. DARRAL ALSO RE-APPOINTED TO THE OFFICES THEY HELD LAST YEAR —LABOURERS' ORGANIZER URGES REVIVAL OF THE BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL.

Thomas H. Lane, of the Carpenters Union, was re-elected President of the Trades and Labour Council for the new year, at the regular meeting last night. His election was by acclamation. The list of officers for 1921 is as follows:

Pres., T. H. Lane.
Vice-Pres., F. Mesley.
Secretary, James A. Dodds.
Treasurer, Thomas Darrah.
Sergt. at arms, Harry Coit.
Executive Board, T. J. Stenton and P. Adamson.
Auditors, F. Asta, J. J. Cook and S. Houlihan.
Trustees, E. Quinn, Wm. Rudkins, J. O'Donnell, H. Gilbert and Ald. H. Gainey.
Scribe, J. A. Dobs.
Municipal Committee, W. Tedford and S. Currie.

A new method of appointing the Municipal Committee was adopted.

At the last meeting in each month two delegates will be chosen to attend the meetings of the City Council in the following month.

A communication from the Ontario Safety League requesting the Trades Council to endorse their petition to the Ontario Government to increase the appropriation for the League's work to $25,000, was laid on the table.

Hours for Female Labour.

A resolution from the Hamilton District Trades and Labour Council calling upon the Provincial Government to enact eight hour legislation for all female labour was approved.

The Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, representing more than 1000 of the fire fighting force of Ontario, also submitted a resolution that was approved. It read:

"We are opposed to the allowing of permanent firemen to work for gain at other positions in their time off duty as we do not consider it in accord with the principles of Labour."

The delegates were reminded that the cigar makers strike in the Hamilton district had not been settled, and were urged to buy only union label cigars. The council will have a list prepared of the companies that are "fair" and of the names of their cigars.

Mr. Ryan's Cigars.

Mr. M. Ryan of Ottawa, organizer of the Labourers' Union, stronly recommended that a building trades council be revived in Peterboro.

Speaking of the International Hod-Carriers' and Common Laborers' Union, he stated that it was organized nine years ago, with 400 members. It had now 645 branches in the United States and Canada and last year paid death benefits amounting to $50,000. It had the low per capita tax of 15c and with that assessment was free of debt and had built a home costing $100,000.

Urging the re-organizing of the Building Trades Council in Peterboro Mr. Ryan said the contractors were going to launch a campaign in May for a reduction in wages of from 15 to 20%. Hence it was necessary that the plumbers, bricklayers, carpenters and other building unions should present a united front, 100% strong. He also advocated the fullest sympathy and support for the Labourers' Union.

Says Prices Advancing.

The prices of building materials are not declining. From the Trade Review, a Canadian publication, he obtained the information that within the last week sewer pipe was up 20%, and had jumped from $1.31 to $1.41, and paint from 85c a quart to 98c. And the cost of hardwood flooring material was $190 a thousand feet.

Mr. Ryan vouched for the accuracy of these quotations. "Let them see that we know as much as they do about prices," he said. "Stand together and in three or four months we will make these people stand up and look."

By Mme. Frances

The Famous Creator of Fashions

THE lilies are praised for the beauty of their simplicity—they are not gilded, nor yet silvered. Not so the season's evening gown! Surely Solomon in all the glory of his gilt and silver, his purple and panoply, was not arrayed as the modern woman to whom the riches of the earth offer not the simplicity of the lily, but the wealth of mines which, through the genius of man is transformed into wonderful metallic brocades of gold and silver, and into fringes and laces that stun with the glory of their magnificence.

Never in textile history has the art of metallic weaving produced fabrics of such exquisite loveliness. Gold is wrought with cerise, yellow, blue, bronze, purple and black in brocades that might have graced Sheba's queen, and silver is woven into these fabrics that suggest the beauty of an eastern night when Cleopatra and Antony watched the silver moon reflected in the depths of the Nile. One sees a gown of silver and white and the loveliness of the Taj Mahal bathed in the glory of India's moon is brought to mind.

The metallic laces and nets are especially lovely and silver is extremely popular combined with black or white, or with colors. Cloth of silver is backed with a color, green, blue or rose, that gives a reflection of tone to the silver that is exquisite in its fleeting effect. Metallic nets are also wrought into wondrous trimmings on evening gowns. In all of these trimmings silver takes precedence over gold.

One of the most effective methods of using silver is in the form of "zig-zag" embroidery that gives a charming broken line far more effective than broad bands of embroidery or insertions of lace. Narrow "binds" or folds of silver are used to edge ruffles, tunics and skirts, with delightful effect. Silver fringe is extensively employed on many evening gowns and may be found in various widths. It is most popular in depths of six to twelve inches.

Silver and gold slippers, especially silver, are the most observed footwear with evening gowns, whether of the dinner, theatre or dance variety. Trimmed with rhinestone buckles or with small rhinestone buttons these slippers are important details of evening clothes. Silver buckles are worn with old-fashioned effect on black velvet slippers if black footwear is desirable.

Chiffon embroidered in silver is an exquisite fabric for developing evening gowns, and has the advantage of being softer than the heavier brocade fabrics. Pink, blue, yellow, rose and orchid are the favored colors, though white and silver are always in demand.

A Gown of Pink Chiffon

Silver bands are extremely effective worn as filets on the hair.

A lovely gown of pink chiffon embroidered in silver carries lines whose grace is worthy of this beautiful fabric. The surplice bodice is given a Greek line by the arrangement of the shoulder straps, one side of which is cut in one with the triangle of chiffon and the other is held by a strap of silver ribbon.

The skirt shows a slight puffing on one side that again suggests the Greek costume. This puffing is apparently held in place by a cincture of silver ribbon that wraps around the waist and hips in the line that Venus might have tied her girdle. The embroidered chiffon is draped around the figure in a slimness of line that by its beauty defies the distended Velasquez silhouette. Deep silver fringe follows this line and falls in lovely shimmery softness over the chiffon.

A filet of silver ribbon binds the hair and silver slippers and flesh color stockings complete the glorious loveliness of this costume.

Another beautiful model combines silver with a contrast of several exquisite colors. In this dress there is a camisole bodice and a straight skirt of pale orange chiffon embroidered in zig-zag lines of silver. Over the bodice are laid two scarf-like pieces of pinkish mauve chiffon, edged with silver. The flowers that are posed on the shoulders where the soft chiffon narrows to almost nothing, are mauve and orange. The girdle shows three lines of color, the top, green; the centre, magenta, and the lower, hyacinth. They are exquisite in their contrast with mauve and orange. Four scarfs of pinkish mauve chiffon are suspended from the girdle. They are gathered into long, silver tassels held by a calyx of emerald green. Silver slippers and pale orange or silver gray stockings are worn with this dress. A garland of mauve and orange flowers tied with silver rests lightly on the hair. This gown, like so many of the evening models, is sleeveless.

Green Responds to Silver

Green seems to answer to silver as few other colors do. Emerald, chartreuse and jade are exquisite when trimmed with silver.

A lovely frock of chartreuse chiffon displays silver fringe and silver "binds" or narrow folds. The bodice combines chiffon and silver lace. On the charmeuse side are run several folds of cloth of silver, and the extremely short kimono sleeve is also finished with the "binds." A tinge of emerald green laid beneath the bodice and just below the girdle on the skirt shows the reflection of this color. The girdle as usual on these colorful frocks, carries several tones. On this gown mauve and pale orange are combined. A double spiral ruffle of chartreuse green chiffon begins at the centre front and wraps itself around the figure. These ruffles are edged with green and silver. Silver bullion fringe follows the bias line of the ruffles and continues twice around the skirt that narrows to nothing at the ankles and ends in a slender train.

Silver is also employed to elaborate demi-toilettes such as restaurant, dinner or theatre gowns. A charming model is developed from geranium pink chiffon. The bodice is cut kimono with very short sleeves and reaches only to the neck on each side front so as to display sleeves and a vest of pink tulle, on which are mounted ruffles of tulle edged with silver.

A tiny binding of silver outlines the neck and ends in a bow at the centre. Below the ruffles run "binds" or folds of chartreuse and silver. The narrow girdle is emerald green.

An Extremely New Skirt

The skirt of this gown is extremely new. It shows a gathered underdress of geranium pink chiffon banded with silver. Over this fall long scarfs of geranium pink chiffon, weighted with heavy silver tassels that drag them backwards like four slender trains when the wearer steps forward.

With this colorful gown is worn a hat that is exquisitely contrasted with the vivid tones of the dress. Made of gray blue velvet its broad, flat lines are wreathed with curling black feathers.

You have in the models illustrated a variety of silver trimmings which may be employed on gowns of various colors.

With gowns that glisten with silver trimmings it is necessary to select jewels with great care and repression. Rare stones set in platinum may be worn with silvered gowns or those with silver trimming. Diamonds are especially good with silver trimmed costumes and pearls are effective if the base of the gown is pink.

Ostrich feather fans that repeat the strong note of the costume or that lend it a sharp contrast are effective when carried with silver trimmed costumes.

The Fashion Forecast

Fur coats are luxuriously long or youthfully short. A riot of color is found in their linings which are generally plain ground in tone and exquisite in fabric.

A RECORD CROWD FOR TO-NIGHT'S HOCKEY GAME

In spite of the sudden thaw, the ice will be in good shape for to-night's big intermediate O.H.A. battle between Lindsay and Peterborough, and all indications point to a great game and a record crowd. Both teams are chock full of confidence, the Lindsay team not only counting on holding the score down, but also on-winning the decision right here to-night. The Petes, on the other hand, expect to set up a lead big enough to carry them through the final game in Lindsay next week.

There will be several changes in the Petes' line-up to-night. Maurice Park, who was hurt in Lindsay last week, will be out of the game, and George, who has been subbing, will be at right wing, while Cherrett and Evans will do the relief work. Here is the line-up:

Goal—Murray.
Right defence—Parker.
Subs—Cherrett, Evans.
Sub goaler—Dwyer.

The game will start at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

THE GAME IN LINDSAY TO-NIGHT

Of the junior hockey game between the Petes and Lindsay on the latter's home rink to-night, the Post has this to say:

"Lindsay fans will have an opportunity of sizing up Fred Martin's juniors, when the second act of their drama with the Petes will be given at the Lindsay street rink, in three scenes. The locals have got in some good work and friend McIntosh promises to have them in good shape. Efforts are being made to secure a good referee who will deal impartially and give both teams a chance to show themselves.

THE WATER STREET BOWLING ALLEYS CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

That bowling is very much in favour in the city of Peterboro is evidenced by the formation of a number of mercantile bowling leagues in the city, with the result that the Water street bowling alleys, the largest and most up to date alleys in the city, has become the centre of attraction during the winter months, being daily crowded to capacity.

The majority of Peterboro's best athletes, seeking for sport of a gymnastic nature, are to be found at the Water street bowling alleys during the long winter evenings, where they can enjoy an hour or so in this popular an fascinating game, which affords physical culture of a variety which cannot be obtained elsewhere in the city during the winter months.

Many local concerns, being interested in the physical stamina of their employees and realizing the advantages of this fascinating sport in this regard, have encouraged the formation of Inter-shop Bowling Leagues.

The latest entry is that of the Plant Department of the Bell Telephone Company. Four teams, Generators, Sideblocks, Phantoms and Dynamos, have been picked from the Plant staff of the company at Peterborough, and constitute what is known as "The Bell Telephone Inter-Department Bowling League." A triple schedule has been drawn up and two teams of the league will meet on the Water Street Bowling Alleys on Monday and Friday evening of each week. The local management of the Bell Telephone Company has very generously provided a handsome silver cup to be donated to the winners of the league. The cup may be seen on exhibit in the window of E. V. Warne's drug store, George street.

The first round of the triple schedule is now under way, and the Telephony Crew although practically all amateurs, are working into good form and some good rolling is anticipated.

Mr. J. J. Solomon, manager of the Water street Bowling Alleys has taken great pains in looking after the wants of the different leagues and althouhg he is kept busy he is always found administering to the needs of the bowlers as only Jake could possibly do.

HOCKEY NOTES

As Lindsay Juniors and the locals are scheduled to play here next Thursday, the City Hockey League games will be played on Tuesday night, as was the case this week.

Uxbridge turned the tables on Markham last night, winning by 7 to 5. Lawson, who played here last season, is with Markham.

Billy Breen is getting a lot of hockey out of Brampton intermediates.

A win for De Laval over C.G.E., and a victory for Hamilton's over Bankers next week will bring about a tie for first place between Hamilton's and C.G.E.

The "feather-weight" series for junior hockey players, which created great enthusiasm a few years ago, may be played again this season. Jack Thirnbeck donated a challenge cup, and the Bostons, managed by Pete Gettas, won the honors.

OLD ADAM GOODHEART—THE FAITHFUL SERVANT
In the Brilliant Comic Opera "Ruddigore"

A Caricature from Gilbert and Sullivan's Merry Comic Opera, "RUDDIGORE," Coming to the Grand Opera House Monday Night, Jan. 31.

NEW YORKERS DECLARE "RUDDIGORE" THE BEST MUSICAL NOVELTY IN MANY YEARS

"Ruddigore," New York's greatest musical hit of the past season, is coming to the Grand on Monday, Jan. 31st.

If you were in New York last season of course you saw and heard "Ruddigore." Everybody saw it, everybody praised it, and everybody applauded it. If you were not in New York last season you must have heard of this great comic opera triumph, and want to see it. In that case you will be delighted to know that 'Ruddigore" is on tour and is coming to this city.

The same wonderful music, the same side-splitting plot, the same amusing characters, and the greatest array of stars ever seen away from Broadway will make this production of "Ruddigore" a feature of the season. The cast consists of Dan Marble, George Bogues, Bertram Goltra, Alice May Carley, Marionne Godbout, Joseph Florian, Eva Quintard and others, with a chorus that is unrivalled in looks and in singing ability. No money has been spared in bringing together this company.

Alexander Woolcott of the New York Times, said: "'Ruddigore' is the best show I ever saw in my life." Pitts Sanborn of the New York Globe pronounced it a "geyser of wit and humor.' The New York Sun, in an editorial said, "Ruddigore is the best entertainment New York has ever seen."

The company carries its own orchestra of selected musicians, as the music of "Ruddigore" can be played satisfactorily only by a company of players gathered especially for that purpose.

A GREAT PICTURE OF THE GREAT NORTH

More than the usual interest attaches to the announcement of the forthcoming engagement of James Oliver Curwood's "Nomads of the North" at the Allen Theatre, beginning to-day. All those who saw "Back to God's Country" and "The River's End," masterpieces from the workshop of this author, realize they are justified in expecting something extraordinary in the latest picturization of his brand of outdoors, Far North fiction. This film is an Associated First National attraction and it is said to be one of the very best features ever offered by this organization. The three high-lights in the production, according to advance information, are: the remarkable performance of animals including many wild ones in general and a pet bear and dog in particular; a forest fire which is accredited with setting a new high mark in realism and thrills; and, a romance of all-absorbing qualities quite different than the ordinary run of love affairs so universal in the movies. The cast which has been selected to play the various picturesque roles in this intense drama of the wildest of God's country includes such stars as Betty Blythe, Lon Chaney, Lewis Stone, Melbourne McDowell and Spottiswood Aitken.

"THE GEISHA"

Miss Zara Clinton, the dainty, delightful, English comedienne, whose work in the Stuart Whyte shows has won for her a place in the affections of the Canadian public, never before attained by any entertainer, will play the role of Molly, the dashing, attractive English girl in F. Stuart Whyte's elaborate revival of Sydney Jones' tuneful, musical play, "The Geisha," when it is presented here at the Grand Theatre to-day, matinee and night.

Miss Clinton is now on her tenth tour and eighth season in Canada, and each season has seen her popularity grow stronger.

This will probably be Miss Clinton's last appearance here in musical comedy, as she has been contemplating for some time a venture in the legitimate field, and her next appearance here will probably be in a dramatic comedy.

With her charming personality and finished technique, Miss Clinton is bound for success in any branch of the profession which she wishes to enter.

The brilliant music of "The Geisha" was written by Sydney Jones, who was in his day a legitimate successor of Gilbert and Sullivan so far as musical comedy opera is concerned.

Mr. Stuart Whyte's production scenically, musically and from the point of view of genuine comedy will be found to embody all the salient features of the original.

Miss Kitty Arthur will sing the role of the Little Jap Geisha Girl, while Miss Zara Clinton will play the part of Molly.

The remainder of the cast will be found to be all-round competent and the production will challenge comparison with any musical comedy of the past decade.

SOME EMOTIONS AND A DEAN

(By G. K. CHESTERTON)

Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service, Inc.)

I have recently had the honor to figure among the plagues and signs of the last days in the dark vision of the Gloomy Dean. In using the popular description I do not endorse the common condemnation of him for pessimism. The Gloomy Dean is entitled to his gloom, touching many modern tendencies which he deplores, and some which he encourages. It does not surprise me that he is gloomy. What surprises me is that he is a dean. If he were called Professor Inge he would be a very sincere and spirited Professor of Eugenics. If he were merely called Dr. Inge, he would be far better fun than Dr. Saleeby. If he were simply a heathen or a rationalist he would be a good one; rather conspicuous for a love of truth. Nor do I mean to raise here the mere question of latitudinarian theology. I am not attacking the Higher Criticism or the Broader Church; though I myself prefer a higher church and a broader criticism. Many people have difficulties about the Christian theology, who are nevertheless warmly attached to the tradition of the Christian morality. But Dr. Inge does seem to me quite honestly and heartily to hate the Christian morality. Here again I do not use the phrase in denunciation but in definition. I use it not in a rhetorical but rather a historical sense; as one might say that somebody seemed naturally antagonistic to the Moslem morality or the Marxian morality. Many great men, many men in the grand style, have hated Christianity; as did Gibbon and Nietzsche. Julian hated it as soon as it existed. For if Virgil was a Christian before Christ, surely Lucretius was an Anti-Christian before anyone had thought of Anti-Christ. And I fancy that Diderot really disliked the Christian idea of chastity, as Dr. Ingle dislikes the Christian idea of charity. Thus there is no mere abuse in making the distinction clear; it is simply the fact that, when Dr. Inge says I am "an emotionalist," what he means is simply that I do not dislike the Christian idea of charity.

That is rational enough; but where he fails in logic is in supposing that it is any less emotional to have the emotion of disliking it than the emotion of liking it. And the logical superiority is really on my side because I can put clearly, in the form of a creed, my reason for liking charity; whereas he can only put obscurely, in fragmentary gibes and grumblings, his reason for disliking charity. With him it is mere emotion and nothing else; a permanent mood of irritation against the ideals represented by St. Francis or Father Damian. I fancy I have stated much more clearly the abstract principles which make me a democrat than he has ever stated, I will not say the abstract principle that make him a dean, but even the abstract principles that make him a eugenist. Like every other eugenist I have ever met, he is really ready to explain everything about the word eugenics except what it means. He has the one great mark of the modern skeptic; that of never beginning. But if rationalism means being free to give one's real reasons for anything then I am the rationalist and he is the irrationalist.

For instance, Dr. Inge says of the slums, "Since their inhabitants could not be got rid of, it was better that attempts should be made to raise them to a position of self-respect in which they would probably not breed so fast." Now suppose we were to read one morning in the newspaper a sentence beginning, "As Dr. Inge cannot be hanged by the neck until he is dead, and may God have mercy on his soul, it is better that attempts should be made to induce in him a condition of self-examination in which he would probably not talk so much." I think Dr. Inge would be mildly startled by the opening words of the phrase, and not entirely soothed by their negative form. Or if he read in a work on the economic problem a paragraph opening: "As deans of St. Paul's cannot be cut up into sausages to meet the food shortage, it will be well if they are pue to some productive work, which may make them understand the patience and humor of the working classes." I think the mere mention of the first possibility will give him a mild shock; the suggestion will seem to him so singular, as to make it strange that it should be referred to, even in order to be rejected or deferred. Now the abstract notion of getting rid of people, because athey live in slums, is to me exactly the sume as that of hanging Dr. Inge for talking nonsense, or cooking and eating him as an otherwise useless by-product. But the difference is that I know why I think they are the same; and he does not in the least know why he thinks they are different.

The nearest one could get to defining the Dean's reasons would be to say that a certain social habit, the trail and tradition of all sorts of snobbish novels and newspapers, has left (in his own as in many other modern minds) a vague idea that his own class, by attaining its security, has received a sort of prize or diploma from an enormous female whose name is Nature. She is rather an abandoned female, and most of her children are abandoned too. But by a mystical first principle it is our moral duty to do exactly what she tells us, however wicked; and this is all the easier because she has told us (in some way or at all costs, are to be preserved. If the worst comes to the worst, it will always be justifiable to kill most of the poor people, because the one truth we have learned from the inscrutable she-monster is that the rich are wanted and the poor are not. Nature is the old woman who lives in the shoe, and she has so many children she doesn't know what to do; but by a fortunate accident she does know what to do with the gentry. There is a surplus; but they cannot possibly be the surplus. Now I do not believe a word of all this wild mythology; I do not believe there is any such old female, or that she wants any such thing, or that anybody knows what she wants. I do not believe in the gigantic shoe; least of all do I believe that thisis exactly where the shoe pinches.

MR. GORDON VISITS U.F.O. STRONGHOLD IN SOUTH MONAGHAN

ADDRESSED AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF FARMERS—OTHER SPEAKERS PRESENT.

As a general rule farmers are not very keen on attending political meetings. The present bye-election in West Peterbor promises to prove an exception judging by the numbers who attend the meetings that are being held in the country by the various candidates. At Centreville last evening, Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, and his party consisting of Mr. T.W. R. Preston, Liberal nominee in N. W. Rowell's constituency and Mr. Joseph Wearing, addressed a large and representative gathering of farmers. A number of ladies were present and the hall was filled to capacity in spite of the unfavourable weather.

Mr. Gordon said it is an historical fact which seems to be generally forgotten is that there never was a Farmers' Party while the Liberals were in power. From 1874 to 1878 during the MacKenzie regime, ther was no Farmers' Party. From 1896 to 191, during the Laurier regime, there was no Farmers' Party This, said the speaker, is because the Legislation given the Farmers by the Liberals was satisfactory, and there was, on that account, no reason for the existence of a Farmers' Party.

Now, it is of equal significance that the only Farmers' Parties that we had in this country said Mr. Gordon, grew up under Tory administrations. There were the Patrons of Industry who represented the Farmers, under Tory rule, before 1896, and there are the U.F.O. and the Grain Growers, who came into existence after 1911—the year the Liberals went out of office. It is not an accident that produced these results. They were brought about by Tory legislation which was inimical to the Farmers' interests and against which the Farmers protested in vain. And it was because of this state of things that the Patrons of Industry were formed in the first instance, and that, to-day, we have what is generally referred to as the Farmers' Party—these organizations being, in turn, an expression of rural Canada's protest against the alliance between Torryism and the Big interests.

Voted Down.

In the session of 1914, on six different occasions, the Liberals moved in the House of Commons to place wheat, wheat products, the fertilizer known as blast furnace slag, agricultural implements and potatoes, on the Free List, and on each occasion their motions were voted down by the Conservative Members of Parliament.

In 1915, the Liberals opposed the Government's proposal to impose duties of 5% on British goods and 7½ %on all other imported goods, and again they were voted down by the Conservative majority.

In 1916, the Liberals again moved to place wheat, wheat products and potatoes on the Free List, and again they were defeated.

In 1917, the Liberals introduced two further motions to add to the Free List food and all the implements of production used in the basic industries of agriculture, lumbering, mining and the fisheries; to reduce the general tariff on all articles imported into Canada, excepting luxuries, and to increase the British Preference to 50%. Both of these motions were rejected by the Conservative majority supporting the Government.

It must be obvious, said Mr. Gordon, that if the Liberal proposals just enumerated, which were designed to benefit all classes of the Community, including the Farmers, had been adopted by Parliament, there would have been no Farmers' Party. But it was the defeat of these proposals by the Tories that gave impetus to the Farmers' Movement and enabled it to assume the proportions that it has attained to-day.

Now, what is the practical deduction to be drawn from this record, asked the speaker? The practical deduction, and the only logical one, is that as the Liberals fought the battle of the Farmers in Parliament and in the Country where there was no Farmers' organization to do so, to-day, when there is such an organization, there should be close and constant co-operation between the Farmers and the Liberals in giving battle to an enemy common to both.

Mr Gordon attributed the presence of of many candidates in the field to a desire on the part of each individual group to claim credit for destroying the government which is not a union government. There are a few renegades in it who are not Liberals and never were, said Mr. Gordon. In conclusion the speaker made a plea for a representative government that would express the will of the people.

Mr. Joseph Wearing.

"The eyes of the Dominion are centered on this election," said Mr. Wearing. Febuary the seventh will decide whether the electors of West Peterboro want to be governed by a star chamber government of an autocratic character or a responsible government. The present government offers precedents for hanging on to power but the precedents they quote represent a similar condition to what we have to-day. The governments who created these precedents were just as popular as the present government. We have three candidates in the field whose platforms are very similar. Labour is a little too radical and the farmer wants a platform for the farmers alone to stand on. Tyhe Liberal platform is a platform for everybody. Meighen has trotted out the old tariff war horse. That tariff issue of this country is pretty well governed by the fixed tariffs of other countries. The tariff is a necessary evil.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston dealt with the shipping combination which is responsible for an excessive shipping charge on agricultural products.

One of the great causes preventing profitable returns for their products overseas is the North Atlantic Steamship Combine. This Combine is particularly severe upon agriculturists. The freight rates are fixed in Europe at the highest possible figures which the trade will stand. Previous to the War wheat was carried from Argentine to Liverpool (6000 miles) for less than it cost from Montreal to Liverpool (3000 miles).

Following the formation of the Atlantic Steamship Combine and up to 1914 the increases in the freight rates from Canada to Great Britain on certain natural products were: wheat, 300%; apples, 52%; cheese, 73%, and others in like proportion.

The ocean freight rates this year show an enormous additional increase in contrast over the freight rates which prevailed before this combine was established. Among the increases in comparison to the rates of 1904 are wheat, 2,000%; apples, 500%; cheese, 400%, and peas, 300%.

These ocean rates lessen the aggregate amount which you receive for your wheat, oats, barley, peas, fruit and for the milk which you send to the cheese factory.

Mr. Preston said the shipping costs under this combine had increased from two million to forty million dollars.

Turned Deaf Ear.

The Ottawa Government has turned a deaf ear to every proposal that has been made to protect the great agricultural interests of this country against these extortionate ocean freight rates, every cent of which comes out of the individual pockets of the farming community.

In 1913 a wealthy British syndicate made an offer to the Dominion Government to establish an Atlantic service reducing the then ocean freight rates on natural products to one-half, and the Cabinet of which Hon. Arthur Meighen and Sir George Foster were members, refused to entertain the proposition.

This act of the Ottawa government has already cost the farmers of this country many millions of dollars, towards the total of which every farmer in this country has directly contributed.

Give me 25 or 30 members of the House of Commons at Ottawa, supported by an agricultural vote, such as yours, favorable to the policy which I am advocating, and the toiling rural population of this Province will be placed upon a solid, enduring and prosperous foundation. Agricultural life will then have an attraction which it has never had, said Mr. Preston in conclusion.

Let's Get This Tariff Bogey Out Into The Daylight

In the dark the stout-hearted have often a sneaking fear of ghosts—if not a fear, an uncertainty.

And the tariff is the trick ghost of the Meighen Government and its hidden friends. LIKE MARY'S LAMB, it follows the Hon. Arthur wherever he goes.

Especially at election times.

For this ghost has been trained to win elections. It put on a great performance in 1911.

But it has begun to go back. It is losing its pep, and falling down on the job.

Sorry Showing in East Elgin

That was a sorry showing it made in East Elgin, but it has been dragged into West Peterborough sort of to redeem itself.

Already it has been acting real lively. The Honorable Arthur or perhaps Sir George Foster may have shot some of that monkey-gland, youth-restoring serum into its hardened arteries.

Anyway it's getting busy. And where it has passed you hear that lie that G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, is a Free Trader.

"Vote for Gordon and the spiders will get your factories. Your husbands will be out of luck, and heaven help you." That's the banshee wail that marks its path.

The sob-sisters and the calamity-howling brotherhood who are plugging for the National and Conservative Government turn on the weeps every time they say Gordon, and the names of the Honorable Arthur Meighen and his candidate are mentioned with a smile.

It's Too Transparent

These paid agents don't care about your job, or your husband's job, or the factories of Peterborough. ALL THEY WANT IS YOUR VOTE.

And they're drawing down a fat salary in a cushy job to get it—if they can.

But they can't get your votes so long as your confidence in G. N. Gordon is unshaken.

AND THAT'S THE SOB SQUAD'S JOB —to plant distrust of Gordon in your minds.

They want to make you believe that the Liberal candidate is a Free Trader; that the man the people of this riding, irrespective of party, and whether they all vote for him or not, regard as the brainiest and ablest and most aggressive candidate, would do something to strangle our industries and ruin the town in which he earns his livelihood.

That's bunk. They can't put that lying propaganda over the men and women of Peterborough.

Gordon Pledges Himself

G. N. Gordon declares that he stands for the protection of our great industries. Are you going to believe G. N. Gordon or are you going to believe these fly-by-night agents and their local helpers who are seeking to loosen your faith in G. N. Gordon?

You have trusted him before in municipal affairs. YOU CAN TRUST HIM AT OTTAWA. Let the propagandists talk their heads off.

With Selective Power
Furriers are competing for public patronage. This is the public's distinct gain.

¶ We welcome this new situation, as does any company in any line of merchandise who has established the worth of their product in that sharply competitive period where outstanding merit was the only title to survival.

¶ Our interest and our obligation has always been quite apart from the profit with which the years have rewarded us and which the future promises.

¶ Our Reputation is in the Furs we sell.

¶ Pre-War Prices on "Quality" Fur Garments at Barries NOW, owing to the present low swing for Raw Fur prices. These prices are below normal and will swing back to higher figures as soon as the law of supply and demand functions once more.

¶ Our Furs consist of Home Manufactured Goods only—the product of our own factory.

¶ We are endeavoring to continue employment at full time and wage, so are meeting the present situation by reducing prices to raw material values—losing profits and losing costs—to create demand.

¶ The public, we are pleased to state, see their advantage and their gain, and is investing.

¶ No Luxury Tax, but a new tax in some form has been announced as soon as Parliament meets in February. Another distinct gain to the present purchaser.

LEGISLATURE OPENS; USUAL OBSERVANCE

FIFTEENTH ONTARIO LEGISLATURE OPENS SECOND SESSION, UNIQUE IN THAT GOVERNMENT IN POWER HOLDS NO MAJORITY, BUT NO TROUBLE IS EXPECTED.

POMP AND CEREMONY

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 25. — Unique in the history of Legislatures is the fifteenth Legislature of Ontario, which to-day opened its second session without a majority for the Government in power, namely, the United Farmers.

The Labour Government-Soldier-Independent Opposition has fifty-five members ,while the same number of United Farmers and Labor members of the Legislature support the Government.

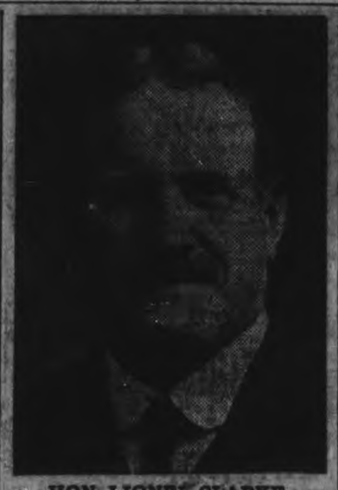
The Hon Nelson Parliament, the Speaker, makes the one hundred and eleventh member of the House, and would, it is presumed, support the Government, making a majority of one, if it came to a division with all the members present.

It is not expected, however, that the diversified Opposition would agree on any policy that would defeat the Drury Government, and it is thought that it will work its way through the session without much trouble.

The sesison was formally opened this afternoon with the usual bombardment of artillery and the Speech from the Throne by the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Lionel Clarke, whose guard of honour consisted entirely of veterans of the Great War, nearly all of them wearing medals for distinguished service, and among them one Victoria Cross man.

The Speech from the Throne, as expected, predicted a variety of new legislation.

Laws and regulations to check evils that exist under the Ontario Temperance Act were foreshadowed in the Lieutenant-Governor's address. The coming plebiscite on prohibitory measures in April next was also referred to. Better relations between rural and urban populations will be engendered and good roads, electrical development and other work undertaken to make country life more attractive. Various social legislation, regarding public health and illegitimate children, will have a place in the programme for the session, and provision for better education of farmers' children will be made.



HON. LIONEL CLARKE,
Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, who this afternoon opened the second session of the Fifteenth Legislature of Ontario.

ELIMINATION OF CAMPBELL IS POSSIBLE

OFFICIALS OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE AT OTTAWA STATE THAT LAW LEAVES NO LOOPHOLE—OFFICIAL PROTEST HAS NOT REACHED DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIALS EXPLAIN

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. — There is a strong possibility that the United Farmer candidate in West Peterborough, Mr. James Corbett Campbell, has definitely eliminated himself from the by-election contest through his error in depositing his election cheque with the Sheriff instead of with the Receiver-General of Canada, according to officials of the Justice Department in Ottawa. The protest against acceptance of the nomination on account of this error had not reached Ottawa last night.

However, it was pointed out by an official of the Department of Justice that the Election Act leaves no loophole—the deposit must be put up properly or the man cannot be a candidate. The protesting parties have another shot in their locker if the returning officer decides to take a chance and accept the nomination. It is said that they can demand prosecution of the returning officer and that he would be liable to a fine of $200. "The law is clear and it will have to take its course," said the official.

APPRECIATE GORDON'S STAND.

Up until noon to-day Mr. J. C. Campbell, Farmer candidate in the West Peterborough by-election, had received no reply from the Minister of Justice at Ottawa to the telegram sent at 2.40 yesterday afternoon by Mr. Campbell, asking for his decision on the protest laid by Mr. Joseph Wearing, the official agent of the local Liberals. Mr. Campbell hoped to-day that the matter would be quietly settled and he appreciated the stand Mr. G. N. Gordon had taken in not wanting to take advantage of his opponents on a technicality. He felt and hoped that a settlement would be made and the protest would probably help them more than it would hinder their campaign.

MR. BURNHAM'S OPINION.

On being asked by the Examiner this morning what he thought of the despatch on the bulletin board this morning, stating that the authorities at Ottawa were of the opinion that Mr. Campbell, the U.F.O. candidate, might be eliminated from the by-election contest, said he thought that while the rumour at this late hour might prove embarrassing to Mr. Campbell, it was without any foundation in law.

"Sub-section 9 of Section 40 of the Dominion Elections Act," remarked Mr. Burnham, "is as follows":

"The returning officer shall give to the candidate or his agent a receipt for such deposit, which shall in every case be sufficient evidence of the production of the nomination paper, of the consent of the candidate and of the payment therein mentioned."

"It will, therefore," said Mr. Burnham, "be seen that when the returning officer says, as he has said in this case, that he accepted everything as in due form that is required of Mr. Campbell, there is no appeal, and if anybody could get into trouble or be inconvenienced over the matter, it would be the returning officer and not the candidate."

"There is no cause for alarm," concluded Mr. Burnham.

Prosperity Is Outlook

By C. S. CUMMER,
Manager of the Local Branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada.

It is safe to say we are now through the acute liquidation stage and the extreme pessimism which brooded over the country and the world, during the period of rapidly declining prices, was no more justified than the rampant optimism which prevailed during the wild period of inflation extending over the first year or year and a half following the armistice.

It may be that the process of deflation may continue for a time in some lines and thinner profits be in order, but history will repeat itself and greater business activity is bound to follow as it has after previous depressions, partly resultant from keener competition and bidding for trade. Confidence and co-operation is essential and I believe the coming of the spring will show encouraging progress.

We can truly give thought to the words of Sir George Foster, uttered here a few nights ago, who after referring to conditions in Europe, said: "I thank God every day that my lot is cast in Canada." Canada is but in it's infancy, and when we think of our vast resources and unlimited possibilities, we surely can look forward with confidence to a future of abounding prosperity.

CONFERENCE OF ENTENTE MEETS SNAG

CRITICAL AND COMPLICATED AUSTRIAN PROBLEM MEETS WIDELY DIVERGENT VIEWS AND VAIN EFFORT IS MADE TO PASS IT BY.

DISCUSSION PROCEEDING

(Canadian Associated Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 25.—An unsuccessful attempt was made at to-day session of the Allied Supreme Council here to turn the critical and complicated Austrian financial problem over to the League of Nations.

The Allied Conference, when they met this morning, took up at once the Austrian situation . They agve a hearing to the Allied financial experts who had attacked the Brussels financial conferences, but no Austrain experts were called in.

When it came to a discussion of question, it was found that the opinions of the various delegations in the conference were so divergent that a proposal was made to place the matter in the hands of the League of Nations. This, howver, was rejected.

Conditions in Austria were described as "critical." The possibility of the utter collapse of the Austrian Government with the attendant danger of anarchy and Bolshevism has been before the Allied Cabinet heads for weeks, and the necessity of stabilizing affairs and giving Austria a chance to work out her destiny was appreciated when this morning's sitting began.

It was understood this morning that the French and British military experts had reached a complete agreement on the report regarding the disarmament of Germany. Greece's relation to the Near Eastern settlement will be considered by the Council this afternoon. Sir Auckland Geddes recently called home from Washington, arrived in Paris this morning to confer here with Lloyd George.

G. H. HOOTON TOOK 10 PRIZES AT WINTER SHOW

ALBERT ROBERTS, OF OTONABEE, AND BERT MILLS, OF SMITH, ALSO WINNERS.

Three farmers have won credit for Peterborough county and district as a high grade horse raising district, in their prize-taking exhibits at Ottawa Winter Fair on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week.

Mr. G. H. Hooton, of Cavan, exhibited five head of Clydesdale horses, ranging from a foal upwards to five-year-old; he captured in all ten prizes, consisting of 3 seconds, 3 thirds, 1 fourth, a fifth, sixth and a seventh.

Mr. Albert Roberts, of Otonabee, who accompanied Mr. Hooton to Ottawa, showed a string of six Percheron heavy draft horses, and won 6 prizes, as follows: 2 firsts, 2 seconds and a third and a fourth.

Mr. Bert Mills, of Smith township, exhibited a team of black Percherons, for which he was awarded fourth prize.

Mr. Hooton considers the Fair a huge success, both in attendance and exhibits, and he says competition was exceedingly keen, comprising entries from all over the Dominion and the United States.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer went again below zero this morning. At daybreak it was 8 degrees below zero; no lower was reached during the night. I have heard of much lower figures to-day but as I have three self-registering thermometers, and all are officially guaranteed correct, and all registered the same this morning, I am inclined to think 8 below is the correct figure.—W. Labor Party Opens Campaign; Meeting Largely Attended

T. L. CHURCH,
Mayor of Toronto, whose salary as such, it was announced to-day, has been increased to $10,000 a year. During the recent Mayoralty campaign his opponents directed considerable criticism at his having received a salary as Police Commissioner.

W. F. O'CONNOR TELLS LABOR THEY HAVE HIS SUPPORT IN CAMPAIGN—JOHN BRUCE, T. J. M'MURRAY AND T. TOOMS, M.P.P., ALSO ADDRESSED THE GATHERING.

LABOR IS CONFIDENT

The Labor Party in the city of Peterboro held its first public campaign meeting in the G.W.V.A. hall last night and a large gathering heard Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., W. F. O'Connor, K. C., late cost of living commissioner at Ottawa. Thomas J. McMurray, the Labor candidate and G. Bruce, labor speaker from Toronto, present many reasons for the electors supporting Mr. McMurray.

Mr. Peter McArthur, President of the I.L.P. occupied the chair. He stressed the fact that Labor's cause was the most human and the eyes of the workers all over Canada were focussed on this riding. According to the speaker the duty of the workers in Peterboro was to register a protest against the autocratic governments past and present by electing Mr. McMurray. He expressed Mrs. Singer's regrets at her inability to attend but assured the audience she would address a meeting next week in this city.

Down to Fundamentals

Despite persistent reports to the contrary Mr. Tooms said he was out to support Mr. McMurray to the last ditch. The Tariff brought into the election by the other parties, Mr. Tooms said, as far as he could see, was of no interest to the working men for the deplorable conditions under which Labor exists is true of both free trade and high protection countries. The Provincial member urged the labor men of Peterboro to get down to fundamentals. The only way to eliminate industrial depression, unemployment and its inevitable evils is to get a local representative at Ottawa.

The work of the Farmer-Labour provincial government had been progressive he believed and this he felt the people must admit and further—that it was the most progressive government that ever sat in the Dominion.

While the government and the manufacturers blamed over-production for the present industrial stagnation Mr. Tooms blamed underconsumption. There was no such thing as over-production, he said, as long as wealth was equally distributed but as conditions are men are unable to buy the necessities of life.

Mr. Thomas McMurray was eulogized by Mr. Tooms and in concluding the speaker took a rather warm rap at the legal profession and said he felt sure Mr. McMurray "would be able to handle the lawyers up there."

Mr. W. F. O'Connor

Mr. W. F. O'Connor, himself a King's Counsel, replied to Mr. Tooms. He diplomatically assured Mr. McMurray he had confidence in him to watch Peterboro's interests and on any quibbling he offered him his advice at all times. Mr. O'Connor said they narrowly escaped having six candidates. "As a matter of fact I am going to expose the whole fell plot" he said. "When I first came here I had the idea of entering if Labour did not have a candidate." Consequently as Labour was represented he did not enter. Mr. O'Connor assured the audience of his La-

ATHENS CITY FIRE-SWEPT

LARGE PART OF CITY IN RUINS FOLLOWING FIRES OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN, WHICH OCCASIONED LOSS OF PROBABLY $4,000,000.

EXPLOSION INTENSIFIES

(Canadian Associated Press).

ATHENS, Jan. 25.—A large part of Athens, down towards the business district, was a mass of smouldering ruins to-day, as a result of a fire which early this morning swept clean three city blocks and damaged adjoining buildings. It is estimated that the damage to property amounts to at least four million dollars. No loss of life was reported. The fire was of unknown origin, and broke out shortly before midnight, and it was five hours later before the combined efforts of the firemen from this and nearby cities succeeded in getting it under control. At its height the fire appeared as if it would wipe out the entire downtown section, and it was then that calls for outside assistance were sent.

The rapid spread of the blaze was said to have been due to the explosion of gasoline drums in a downtown building. This scattered the flames beyond control.

Hundreds of persons struggled to save their property from the buildings threatened by the flames, and the streets adjoining the fire area were soon jammed with wagons, trucks and even wheel-barrows loaded with merchandise and furniture taken from the various offices.

THREATENS LIFE OF PASTOR IN OSHAWA

LETTERS OF BLACK HAND VARIETY ALSO MENACES POLICE COURT INTERPRETER.

OSHAWA, Jan. 25.—An anonymous letter, threatening the destruction of his life by violent means, if he did not keep his mouth shut, was received a few days ago by the Rev. V. T. Kupczensky, Presbyterian missionary at South Oshawa who two weeks ago before the Town Council made complaint of open liquor selling and drunkenness in South Oshawa. The letter, written in very illiterate English, is now in the hands of Chief of Police Owen D. Friend. On the same day Mr. Wm. Igel, police court interpreter, who was suggested by Rev. Mr. Kupczensky as a possible special constable in South Oshawa, received a similar letter, telling him that his head would be blown from his shoulders if he did not keep quiet. This letter is now also in the hands of the Chief. Both letters, as already noted, bear no signature, and are of the "Black Hand" variety. The police department is making investigations.

Excitement is High.

In the meantime excitement of a sort prevails in the foreign section of South Oshawa, because of the fact that the Finance Committee of the Town Council a week ago promised, on the request of the Chief, that an investigation into the complaints made by Rev. Mr. Kupczensky would be held. Alll sorts of rumors are afloat, and it is openly circulated that there will be "something doing" when the investigation is held. A local lawyer, it is reported, has been engaged to represent certain men interested in the investigation when it is held, and he will appear before the committee.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this read-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Precocity and Genius.

In every generation there have been precocious children. Socrates, Seneca, Horace and Confucius exhibited extraordinary abilities at very early ages. But perhaps in no other fields is the relation of genius to precocity so clearly exemplified as in music. At the age of four Mozart composed a number of minuets and other pieces still extant; Beethoven showed marked genius at five, and when only seven created great astonishment by his performances on the violin, while Schubert, Mendelssohn, Handel, and other great composers, were precocious as children and astonished their contemporaries by their early performances. Saint-Saens is said to have produced creditable waltzes and galops at five. Modern eugenists account for precocity on the advanced age of one or both of the child's parents at the time of its birth, and we have very marked examples in the following whose father's ages at the time of the distinguished son's birth are given in each case. Voltaire sixty-five, Franklin fifty-seven, Audobon fifty-seven, Goethe fifty-three, Irving fifty-two, Bacon fifty-one, Shakespeare about forty-five, Milton forty-five, Confucius forty-five, Johnson forty-seven, Edison forty-three.

Voice Of The People

WHY NOT CONSISTENT.

The following extract is from a letter received by me from a prominent Liberal M.P., a member of the present House of Commons:

"I see by the press you have an election on in Peterborough —some noise, too. Five candidates in sight and one or two more coming. Too bad! The Liberals and Farmers should be ashamed of themselves. Our mutual friend Burnham is fighting the fight that they have been howling for for months, and why aren't they consistent? My idea was that Burnham and Meighen should have been allowed to settle thi s point as to whether the Government should bring on a general election now.

I don't like to see that man O'Connor camping around Peterborough just now. He is a dangerous character politically. Sure thing you will find him always around when there is any difficult work, politically, to be pulled off. I wouldn't be at all surprised if his efforts in the present instance are being directed towards putting Burnham out of the way. Watch and see what happens at the last minute. O'Connor has no more intention of entering this contest as a candidate than I have. His work is of a finer nature, and he is noted as the handy man of the government.,

If anyone doubts the meaning of the above quotation as given I can show to their satisfaction that it is what the M.P. wrote.

W. H. CROFT.

Peterborough, Jan. 24th, 1921.

The Editor, "Examiner," City:

Dear Sir,—There seems to be a studied effort on the part of some of the gentlemen interested in the coming by-election, to becloud the real issue. May I have the privilege of stating from a personal point of view, just how this situation appears to one who looks upon it purely from a business standpoint and without any political bias. The facts are that the present situation is one demanding a business settlement and not a political settlement, regardless of the fact that it seems to be an opportunity to some to mke political capital and take a chance, however long.

I am not speaking for the manufacturers of Peterborough. They can do that for themselves individually, as I do in reference to our work. The clear-cut issue is the maintenance and increase of protection in three phases. I will place those in importance in perhaps a selfish line-up and begin with, first, protection to the industry and investment. It is inconceivable that any man or woman would take the position that capital may be secured for an enterprise without satisfaction being given to the investors in due course through a reasonable return on the investment. As a matter of fact, in our own industry the profits have always been small — in some years nothing at all, because of our development of various lines, with attendant expense, and in any case where there were earnings over any annual period, these have all been reinvested in the business with the sole idea of building it up in efficiency and service to the community. Protection to the plant, therefore, should be given in order to prevent the influx of cheaply constructed and low-priced machines, mostly from Europe, which would tend to give a broader market and a greater demand for our own production and keep the money in circulation in Canada, cutting down our adverse trade balance and in that direction restoring the normal values to the Canadian dollar.

Secondly, protection should be accorded to the employees of an industry. An employee, whether he wills it or not, is a partner in any industry in which he is engaged. Through inefficient methods, lack of market, poor management, or slack methods with the worker himself, the employee must suffer with his industry when it suffers. If it comes to a closure, the employee is usually the first to be hard hit and it is, therefore, to his highest interest that he be protected, that work be insured to him and that continuity of employment be afforded through the demand for and saleability of the product of the industry. This continuity of employment may be best insured by a steady market for our output. This steady market for our output may be best insured by enactments that will prevent the pouring in of foreign-made machinery, some of it manufactured where wages are running about 20 p.c. of those paid in the Dominion of Canada and where living conditions seem not to matter. The necessity of protection against that sort of thing will be readily apparent. With the home markets protected against encroachment from foreign competition, our factory wheels will keep on turning. Without this protection from the dumping of cheaper goods made by cheap labour, the market here will be unsettled, our production will be curtailed and unemployment will certainly ensue.

Thirdly, protection to the country's obligations, as a business proposition, should be a point of serious consideration to employers and employees alike. Canada owes nearly two and a half billion dollars and this is a heavy load for eight million people. It means per capita $312.00. Cut off protection to industries, introduce free trade, curtail employment, and who's going to pay this $2,500,000,000? Unfortunately, it cannot be done out of the blue sky. Words and phrases will not do it. It would probably break every man of wealth in the Dominion and crash industries as a whole to attempt to seize it from that source, as has been intimated might be done by some of the less thoughtful. There is only one sure way to meet the debt and that is to keep the wheels of industry spinning with steady demand for products. The United States are about to impose a tariff that will cut off the entrance of many Canadian products into that country. This may confidently be expected within the next 90 days. Then what about the adverse exchange rate? All of the political platitudes in the world will be of no avail. As a business proposition then and with regard to protection to industries, to employees and to the country itself, no change of government involving either of these in the slightest degree, should be entertained by those who are jealous of keeping this country a going concern.

What the present Government intends to do is to hold over this reconstruction period to the extent of the balance of their term at least, and thus act as a safety valve to conditions which have never been met with before in as great a degree. There are dangers innumerable should a general election be brought on in the near future, that some of the elements returned would be out of hand, insofar as stable Government is concerned, and paralyzing as regards confidence and stability in the industrial situation.

We have four hundred employees in our institution. Every man of them will vote as his good business sense directs, and without any direction from anybody in this institution. The most of us have lived together through the turbulent war times when there were many things that had to be considered and met. Suffice it to say that disagreement is practically unknown in our institution. It is my belief that we all consider ourselves partners in this effort, and that any one of us would hesitate a long time before influencing adversely the business situation that may mean a general business disaster.

Canada has escaped much of the chaotic, which has been in evidence in some countries on account of the war, and due credit should be given to the men of all parties who agreed to bury political prejudices and to give an evidence of team work in running the institution of the Dominion of Canada as a business proposition and steering it safely through the stormy after-war seas into the harbor of confidence and permanent success.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, JANUARY 25TH, 1921.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

The Examiner some weeks ago approved of the suggestion that the issuing of marriage licenses should be taken out of the hands of the jewellers and left in the hands of the municipal authorities, who would have no commercial interest in the transaction. Premier Drury is evidently of the same mind, for he declared yesterday that he was no more in favour of jewellers issuing marriage licenses than he was of doctors being concerned in the undertaking business. The Premier is right. The business of issuing licenses should be removed from its present control, as has been recommended by the Public Service Commission, or the system should be extended so that every jeweller should have the privilege of handling licenses. In the public interest the first sugestion is preferable—these licenses should not be used as a business bringer and it would be a much better method to have the clerks of the various municipalities do all the issuing. They are easily located and would give more efficient service than is possible under the present system.

OFFICIALLY OPEN.

The by-election campaign is now officially opened. The nomination proceedings yesterday produced no surprises. There were no last minute entries in the race nor did any of the candidates withdraw. The mix-up over the nomination of J. C. Campbell, U. F. O. candidate, was the only unforseen development. The technicality may possibly debar the Farmer standard - bearer from competing. The much advertised W. O. O'Connor, in spite of his "likely" and "very likely" did not allow his name to be entered in the official lists, and the independent farmer, John Collins, of Emmismore, was not among those persent. So that the contest entes upon the home-stretch with only the five candidates regarded as sure starters in the field. The electors know now the names that will go on the ballot paper and they can make their selection unhampered by doubts as to whether this particular candidate is about to withdraw, or whether the situation is to be futher complicated by the appearance of a dark horse. All speculation along that line is now at an end and the voters can settle down to the task of deciding which of the five starters they will support, if they have not already made their decision. They have never had such a varied choice in a Parliamentary election before—there are enough candidates to suit even that ardent advocate of the group system, Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario.

THE FARMERS' LEADER.

Whatever their political faith may be the majority of the electors of the riding will hope that the present campaign will not pass without a visit from the leader of the Farmers' Party, Hon. T. A. Crerar. Supporters of the U.F.O. candidate, Mr. Campbell, are endeavouring to have Mr. Crerar here during the contest, and the electors generally having heard the Premier and the Liberal leader, would welcome the opportunity of hearing the head of the Agrarian movement. Hon. Mr. Crerar is undoubtedly one of the big men of the West and the unanimity displayed by the Farmers' organizations in all parts of the Dominion in choosing him as the leader of their political campaign is evidence of the explicit confidence they place in him. The people of West Peterboro are experiencing in the present campaign a most unusual opportunity of viewing the chieftains of the various political parties, but the course in politics would be incomplete if it did not include a speech from Hon. Mr. Crerar, whose views could not help but be interesting, if they were not convincing, to the electors. As an orator the Farmer leader is said to be able to hold his own with the best of his rivals, and a visit from him during the present campaign would afford a splendid chance to compare him with the chiefs of the old political parties.

A WORD OF WARNING.

To the electors of West Peterboro, The Examiner would sound a note of warning to beware the whispered story, the malicious yarn, about this or that candidate that between the present time and election day may be in circulation. In other contests, where there have only been two candidates, stories of that type have been used; in the present fight, with five candidates in the field, the danger of such tactics is intensified. It is not from the candidates themselves that these backdoor insinuations come, but from some of their camp followers, who with more zeal than principle, and more mendacity than brains, adopt this despicable method of winning votes for their particular party. There will be all kind of rumours set afloat during the next few days: sly whispers about this condidate, mean insinuations about that candidate, lying gossip about a third aspirant, foundationless reports that will involve the whole field. Most of them as so palpably false that it might be thought that no one would be deceived, but because past experience has shown that some electors readily swallow such stories and unwittingly increase their effectiveness by passing them on to others, The Examiner suggests to the voters that they hesitate before they accept as fact any gossip that attacks the personal integrity of any of the candidates. All are well known citizens and their reputation is unblemished, so that the best course is to turn a deaf ear to the man who tries to whisper malicious stories. The campaign, so far as the principals are concerned, is being fought on the merits of the various policies—and that is the proper fighting ground. Beware of the back-alley story.

NAGGING.

A contemporary which has an amazing scent for "conspiracy" against the Dominions rejoicing in the attitude and achievements of the delegates from Canada at Geneva, says, "The centralizing Imperialists are doubtless astonished beyond measure to find that the Empire is not lying in pieces about their feet. They will be relieved to learn that the British nations can disagree publicly about matters of international importance without any disastrous consequences. But their resulting peace of mind will last only for a moment. To-morrow they will be the victims of some new bugaboo. They will propound some new taboo, the ignoring of which will mean the instant destruction of the Empire. Because their obsession is that the British community of nations has a natural tendency to disintegrate, monstrous though this hallucination is upon the morrow of the great war."

One does not easily discover this fear and dismay among "centralizing Imperialists" if there are people in the Empire who can fairly be so described. Even the Round Table seems to be content with the increasing authority of the Dominions in the common Empire. It is seldom remembered that the founders of the Round Table movement got their inspiration in South Africa, and not in London, where the "centralizers" are supposed to devise their plots against "colonial autonomy." It is true that Mr. Lionel Curtis published a book in which he advocated the creation of central Parliament for the Empire, with powers of taxation over Great Britain and the Dominions for common Imperial objects, but the rest of the "centralizers" revolted and Mr. Curtis had to publish on his own authority. Lord Milner who is commonly denounced as the most pestilent of the "centralizers" has been urging a great extension of self-government to Egypt, and no British statesman has more clearly recognized that free and full recognition of national sentiment in the Dominion is the essential condition of Imperial co-operation and unity.

During the war, the whole desire of British statesmen was to have the advice as well as the support of the Dominions No word was spoken which had the favor of dictation of coercion. No such word will be spoken by "centralizers" in London or elsewhere. No British Imperialist has complained because Canada was represented at Geneva while the British press has had only praise for the distinction achieved by the Canadian delegates. So far as one can discover there is only gratification in London that this continent was so faithfully and finely represented by Canada as there is nothing but satisfaction when Canada so interprets the Empire as to strengthen the bonds of amity between Ottawa and Washington and Westminster. Naturally British statesmen desire that no course shall be taken which would create friction between the different portions of the Empire, but even the Canadian "naggers" are just as anxious that misunderstanding should not arise between the Dominions and the Mother Country. All responsible British people understand that the Dominion have become equal nations in the Empire and that to suggest sub-ordination or nurse plots of centralization behind the backs of the Dominions would produce discontent and tend to disruption.

Great Britain and the Dominions have an equal interest in the future of the Empire, and surely any proposal emanating from any quarter can be discussed in the open without suspicion and rancor. Only the Parliament and people of this country can determine Canadian policy. There is no fear that any group of "centralizers" will seek to destroy the Empire by any attempt to overreach or entrap the Dominions into seret bargains which would reduce them to a position of inferiority in the Imperial Commonwealth It is not an offence to be concerned for the future of the Empire, and it is difficult to understand the nagging at London which continually goes on in this country.—Montreal Star.

A MUCH LOVED PIANO

It is in these significantly endearing terms that Canadians speak of the Heintzman & Co. pianos. When one takes a record of the immense sale this piano has had during its seventy years' exishtence from one end of the Domoinion to the other, the number is indeed large who look upon this instrument as their favorite piano. With the removal of the Luxary Tax and other existing conditions these pianos are to-day purchaseable at a very reasonable price at the firm's warerooms, George and Hunter street, Peterborough.

PETERBOROUGH POLITICS

MR. BURNHAM AND THE GRAND TRUNK DEAL

"In the Grand Trunk purchase when Mr. Meighen introduced into the bill a clause guaranteeing common stock 4 per cent. interest when it had not earned a dividend in 20 years and thus raised the price of millions of stock to be purchased by the Government from 45 to nearly twice that, and thus stuck Canada for millions, which would go to the London stock-brokers and Canadian friends, was I not right? It was the most bare-faced transaction I ever saw. It meant that the masses of Canada were to be bled for the benefit of financial adventurers, who always depend on this way of getting rich."

The above is a sample of what an irresponsible aspirant for office or critic is capable of saying. Indeed it is doubtful if a more amazing sample could be found. In the first place the Government did not guarantee any common stock of the Grand Trunk whatever, nor did it guarantee the interest on common stock of the Grand Trunk or any other common stock. Next, the common stock was not selling at 45 when the Government Bill was introduced in October 1919 and is not now selling at 90. On the contrary it was selling then at 9 7-8 and is now selling at 5 1-8, very little over half what it was worth just before the legislation went through. The Government did guarantee one stock, namely, the four per cent. guaranteed stock. If this is what Mr. Burnham had in his mind and failed to express, he is in any event as wrong as in the other case. The guaranteed stock had paid dividends continuously for twenty years up to the war period, and indeed up to 1917, and only in one year did it fail to pay the entire four per cent. Furthermore, this stock stands practically where it did before the legislation went through. Nothing more is necessary to illustrate the wildness of Mr. Burnham's statements unless possibly to add that he himself, instead of opposing the legislation, supported it.

THE FIVE MEN WHO SEEK THE SUFFRAGE OF THE ELECTORS.

Nomination day resulted in no surprises. Here are the names of the five candidates and the policies they stand for:

J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P. A Protectionist, but opposed to the government.

James C. Campbell, Farmers' Party, Free Trade.

Thomas J. McMurray, Labour, Protection.

G. N. Gordon, Liberal candidate, Free Trader.

Roland Denne, National Liberal and Conservative candidate, Protection.

WHAT DOES MR. DENNE STAND FOR?

Adequate protection for the industries of Canada, including

THE INDUSTRIES OF PETERBOROUGH

whereby Labour will find employment at remunerative wages and the community generally will continue in its present prosperous condition which it has arrived at

OWING TO THE NATIONAL POLICY.

It is this policy which

HAS BUILT UP PETERBOROUGH

to its present proportions. Is there a man or woman in Peterborough who can deny this?

Has anyone ever heard of such a hybrid creature as

A PROTECTIONIST LIBERAL?

Had a delegate at the National Liberal Convention, held in Ottawa in August, 1919, announced himself as a Protectionist, how long would it have taken the other delegates to drum him out of the party.

Yet that is exactly what Mr. Gordon professes to be,

A PROTECTIONIST LIBERAL.

But it won't do Mr. Gordon. Your claim won't hold water for a single instant if held up to the light of logic.

Who is Mr. Gordon representing? The Liberal party, the party led by Mr. MacKenzie King. We won't waste time labouring the alleged policy of Mr. King. He is a wobbler and that is all there is to say in that regard.

But it is quite another matter when the Liberal party itself is considered. It has drawn up after mature and deep deliberation which was followed by

A POLICY ON THE TARIFF,

A FREE TRADE RESOLUTION

which was added as a plank to the platform of the Liberal Party at the aforementioned National Liberal Convention. So that no elector can possibly be under a misapprehension as to this resolution, here are the actual words of the tariff plank of the LIBERAL PARTY'S PLATFORM.

"That, to these ends, wheat, wheat flour and all products of wheat; the principal articles of food; farm implements and machinery; farm tractors; mining, flour and saw-mill machinery and repair parts thereof; rough and partly dressed lumber; gasoline, illuminating, lubricating and machine oils; net twines and fishermen's equipments; cements and fertilizers should be free from Customs duties as well as the raw material entering into the same."

IS THAT FREE TRADE OR IS IT NOT?

DOES MR. GORDON STAND BEHIND THAT OR DOES HE NOT?

If he does not, then how on earth can he masquerade as the representative of the Liberal Party.

If he does stand behind that Free Trade plank then how on earth can he describe himself as a Protectionist, as he has done on several occasions during his vote-catching campaign?

IF MR. GORDON DOES SUBSCRIBE to the Free Trade plank of the Liberal party, then he is an out-and-out Free Trader in regard to every one of the commodities and industries mentioned, in several of which

PETERBOROUGH IS VITALLY CONCERNED.

And so that there can be no possible chance of anyone misunderstanding this plank, the following quotation is also taken from the platform of the Liberal party:

"And the Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislation the provision of this resolution when returned to power."

Substitute in the above quotation the words "G. N. Gordon" for the words "the Liberal Party" and we find that

THAT IS WHERE MR. GORDON STANDS.

And yet Mr. Gordon in his election address says: "As the Liberal candidate.....I am opposed to Free Trade."

In the name of heaven how can he be "the Liberal candidate" and throw overboard the Tariff plank of the Liberal Party.

CONSISTENCY, THOU ART A JEWEL.

G. N. GORDON, THOU ART CONSEQUENTLY NOT A JEWEL.

If the working men and women of Peterborough desire to continue to earn good wages, if the business men and women wish the tide of prosperity to continue, let them elect a sound, sane citizen who will not jeopardize the welfare of the city and its residents, by wild-cat fiscal schemes.

THE MEIGHEN CANDIDATE

MR. R. DENNE.

Who is in favor of the adequate protection of the industries which have built up Peterborough to its present proud position.

PROTECTION HAS BUILT UP THE UNITED STATES

The United States was built up to its present position, as the greatest industrial Nation in the world, by Protection, adequate Protection, high Protection, Protection sufficient to accomplish the purpose. Its manufacturing institutions are developed to a very high point of perfection. These institutions lead the world in quantity, protection and in specialization, which spell the lowest possible cost to produce.

OUR MANFACTURERS HAVE DONE VERY WELL

too, but with our limited market, due to the smallness of our population, they cannot operate as economically or produce as cheaply as the American manufacturers.

Without reasonable and moderate Protection against the quantity production and specialized industries of the United States, they would be swamped. No one knows this better than the prominent Liberals of Peterborough who are interested in the LOCAL MANUFACTURING INSTITUTIONS.

No one knows this better than Mr. Gordon, which is the reason he is advocating a continuance of the Protection policy and yet seeks support, as a candidate of the Liberal Party, the platform of which is the negation of Protection. Is it honest, Mr. Gordon? Is it not hypocrisy on your part, Mr. Gordon?

A FEW SEARCHING QUESTIONS

Do you realize that the discount of our dollar in the United States means that you have to pay from $1.50 to $2.50 (according to the fluctuation of exchange) more for every ton of anthracite coal you burn in your home?

* * * *

Can anyone deny that Peterborough has developed from a small town into a prosperous and rising city by reason of Protection afforded to industry?

* * * *

Can anyone deny that the great development of Peterborough has provided an increasingly valuable home market to the farmers of the riding?

It would appear clear, therefore, that Protection is the ideal policy for Peterborough if it is to continue to progress.

* * * *

The question then for the people of Peterborough of all classes to decide is how Protection to the industries of Peterborough can best be assured.

You cannot get this assurance by by voting for the U.F.O. candidate, because he and his party are out for free trade.

You cannot get this assurance by voting for Mr. Burnham, because he is prepared to vote out of office the Government which is the champion of moderate protection.

You cannot get thi sassurance by voting for Mr. Gordon, because the party he supports has set its face against Protection and has deliberately declared that foodstuffs, such as are produced in Peterborough and many lines of implements and machinery which are manufactured in Peterborough, shall be placed on the free list.

You cannot get this assurance by voting for the Labour candidate, because he is against the Government.

The only way in which you can get this assurance is by voting for Mr. Roland Denne, the Government candidate.

TARIFF ON AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

No subject has been more talked about in recent years, especially by farmers, than the tariff on agricultural implements. It is thought well, therefore, to clear the air by stating that the average rate of duty collected on all agricultural implements imported (that is to say, those subject to duty as well as those free of duty) was only 8 1-8 p.c. for the year ending March 31st, 1920.

The National Liberal and Conservative Publicity Committee.

MERCHANTS' BANK CHRISTMAS CLUB

WHAT ONE LITTLE BOY SAVED IN THE CHRISTMAS CLUB.

No matter where the town is, no matter what is the name of the boy; but let's call the town "Economy" and let's name the little boy "Hustler."

Hustler like a great many little boys had a good job. In these prosperous times, he earned $10.00 a week. Hustler saw an advertisement in a newspaper stating that for 25 cts., 50 cts., $1.00 or $2.00 a week, he could join a Christmas Club and save either $12.50, $25.00 or $100.00.

There were lots of things that Hustler wanted to buy so he joined the $1.00 a week club. Instead of puting in just $1.00 his first week, however, he banked $4.00 and paid four weeks in advance. He felt so happy over being a member of the $1.00 a week club that when he received his pay next week he joined also a $2.00 a week club.

In order to be sure he would hold his job, Hustler worked harder; his work was observed by his boss and much to Hustler's amazement, his pay was raised to $15.00 a week—and then what did Hustler do? He joined a $5.00 a week club.

Hustler began saving his money in December of last year and up to the present time he now has deposited in the various Christmas Clubs over $600.00.

The Banker of the little town of Economy asked Hustler the other day "well what are you going to do with all this money, Hustler?" "I've got it now", replied the energetic little boy "and now I'm going to let it stay in you bank and let you keep this money for me and some day maybe I can have a little business of my own."

Not only every little Hustler in our midst, but every other boy or girl, man or woman can join the Christmas Club now open at the Merchants' Bank. Either 1 ct., 2 cts., 5 cts., 10 cts. will start you in the increasing club. When you join this club, you increase the payments 1 ct., 2 cts., 5 cts. or 10 cts. each week for fifty weeks and have at the end of that time for your Christmas needs, or to start a regular banking account, $12.75, $25.50, $63.75 or $127.50 and interest.

The bank also offers an even amount plan. You start a 25 cts., 50 cts., $1.00, $2.00, $5.00, $10.00, $20.00 or more club and put this same amount in the club each week for fifty weeks. By doing so, the club member will have available by next December either $12.50, $25.00, $50.00, $100.00, $250.00, $500.00, $1,000.00 or more, in accordance with the amount he deposits each week.

The Christmas Club is now open to every man, woman or child in our midst. All they have to do to join the club is to go into the bank with the amount of money they want to start with. They will receive a little Christmas Club bank book free of charge. The operation plan is very simple. It costs nothing to join, there are no dues to pay and next Christmas anyone who keeps up the payments will have a nice sum to his credit, either for his Christmas use or to open a regular bank account.

This Christmas Club is small enough for baby and large enough for big business men.

There is still time to join the Club and you receive 3 p.c. interest on all deposits.

"No matter what else a man may have in his life, living is never truly a good thing, so long as it is lived in solitude. There must be the dealing of man with man, action, inter-action and reaction of heart on heart and mind on mind if there is to be any good living for man or mankind." In these words, Rev. W. Harold Young introduced the third of his series if sermons in "What Men Live By," in George Street Church Sunday evening.

Taking his text from Gen 2: 18, "It is not good that man should live alone," Mr. Young pointed out the power of friendship in the lives of all of us. God knew that it was not good for Adam to be alone. The same experience has been true throughout the ages David and Jonathan were typical of what real friendship means. They found they could not do without each other. A great miracle of the ages was apparent in these two, —the crucifixion of self. Jonathan forgot to be proud; David forgot the be ambitious, Jonathan forgot the dignity of his position; David forgot the poverty of his position. There was a welding of soul with soul and life with life that not even death could sever.

For the purpose of his discourse Mr. Young also took the companship of man and wife walking hand in hand down the pathway of life as a symbol of friendship. As another symbol he took the love and devotion of parent to child.

Two Dangers Confront Us

No life is complete if lived without friendship. There are two dangers that confront every life. One is the danger of life becoming a sheer matter of individualism. The other danger is that of discursiveness or superficiality; that is, we live so broadly and with so many superficial things to think about, that we never get down to the real bases of life. "One of the great curses of our day," said Mr. Young, "is keeping up with the Joneses. There is the peril of finding life a never-ending vanity fair. God himself seeing us confronted with these perils, has given us the supreme thing to save us—human friendship and human love. Friendship is the balance wheel that keeps us steady in life. It will lead us past the shoals of individualism and superficiality to the very harbor of heaven and love."

Gaining and Holding Friends

How shall we find and keep friends? Mr. Young gave four laws for finding and keeping friends, the first being fitness. "Neither your nor I can ever have a friend," he said, "unless we are fit for friendship. We must have purity of heart, of life, of desire. Without these the golden treasury of friendship will never be open to us."

Another law is that of insight. The basis of friendship must always be the things that are not seen by the superficial gaze.

Trust and loyalty are necessary in order to have friends and are the very basis of the birth of friendship and its continuance. By means of symbols and tokens we may also gain and keep friends. Such things as the handclasp, the word spoken or written or the sending of a flower are symbols and tokens of friendship.

Rewards of Friendship

The rewards of friendship are a vision and realization of new depths within ourselves a new glory in life; a new inspiration, new heart, new zeal for the task of life; and most important of all, we will catch a glimpse of God through our friendships.

"Let us give our best to our friends," concluded Mr. Young "and we will one day see by looking into their eyes, that vision without which life itself is barren and meaningless, —a glimpse of the face and love of God."

Salvation Army Bandsman's Testimonial in Favour of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 23 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I had tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly grateful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all." It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and watch the results. Price, 25c, 50c and $1 per box at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough.

Maxim Gorky, Bolshevist, May Yet Turn Out to be A Counter-Revolutionary

IS Maxim Gorky really with the Bolsheviki, or is he only another one of those "counter-revolutionaries" who are secretly endeavoring to save at least a little of the former Russian culture? This question is propounded by Eugene Liatsky, a well-known Russian literary critic and publicist, in an interesting article. This writer, after due consideration of Gorky's career and temperament, decided that his present relation to the Bolshevist authorities is due to the conservative motive just indicated.

As a Russian exile on the island of Capri, Gorky spent years in a kind of idyllic dream, gazing through his open window, as he sat at a table loaded with books and flowers, at the blue waves of the warm sea, at Vesuvius wrapped in a golden mist, realizing that his fame was leaving him, and embittered as he wrote out the scenes of his childhood to bequeath to the world one last intimate work. All this time he never relinquished his dreams of a social revolution in

MAKIM GORKY.

Russia, and he was very well aware that because of his prominence and his views he was a thorn in the flesh of the Czar's Government. Sullen and brooding in 1912, as moody as a woman, chafing as he watched the war in 1914, he at last secured the long-sought privilege of returning to Russia after the revolution broke out — the long-desired revolution, which none had preached more ardently than Gorky himself.

At first he was a declared enemy of the Bolsheviki, but he yielded to Lenin at last, to his crafty and delicate mastery: Gorky was called upon, as the supreme Russian representative of "bourgeois" culture, to save Russian literature from the anarchic conditions of the great upheaval. No other position was more suited to his attainments than that of State Publisher for the best works of the world's literature. And so, while the Bolsheviki boast that the great social revolutionary is with them Gorky, closing his eyes to the atrocities around him, works to save Russian culture, his own creative talent at a standstill, his soul imprisoned by the chains of voluntary servitude. A tragic situation for Maxim Gorky, the fine artist and fiery worshipper of culture, compelled to publish books when blood is flowing all around him, and to follow submissively the Bolshevist triumphal car. M. Liatsky sees only in the overthrow of the Bolshevist regime a possibility that Gorky will came again into his own, and unfold his talents for a disappointed world in some new and unprecedented splendor.

The Father of Waters.

The Mississippi, or "father of Waters" is the longest river in the world. Taking its rise in Minnesota, it flows through the greater part of the United States. Including the Missouri river, one of its tributaries, the Mississippi has a length of over 4,000 miles. The waters of the great river are clear until they are muddied by the soil brought down by the Missouri. If the Mississippi is the longest river, the Amazon in South America has the greatest volume of water. This is due to the great number of the Amazon's tributaries, some of which are 1,000 miles in length. Third in size comes the Nile, which is about 3,500 miles in length. The great dam as Assouan was first opened in 1902, and enlarged in 1907.

A Lark at 6,000 Feet.

The following instance of the remarkable flight of a lark is related by a recent writer. Some French officers were experimenting with a balloon. When at a height of six thousand feet—that is a little less than a mile and a quarter—they noticed a tiny black speck which seemed to accompany them. They thought at first it was one of their cards carried for throwing out reports, and that the dropping of the balloon drew it down with them, but on looking at their barograph they found they were rising, not falling. Suddenly they heard a sharp chirping. It was a lark which had risen to this extraordinary height. For what purpose, it is very difficult to say.

Asking the Impossible.

Mrs. Faraway—Your wife goes in for the occult, does she not?

Mr. Newcomer—She was interested until they wanted her to go into the silence. Then she gave it up.

Fitting Conduct.

"Didn't anybody at that anti-dog-ordinance meeting muzzle the rabid speakers?"

"No, although several of them made some biting remarks."

Two Days at Rest Cure

By JOHN FIRST BROOK

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The season was rather dull at the Rest Cure. The ladies had been wishing for something to happen out of the ordinary when the advent of a guest who refused to be sociable set them all in a flutter of excitement.

"Are we all quite sure that we saw the crutches?" asked Mrs. Dunvegan as she poured tea.

"Oh, yes, my dear; I, for one, am quite positive—two crutches with leather tops," proclaimed the widow Pepper, as she fingered the locket that contained the portrait of her dead husband.

"What night was it we saw them come?" piped Miss Tinpenny. "Since my nerves have been so sensitive I can't remember dates, or handkerchiefs, or anything important.

"It was last Wednesday evening," declared Mrs. Looney, a fat woman in a scarlet sweater coat; "being so sensitive to the weather I remember it was raining a perfect downpour. We had just finished dinner, you all recollect, when they came into the office, the woman stamping and shaking the rain all about, and saying to the clerk as soon as she reached the desk, 'You got my letter! I hope you can let me have rooms on the ground floor. I will not stay unless I can be quite away from the other guests. I have reasons for not wishing to be disturbed.'"

"Yes, yes," murmured Miss Tinpenny, "it all comes back to me now, dear Mrs. Looney, for you describe things very well. I am quite sure you could write a sonnet. The man with the crutches followed her?"

"Such a lot of baggage as they had!" softly murmured Mrs. Fish, a thin woman with straight hair and scant clothing.

"Yes," chimed in Mrs. Pepper, "what a fuss and clatter there was. Boxes and bundles, and two trunks. The poor man with the crutches was bandied about and carried along in the midst of the confusion. No one took a single thought of him, poor fellow. I suppose he was tumbled in with the rest of her baggage, for when she at last banged her door the man with the crutches was gone."

"Poor fellow," faltered Mrs. Fish; "perhaps he did not pass us, but he may have climbed out of the hall window."

"With crutches?" interrogated all the ladies at once.

"Not possible, my dear," drawled Mrs. Looney.

"Well, none of us really saw him go into the room," persisted Mrs. Fish.

"No, we did not," assented Mrs. Dunvegan, "but that he went in we are all quite sure, for we heard his crutches pounding on the floor."

"My impression is that the person is a medium, and that she smuggled him in while she kept our minds merged in a subconscious mist," musingly suggested Mrs. Pepper.

"Well, who are they? Perhaps the man with the crutches is ill," further inquired Mrs. Tyroll.

"We looked in the hotel register. Two names were given—Miss Burkholder and below a name so blotted we could not make it out; we thought we recognized an S. and an M."

"No matter," murmured Mrs. Dunvegan, "the name was purposely disguised, and I, for one, decidedly object to such deceit going on under our very noses."

"I suppose we might form ourselves into an investigating committee," said Mrs. Looney, "if it were not so much trouble."

"Now," said Mrs. Dunvegan, "let us go about the thing in an open, straightforward manner. Let us go right to the point. I will myself interview the proprietor (though I'm afraid he has been bribed). You, Miss Tinpenny, interview one chambermaid, Mrs. Pepper the other one. Mrs. Fish, could you take hold of the bellboy?

"And you, Miss Tyroll, would you mind tackling the bathman?"

"Don't ask me," objected the newcomer. "Remember, I never saw the apparition of the man with the crutches. Anyway, especially at rest cures, I believe in letting sleeping dogs lie."

"We must dress for dinner," exclaimed Mrs. Dunvegan, rising.

The next afternoon the ladies met as usual at the hour. There could be observed an undercurrent of suppressed excitement. Mrs. Dunvegan looked nervously about.

"Where is Miss Tinpenny? She is the only one absent. I do hope her poor nerves have not given way. Did you find out anything definite from the bellboy about the person on the ground floor, Mrs. Fish?"

She took a small piece of paper from her reticule as the timid lady made answer.

"I inquired from Albert by way of an opening if the rooms in the hotel were pretty well filled. 'Middlin',' answered the bellboy." Mrs. Fish referred to her paper as she continued; "he said, 'Them two rooms on the ground floor bein' occupied makes more work; she's an awful ringer! Wants things all the time. But the boss says it's none of my business, and if his help likes to complain of his way of doin' things it can get out. One thing I can tell you, missus: them two downstairs is a rum couple.' I sat at the table and wrote every word he said as well as I could. I do like to be exact!"

"Dear me, dear me, are you sure he said couple?" gasped Mrs. Pepper.

At this point the door was flung open and Miss Tinpenny came staggering into the room, threw herself into the morris chair and began to sob.

"It's dreadful," gasped Miss Tinpenny. "If I can compose my nerves I will tell you all—I spoke to the chambermaid about—"

"The horror of the ground floor," supplied Mrs. Pepper.

"Yes, just it—horror is the word," continued Miss Tinpenny. "I spoke to Matilda, the chambermaid. I gave her my second best satchel and asked her to tell me all about Miss Burkholder."

"Matilda cheerfully answered, 'Oh, she's all right, but queer. Her rooms are full of beetles and bugs pinned on papers. She is making human nature studies or something. She takes all her meals in her room. The waitress says her trays are something dreadful when they go back to the pantry. We all think that she feeds that horrid object she keeps shut up in her back room.'"

"Oh, did she say that?" gasped Mrs. Fish.

"Just wait till I tell you all," wailed Miss Tinpenny. "When Matilda left me I think I fainted, for the first thing I knew I was stumbling along toward the baths—hot mineral water often revives me. Can you believe me when I tell you that I heard a plaintive, beseeching call of 'Help, help!' coming up from Miss Burkholder's rooms, and then in reply a horrid, snappy voice said, 'Now shut up.'"

"Oh, Miss Tinpenny," said all the ladies in a breath, "how dreadful!"

"We must decide what to do at once," announced Mrs. Dunvegan.

Then the ladies rose in a body and clattered their cups and saucers on the table, just as Mrs. Dunvegan's ancestors might have thrown down their swords, then formed into a body and marched along the hall.

When they reached Miss Burkholder's door Mrs. Pepper knocked. There was a great rummaging and shuffling inside, then the door opened and Miss Burkholder looked with astonishment at her visitors through large, heavily framed spectacles.

Mrs. Pepper bowed. "We have come to call upon you, Miss Burkholder," she announced.

"Oh, dear me, this is sudden. I'm not prepared for visitors; could you call another time?"

"No," rang out Mrs. Dunvegan's voice. "We have come today and will not be put off. We want to know what goes on in your back room."

"Well, come in, then, and look to your heart's content. But," added Miss Burkholder savagely, "I think I told you quite plainly, ladies, that I was busy and did not want to be bothered dressing, talking and fooling my time when I wanted to study. I am sure I cannot offer you chairs. You see everything is filled with my specimens; I even had to put the beetles on the bed."

"Never mind chairs," said Mrs. Looney kindly, evidently relenting, "just let us take a peep into your back room."

"What shall I do?" groaned the poor lady in evident distress. "Really I would sooner you did not."

"We demand you to open that prison house," squealed Miss Tinpenny, almost on the verge of hysterics. "In the name of humanity we demand it."

Mrs. Pepper now went boldly forward and opened the door.

On a table by the window, in a gilt cage, sat a parrot in solemn meditation. For a moment he tolerantly eyed the body of militant females, then called: "Help. I want to go home!"

The ladies rushed in a body from Miss Burkholder's domains. As they reached the front hall they nearly knocked over a man with crutches, who had just come in the front door.

The clerk called from the desk: "Hello, Sandy Malone: you back again? Did you have a successful trip?"

Pell mell up the stairs rushed the excited ladies of the Rest Cure. Mrs. Pepper and Mrs. Dunvegan on ahead. Then came Mrs. Tyroll helping little Mrs. Fish, while in the rear Mrs. Looney struggled to drag the half-fainting form of Miss Tinpenny, and through Miss Burkholder's open door came the strangely human cry.

"Help, help. I want to go home. Now shut up."

Be Suspicious of Tender Gums

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system.

Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

LEGEND OF SIR GALAHAD

Tennyson's Hero of "The Holy Grail," the Noblest and Purest Knight of the Round Table.

Sir Galahad of Tennyson's "The Holy Grail," was the noblest and purest knight of the Round table. The title was invented by Walter Map in the "Quest of the Grail." Morley, in his "English Writers," says Sir Galahad was the son of Map's L'Ancelot and Elaine. The son and namesake of Joseph of Arimathea, Bishop Joseph, to whom the holy dish was bequeathed, first instituted the order of the Round table. The initiated at their festivals sat as apostle knights round the table, with the Holy Grail in the midst, leaving one seat vacant which was reserved for a descendant of Joseph, named Galahad. Whatever man else attempted to sit in the place of Galahad the earth swallowed. It was called therefore the Siege (seat) Perilous. When men became sinful, the Holy Grail, visible only to pure eyes, disappeared. On its recovery depended the honor and peace of England, but only Sir Galahad, who was at the appointed time brought to the knights by a mysterious old man clothed in white, and placed in the Siege Perilous—only the pure Sir Galahad succeeded in the quest.

RELIEVES PAIN

Why Draughts Give Colds.

Many doctors have told us that chilling the surface of a body, as by a draught or a cold douche, cannot cause a cold or cough. Nevertheless many persons know only too well that they do catch cold whenever they sit in a draught. A group of Italian physicians has been studying this apparent contradiction, and one of them—Dr. Gocatti—reports that the temperature of the expired air rises or falls as that of the skin rises or falls, and does not correspond to the temperature of the blood. As the skin is chilled the surface blood vessels contract and the expired air becomes cooler. That there must, therefore, be a close nervous connection between the vessels of the skin and the vessels of the air in the lungs is determined by the blood in these vessels and when these contract the air becomes cooler. It may be that the sudden constriction of these vessels favors infection by the germs that are always present in the throat.

The Ebullioscope.

Prohibition has developed an apparatus known as the ebullioscope, which shows accurately the boiling points of liquids and which brewers find useful for making offhand determinations of the alcoholic strength of the brew while the product is still in the plant. Another instrument, known as the cryoscope, which works on exactly the opposite principle, showing the varying densities of liquids at the freezing point, is used for ascertaining the quality of milk.

French Textiles.

The textile industry of France employed about 188,000 men in 1914, of whom only eight per cent. had returned by July, 1919. Last December, however, more than 33 per cent. were back at work, or about four times as many as in July. Six times as many miners were at work in December as in July, and twice as many in hardware and metal factories.

TURNED WEDDING INTO GENERAL FIGHT

HOOTCH EMBROILS OVER 300 GYPSIES, WHO STARTED IN TO BEAT UP EACH OTHER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Patrolman Mike O'Connor of the Clinton street station was standing at Grand and Forsyth streets gazing sternly at the traffic when Samuel Perless who owns the Odd Fellows' Hall in 98 Forsyth street, rushed up to him bare headed and breathless.

"Mr. Policeman, they are wrecking my hall!" he said. "The gypsies are smashing my windows and ruining my place. They came to have a wedding and they turned it into a fight. Look! You can see."

Mr Perless seemed to be speaking the truth. From the hall came the sound of battle the banging of chairs and tables the thud of falling bodies the shrieking of women, and over and above it the sound, the odor of home made hootch. Just before Patrolman O'Connor started to follow Mr. Perless back to the scene of disaster the door of the hall opened and a man sailed grandly through space and landed on the back of his neck in the street. He scrambled to his feet and hurried back for more.

Patrolman O'Connor entered the hall, but once inside he turned around and walked right out again. He hastened to the nearest telephone and called up the Clinton street station. "Send all the policemen you have," he said, "and six ambulances."

Five minutes later the patrol waggon arrived with reserves, and then three ambulances clanged into the street from Bellevue and Gouverneur hospitals, ambulance surgeons clinging to the back prepared to handle as many customers as might be furnished. The cops marched into the hall. They found the air full of odors of homemade hootch, and in addition to that it was filled with hams and roast pigs and roast chickens, and long, sinuous lengths of bologna sausage. The material for the wedding feast was being used as missiles.

The police found themselves in quite a fight. Between 300 and 400 men and women were in the hall, and everyone of them was fighting with everyone else. Family ties were forgotten. Brother struck brother and sister struck sister and one corner was devoted entirely to an old gypsy who was trying earnestly to decapitate his wife. The floor was strewn with the forms of those who had been overcome either by hooten or the fighting, mingled with strips torn from the finery of the women and sashes ripped from the waists of the men. The police stopped the riot finally, the completed casualty list from all causes being seventeen. The number arrested was also seventeen, all of them being taken to the station after their bruises had been patched by the surgeons.

Among those arrested and injured were the four who were to have been married. There was only one hospital case, an alcoholic.

The police heard of three reasons for the fight. One is that it started when some one tried to eject two uninvited guests; another is that one of the bridegrooms charged one of the bride's fathers with profiteering on the dowry and the third is that it just started The third reason is supported by the fact that none of the home made hootch was left.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TELLS SECRET

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will raken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and 1-4 ounces of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

The special train carrying two coaches, one for the ladies and their escorts and one solely for the men, will leave the G.T.R. Station at 7 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at Yeotes' tobacco shop.

VESTRY MEETING AT ALL SAINTS'

CHURCH HAS MADE SPLENDID PROGRESS DURING THE YEAR.

The annual vestry meeting of All Saints' Church was held last night in the Guild Room, there being an unusually large attendance. The treasurer's report congratulated the Vestry on the splendid financial statement, which showed All Saints' to be in a healthy condition, and commended the efforts of the Women's Guild, who were instrumental in turning over to the various funds of the church some $850, the total amount raised from all sources for the year being $6,400. Reports were read from the various organizations, including the Sunday School, which showed that co-operation had been the key-note of the year's operations. Every report showed that considerable advancement had been made, especially in the case of the junior branches of the Women's Auxiliary, which had been doing very effective work during the year. Taken as a whole, this year's Vestry meeting was one of the most successful in the history of All Saints' Church. A splendid spirit of optimism prevailed throughout the whole of the meeting. Mr. W. Buller paid a tribute to the memory of two valued members of the church who had passed away during the year--the late Mr. Dyson Worth and Mr. R. A. Morrow—the memory being honoured by a silent vote of those present. During the evening the Vestry voted the esteemed Rector, the Rev. R. B. Grobb, a generous increase of salary, which was acknowledged by the Rector in a few well-chosen words. After a vote of thanks had been tendered the retiring officers, the meeting was brought to an end at 10.15 p.m. by the singing of the National Anthem and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Rector.

The following is a list of officers for the ensuing year:

Rector's Warden — Mr. Walter Worth.

People's Warden—Mr. W. H. Barry.

Chairman of Sidesmen — Mr. E. Downs.

Envelope Manager — Mr. G. T. Brown.

Lay Delegates to Synod—Mr. W. Buller, Mr. D. Curtis, Mr. L. Dobbin.

TOOK LAW IN OWN HANDS, AND FINED.

Oshawa Man Had Idea He Was Justified in Beating Up Another.

OSHAWA, Jan. 25.—John Poulashin was fined $5 and costs in the Police Court here for taking the law into his own hands and assaulting Harry Chorny. Evidence showed that the accused had an axe to grind and had been making threats towards the complainant, also that the accused had gone into several houses looking for Chorny, and when he found him jumped on him and started to beat him up. Col. Grierson, who appeared for the accused, said as he understood the case, defendant had very good reason for provocation, and that Chorny deserved more than he got.

Magistrate Hind, before imposing the fine of $5 and costs, warned the accused that he was living in a British country and that it was against the law to go around seeking his own redress, but if he would come to the proper authorities they would get redress for him.

President Ebert Finds German Cabinet Is Weak Whole Nation Must Disarm

THE German Government looks as though it was beginning to totter. It was a good Government for the summer, when nobody was worrying about politics, but the approach of winter brings more serious problems.

It is stated that Dr. Wirth, Finance Minister, has tendered his resignation to President Ebert. The matter will be considered at the first Cabinet meeting after the holidays. The immediate cause of the resignation appears to be differences between Wirth and Giesberts, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, regarding the expenditure of the latter Minister's department. It is probable, however, Wirth finds the chaos in the financial situation really beyond him.

There are many other signs of weakness in the Government. The Food Minister is giving satisfaction to no party, and the distribution is as bad as ever. Since the beginning of the war public hopes have been raised by official reports of coming good harvests, only to learn later that the outlook was dark. This department, too, yields practically to all demands of the agrarians intent on pushing up prices, already disastrously high, still higher.

Feelers continue to be thrown out toward the Majority Socialists with a view to obtaining their active co-operation, but, conscious of its growing strength since the split took place in the Independent Socialist ranks, that party shows little inclination to prop up the Ministry by allowing members of the party to enter the Government.

PRESIDENT EBERT.

It is thought that a crisis involving recourse to new elections may not be long in supervening.

"Deliver up your weapons," great posters all over Berlin have been shouting for some time past. September 15 was the first disarmament day, but at first the people were rather suspicious. It began to be believed however that there really was no trick in the matter, and a brisk business in arms and ammunition set in. Government depots were established in various parts of the city, and at nearly all of them there were queues of people waiting to dispose of their war trophies.

As is known, this department is in accordance with the demand of the Entente, and is mainly aimed at the Einwohnerwehr, a semi-military, semi-police force, the existence of which is regarded as outside of terms of the Versailles Peace Treaty. One hundred marks is being paid for every rifle, 30 for revolvers and 1,000 for machine guns, so the people are parting with their war trophies. Up to the present it is mainly French and British rifles, etc., which are being surrendered, and few German weapons have been handed over as yet.

At some depots there were curious incidents. At one an aged man with a basket full of rifles appeared, while at another an old woman arrived with a cart, on which she brought ten machine guns and 180 revolvers. The value of her arsenal was 15,400 marks. In the centre of the city a young woman attracted much attention by dragging a small trench mortar through the streets. To another depot many people brought aged flintlocks, the military value of which is extremely doubtful, but they were all taken. All weapons were broken up immediately by smiths, and ammunition and hand grenades were rendered useless on the spot.

Already 750,000 marks have been paid out at various depots.

A Slight Error.

A slender, meek-looking man approached, very modestly, the manager of a big provision establishment. "Please, there's a mistake in this bill you sent me the other day," he began. "Oh, is there?" inquired the manager. "And what's wrong with it? Too big, I suppose?" "Oh, no; but——" "Some mistake in the figures?" "Not it's not that. It's——" "Indeed! Don't you think this bill has been running long enough?" "I dare say; but——" "Then what are you grumbling about?" "I'm trying to tell you. There's a mistake in the name. You sent it to the wrong man. I don't owe you a cent, and never did."

A Great Asset.

"Helen married! Why, she told me that she wouldn't accept the best man who walks."

Ruby: "Well, Harry doesn't walk; he's got an automobile."

Usually the Way of It.

Scandalizing She: "Everybody knows about it. Some people take her part and some her husband's."

Mere Man: "And a few eccentric individuals mind their own business."

Incredible Names.

It seems surprising that the names of Dicken's characters, odd though they were, should be found in real life; for it was from life that many of them were taken. Some, as is known, were copied from the names of signs over business places; but that was not the novelist's only source of selection. John Forster, his biographer, found among his papers a carefully drawn list of names, with the sources from which he obtained them. Some of the names are too extravagant for anything but reality: Jolly Stick, Bill Marigold, George Muzzle, William Why, Robert Gospel, Robbin Scrubban, Sarah Goldsacks, Catherine Two, Sophie Doomsday, Rosetta Dust and Sally Gimblett.

Gran' Accommodation!

There is something very amusing in what may be called the "fitness of things," in regard to snuff-taking, which occurred to an honest Highlander, a genuine lover of "sneeshin," writes John Ingram in "Scottish Humor in Anecdote and Story." At the door of the Blair Athol Hotel he observed standing a magnificent man in full tartans, and noticed with much admiration the wide dimensions of his nostrils in a finely-upturned nose. He accosted him, and, as his most complimentary act, offered him his mull for a pinch. The stranger drew himself up, and rather haughtily said, "I never take snuff." "Oh," said the other, "that's a peety, for there's gran' accommodation!"

Boils So Bad HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

From the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.

Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.

It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.

Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes:—"I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

Last Sabbath night the largest congregation in many months met for worship. The subject of the evening was, "The hand that touches heaven's bells," or "Joy in heaven over a penitent sinner."

Both pastor and people were delighted with the music rendered by the quartete, composed of the Hartshorn brothers and Messrs. Baldy and Turner.

The quartette entitled, "When the mists have rolled away" was received with the fullest appreciation. The solos entitled "The Good Shepherd" and "Lead Kindly Light" by Mr. F. Hartshorn, were also splendidly rendered. These gentlemen will be welcome at any time, and their effort of last Sabbath evening will be remembered with pelasure and profit.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers, give the little ones Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for constipation. Acts mildly and gently. Formula on the package.

THE alert mother, ever anxious to find something better for her children's health, will interest herself in learning what is best to give them when they are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, are bilious or dyspeptic. It stands to reason that the remedy that might be suitable for you, at your age, might be too drastic for a child.

By all means do what you can to regulate the diet, giving preference to the light, easily digested foods. But when diet fails you will have to help Nature with medicine. It would then be well for you to avoid the harsher cathartics and physics, castor oil, calomel and such, even if disguised in tablets or pills, for they weaken the child and make it irritable.

A better plan is to give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly and gently and does not gripe or weaken. It has the unusual merit of being safe for the tiniest baby yet equally effective for grownups. The formula is plainly on the package, and a sixty-cent bottle is sufficient to last an average family many months.

There is nothing better or safer than Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and as it contains no narcotics or mercurials mothers can feel safe in giving it to any member of the family needing a constipation medicine. It is syrupy and delightfully pleasant to take. It must meet the taste of the majority, for last year over eight million bottles were bought in drug stores, the largest sale of the kind in the world.

Buy a sixty-cent bottle today with the understanding that if for any reason it does not do exactly as claimed your money will be refunded. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin has been on sale in drug stores for thirty years so you would not be experimenting with anything new.

Try It FREE

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as pleasant-tasting and safe, as I claim. Let such write me for a sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say, "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front St., Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

WHOLESALE MURDER PLOT LEAVES ONE MAN ALIVE

It is true, in fact, that "Dead Men Tell No Tales," but it was not quite safe for Senor Joaquin Santos, a Spanish adventurer who sought to outdo his buccaneer ancestors, to assume that all were dead when the passenger ship Lady Jermyn had been burned at sea.

As a matter of fact, one man escaped.

"Dead Men Tell No Tales," a popular novel by E. W. Horning, author of "Raffles," has been visualised by Vitagraph as a Tom Terriss special production, now shown at the Grand Theatre for three days.

This stirring story of crime, love, and adventure provides splendid opportunities for a spectacular motion picture production, and these have been made the most of by Vitagraph. No expense has been spared in realising all the remarkable possibilities of the story.

PILES Do not suffer another day with Itching, Bleeding, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. FARMERS PREPARE THEIR CAMPAIGN

TWO MEETINGS TO-NIGHT AND MASS MEETING IN OPERA HOUSE FRIDAY.

To-night the U.F.O. hold two meetings, one at Selwyn and one at Young's Point. The speakers will be Mr. R. H. Halbert, Farmer member for North Ontario, who will arrive in the city at noon; Mr. S. C. McKee, of Toronto; Mr. Wallace Anderson, Federal director of the U.F.O. organization for East Peterborough; Mr. J. C. Campbell, Farmer candidate, and Miss Petrie, of Otonabee. The speakers will be so arranged that both audiences will have several speakers, and large meetings are expected at both points. To-morrow night the U.F.O. hold meetings at Bridgenorth and the Temperance Hall, Fourth Line of Smith Township, and on Thursday night at North Monaghan Town Hall and May's School House.

The Grand Opera House has been engaged by the Farmers for a meeting on Friday night. Hon. Crerar is three thousand miles away, and there is little likelihood he will be here, but other prominent U.F.O. leaders, probably including Mr. R. W. Burnaby, the President, will be present.

Labour Party Opens Campaign

bour inclinations. His father, he said, established one of the first amalgamated trade unions in the province of Quebec. He worked successfully as shoeclerk and bookkeeper, supporting himself by the latter as he went through law school. He had been counsel of the United Mine Workers of Nova Scotia, he said, in one of the longest strikes in trade union history.

The Tariff Question

In the friendliest possible way, he said, he had to take exception to Mr. Tooms' statement that the tariff had nothing to do with the workers. The tariff was a most vital thing, he said.

In regard to the local election. Mr. O'Connor felt all personalities should be swept aside by the Labour men and if he set himself up as a Labour man he said he would be ashamed if he didn't vote for Mr. McMurray. Despite the fact he was a Liberal-Conservative the "mystery" man said he would support Mr. McMurray and oppose the others and he gave many reasons why he was opposed to Messrs. Denne, Gordon, Campbell and Burnham. The government party he opposed because it had not favoured his tariff views although in a public way he was endeavouring to inculcate them into the minds of the party and believed he was succeeding. He raised opposition to the farmer candidate because the farmer organizations were closed to all but agrarians and their nominees as such not representative of the mass of people. He was against Mr. Burnham on the tariff issue and against the Liberal party "because he felt the platform upon which it is appealing to West Peterboro is an insincere one." "It's an illogical one," he declared, and went on to dissect Hon. Mackenzie King's speech here to show that if Hon. King felt the tariff was not the issue and responsible government was the issue why did he not support Mr. Burnham who resigned his seat because of his belief that the government's mandate was no more?

Questioned Speaker

Mr. Lorenzo Humber seated at the rear of the hall questioned Mr. O'Connor's statement regarding Mr. King and challenged the speaker to corroborate his statements. Mr. O'Connor said he could not do this. "Mr. O'Connor is right," shouted several voices in the audience. "Sit down. Sit down."

Mr. O'Connor said "I don't want any "_____" animosity" suggest. Mr. Humber "nor do we," and took his seat.

Mr. O'Connor had four cases of illogical reasoning against the Liberal leader. The speaker called upon anyone to question him on anything and he was prepared to face them (applause) but no questions were asked.

Advocated Tariff

Approaching his advocated tariff, he predicted that before March next the government would sense the American danger and adopt a tariff as he favoured. If there was free trade in Canada and protection in United States Canadians would be "hewers of wood and drawers of water," he said. The percentage difference between the competing countries is what counts in seeing which is the most favourably situated. "What about the exchange?" asked Mr. Humber. "I'll answer that later," said Mr. O'Connor. The speaker agreed with the Liberals that high tariffs made for monopolies and trusts and profits and he advocated levying the profits from manufacturers above a certain extent if a high Canadian tariff was maintained to balance the American.

"The exchange is not the fault of any government or individual here or elsewhere." "Last year," he said, quoting a recent speaker, "the difference in trade was $500,000,000." Again Mr. Humber interrupted the speaker despite protests from all parts of the hall. Mr. Humber asked him if he was sure it was that amount. Mr. O'Connor said it was between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000, less than a half-billion. It didn't make any difference in the inference he was drawing. "Be careful when you say $500,000,000" said Mr. Humber.

"That's the way Mr. Humber figured when he thought he'd be elected in the last municipal elections," said a satirical voice at the front of the hall.

The Exchange

The speaker, continuing, went into the exchange situation and said that with the buying in the States he wondered that it was not greater. If the tariff was lowered now, he said, the exchange would be more unfavourable than ever to this country. To right the exchange, the speaker favoured the formation of an international currency board as there are other bodies to take the paper currency of both countries and re-issue it at par. If United States refused to join he advocated the doubling of the Canadian exchange by this government and thus by discouraging American purchasing bring them to terms.

An appeal to the workers to stand together and not be led away by the other parties marked Mr. T. G. McMurray's speech. He said it was by no act or desire of his that he was nominated but he would now see the election through. While the Liberals had swallowed the whole Labour platform holus-bolus he hoped Labour men would not be deceived by such tactics. Labour in West Peterboro had stood by the farmers in the Provincial election, and he declared the farmers had no right to come out in this one. As a condition under which the workers now live he said the workers in the factories dare not express a political opinion in his favour or they were dismissed.

Mr. John Bruce

Mr. Bruce who is a forceful speaker on Labour subjects said that Labour was entering the campaign seeking only social and economic justice, in the spirit of progress and as a protest against governments who had refused to heed the cry for better conditions from the workers.

The world is in a chaotic condition and old governments have failed and for that reason Labour has the best possible chances for electing its candidate in this riding. During the war, the speaker said, the workers looked for social and economic justice to result and the adoption of measures to make wars impossible but these all proved to be fallacies. Neither Liberal or Conservative parties had ever done anything to alleviate the conditions under which Labour works, lives and has its being. The Labour movement, he said, favours protection both of industries and workers. The lot of the workers is deplorable today all over the world and the speaker asked if any of the speakers in Peterboro of late had said they were prepared to do anything to relieve unemployment or provide houses for the workers. Instead they had dug up the political "bogey" of the tariff. Mr. Bruce dwelt on the government's policy of stand easy on the remedying of unemployment and social unrest after the war although it was urgent enough about getting the report of the Industrial Commission on which he served and never adopted it.

To illustrate the growth of monopoly and trusts the speaker emphasized the recently organized British Empire Steel Corporation. Charges that men were dismissed from a local plant for supporting Mr. McMurray were made by the speaker and he asked if that was fair and right.

Another War

Another war, this time on the Pacific may be expected said the speaker and he said Labour was carrying on an active propaganda to fight these militaristic maves by the powers. Although prices have only slightly receded, the speaker said, there was a concerted movement all over the country that Labour should oppose, to lower the wage rate. In this by-election he urged them to show that the workers would not stand for a lower wage and a deletion of the standard of living, by electing a Labour representative. The government, he said, was not meting out justice to the returned soldiers or their dependents and these men should unite with Labour.

ROBERT BURNS' LETTER TO ALEX. DALZIEL

ONLY ONE LETTER, DATED 19TH MARCH, 1791, IN BURNS' WORKS BY ALLEN CUNNINGHAM.

In the Evening Examiner of January, the nineteenth there apeared, under the heading, "Information Wanted," the request from Mrs. David Mahood, 19 Conger street, Peterborough, Ont., for information through the Caledonian Club or from any other source, as to how she might secure copies of the letter written to Alexander Daziel, by Robert Burns, dated March 10th, 1791, which are among the relics of Burns. Alexander Dalziel was a great uncle of Mrs. Mahood and Miss W. L. White, North Monaghan, and to whom bequeathed their father his property in Canada.

The writer, who is a member of the Caledonian Club, and a Burns' enthusiast, studied the original copy of Burns' relics for sale, to find that a letter to Alexander Dalziel, dated March 10th, 1791, although in Burns' complete works by Allen Cunningham there is only one letter dated March 19th from Ellisland, in the year 1791. The following letter is taken from the complete works of Burns, the property of Mr. James Terrace, 91 Smith street, and was the volume his father had bought. In the inside cover there is the marriage data of his father as follows: "Peter Terrace was bound to A. Borthwich, October 7th, 1872." The book contains some of the finest steel engravings depicting many of Burns' poems.

To Mr. Alexander Dalziel
Fatcor Findlayson.

Cronick says that Alexander Dalziel introduced the poetry of Burns to the notice of Earl of Glencairn, who carried the Kilmarnock edition with him to Edinburgh and begged that the poet would let him know what his views of the world were, that he might further them.

Ellisland, 19th March, 1791.

My Dear Sir,—I have taken the liberty to frank this letter to you, as it enclosed an idle poem of mine, which I send you; and God knows you may pay dear for it if you read it through. Not that this is in my opinion; but the author by the time he has composed and corrected his work, has quite pored away all his powers of critical discrimination. I can easily guess from my own heart, what you have felt of a late most melancholy event. God knows what I have suffered, at the loss of my best friend, my first and dearest patron and benefactor; the man to whom I owe all that I am and have. I am gone into mourning for him, and with more sincerity of grief than I fear some will, who by natures ties ought to feel on the occasion.

I will be exceedingly obliged to you, indeed, to let me know the news of the noble family, how the poor mother and the two sisters support their loss. I had a packet of poetic bagatellas ready to send to Lady Betty, when I saw the fatal tidings in the newspaper. I see by the same channel that the honored remains of my noble patron are designed to be brought to the family burial place. Dare I trouble you to let me know privately before the day of interment, that I may cross the country, and steal among the crowd, to pay a tear to the last sight of my ever revered benefactor? It will oblige me beyond expression.

R. B.

As soon as the Burns' relics are sold, the Examiner will publish the list of purchasers.

HER FRIENDS SAID SHE WAS GOING TO DIE

WHY MRS. MARKLAND PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

She suffered terribly and lost sixty pounds, but Dodd's Kidney Pills started her on the road to health.

Picton, Ont. Jan. 24th—(Special).—Enthusiastic in her praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Finlay Markland, a well-known and highly respected resident here. And Mrs. Markland is always willing to tell why she pins her faith to the great Canadian Kidney remedy.

"Two years ago I had a bad attack of flu and pneumonia," she states, "and the poison in my system all went to my kidneys and gave me diabetes. I had it for nearly a year before I knew it but last fall I broke out all over with boils.

I suffered something terrible. I went down in flesh till I lost 60 lbs. The doctor put me on starvation diet! I could not even put my shoes on. My husband and all my friends thought I was going to die.

"Reading of what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for another woman with Kidney trouble led my husband to get some for me. After I had taken two boxes I began to feel better. I have taken 21 boxes and feel splendid. I can do my work and eat almost anything. I have gained 20 lbs. I tell all my friends what grand pills Dodd's Kidney Pills are."

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick Kidneys.

GEARY URGES TO APPRAISE BELL ASSETS

SAYS TELEPHONE COMPANY HAS NOT GIVEN BOARD FULL INFORMATION AS TO HOLDINGS.

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—That an appraisal of the Bell Telephone Company's holdings should be made before any new rate was struck, was urged upon the Board of Railway commissioners this morning by G. R. Geary, Toronto counsel, opposing the application for increased rates. He asserted that the company had not given the Board full information in the matter of costs and revenue to which it was entitled. He did not accept the company's system of grouping cities as proper. Dealing with the Northern Electric Company, Mr. Geary said that the Bell Company had divested itself of the assets without getting a proper return for its investment.

CANADIAN DOLLAR UP ONE-QUARTER CENT FROM YESTERDAY—STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR.

United States.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. — Foreign Exchange opened to-day with demand sterling $3.85 1-4, the highest since July 22; francs .0732; lire .0370; marks .0174; Canadian dollars .8825.

STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. — Prices were irregular at the stock market opening here to-day. U S Steel opened unchanged at 82; others were: — Amer Tobacco 117 3-8, unchanged; Republic 65 off 1-8; International Cons 5 7-8 up 1-4; ATT 99 3-4; Studebaker 57 up 1-4; New Haven 20 5-8, up 1-8; Anaconda 37 7-8 off 1-4; Pitts Coal 62 1-4 up 3-8; General Motors 14 1-2 up 1-8; Asphalt 62 3-8 up 3-8; Sinclair 23 1-4 unchanged; Pan Amer 75 5-8 off 1-8; Atlantic Gulf 68 1-2 unchanged; Southern Pacific 97 1-8 off 3-8; Texas Co 42 3-4 off 1-8.

Traction issues were the feature of the morning trading on the Stock Exchange to-day, due to Governor Miller's message to the State Legislature suggesteing that a commission of three be placed in sole charge of the transit problem in New York City. Traders in traction shares evidently thought this would result in higher fares, and the stocks gained accordingly. Interborough Cons. Common was up ¼ at 5 7-8 and preferred up ½ at 162. Third Avenue Railroad was up 1 at 18¼. Brooklyn R. T. gained 6-8 to 14½.

The remainder of the list remained about stationary. Even Oils failed to respond to reports that the United States had made representations to the Mexican Government in behalf of American oil companies. The report failed to create a ripple in the street. Mexican Petroleum was fractionally higher, but pressure on it continued.

Steel Common was unchanged at 82. Pittsburg Coal was up 3-8 at 62¼. Studebaker gained ¼ at 57.

Much interest was manifested in reports that the Ford Motor Co., which was rumored to be seeking a $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 loan, would not go through with the deal at this time. Ford was said to be in no immediate need of funds.

COMMON DISEASES OFTEN DANGEROUS

CHIEFLY DOES THE ORDINARY COLD REQUIRE PROMPT TREATMENT.

A cold in the head will sow the seeds of acute disease unless it is treated promptly. Even when the cold does work itself off it leaves the patient weakened and liable to an attack from disease. When a cold in the head appears, check the fever, allay the soreness of muscles and tone up the system to fight the after-weakness.

Grip-Fix, a preparation which has been used for colds in the head for years, will do this work, and with wonderful results. It is prompt, relieving a bad cold in a night and a case of grippe in forty-eight hours. In its capsule form the ingredients of Grip-Fix are noted on every box and would be approved by any physician. Sold by all druggists at 35c. a box. (Advt.)

IDEAS ABOUT FOODS DIFFER

Delicacies Among Some Peoples Are Looked Upon With Distinct Aversion by Others.

"There's no accounting for the freaks of human appetites," writes W. J. Showalter to the National Geographic society, describing some strange foods as follows:

"The Roosevelt story of how he got the best work out of the men with sharp-filed teeth by promising them the choicest bits of raw hippopotamus and rhinoceros steak for speed in skinning, will be recalled by many. Capt. Robert H. Bartlett, commander of the Karluk, which carried Stefansson to Arctic waters, says that on his return from Herald island to northern Siberia he found raw polar bear meat tasting better than any piece de resistance he had ever eaten in the home country.

"The Frenchman likes his snails and wonders how anyone who accepts oysters can refuse them. In Canton, China, rats sell for 40 cents a dozen, and a dog steak brings more per pound than a leg of mutton. The Chinese mandarin pays $80 a pound for the birds' nests from which his soup is concocted. In parts of the West Indies the palm worm is stewed in fat, while certain African tribes are as fond of caterpillars as an American is of reed birds on toast. The Turk is as disgusted with the oysters we eat as we are with the fish the Corsican relishes.

"Eating earth, or geophagy, is a common thing in many parts of the world. In some parts of Europe a butter is made of fine clay, and in other regions various kinds of earths are sold in the open market. The Persians use some varieties of soil in making their sweetmeats, while in Mexico the eggs of certain species of flies are used by the Indians in making a food paste which is regarded as a great delicacy."

The Speediest Animals.

There is an antelope in Chi (Gazella gutturosa) which a trave who has seen it in motion cred with a speed of at least 60 miles hour. The traveler was driving in motor at 40 miles an hour by spee meter when a herd of the antelo started up nearly opposite the and circling round ahead kept go parallel to the road. When shot they quickened their pace—perha to 70 miles an hour. "One had impression," says the traveler, "th were skimming the ground, for th legs appeared only as a blur."

WAS PALLBEARER AT THE SIFTON FUNERAL

Judge E. C. S. Huycke, of Peterborough, was one of the pall-bearers at the funeral of the Right. Hon. A. L. Sifton at Ottawa yesterday afternoon. The ceremony at the funeral was simple. The Chateau Laurier, where the body lay, was crowded with distinguished mourners, but in the private apartments of the late Minister, there were few beyond the immediate family, chief mourners and the honorary pall-bearers. Rev. Dr. Rose, pastor of Douglas Methodist Church, Montreal, conducted the service. The honorary pall-bearers were the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, Sir Arthur Currie, Sir James Lougheed, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Hon. Mr. Justice Masten of Toronto, Judge Huycke of Peterborough, and Lieut.-Col. O. M. Biggar, of Ottawa. Mr. Sifton was buried at Beachwood Cemetary.

Judge Huycke and Hon. Mr. Justice Master of Toronto were college friends of Mr. Sifton, and groomsmen at his wedding.

GOVERNMENT IN COUNTRY

MEETING AT CENTREVILLE LAST NIGHT ADDRESSED BY HON. DR. F. S. TOLMIE, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE, LT.-COL. MULLOY AND ROLAND DENNE.

CONTRADICT KING

With Lieut.-Col. Mulloy and Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, supporting him, Roland Denne led the Government party into South Monaghan last night and held a well-attended meeting in the Town Hall, Centreville. The three speakers received a sympathetic hearing. Before the meeting opened, in an informal way, Rev. A. H. McConnachie, pastor of the Centreville Presbyterian Church, and a devoted worker in the ranks of the farmers, explained the protest that had been made of Mr. Campbell's nomination by Mr. Wearing in the afternoon. Mr. Denne announced in regard to the protest that his party had made no protest, and he declared that he was ready to take a "sporting chance" and meet the Farmer fairly at the polls.

Murray on the Tariff.

Lieut.-Col. Mulloy, who spoke first, dwelt on the tariff and the question of the mandate attempting to prove from British and Canadian history a wealth of precedents for the Government continuing in office. Hon. Mr. King's charges that the Government should go to the people, he said, were unconstitutional. Had the Government done as Mr. Burnham demanded there would be a general election this year and another would be compelled next year by redistribution.

Denne Makes Appeal.

Mr. Denne received an attentive hearing. He made a straight appeal to the farmers for their support, assuring them that he would serve them as conscientiously and honestly as he had in his own business.

Tolmie Replies to King.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie's address was in reply to Hon. Mackenzie King's statement that the Department of Agriculture was not doing its duty to the farmers, and in fact had spent an insignificant sum in furthering agriculture. The Minister of Agriculture went into the work of the Department in reply, and told of the steps being taken to assist the farmers. He dwelt on all the phases of agriculture — grain growing, mixed farming, dairying, poultry raising, horticulture and seed growing. He stated that the Government had spent millions in assisting the agricultural interests of this country. Hon. Dr. Tolmie did not touch on the local political mix-up but confined his remarks to replying to the insinuation that the Department of Agriculture was a "dead issue."

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press).

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—The wheat market weakness to-day was due mainly to the elimination of a big part of the short interests yesterday, which left the market without buying power to absorb the offerings from the buyers of the day before. Bear pressure increased on reports that the British Commission would be out of the market until March 1, and that the Allies had refused to grant a loan to Austria.

Export demand was slow, although later, Belgium was reported to have taken 112,000 bushels via the Gulf, and the French order for 900,000 bushels, reported yesterday, was reported closed. Local millers reported a marked improvement for red winter wheat. Flour and premiums were four cents higher, for red wheat to-day. Southwest offerings of wheat were reported smaller to-day. Oklahoma continues to tell of the presence of the green bug in the wheat fields of that State.

Corn was under pressure from longs while the buying power was poor. This gave prices a downward trend. Receipts of corn dropped off materially, the estimate to-day being for 350 cars compared with arrivals of 1,562 cars yesterday. There was a good demand for the spot corn, and in instances ¼ cent better basis was paid than yesterday. Domestic demand was slow, but exporters bought a little corn at outside markets at 11 cents over May track Baltimore for February shipment. There were rumors afloat that the United Kingdom was trying to resell corn.

Oats were lower. Cash interests and houses with north-west connections sold. Buying power was poor, and domestic shipping demand was slow. Some talk of increasing receipts is heard.

Provisions were exceedingly dull and easier. The break in grain exerted a depressing influence.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

T. TOOMS FOR McMURRAY.

Mr. Editor,—I would like to make this one appeal to the electors of West Peterborough through the medium of your paper, because I believe it to be important. That the work of Thos. McMurray is a true missionary work, endeavouring to get away from the over materialistic mind of the government and to base our legislation upon sound moral principles. At Ottawa Labor has but one representative, Mr. Angus McDonald, of Timiskaming; a voice crying in the wilderness, "Come over and help us." Are we working men of Peterborough going to ignore that call for help in advancing a great new Christian principle. Or is history again to repeat itself; when the chief priests and rulers of the people, done to death, the founder of the brotherhood of man. Some of labour men take our work very, very seriously. Mr. T. McMurray is one of them, and I am confident, with the underlying honesty and sincerity of purpose, to see a new and better world born out of the chaos of the past, if not, then as two thousand years ago a carpenter wept for you, because he knew the results would be upon the heads of you and your children. Well may we weep. As to the soundness of our doctrines, the Liberals and Conservatives also, hold out as baits to catch your votes, a plank in labor's platform, and more money is being spent by them to tell you that, than would make every working man that is unemployed, comfortable for the rest of the winter in Peterborough. Labor does not offer you the crumbs which fall from the table. We offer you an equal place and opportunity, the whole platform, not a plank. Accept it in justice to yourselves and your children. It won't hurt McMurray so much as it will hurt yourselves if defeated. He did not ask for the job. He was nominated by the people. He has answered the call to "prepare ye the way for the light."

Your humble servant,
THOS. TOOMS.

DIVORCE EASY IN KASHGAR

Women of That Country Have Some Advantages, Though There Are Drawbacks to Them.

Advocates of speedy and inexpensive divorce will see the practice in full action if they care to adventure as far as Kashgar. Miss Ella Sykes, F. R. G. S., who, with her brother, Sir Percy Sykes, has traversed Chinese Turkestan and the Pamirs, has an illuminating chapter on certain Eastern marriage customs in "Through Deserts and Oases of Central Asia," says London Tit-Bits.

In Kashgar there are many "superfluous women" owing to the emigration of men from the oases and marriage is consequently cheap for a suiter. The "marriage of convenience" is the rule, as parents often sell their daughter to the highest bidder without allowing her any freedom of choice.

It is true that there is a compensating custom, as divorce may be had for about fourpence, but as the women may not remarry until a hundred days have elapsed she has generally difficulty in keeping herself meantime, although the discarded husband is supposed to return the dowry that he received with his bride when the marriage contract was concluded.

One decided advantage on the woman's side is that if her husband divorces her she may take all the movables in the house and, as in the case of a merchant much of his wealth consists of carpets and brass utensils, he often finds it cheaper to take a second wife rather than divorce the first, who would make a clean sweep of the "bits and pieces" of household plenishing.

The missionaries told Miss Sykes that most of the women in Kashgar had been married several times and that this constant divorce led to the wives taking whatever they could from their husbands and putting it by against a rainy day.

WRITING AS FINE ART.

Japanese Work Hard to Learn Use of Pen.

Formerly, and even at the present time, handwriting was an important art in Japan. Education and culture of individuals were measured in terms of how dexterously one handled the brush and how artistically he could draw curves and lines of Japanese letters, which are composed of forty-eight kanas (syllabary), and the thousands of Chinese characters. Indeed, the art of handwriting was elevated to an extent equal, if not superior, to the art of painting.

The Chinese characters being originally pictographs, they are singularly susceptible of artistic drawing. Visitors to Japan will notice beautiful calligraphy hung on the walls of temples and shrines and parlors of distinguished homes, drawn by noted men who devoted their lives to penmanship and who established various schools of writing just as men of fine arts have done.

In a sense the beautiful handwriting of the Japanese is an achievement worthy of national pride, but at the same time it has been a hindrance to progress. While nothing can be done any better than artistically done, yet too much attention and effort spent in making writing just artistic is a perversion of what writing really stands for. The stigma of it is that it tends to shun all modes of quick writing, such as the use of pencils and pens, to say nothing of the use of typewriters and dictaphones, which means complete abolition of the handwriting. So in the age of wireless and airplanes some Japanese still cling to the use of brushes, and take pride in "drawing" letters, spending hours at what machine can do in a few minutes.

But, fortunately, times are changing. The high salaries of clerks demand that they do swifter work. The external pressure forces Nipponese to "scratch" rather than "draw." Utilitarians have appeared who endeavor to revolutionize Japanese writing, changing the letters to the Roman alphabet and adopting the Occidental mode of beginning at the upper left corner of a sheet instead of at the wrong end. The Romanji movement, as the innovation is called, is slowly but steadily gaining ground.

What is most encouraging is the invention a short time ago of a Japanese monotype writer by Mr. Kyotaro Sugimoto, who somehow succeeded in adapting the Western typewriter to Japanese purposes. Its capacity to save time and money and its assurance of certainty have already begun to win a wide acceptance among the business concerns and newspaper offices of the empire.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed (Beauty Culture).

Hairs can be easily banished from the under-arms, neck and face by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package and mix fresh.

PROPHECIES CAME TRUE.

Strange Stories of Warnings Heeded and Unheeded.

It is recorded of the Empress Eugenie that once, when she was a child, and living with her mother in Madrid, she was sliding down the banisters one day when she lost her balance and, knocking her head violently against the open front-door leading to the street, fell senseless on the steps. An old gipsy woman who happened to be passing sat down by the roadside, took the girl's head into her lap, and brought her back to consciousness.

"There is no danger," she said, to the little Eugenie's alarmed mother; "the senorita will live to be a hundred years old, either more or less, and she will be a queen."

The second part of the prophecy has certainly been fulfilled, and, in view of the fact that the aged empress was ninety-three when she died the first part of the gypsy prophecy was not very far wrong.

Draga Mashin, the beautiful woman of the people, who afterwards became the Queen of Serbia, and was assassinated with her husband, King Alexander, was, before her marriage, dame d'honneur to Queen Nathalie, the young king's mother. On one occasion, when, with her royal mistress, she was visiting Paris, she went to consult the famous Parisian clairvoyante, Mme. Thebes. After holding the young maid-of-honor's hand for a long time in silence, the clairvoyante looked gravely at her and said, hesitatingly: "You have great ambition; you will have an extraordinary career; you will marry the highest personage in the country, but you will bring only ruin to your husband, and you yourself will perish with him."

King George I. of England was told by a fortune-teller, when he was a boy, that he should take care of his wife, "as he would only survive her a year." Whether he paid much heed to it is not known, but it is certainly a curious fact that, exactly twelve months after her death, he died, almost suddenly, while on a visit to his brother, the Prince Bishop, at Osnaburg.

In the year 1671 a woman soothsayer, Marguerite Marie, of Paray-le-Monial, prophesied to Louis XIV. that after the year 1793 no crowned ruler would ever die in his bed in France. The fateful year 1793, as everyone knows, proved to be the year of the murder of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette, and history has since shown that no crowned ruler of France, subsequent to that date, has died in his bed in that country. Louis XVIII., who did do so, was reminded of this sinister prophecy just before his coronation was to take place, and, although most extravagant preparations had been made for it, he heeded the warning, and was never officially crowned!

The assassination of that great and wise monarch, Henry of Navarre, was foretold by an astrologer, who warned the king, some six months before the murder, that he should beware of the coming month of May, stating that he would be assassinated at the period of a grand solemnity, and that he would expire in a coach.

Nearly all accordeons are made in Paris.

GRAIN EXPORTS LARGEST ITEM FOR OVERSEAS

PORTS FILLED WITH SHIPS WAITING TO BE LOADED WITH GRAIN FOR EUROPE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, January 25.—Grain exports form the largest item of overseas trade at the present time. Several ships left port yesterday with full cargoes. Last week more than a million bushels of wheat were taken out of two Grand Trunk elevators at Portland, Maine, and more than a thousand cars are waiting to be unloaded. The port is now filled with ships waiting to be loaded, while others are due. These steamers represent Great Britain, France, Italy and Scandinavian countries. Grain rates remain unchanged to these ports, figure being 7's. Occasionally a shipping board vessel is included in the fleet of grain carriers, the steamer Neshonbee getting away last week with 40,000 bushels of wheat and nearly 100,000 bushels of rye, her destination being Hamburg.

LAKEFIELD HALL OPENING TO-NIGHT

THE NEW BUILDING WILL FILL LONG-FELT WANT IN VILLAGE.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 25.—The Lakefield Memorial Hall which will be formally opened by the Great War Veterans at their dance to-night is a handsome structure and adds greatly to the appearance of the village. It is a two storey building of red brick with cement facing. The lower floor contains a fire hall, which contains the fire equipment of the village and is the headquarters of the night watchman, the public library and reading room, Council Chamber clerk's office and a room for the care taker and a club room.

On the upper floor is the auditorium, which is considerably larger than that in the old hall, and which will accommodate about three hundred people. The stage and dressing rooms off it are neatly fitted up and will be much appreciated. The new hall will take the place of the old one which was a village centre and a gathering place on great national occasions. The old hall, which was built more than thirty years ago was burned on the morning of December 27th, 1918 from some unknown cause. Work was begun on the new hall in the Spring of 1919 when the debris was cleared up and the ground made ready for the new building.

It is proposed to erect a tablet in the hall to the memory of the men from Lakefield who 'did not come back". This matter is in the hands of a committee who expect to have a tablet in place very soon.

Senator Geo. McHugh, of Lindsay, is in the city to-day.

MR. BURNHAM WILL HOLD A MEETING

Mr. J. H. Burnham Independent candidate in the West Peterboro bye-election has decided to hold a public meeting in Victoria Hall on Wednesday February 2nd. He has invited all the other candidates to be present to join with him in addressing the electors.

STATEMENT FROM MR. J. C. CAMPBELL

CHEQUE FOR $1,000 SENT TO OTTAWA BY SHERIFF HALL.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding about the legality of the proceedings connected with the nomination of Mr. J. C. Campbell, the nominee of the National Progressive Party in the West Peterborough by-election, the following statement was issued this morning form Campbells' committee rooms:

"The Elections' Act requires that each candidate shall deposit $200.00 with his nomination papers. Before making this deposit Mr. Campbell's representative telephoned to Sheriff Hall and asked how he desired the out. Sheriff Hall advised that it Act provides for, should be made he desired, endorse the check over should be made out in his favor. Mr. Hall then, as the representative of the Receiver General, could, if which shall in every case be sufto the Receiver General or cash it and send the money to the Receiver General, as he might prefer.

"The Elections' Act reads as follows:

"The returning officer shall give to the candidate or his agent a receipt for such deposit, which shall in ever case be sufficient ovidence of the production of the nomination paper. of the consent of the candidate and of the payment therein mentioned."

"Mr. Campbell handed in a marked check for $200.00, made out in favor of Sheriff Hall, with his nomination papers some 15 minutes before the hour for filing the papers closed. Mr. J. W. Wearing, lawyer and a supporter of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, asked to see the papers and check before they were handed in. They were shown to him. He said nothing at the time concerning them.

"The papers and check were duly handed to Sheriff Hall, who accepted them and gave the receipt for them required by law. Thus Mr. Campbell holds the receipt which the law distinctly states "shall in every case be sufficient evidence of the production of the nomination paper and of the payment therein mentioned."

"Immediately the papers were filed Mr. Wearing asked to see them again and this time claimed that the proceedings were illegal becuse the Elections' Act requires that the marked check, when one is used, should have been made out to the Receiver General. Had Mr. Wearing pointed this out when he first saw the check Mr. Campbell and his supporters, who were present could easily have deposited $200.00 in cash. Thus it would appear that Mr. Wearing deliberately refrained from mentioning this matter when first shown the check in order that he, on behalf of Mr. Gordon, who is also a lawyer, might try to take advantage of this technicality.

"Sheriff Hall, who has had long experience and is well known for his probity, asserts positively that there is no strength in the technicality as it is completely overruled by the clause in the act. already quoted, relating to the giving of the receipt for the money by the returning officer, which receipt Mr. Campbell now holds.

"Immediately after the money had been deposited Sheriff Hall took the check to the bank, cashed it and sent the money with the money of the other four candidates, or a total of $1,000, to the government in Ottawa."

STILL IN RACE DECLARE PETES

DETERMINED TO PULL ROUND OUT OF THE FIRE ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

The Peterborough Intermediates refuse to entertain a thought that they are out of the race, and they are going to Lindsay on Thursday night, determined to pull the round out of the fire by handing a beating to Coombe & Company.

The squad had a good workout last night, and will practice again to-night at 7 o'clock.

If the ice is fast on Thursday they should give the Scugog crew an awful scare, and a big crowd of fans are going up to help them in this decisive battle.

A special train will leave at 7 o'clock on Thursday night, returning after the game.

Max Harden Now Declares Germans Do Not Know Meaning of Word Liberty

TWO interviews with the redoubtable Max Harden, the inveterate foe of the former kaiser's regime, contain strong meat for the German people to feed upon. The first of these public expressions was published by the London Times; the second was given in Copenhagen during a visit paid the Danish capital by Herr Harden, and was published in the New York Globe. In the Times interview the publicist declared that the German people had never grasped the meaning of the word liberty, and to this inability he traced the van Kapp revolution and most of Germany's present troubles.

The real aim of von Kapp and his followers, declares Herr Harden, was to secure power to tyrannize over the rest of Germany. It was one of a series of blundering attempts made with the declared intention of establishing liberty, and the end is not yet. It was cleverly organized, and, in Herr Harden's opinion, Ludendorff was the chief director of it. The organizers knew well how to excite the admiration which Germans have been taught to display for any demonstration of effective might. The initial brilliant success broke down only as the result of inefficient handling. The brief period of Kapp's Government, however, produced no little rejoicing, expressed in the singing of "Deutschland uber Alles" and "Die Wacht am Rhein." "That was in accord with the German character. The Siegeskranz is irresistible to them, and whenever a man appears before them wearing a crown or any semblance of it, accompanied by military bands, he will be welcomed without question as to his intentions."

In the Copenhagen interview Herr Harden made further statements about the psychology of his countrymen which created a sensation in Germany. The German people, he said, were like a stinging nettle: they must not be handled gingerly but with an iron hand. Only force can compel them. To Entente lenience was due Germany's complete failure to observe a single one of the stipulations of the Peace Treaty. The Germans gained the impression from the start that the allied nations, with the exception of France, "were soft-hearted, unpractical fools, who did not for a moment expect them to live up to their signature." France's energetic measures have lately caused them to change their minds to a certain extent. There will be no more trouble, said Herr Harden, if the Allies continue to follow France's lead and exercise unrelenting pressure. In conclusion Harden said:

We understand the French. They know us and have learned to fear us, and for this reason they want to get us down so low that we shall never be able to think of doing harm. But we shall never understand the British or the Americans, who combine the application of the sternest measures under certain conditions affecting the opulence and power of their own empires with humanitarian ideas, which we put down as mere sentimental slush and nonsense. We think ourselves more consistent, and I do not know that we are not right.

Benevolence.

"Then you have no sympathy for the deserving poor?" asked a man who was collecting for charity.

"I?" replied the rich man. "Why, sir, I have nothing but sympathy for them."

"RUDDIGORE"

All the musical critics and expert theatre-goers of New York were unanimous in their praise of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "Ruddigore" during the run of that opera in New York.

Alexander Woolcott, of the New York Times, said: "There is more abiding humor in 'Ruddigore' than in all the rest of the musical shows put together."

Pitts Sanborn of the New York Globe said: "It is a geyser of wit and humor."

An editorial writer in the New York Sun said: "'Ruddigore' is the best entertainment that has ever been in New York."

Franklin P. Adams said in the New York Tribune: "Doubtless there is an evening of higher entertainment to be had, but we don't know where or how."

Dr. Frank Crane, who speaks with authority and not as a scribe, said: "I make bold to say that no comic opera composed by anybody can give me the genuine pleasure I get from a performance of 'Ruddigore.' For delicacy of touch, for exquisiteness of workmanship, for freshness and originality of concention, no musical work of the last thirty years, no modern novelty, slapstick or subtlety, can compare with it."

During its first eight weeks in New York 92,648 persons witnessed "Ruddigore," a weekly average of nearly 12,000. Mr. Woolcott saw it five times, Mr. Adams six times, Dr. Frank Crane unnumbered times, and Lillian Russell, who sang more comic operas as a star than she has fingers and toes, eight times.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

While previous pictures have accustomed the public to look for something out of the ordinary, something worth while at the Grand, "Dead Men Tell No Tales," the feature picture at present being shown, surpasses anything which has been shown for months. From no matter what standpoint the picture may be viewed, it is practically faultless, the photography being a triumph of movie art, the acting, with Catherine Calvert playing the leading role, superb and the scenery magnificent.

The story of the play is of an Englishman, Rattray, of Kirby Hall, who has become attached to a band of pirates, and becomes further involved through his love for Eva Dennison, step-daughter of the master pirate. Rattray is willing to enter into any piratical exploits with the band outside of those involving murder, but unwittingly aids them in their last adventure when they, in wrecking the Jermain for her cargo of gold, sacrifice the lives of all passengers save one Cole, a young lawyer, with whom Eva Dennison has become engaged while aboard ship. Cole, believing all to have perished, returns to London, where Rattray protects him from the pirates, who have returned from their voyage, until he learns that he knows nothing of the circumstances of the wreck. Later, at Kirby Hall, Cole discovers that the pirates are also inmates of the Hall and is himself saved from being buried alive by them by the timely arrival of Scotland Yard agents, led by the Priest of the town.

The photography involved in the burning of the Jermain surpasses any sea pictures previously shown in the city.

ALL-STAR CAST IN ANITA STEWART'S NEW PICTURE—A KATHLEEN NORRIS STORY.

Charles Richman and Ward Crane Play Opposite Star in Her Latest.

"Harriet and the Piper," Anita Stewart's latest First National picture which will be screened at the Allen Theatre, commencing to-morrow, is from Kathleen Norris' story of the same name. The story, which has a Greenwich Village setting, ran serially in the Pictorial Review, and has since been published in book form.

Supporting Miss Stewart is an all-star cast, including Ward Crane, Charles Richman, Irving Cummings, Byron Munson, Myrtle Stedman, Margaret Landis, Barbara La Marr Deeley, and Loyola O'Connor. Bertram Bracken directed the productoin.

Those who have already seen "Harriet and the Piper," both at the coast and in New York, are unanimous in declaring it the best film vehicle in which Miss Stewart has yet appeared, not excepting "In Old Kentucky," which was one of the most sucessful of last season's productions.

Another of the big guns of the Meighen Cabinet is announced to speak in Peterborough on Saturday evening next. This will be Sir Henry Drayton, the Dominion's Minister of Finance. There is no doubt that Sir Henry will have much of interest to tell the electors of the financial condition of Canada, and a crowded house is assured.

Another interesting personality who will accompany the Finance Minister to the city is Mr. H. M. Mowat, M.P., of Toronto. Mr. Mowat is one of the prominent Unionist Liberals who joined Sir Robert Borden in 1917. The meeting will be commenced at 8 o'clock.

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET

Notwithstanding the heavy storm of snow which prevailed on Sabbath morning, the congregation was unusually large. "The human manifestation of the divine" was the subject of the mornings address by the pastor, and was based on Mark IX, 8. They saw no man any more save Jesus only." The following thoughts were developed.

A Mountain Top Experience

It was my privilege, while in Edinburgh, to ascend the hill opposite the city which is called "Arthur's Seat." As I climbed the mountain I saw to my right a small chapel the walls of which were being repaired by two or three men. To my left hand in the side of the hill stood a small cell, which had been occupied a thousand years ago by the hermit who taught the people in the minute temple, but a few yards away. Continuing my way to the summit, I stood amid the solemn grandeur of the scene and though of another mountain in the long ago, where heaven came down to meet the men of earth, and the Christ of God was transfigured before the wondering disciples.

Jesus Takes Peter, James and John

Why does Christ takes these disciples? Perhaps they needed the experience more than any of the other followers of the Lord. There lay before these three men a path of agony, ceasless toil and death. James shall spread the everlasting gospel over Judea, Samaria and perhaps Spain, then he shall cheerfully take the cup, of which he had long since told his Lord he was ready to drink, and drinking, claim the martyr's crown. Peter shall follow in the path of his glorious Master, preach and teach and suffer. Then on the Vatican Mount, near the Tiber, he will surrender his life on an inverted cross; not thinking himself worthy to die as His Lord had done. John must have his Patnos experiences, be thrown into a caldron of boiling oil, from which God delivers him unhurt. Then weary old, and infirm, with the crown of ninety summers on his brow, he lies down to rest with his head on the bosom of His Master. Jesus knowing all this, takes them up for a mountain-top experience. He sees and knows our case too, and takes us up and lets us touch heaven for a little while, that we may be fitted for the acivities of the vale below.

Jesus Changes Their Names.

Peter is a "Rock" and his testimony and faith become the foundation of the church of God. James and John are "Sons of Thunder", and shake the world with their trumpet blasts of truth. And not only does Jesus change their names but he fortifies their faith by giving them such glimpse of his divine glory as kindles their admiraton for him, and convinces them that he is one with the Eternal Father. If Christ is God then all is well. Let storm rage and trials spend their fury. Fire or sword peace or war life or death all is well if Jesus is divine. So the divine shines through the human, and the very garments of Jesus become white and glistening as he talks to Moses and Elias of his coming passion.

Jesus Brings Immortality to Light

Jesus did not wait until he arose from the dead to bring immortality to light. Moses and Elijah have been dead for hundreds of years but there they are, alive forever more. They represent the triumphant church in heaven while Peter, James and John are the representatives of the church on earth. The church of earth and the church from heaven meet on the mountain and Jesus is Lord of both.

The Disciples Knew Moses and Elias.

Peter had never seen Moses and Elias on earth, but he knew them. Moses was last seen in the valley of Moab going down into a lonely grave, but now he stands in the full-orbed glory of immortal beauty. If Peter knew there shining ones whom he had never seen on earth will we not know our loved ones whom we have seen and loved?

The vision fades and leaves not but Jesus only.

The brightest visions of life will pass away, youth, health, wealth, friends, social position and all we hold dear; but what matters it if we have Jesus left.

Out of the rain and fog and darkness and depression, the traveller plunges into the Gothard Tunnel and in twenty minutes comes out into the blue of Italian skies, and the glory of summer. So will you pass through death's tunnel into endless glory. The music by Mr. Hartshorn and quartette at the evening service was much appreciated and the congregation was large.

The Side Lines of a Grain Growing Province

STUD HORSES AT NORTH BATTLEFORD, SASKATCHEWAN

The "Land of the Golden Grain" is a name well suited to the Province of Saskatchewan, the middle of the three prairie province of Canada, for grain growing has been the chief occupation of its inhabitants since the earliest days of its settlement. So good has been the quality and so heavy the yields of the wheat and other grains grown in Saskatchewan, that whenever the province was spoken about it was in association with grain, and many people thought, and a large proportion of them, no doubt, still think that grain growing was and is the only branch of farming carried on in this rich province. Probably, a very large number of people who now know something about Saskatchewan would never have heard of this province but for the success of Seager Wheeler, the "Wheat Wizard," first in winning, at the Madison Square Gardens, New York, in 1911, the thousand dollars in gold for the best hundred pounds of wheat grown on the American continent, and subsequent winnings of Mr. Wheeler and other Saskatchewan farmers at Tulsa, Oklahoma, Wichita, Kansas, El Paso, Texas, Peoria, Illinois, Kansas City, Mo., Chicago, and other places.

But experience of the last few years has shown that Saskatchewan farmers can and do raise other things than grain. Sheep, horses and cattle are all steadily increasing in numbers on the Saskatchewan farms, and evidence that these, too, are, like the grain, of a superior quality is forthcoming in the success of the animals from this province exhibited at the International Stock Show at Chicago this year.

A few years ago there were scarcely any sheep in Saskatchewan, but many of the early settlers soon recognized that the province as regards climate, feed and water was well suited to sheep, and they began to keep a few on their farms, the numbers have steadily increased year by year until now between 150,000 and 200,000 sheep are owned by farmers in Saskatchewan, and this year approximately 750,000 pounds of wool were produced.

But the raising of sheep has not advanced so much as the raising of horses. The provincial livestock commissioner claims that Saskatchewan is now the leading horse breeding province in the Dominion of Canada. The heavy draft horse with Percheron, Clydesdale or Belgian blood in him, is the kind of animal to which breeders here are devoting their attention, and farmers need not go out of the province to sell at satisfactory prices all such horses they can raise. The tractor has not displaced horses on the Saskatchewan farms nor is it likely to do so now. Most farmers have tried both, or have seen both tried, and have decided in favor of the horse. In 1919 there were more than a million horses in Saskatchewan, and the number has steadily increased since. Many of these horses are, perhaps, on the light side, but the light horses are being rapidly displaced by the heavier animals. The young draft horse weighing about 1,600 pounds or more is what most of the farmers in Saskatchewan are raising, and the demand for horses of this type is far ahead of the supply.

The quality of the horses that are being bred in Saskatchewan is exemplified by the successes at the International Show this year. The champion Clydesdale was a Saskatchewan horse, "Wee Donald," bred on the farm of L. Weaver, near Lloydminster, and the first prize stallion Belgian foal "Charles Deroseke" is owned by Coe Brothers and was bred on their farm near Regina. Last year the champion Belgian was a horse owned by Paul Rupp, who on his farm at Laurman, in the south of the province, has probably the finest herd of Belgian horses on the continent.

Like the horse and sheep industries the cattle industry of Saskatchewan has made substantial progress during the last few years. The provincial livestock commissioner estimates that there are now 100,000 more cattle in the province than there were a year ago. This marks the ratio of increase that has been going on from year to year, and the end is not yet, for there is still room for more cattle in the province than there are at present. In 1919 the total was 1,879,653 head, of which 374,062 were milk cows. The provincial government is devoting much attention to the livestock industry, and buys cattle at the leading markets selling them at cost to farmers on easy payments. The time is within the memory of many of the residents of the province when the only milk they ever got was the condensed variety, and when their butter had also to be imported. Not many years ago a beginning was made with dairying. The province soon produced more butter than was required to supply its own needs and had some to spare. During the last few years there has been a surplus for export to Great Britain, the United States, the Pacific Coast points of Canada, and cities in Eastern Canada. Last year one hundred and four carloads, or 6,622,000 pounds of the highest quality of creamery butter left the province, while this year the total export bids fair to exceed 7,000,000 pounds.

The side lines of this grain growing province have, therefore, already assumed a position of considerable importance, and are becoming increasingly important every year.

Meighen's Imported Experts Could Tell a Lot

No doubt you read the notice issued by the imported electioneering experts who are making the old Oriental Hotel their headquarters in their campaign to deliver West Peterborough into the hands of the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

They must be experts.

Otherwise they wouldn't be on that payroll.

Nor would they be entrusted with the big job the Meighen crowd have given them.

For the electors have been told that "the eyes of Canada are on this election—the most momentous in the history of the riding."

Experts or not, they got a fine mauling in East Elgin.

And everything isn't so rosy in West Peterborough—not at this stage.

According to their announcement the other day, the efficiency brigade is switching its plans.

They didn't intend to use newspaper publicity in their work here.

That was just like them, although the admission is not.

Speak-Easy Experts

They were going to keep their foot on the soft pedal while the scouts went through the highways and byways circulating the falsehood that if G. N. Gordon, the Liberal Candidate is elected, the Industries of Peterborough will curl up and die.

They are all Saying:

Gordon Is The Man

Give the rumour-mongers their due, they haven't lain down on the job.

They've been as busy as a swarm of locusts in a farmer's oat field in a dry summer.

You'd feel like admiring their energy and thoroughness if they were working for a good cause.

They took their cue from the Honourable Arthur Meighen and the headquarters staff ensconced in the old Oriental Hotel.

And the "free-trader" lie about G. N. Gordon, embroidered with the funereal fiction that his election would bring a sudden end to Peterborough's industrial prosperity, might have drawn a responsive moan or two if the people hadn't recognised it as the old tariff ghost.

So the imported scientific electioneers soon discovered that the big idea resurrected from the 1911 campaign wasn't sinking in.

Especially when the people were reminded that the issue in this bye-election was not the tariff, the Honourable Arthur Meighen to the contray notwithstanding.

So the imported experts get busy with a line of publicity propaganda to supplement the whispering campaign of the street scouts.

Why The Reluctance?

In their announcement they almost apologize for having to come out into the open.

They seem to be peeved at Mr. Gordon for trying to counteract whatever effect their "free-trader" lies may have had around town.

Apparently they thought that all they had to do was to select the tariff tune and G. N. Gordon would dance it while the so-called National Liberal and Conservative crowd voluntarily paid the piper.

It hasn't worked out that way, and the propaganda emanating from headquarters in the Oriental Hotel won't deceive the Electors of West Peterborough as to the issue in this Election.

What the People Want to Know

If the imported experts will tell the people the facts about the birth of the National Liberal and Conservative Government, who are behind it, who are sponsoring it, and why—they will get a hearing.

They might also explain why the Honourable Arthur Meighen, Sir George Foster, the Honourable Hugh Guthrie, and some others, hang on at Ottawa, while Sir Robert Borden, the Honourable Frank Carvell, the Honourable N. W. Rowell, General Mewburn, the Honourable A. K. Maclean, the Honourable T. A. Crerar, Sir Thomas White, and others, have resigned, having kept their promises to the people.

A dissertation on the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Party's conception of responsible government might also be illuminating in the present situation.

These are questions closely involved in the issue which the electors of West Peteborough will presently decide.

A VOTE FOR GORDON is a demand for the immediate restoration of the People's Right to Responsible Government.

CAMPBELL IS IN RUNNING

OTTAWA BELIEVES TECHNICAL ERROR WILL NOT DISQUALIFY U.F.O. CANDIDATE.

(Late Despatch; Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. — Failure to make out his deposit cheque to the Sheriff County instead of to the Receiver General as called for by law, will not, of itself, disqualify Corbett Campbell, U.F.O. candidate in West Peterborough.

Official notification of the error has not been received at Ottawa and from present indications the other candidates are willing to waive the technicality, but apart from these facts, a section of the Election Act provides that technical errors of themselves shall not invalidate an election. Compliance with the principles of the Act will override technical errors. In former times cheques were not accepted at all for deposit purposes. Dominion notes weer required. Later it was provided that an accepted cheque made out to the Receiver-General would also be accepted. The cheque deposited by Mr. Campbell was apparently an accepted cheque, though made out to the Sheriff and not to the Receiver-General. It is fully believed here that in case of protest Mr. Campbell would be held to have complid with the principles of the Act.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—Keen interest is taken here in the tangle which has arisen over the nominations in West Peterborough. No official protest has yet been received against the nominati of J. C. Campbell as the U.F.O. candidate, although there has been appeal by telegram for an opinion from the Minister of Justice. To this it is understood the Minister has replied that the question lies outside his jurisdiction .Observation is made here that the acceptance or non-acceptance of the nomiantion is a matter for the returning officer to decide as provided in the Dominion Elections Act.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. J. MILBURN.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. J. Milburn which took place from her late residence, 197 Brock street, yesteroday to Little Lake cemetery, was largely attended, testifying to the high esteem in which deceased was held, both by Smith township and city friends alike.

Her husband, the late Robert Thomas Milburn, predeceased her in early life. Mrs. Milburn proved to be a devout and loving mother, always striving in the interests of her family and those around her. She was a devoted and active member of George street Methodist church until failing health of later years prevented her.

Deceased is the last member of the family of the late S. S. Kelly ,of Bridgenorth.

The floral tributes which were many, showed the love and high esteem in which deceased was held.

ISABELLA KING.

The death occurred last night at the family residence 464 Park street of Isabella King, widow, of the late Peter King, aged 72 years. Deceased had been ailing for some time. Her husband predeceased her many years ago. She leaves six children, Herbert Minnie, Peter, Bella, Harry and Edward. The late Mrs. King was a Presbyterian, a member of St. Andrew's Church.

The funeral takes place Wednesday afternoon from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery. Service will be held at the house at two o'clock by Rev. Rollins.

HECTOR PERRIN.

Many were the expressions of reget when it was learned that Hector Perrin had passed away at his home on Lot 15 of the Broken Front of South Monaghan.

Hector was the eldest son of Thomas H. Perrin and his wife, Margaret Clarke, and was born in South Monaghan on July 24th, 1893. He was an industrious, faithful farmer, popular among his fellows, and respected by all. On November 27th, 1918, he was united in marriage with Helen Wilson, of Otonabee, and was making a comfortable home for himself and his wife, when suddenly he was stricken with pneumonia, and after three weeks' illness, passed away on Jan. 19th, 1921. The funeral services on Friday last were largely attended by neighbours, friends and fellow-members of Court Bailieboro of the Foresters, the clergyman participating therein being A. J. Doner, of Peterborough, E. Russell and M. W. Leigh. The impressive service of the Foresters was also used at the grave in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough. The pall-bearers were his brother Fred., Reuben Wilson, Charles C. Fisher, Norman Watkins, Harry Nicholson and James Finnie.

His wife, father and mother, brother Fred. and sister Ethel survive.

THE LATE MISS PONTON

THE BELMONT CLUB HAVE AGAIN

Been successful in securing the services of one of the John B. Rogers Co's Producing Agents, in the person of Mr. Ward, who will stage the most successful and modern minstrel shows, entitled "Hoop-la," in the Grand Opera House on Feb. 3 and 4.

We might state that their show of last year was one of the best and most successful that has ever been staged in the city and that everyone will be pleased to hear that one of their producers has returned to the city and will stage this wonderful production of "Hoop-la."

"Hoop-la" is not an old-time minstrel show but is a new combination of minstrel and musical extravaganza which when linked toegther give everyone a chance to laugh and forget they ever had any trouble or worries.

PARRINGTON—TRUE.
A very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 706 Gilmour street, Ottawa, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 18, when Florence E., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asher True, was united in marriage by Rev. G. A. McIntosh, of McLeod street Methodist church, to Mr. Thomas A. Parrington, of Peterborough.
The bride wore a costume of champagne satin with overdress of georgette with touches of peacock blue and corsage bouquet of ophelia roses. She was attended by Miss Irene Worth, who wore a gown of brown satin and corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ralph Parrington. As the bride entered the room on the arm of her father, the wedding march was played by Miss Mary Stedman, of Perth. During the signing of the register Miss Olga Bishop rendered "Because" very sweetly.
The house was prettily decorated with roses and daffodils. Many useful and costly gifts were received The out-of-town guests included the bride's cousin, Mrs. E. R. Stedman, of Perth, the groom's brother, Mr. Ralph Parrington, and Mr. Lawrence Gibson, of Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Parrington will leave in a few days for Peterborough, where they will reside.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—That genial old politician, Sir George Foster, gave as his reason for joining the new party and leaving the old, that Conservatives were too slow and Liberals too fast. Hence to secure a party that would not be too anything and would answer promptly to the driver's handling, they combined the two. This was all done without asking the people what they thought about it. The people have been treated by these artful dodgers as either too stupid or too dangerous to be consulted with safety, so they ignore them.

Sir George, I am told, pointed to this riding, in language properly disguised, as an instance of the people's unfitness to manage their own affairs since no sooner did the opportunity open than an avalanche of candidates fell into the arena. He may find himself mistaken in this fancying that people are either too stupid or too dangerous to be consulted. Money-sharks have grown over-confident if they think that the people cannot protect themselves. An elector asked me the other day why I was so strongly in favour of the old party system. It is because designing men, whether financial or otherwise, always rule by dividing their opponents. A people in a dozen or half-a-dozen groups not pulling together. They are simply in a state of disorganization and the prey to every schemer big and little. It is a wicked thing to try to persuade people that if they profess different policies, principles, ideas, etc., and are anything but united, they can ever be able to protect themselves. That is why the old parties, their traditions and their loyal adherents have been thrown to the wolves, literally as well as figuratively. They will be more easily handled in future, the leaders, or, rather, drivers, think. And then my good friends, the farmers, having been bred up to hate the Family Compact and all that that abominable organization stood for, have proceeded to form a family compact of their own, with the same motto. "We alone are fit to rule this country." This is a very strange world.

THE GERMAN PROBLEM IS CONSIDERED

ALLIED EXPERTS REPORT TO SUPREME COUNCIL ON PLAN FOR DISBANDMENT OF GERMAN MILITARY UNITS.

CONCEDES TO BRITAIN

(Canadian Associated Press).

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The Allied experts to-day handed the Supreme Allied Council their report on the plan for the disbandment of German military units. The reports give satisfaction to the French viewpoint on the question, providing for full compliance with all disarmament clauses of the Versailles Treaty.

It concedes to Great Britain's view as to the granting of a further delay which was suggested on Monday before the Supreme Council by Lloyd George. Two-thirds of the operation of disarmament must be completed by March 1st, and the work must be finished by July 1st. Paul Doumer, French Finance Minister, opened the discussion on German reparations by the Council this morning. He read the report on the financial situation and outlined the French viewpoint concerning the solution of the reparation question. The conference then heard Baron E. V. D'Abernon, British Ambassador to Germany.

Newspaper Criticism.

PARIS, Jan. 26. — Premier Lloyd George is understood to have taken exception to a file in a Paris newspaper criticising his attitude on various questions now being discussed by the Supreme Allied Council and has protested to Premier Briand regarding the tone of the French press.

"Since I am treated this way," Lloyd George is quoted as saying, "I tell you I will never come to Paris again."

M. Briand, in consequence of this protest, appealed to the newspaper reporters last night to use moderation in writing of the work of the Supreme Council.

"I am not supported by all of you," he declared. "Indiscretions, even pure inventions, were printed this morning, which do not please my interlocutors. If that goes on you will make it impossible for any more meetings to be held in Paris."

LENIENCY SHOWN.

KINGSTON, Jan. 26.—In Police Court Burton E. Hobson pleaded guilty to stealing a robe of the value of twenty dollars, the property of Thomas Vincent. The offence was committed on January 6th. A petition from neighbors of young Hobson was presented for leniency in view of the character of the young man who is only nineteen. Hobson was allowed to go under bond of one year's probation of good conduct. The robe had been sold to a second hand dealer for five dollars.

AGRICULTURE GOOD STATE

HON. DR. F. S. TOLMIE, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE, SAYS THE AGRARIAN INTERESTS IN SATISFACTORY CONDITION.

IS QUITE OPTIMISTIC

The Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, who is addressing meetings in the interests of the Government candidate in this riding, is a firm believer in Canada's future as an agricultural country. When interviewed by The Examiner yesterday afternoon, he said that at the present time he believed the entire agricultural industry was in a satisfactory condition.

Hon. Tolmie strongly recommends the adoption of mixed farming all over the Dominion, and also the increasing of the quality of the live stock of Canada by carful breeding. The raising of live stock, he claimed, had been found to be profitable. In England, Royalty take considerable interest in the breeding of the highest grades of horses, cattle, sheep, and swine. In fact, thy set the fashion in this, and the wealthy classes have followed suit, with the result that live stock in England is second to none in the world. In Canada, more interest should be taken by the wealthy classes in promoting pure breeding in live stock, and the farmers should attempt to raise the standards of their herds.

Mixed Farming.

Mieed farming is coming, both in Western as well as Eastern Canada, the Minister stated. Crops have to be rotated if the best results are to follow, and fertilisers will have to be used to a greater extent than in the past. "You can't have a bank account and keep writing cheques all the time. You must make deposits." This was the illustration Hon. Tolmie used to show his point.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie, looking over the live stock situation in this country to-day, stated that the health of the cattle in general was good, and while improvements could be made, Canada could well be proud of its cattle. With lower prices now existing in the coarser grains, he expected an increase in hog production in this country. At present, he said, the hog population was one-half million short of normal figures, but a movement towards normal is beginning. Whether the United States placed a high tariff on hogs or not, it would make little difference to Canadian hog producers, he declared, as Canada's hog market is overseas.

Sheep More Numerous.

Sheep are a little more numerous than last year ,the Minister stated. While wool and hides were very low in price now, it was a codition following the war that would not exist for ever, and even if there was no money in wool, one bright side of the cloud was that breeding sheep brought good prices. The Department of Agriculture had helped the wool situ-

LIBERAL LEADER IN PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE RETURNS TO TRAIL OF INTERNATIONAL NICKEL COMPANY TO RECOVER TAXES.

DISGORGE THOUSANDS

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 21.— The Liberal leader, H. Hartley Dewart, has given notice in the legislature of a motion calling for the initiation of proceedings against the International Nickel Company for the recovery of thousands of dollars of back taxes, claimed to be properly due the province. The motion reads:

"That in view of the fact that the Mining Tax Act, 1917, does not provide for the recovery by the province of Ontario of the arrears of taxes for the years prior to 1916, properly payable to the province by the Canadian Copper Company (International Nickel Company) under the report of the royal Ontario nickel commission, which said company was illegally granted a flat rate of taxation at the rate of $40,000 per year by an unauthorized agreement entered into in the month of December, 1913, between the then minister of lands, forests and mines and the Hon. Wallace Nesbbitt, (representing the company), covering the years 1911-12-13-14 and '15,

"And in view of the fact that no action has been taken by the government to recover the arrears of taxes properly payable since the resolution introduced last session was withdrawn by leave of the house, to give the government an opportunity to act. This house declares. "That it is the duty of the government to institute proceedings under the mining tax act to recover from the Canadian Copper Company (or the International Nickel Company), the arrears of taxes properly payable by it, and that the necessary ancillary legislation be passed conformable to the mining tax act of 1917, to include the years in question from the 31st day of December, 1915, back to the commencement of the period covered by the said illegal agreement, and authorizing the recovery by the government of the province of the taxes to which it is entitled and which have not been paid.'"

Against Delegation of Power.

Mr. Dewart is also asking the house to record its adherence to the principles of responsible parliamentary government under which the ministry in power shall take a stand as a government upon the prominent questions of the day, and also its disapproval of the delegation of authority and the unnecessary appointment of commissions to deal with matters that should be the subject of government action.

RATES CASE HAS CLOSED

LONG-DRAWN-OUT HEARING OF BELL COMPANY'S APPLICATION COMES TO END AND JUDGMENT IS RESERVED.

LASTED FOUR MONTHS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.— Argument in the long drawn out Bell Telephone rates case before the Board of Railway Commissioners terminated just before five o'clock last evening. The hearing of the application for an increase in rates with which was to be coupled the inauguration of the measured service system, opened here in September last and hearings were subsequently held at Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal. The application was opposed by practically all the municipalities and Boards of Trade and by the Provincial Governments. Telephone and public service experts from both sides of the international border were called as witnesses for and against the application and the hearings throughout have been particpated in by nearly a score of lawyers.

Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, did not take any part in the recent hearings, the chair being taken by the Assistant Chief Commissioner, Dr. S. J. McLean, who had with him on the bench Commissioners Nantel and Boyce.

The Commissioners reserved judgment at the close of the argument of Glyn Osler, K.C., of counsel for the Bell Company.

GUNMAN POISONS SELF FOLLOWING ARREST, TORONTO

ONE HOUR AFTER BEING LODGED IN CELLS RAYMOND BRUGER FOUND DEAD.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—One hour after he had been arrested for pointing a gun and tying Frank Bromfield's hands behind his back and ordering him to descend through a trap-door leading to the cellar in the drug store of R. C. Post, 889 Queen street east, yesterday afternoon, Raymond Bruger, aged 26 years, said to be from Kitchener, died in the cells of Pape Avenue Station from the effects of poison.

Bruger had been searched by the police before being placed in the cells, but a piece of paper found in the cell is thought by the police to have contained the drug with which Brugfier took his life. This was the only evidence the police have that would throw light on the prisoner's death. Bruger's actions to everyone who had seen him both before and after his arrest seemed very mysterious, and the police claim he was mentally unbalanced.

FERGUSON IS ALREADY OUT "FOR HIDES"

WILL DEMAND RETURN TO HOUSE OF ALL CORRESPONDENCE IN CONNECTION WITH TIMBER PROBE AND COST OF INQUIRY.

ON THE WARPATH NOW

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—It is the intention of the Conservatives in the Ontario Legislature to delve thoroughly into the recent negotiations of the Drury Ontario Government and the Backus interests, as indicated by the news of the demand made by the Hon. G. H. Ferguson for the return to the House of all correspondence in relation to the Lake of the Woods, White Dog Rapids, English River, and other concessions.

Mr. Ferguson also wants to know the cost of the Riddell-Latchford Timber Commission to date, with particular reference to the amount paid to R. T. Harding, former Crown investigator.

The Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, announced that it is the intention of the Government to have the Budget presented the first thing after the Speech from the Throne is over.

A bond issue of ten million dollars, which the Province has disposed of to a Toronto syndicate, is intended to provide funds for the Hydro-Electric development by the Queenston-Chippewa scheme. At present over six thousand men are employed on the undertaking, and it is expected that the bulk of the work there will be completed by July. One hundred thousand horse-power will, it is thought, be available by 1st September.

Legislation will be introduced early in the session by the Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labour, providing that in all permanent fire brigades, the men shall work on the double platoon system.

This legislation will safeguard the rights of fire fighters in so far as one day's rest in seven is concerned.

HARDING CABINET BEEN COMPLETED

NOTHING BUT POLITICAL EARTHQUAKE WILL CHANGE PERSONNEL.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A Republican leader, who has been closely in touch with President-elect Harding, last night announced that the Cabinet was practically complete, and that barring a political earthquake, it would remain as follows:

Weeks, of Massachusetts, former Senator; Attorney-General, Harry M. Daugherty, of Columbus, Ohio; Postmaster-General, Will H. Hays, of Indianapolis, attorney; Secretary of the Navy, Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, former Governor; Secretary of the Interior, George H. Sutherland, of Utah, former Senator; Secretary of Agriculture, Henry C. Wallace, of Iowa, publisher of the farm journal bearing his name; Secretary of Commerce (yet to be formally accepted), Herbert Hoover, of California, former Food Administrator; Secretary of Labour, Representative William J. Burke, of Pittsburg, Pa., or some representative of organised labour.

JURY CHARGES CARELESSNESS

VERDICT IN CASE OF WOMEN WHO DIED FROM EFFECTS OF SERUM IN TORONTO RENDERED.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—"We find that Miss Monica Kenney came to her death in Toronto on January 8, 1921, through receiving a drug improperly prepared by Dr. Faed and administered by Dr. McConnell.

'The jury further finds that Dr. Faed was guilty of gross carelessness in the matter.

"The jury further finds that Dr. Faed believed he was receiving neodiarsenol, and that Dr. Brodey gave him diarsenol instead of what he asked for.

"The jury find that Dr. McConnell is completely exonerated in the case.

"They further find that in the sale of diarsenol and neodiarenol the packages should be so different as to prohibit further mistakes."

After most of the previous witnesses had been recalled to give further evidence, a Coroner's jury, sitting under Coroner George W. Graham, presented the above verdict in the sensational case in which an erorr cost the lives of Miss Monica Kenney and Mrs. Emily Bond, shortly after they had received an injection of diarsenol, prepared as neodiarsenol should be, at the office of Dr. J. H. McConnell, 1653 Dundas street west.

FORMAL OPENING OF MEMORIAL HALL A NOTABLE SOCIAL FUNCTION UNDER AUSPICES OF GREAT WAR VETERANS.

TO ERECT TABLET

Lakefield's Memorial Hall, which is rapidly nearing completion, was formally opened last evening by a huge dance given by the Great War Veterans' Association, and the entertainment will be a memorable occasion in the social life of the town.

The splendid auditorium in which the dance was held was gayly decorated with gay pennants and flags, while the platform, which was occupied by the orchestra, was tastefully decorated with evergreens, each side finished with a huge spruce tree.

The patronesses of the dance were Mrs. Wesley Leonard, Mrs. Charles Stenner, Mrs. Herbert Stuart and Miss Margaret Kennedy. A few of those present were: Rev. A. W. and Mrs. MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. O. REVOLT AGAINST SOVIETS BEGINS IN EAST SIBERIA

PEASANTS BESIEGE TOWNS, BUT IN OTHER REGIONS BOLSHEVIKI HOLD UPPER HAND.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Reports that disturbances which broke out recently in Siberia are assuming an alarming character, are contained in a Helsingfors despatch to the Central News to-day. Peasants, it is declared, are besieging Siberian towns held and fortified by Soviet troops, thus cutting off the supply of foodstuffs from these towns.

On the other hand advices assert that in Eastern Siberia the Bolsheviki have began a great onslaught on the peasants and that terrorism is reigning over a large area.

LOCAL SCOTS HONOR BURNS' ANNIVERSARY

CALEDONIAN CLUB BANQUET LAST NIGHT COMMEMORATED ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF POET'S BIRTH

WAS NOTABLE EVENT

With the singing of the immortal Scotch song, "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot?" in the wee sma' hours o this morn, the banquet held by the Peterboro Caledonian Club in the Empress Hotel last evening, celebrating the one hundred and sixty-second anniversary of Robert Burns birthday to whom over one hundred and fifty Scots and their guests paid honour and humble tribute, was brought to a close.

Robert Burns was born on Jan. 25, 1759, and died on July 21, 1796.

In every clime last evening Scots as the various after dinner speakers said, were gathered to do honour to "Bobbie Burns," poet, priest and king. In every land and upon the seven seas men from Caledonia felt the spirit of the great poet upon them, and this spirit prevailed at every Caledonian banquet hall last night. It was felt last night by all who loved Burns.

The Menu.

The "haggis," loved by all true Scots and maligned by other nations, formed the "piece de resistance." The haggis was prepared by Mrs. J. Wylie and Mrs. Firie. To the stirring tunes of the bagpipes, played by David Grant and John A. Smith, it was borne in on a large platter on the shoulders of J. F. Reid, James Cumming, Robert French and Robert Veitch, and due observance was made by the banqueters to the famous Scotch dish.

The address to the haggis was delivered by Mr. William Heatherstone in true heather style.

The banquet hall last night was suitably decorated for the banquet. Two large flags, the Union Jack and the Scottish banner, were hung at the head of the room. Over the head of the room was Robert Burns' finest portrait and about the room were hung Burns' extracts and songs, famous on six six continents: "A man's a man for a' that," "Scots wha hae," "There was a Lad" Every toast, every song and every recitation was remindful of Robert Burns.

Ald. G. N. Gordon, the chairman, in a short addess, paid tribute to the great poet and the impression he left with the Scottish people. Robert Burns he declared, changed the disposition of the Scots. His influence was felt by Scots everywhere they might be, and with every memory of Burns' love of Scotland, which many knew they might never see again and were sad, surged through their hearts. Ald. Gordon told of the high positions Scotchmen had attained in every walk of life because of the inherent characteristcs of the race which Robert Burns has given expression to so beautifully.

In drinking to the toast of The King, the chairman reminded them that a Scottish king was the first to sit on the throne of Great Britain.

The toast, "The Immortal Memory," proposed by the chairman, was responded to by Judge E. C. S.Huycke. "It was his misfortune, and not his fault," he said, "that he could not address them, as the chairman had, as 'brother Scots,' ye," he said, "I esteem it a very great honour, and it is to me a very great pleasure to respond to this, the toast of the evening, and to Scotsmen, the toast of all evenings. I admire the Scots, the Scots characteristics and the Scotch people very much."

MR. WEARING REPLIES TO MR. CAMPBELL

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Since Mr. Campbell has seen fit to make public his own construction of my attitude in connection with his cheque, I am forced to state exactly what took place from my standpoint.

I was asked to attend at the Court House as Mr. Gordon's agent to see that all papers were correct. This is the usual and necessary practice in all elections, and earlier during the period Mr. McElderry was on hand closely scrutinizing all papers on behalf of Mr. Denne.

The time for nomination was between twelve and two. All the candidates except Mr. Campbell had their papers filed before twelve-thirty. Mr. Campbell arrived at a quarter to two. If he had come sooner his mistake might have been rectified. At Belleville a year ago last fall the U.F.O. candidate arrived shortly before two o'clock and then found that his papers were not witnessed properly. Not having time to remedy the error he was unable to file his papers. These are not trivial matters. They are highly important; and if Mr. Campbell ever enters the House of Commons he will find that Parliamentary practice is highly technical and that unless things are done in a certain way they cannot be done at all. The business of the country cannot be done in a slip shod, happy-go-lucky fashion.

When Mr. Campbell's papers went in I looked them over and glanced at the cheque which I saw was for $200 and marked. Then, afterwards while chatting with the men present, the suspicion entered my mind that the cheque being payable to J. A. Hall, was not correct. In order to be sure I went downstairs to the law library and looked up the Dominion Elections Act, which stated plainly that the cheque was invalid unless payable to the Receiver General of Canada. After trying in vain to get in touch with Mr. Gordon I arrived back to the court room just after two o'clock and the Sheriff was leaving the Court Room. I asked him to let me see the papers and cheque again and then showed him that according to the Act the cheque was not correct. There were no representatives of the other candidates present and I told Mr. Campbell that while he could no doubt straighten the matter out, I felt it my disagreeable duty to make an informal protest until I had seen Mr. Gordon.

As soon as I laid the facts before Mr. Gordon he at once said that under no consideration would he attempt to take advantage of any technical error and wanted to have the issues of the election fought out at the polls.

Mr. Campbell knows that if he had asked me I would have been glad to have looked over his papers to see if they were correct. I have advised him on other occasions during this election. He also knows that because of the fact that there is no fundamental difference between the Liberal and U.F.O. platform, I promised him my whole-hearted support if no Liberal candidate were brought out. Mr. Campbell is a very fine and a clever man, but there are some things he cannot be expected to know as well as those who have been specially trained along certain lines.

This election must be decided without regard to personal matters. All the candidates are good men. I hate to oppose Mr. Campbell just as I do Mr. Burnham and Mr. Denne, both of whom I know well and highly respect. The issue in this election is whether we are still free people or whether we are prepared to allow our rights of government to be usurped by the old Star Chamber methods. The Government machine is trying to ride roughshod over the electors of West Peterborough, dragging after it the tariff bogie to obscure the issue. The historic Liberal party which has through the centuries fought one battle after another for the rights of the people, is again fighting over again the right of free people to govern themselves in their own way. A vote for the Government candidate is a vote for government by the monied interests of Toronto and Montreal, for their own selfish ends. A vote for G. N. Gordon is a vote for government by the people for the people, instead of government by an autocracy such as we have at present.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH WEARING.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritating, bleeding itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes:—"I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Campbell's Election Address

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

As the nominee of the National Progressive Party I respectfully solicit your support and influence. The National Progressive Party is an outgrowth of the farmers' political movement. The forces which have led to its inauguration have been in operation for many years. They resulted from the chaotic condition into which the two old political parties have lapsed. The formation of the party in its present form was completed last December at a meeting of the Canadian Council of Agriculture held in Winnipeg.

The platform of the National Progressive Party, which has been known as "The Farmers' Platform," is one which is eminently fair to all classes in the community. It was found, therefore, soon after it was first formulated and published, seven years ago, that many people living in towns and cities approved o the platform, and desired to have the privilege of co-operating with farmers in carrying it into effect. It was decided, therefore, last December to accept these offers of support from our urban centers. The original scope of the movement, therefore, was enlarged and the National Progressive Party was formed. All electors, whether they live in towns and cities or in our country districts, who approve of the platform of the party, and who would like to become members and supporters of the party are invited to do so. They will be given a full voice in its management, including, hereafter, the selection of candidates. Thus it will be seen that the National Progressive Party does not represent a class movement, as is being charged, but is thoroughly democratic.

WHY THE PARTY WAS FORMED.

The inception of the party grew out of the conviction that neither of the old political parties were dealing in any adequate way with many of the national problems of the day. Both seemed more concerned about either trying to hang on to office—as the present Government is doing—or in endeavoring to get into power. Neither of them fearlessly enunciated their principles and policies and then stood by those principles. Both seemed more concerned with protecting the "big interests" than in safe-guarding the interests of the common people. For instance, who can distinguish any difference in this campaign between the tariff platforms of the National Liberal-Conservative Party and of the Liberal Party. Both disclaim high or low tariff tendencies, both clamor for "adequate" protection and neither say definitely what they will do with the tariff. Both are endeavoring to project their decisions in this matter into the future and thereby avoid having to tell the electors frankly and fully just what they do intend to do.

A GREAT PROBLEM.

One of the greatest menaces to our national welfare is the rapid decline of our rural population and the even more rapid congestion of population in our large urban centres. This has caused an abnormal increase in the high cost of living. To-day the rural population of Ontario is 159,000 less than 20 years ago, and we are producing 141,000 acres less of fall wheat, 295,000 acres less of spring wheat, 259,000 acres less of barley and 550,000 acres less of peas. Conditions now are such that a modest six-roomed house in the city rents for more than a good 100-acre farm, with a better house, good outbuildings and 100 acres of productive land. If the development of these conditions is not soon checked the results will be a further increase in the high cost of living, and even more pronounced distress and unrest in our urban centres. The final results will be fully as disastrous to the residents of our towns and cities as they can possibly be to our rural population.

"Ill fares the land
To hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates
And men decay."

Both of the old political parties have had ample opportunity to deal with this problem. Neither have done so. As far as can be seen, neither seem to know that it exists. The National Progressive Party does propose dealing with it and in a manner that will be eminently fair to all classes of our population.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION.

Where do the old political parties stand on the great prohibition question? The self-chosen candidate of the Conservative Party in this by-election is out-spoken in his opposition to it. None of the other parties represented in this campaign have pronounced themselves on it, nor have their candidates. Although the people of this Province have voted by overwhelming majorities in favor of the fullest possible measure of prohibition, the law for which they voted is being shamelessly violated because the Dominion Government still permits the importation into Ontario of spirituous liquors. Premier Meighen violated his written promise to permit the people to vote last fall on this matter and postponed the vote until next spring. We are now informed that the liquor interests propose fighting the legality of any law dealing with it that may be passed and to carry the fight, if necessary, to the Privy Council. Should not the political parties let it be known where they stand? The National Progressive Party is the only one which has done so.

OUR PLATFORM—THE TARIFF.

As the candidate of the National Progressive Party, I am proud of its platform. Space does not permit of my dealing with it in full. The following are some of its main planks:—

THE TARIFF: We realize that many of Canada's industries have grown up under a protective system. Therefore, we do not propose to make sudden and revolutionary changes in the tariff. At the same time we believe that "the Protective Tariff has fostered combines, trusts and 'gentlemen's agreements' in almost every line of Canadian industrial enterprise, by means of which the people of Canada—both urban and rural—have been shamefully exploited through the elimination of competition, the ruination of many of our smaller industries and the advancement of prices on practically all manufactured goods to the full extent permitted by the tariff."

For this reason, and in order that the high cost of living, which bears with such severity on the masses of our people, may be reduced, we advocate,

(a) That there shall be an immediate and substantial all-round reduction of the Customs Tariff.

(b) That all foodstuffs shall be placed on the free list.

(Note this last clause carefully. It shows that the farmers who support the National Progressive Party do not ask for any tariff favors for themselves on the articles they produce and that they are willing to forego such protection as they now possess. Could anything prove more conclusively than this, that our farmers are not seeking for any favors for themselves as a class?)

(c) In order that the cost of living may be still further reduced, by encouraging a greater prodtction of foodstuffs through making it possible for farmers to produce their crops at less expense, we advocate,

(d) That agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating fuel and lubricating oils be placed on the free list, and that (in order to help the manufacturers of these products) all raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture also be placed on the free list.

(e) That all tariff concessions granted to other countries be immediately extended to Great Britain.

(f) That all corporations engaged in the manufacture of products protected by the customs tariff be obliged to publish annually comprehensive and accurate statements of their earnings.

(g) That every claim for tariff protection by any industry should be heard publicly before a special committee of parliament.

PROHIBITION: The plank in the platform of the National Progressive Party dealing with prohibition, reads as follows:—

(h) We recommend "the prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages in Canada." I pledge myself to support this policy.

NATIONAL RESOURCES: In order that the shameful waste of the natural resources of the country that has characterized the governments of both of the old political parties in the past may be ended, we recommend,

(i) That no more natural resources be alienated from the crown, but brought into use only under short-term leases, in which the interests of the public shall be properly safe-guarded, such leases to be granted only by public auction.

OTHER REFORMS: We recommend, also, the following reforms:—

The reform of the Federal Senate.

An immediate check upon the growth of government by order-in-council, and increased responsibility of individual members of parliament in all legislation.

The complete abolition of the patronage system.

The publication of contributions and expenditures both before and after election campaigns.

The setting forth by daily newspapers and periodical publications, of the facts of their ownership and control.

A FARMERS' GOVERNMENT.

Fear was expressed before the last provincial election that if the farmers were elected to power they would not be able to give a good government. It was apprehended, also, that they would be guilty of selfish class legislation.

It is now freely admitted that the present Ontario Government is possibly the best government Ontario has ever had and that it has been absolutely free from suspicion of class legislation. We believe that the National Progressive Party, when elected to power, will do equally as well under its great and well-known leader, Hon. T. A. Crerar.

In the present by-election, therefore, I appeal with confidence to all classes of the electorate for their support and pledge myself, if elected, to give the electors of West Peterborough the best and most conscientious service of which I am capable.

Respectfully yours,
J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

(Hear this platform explained on Friday night in the Grand Opera House.)

ONCE PASTOR, NOW ROBBER

EX-CLERGYMAN CONFESSES HE PLANNED MAIL POUCH ROBBERY, WHICH NETTED HIS GANG $212,000—MUCH OF BOOTY RECOVERED.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Jan. 26.—Guy Kyle, former clergyman and a prominent business man of this city, has confessed that he planned the mail pouch robbery here a week ago which netted the robbers $212,000. Kyle implicated four others, none of whom has been arrested.

Prior to his confession $180,000 was found secreted in and about the home of the former pastor. After the confession Government agents found an additional $5,000 secreted throughout the house, in bureau drawers, in the flour bin, coal pile, and upward of $1,000 in spare tires in the garage.

A tip of $5 paid by the retired clergyman to an expressman started the investigation which led to the recovery of the major part of the registered mail loot and brought about the arrest.

Kyle is 46 years old and has a wife and two children living here. Lawrence Haves, a former employee of Kyle, was named by Kyle as being his right hand man in the robbery.

About $100,000 of the money, most of it in fifty and one hundred dollar bills, was found in an egg crate in the garage now conducted by the former pastor of the Mount Vernon Free Methodist Church.

"Elmer Allen, a teamster, admitted that Kyle hired his wagon yesterday to haul two boxes to Kyle's home from the latter's factory," Sheriff Irvin said. "He said he told Kyle the charge would be $1.50, but that Kyle threw him a $5 bill and said, 'You did a good piece of work and it's worth $5 to me.'"

All but $300 of the amount of cash stolen has been recovered, but $27,000 in securities still is missing. The authorities are of the belief that Kyle and his confederates destroyed them.

The quick solution of the mail robbery is regarded as one of the most remarkable achievements in the annals of the Post Office Department. It was last Friday that the postal inspectors' bureau was upset by the announcement that $185,000 in currency, most of it in small bills, which easily could be disposed of, and about $27,000 in securities, had vanished from the railway station at Mount Vernon. Inspectors were rushed to the spot at once and began work.

Most of the money was destined for the payrolls of mines in the city. It had been sent by registered mail from Chicago and St. Louis banks. There were thirty-one packages, all in four sacks. These sacks were turned over to an express man named Sam Moreland for delivery to a railway station. Moreland went back into the post office to telephone. When he came out the four sacks were missing.

Not until the postal inspectors apprised them of it did the postmaster and the express man realize that a fortune had been stolen from beneath their noses. Neither, so far as the inspectors could learn, did the robbers guess at the richness of the plunder.

Inspectors came to the conclusion that the robbery had been committed by persons living in the neighborhood. By a careful process of eliminations they sifted the probabe operations to the Kyle-Williamson garage. Williamson reported to the Government inspectors that his partner Kyle had so much money during the last week that he was suspicious.

"My partner has money in every pocket," Williamson told the Government agents. "He has been spending money all week. I think he makes it, because he told me there was lots more where that came from."

It is said Kyle admitted to the Government officers to-night that he was once convicted of bootlegging and gambling at Keysport, Ill.

Kyle withdrew from the Free Methodist Chorch two years ago. He said the poor pay caosed his withdrawal. At present he is the leader of a sect known as the Nazarenes.

REPORT OF PLOT TO RELEASE PRISONERS

SENTRIES INCREASED AT PORTSMOUTH PENITENTIARY---NO PLOT SAYS WARDEN PONSFORD.

KINGSTON, Jan. 25. — Warden Ponsford has increased the number of sentries on duty at the Portsmouth penitentiary, owing to the arrival at the institution of a large number of long term desperadoes.

It was reported from Portsmouth that a plot was discovered to effect a wholesale delivery this week and that several desperate criminals were under suspicion. The action of the warden in calling in the outside gang and placing special watch on certain wall towers, that had not been manned, caused many to believe the report of a plot. This however, Warden Ponsford states, is not correct. No plot was discovered or any warning given, but he has taken precautions to prevent the escape of these newcomers, which was made necessary because the population has increased from 450 to 650 within the past year.

FOUND STARVING IN CHURCH TOWER

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Just as the organ pealed a prelude to services in the Eighteenth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, 305 West Eighteenth Street, Sunday morning, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Benjamin C. Warren heard stumbling footsteps in a deserted tower which once had housed his study but now contains only a storeroom.

Sexton Crawford was sent to investigate. He found a young man, weak, ill and incoherent, who murmured that he needed water. Crawford gave him a glass and he drank it as though his throat was parched.

He was taken downstairs, where he told a rambling story, which gave his hearers the impression that he was delirious. His name, he said, was Timothy Jones; he was twenty-four years old, and came to New York City a few days ago after spending two weeks in Binghampton. He gave the impression that the city was not his home.

Talking with Crawford and the clergyman, Jones was uncertain when, why or how he secreted himself in the tower. As far as they could fit together his disconnected statements, he had been there about two days. According to Crawford, he did not say he was hungry, but produced a $20 bill when asked if he were destitute. He wore a watch and chain which seemed to be valuable.

Patrolman Hackett was called and took the young man to the West Twentieth Street station. Here he said, according to the police, that he had wandered into the church a week ago because he was sick and out of work and did not know where to turn. Chancing upon the stairs to the tower he made his way there. When he came upon the little room which the pastor had used several weeks ago, its seclusion appealed to him and he decided he would shut himself in there and die.

To the police Jones insisted he had been in the tower a whole week. He said he was hungry, and proved it to the extent of gulping eagerly a bowl of hot soup brought from a lunchroom. The police said that when they questioned Jones as to his motive in hiding himself, he replied that he felt so hopeless he decided to die, and concluded he could have a peaceful ending by remaining in the little room until the end. The craving for water drove him to disclose his presence just as the congregation was gathering, he said.

Dr. Durfee was called from New York Hospital. He found the patient suffering from chills, and the ambulance surgeon took him to Bellevue: There Jones said he came to New York a week ago from Philadelphia in a sealed box car. He said he looked without success for a job of some sort, and a week ago yesterday went into the church to get out of the cold. Then he wandered to the tower.

Physicians at the hospital at first believed his condition was serious, but last night they said he was responding to treatment and was sleeping well after taking ample nourishment. They believed he would be in condition to-day to give a more coherent account of himself.

It was learned that when Jones first came to New York he rented a room in West Twentieth Street. No additional information about him could be obtained there, however.

INFANT MORTALITY WAS HIGH AT OSHAWA.

OSHAWA, Jan. 25. — Oshawas birth rate was increased during 1920 by 136 over the previous year, and the death rate increased by 87 for the same period, according to vital statistics kept by the Town Clerk. In the matter of births the stork evidently played favorites for their were 13 more girls than boys left at Oshawa homes. The unlucky number, however need not be feared. The total number of births for 12 months was 407 of which 197 were boys and and 210 girls.

The death rate among infants under one year for the 12 months was strikingly high, the total being 80, as compared with 37 in 1919. This fact was strongly commented on by Dr. McKay, M.O.H., in his annual yearly report a few months ago.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1921.

THE NEW WARDEN.

Congratulations are due Reeve W. E. Griffith, of Belmont township upon the evidence of the confidence reposed in him by his fellow members of the County Council, shown by his election yesterday as Warden of the County for the present year. The new Warden has been a useful member of the Council since 1915. He has filled the various chairmanships and has been attentive to his duties and keen in his anxiety to legislate in the interests of the ratepayers. In the question of good roads he has been particularly interested and at all times he has been thoroughly alive to the responsibilities of his position. He should make an excellent presiding officer for the County Council.

Incidentally the election proceedings yesterday—Mr. Griffith being successful in defeating Reeve Clark of Galway—were characterized by a spirit of harmony and good fellowship that was commented on by more than one visitor. Mr. Clark proved an admirable loser and on all sides the best of feeling was shown—a spirit that augurs well for harmonious and effective sessions of the county body.

A SPLENDID ASSOCIATION.

The enthusiasm and good fellowship that prevailed at the banquet of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company's Athletic Association the other night were strong proof of the success of the experiment in organizing such an association in connection with an industrial plant. Everybody from the heads of the firm to the newest apprentice in the Wm. Hamilton plant is enthusiastic over the progress that has been made since the Athletic Association was created and the result is the development of an esprit de crops that has undoubtedly been responsible not only for more pleasant working conditions, but for better work on the part of the employees. In few factories is there a better spirit of co-operation and friendly interest shown and the formation of the athletic club is given credit for being in a great measure responsible for this condition of affairs. It has been found in many large industrial concerns that there is a minimum of labour troubles where there is plenty of healthful recreation for the employees and the successful development of the Wm. Hamilton Athletic Association is a local proof of the benefits that are produced by an enthusiastic interest in manly sports.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Little novel in the way of legislation was foreshadowed in the speech from the Throne delivered at the opening of the Ontario Legislature yesterday. Amendments to existing legislation are announced but the chief new feature was the statement that a standing committee on labour legislation is to be established. It is the intention that all questions in regard to labour matters shall be referred to this committee as for some time past legal and municipal matters have been sent to the respective committees detailed to deal with them. The establishment of a labour committee, due doubtless to the pressure exerted by the Labour member of the Legislature, will facilitate the consideration of legislation in which the workers are interested and there is not likely to be any objection to the plan from the other groups in the House.

In spite of the absence of any suggestion of the introduction of much new legislation there is every evidence that the session, which opened yesterday, is likely to be full of interest. The Government forces at present comprise just half the Legislature, so that nominally the administration has no majority, and a combination of all the groups against the Government—not a likely event, however—would be disastrous. The situation offers some very entertaining possibilities, and the proceedings will be watched with much more than the usual interest by the people of the province.

BUY CANADIAN GOODS.

The remedy for the present unemployment situation and for the trade depression that exists in some lines at least, is in the hands of the Canadian people. It is simple. If the people of this country would unite in a resolve to buy Canadian made goods as far as possible, instead of imported goods, the problem would be quickly solved. It is a matter of record that for the year ending November 1920, Canadians imported goods to the value of $1,345,582,300 as against $920,082,927 for the previous year, an increase of purchases from other countries amounting to $425,499,373. Of this huge total $927,564,711 worth, or 68 per cent., came from the United States, and the Canadian people had to pay exchange reaching as high as 17 1-4 per cent. The figures are startling, and yet, in spite of them, Canadians are still sending their money to the United States and paying heavy exchange for American goods, in spite of the fact that thousands of Canadian workers who are willing and able to produce the most of these imports are out of employment because Canadian factories are running only part time or closing altogether for lack of orders. The unemloyed men and their families in many cases are being supported at the public expense, and as a result the taxpayers have an additional burden to meet.

Putting patriotism on one side, it is common sense to buy Canadian goods, because by so doing you will relieve the exchange situation and provide employment. Every merchant, every clerk, should be a leader in spreading the "made-in-Canada" idea by talking Canadian goods at all times and keeping their customers informed as to the merit of such goods and the advisability of buying them in preference to the foreign article. Canada does not need to spend nearly a billion dollars a year in the United States and pay the heavy exchange rate for goods, the greater part of which can be produced at home, and if every Canadian does his part by buying the Canadian-made goods the beneficial effect upon industrial and trade conditions will be speedily felt.

RELIEVING THE UNEMPLOYED

As the growing army of the unemployed are the victims of economic conditions for which they are not to blame, temporary relief is the duty of the community and local governments. The condition will pass, but while it is acute no man should go hungry, no family be neglected. In almost every city social service organizations are providing meals for the unemployed who have saved nothing for a rainy day or who have been unfortunate. But what most of the destitute want is work, not benevolence or charity; and work is being found by many municipalities to the limit of their resources. A typical case of municipal aid is the appropriation of $250,000 by the City Council of Detroit, where two weeks ago 100,000 men were out of work. During the war the wage rate was high in Detroit, the standard having been set by Henry Ford, who was in a position to defy competition and to be a law unto himself in making wage schedules. Detroit to-day is paying the penalty of his uneconomic policy. It has more than its share of unemployed. The money now appropriated by the city is to be administered by the City Welfare Commission.

It is the duty of employers of labor, especially of those whose profits were large during the war, to strain a point to furnish work for their deserving men. And they are doing it in a great many cases, some of them at a steady loss. In the end they will not be losers by their humanity. One great concern near New York has much stock on hand that it cannot dispose of, but it provides work for its operatives five days each week. Only a company with a surplus or unfailing credit could afford to do this.

Demonstrations by unemployed men to draw attention to their necessities should be permitted so long as they keep within the law. They will be wise if they do so. Lawlessness would only have the effect of aggravating their condition and postponing the resumption of employment for all. Disorder is not a congenial atmosphere for industry. Montreal has witnessed a disquieting incident that stopped just short of lawlessness. A crowd of men, some of whom were out of work and others of whom did not want to work, as the sequel showed, marched into a restaurant and demanded food. They were at first refused, and threats were made. Subsequently they were fed but the police had to be asked to clear the place for the regular patrons. Some restaurants make it a practice to provide a "bread line" at night for the hungry, but in the Montreal case the proprietor evidently believed that he would escape trouble, at the time or later, by becoming host to his threatening visitors. The demand for food was in its nature a disorderly manifestation, and it was not warranted by the attitude of the local authorities toward the unemployed. Later these demonstrators could all have had city work shoveling snow, but many of them declined it, some of their leaders persuading them not to consider a wage of 32 1-2 cents an hour.

Montreal has arranged to give employment to every man in need of it, prodided he shows his good faith by registering. The restaurant invasion was disquieting, because, according to the Chairman of the Administrative Commission, a Bolshevist element is fomenting trouble among the unemployed and has a hand in every demonstration. This official intimates that a resort for the radicals was a place opened by an organization calling itself the Unemployed ex-Service Men's Association. This would be sinister if true. In the United States, where the American Legion sets an example to ex-service men by championing law and order, radicals of Boshevist tendencies could not claim svmpathy in that quarter.—New York Times.

TRENT WATERWAY ASSOCIATION MET IN CITY YESTERDAY

PLANS DISCUSSED AND FINANCE COMMITTEE FORMED.

A most enthusiastic gathering of representatives of the various municipalities on the Trent Waterway, representing the Board of Directors of the Trent Waterway Development Association, convened at luncheon at the Empress Hotel at noon yesterday, which was followed by a meeting in the Board of Trade Rooms, to consider the future policy of the Association.

On information being received that the Government had decided to discontinue the completion of the construction work on the Severn Division of the Canal, Mr. G. K. Fraser, the President, considered that the subject was worthy of the attention of the Association. After a thorough discussion, and in view of the considerable expenditure already made on the Canal, and that no adequate benefits could be derived from the canal system without its completion, and in view of the small amount necessary to complete the work, it was decided to forward a resolution to the Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals, requesting that this work should be completed. The co-operation of the various smaller organizations through the district will also be requested in obtaining this measure, amongst which are the Severn River Improvement Ass'n., the Gloucester Pool Association, and the Sparrow Lake Association.

Owing to the marked results accruing from the extensive advertising which was put on by the Association last year, it was decided that further advertising must be done during the coming year, to bring the tourists particularly from the United States through the Trent Waterway. The financing of this advertising will be covered by the various municipalities along the entire route, and by this method will save a considerable amount in attaining the desired end.

The commercial use of the Canal was also considered, but in view of the incompletion of the Canal on the Severn Livision at present, it was decided that nothing of a particularly comprehensive character could be definitely gone into, as a business proposition.

Owing to the number of inquiries from motor-boat enthusiasts during the last season for charts of the Wateway, the Department will be urged to complete these as early as possible to conduct the activities duing the year.

It was decided that a finance committee should be formed, to determine on a membership fee, which shall be payable by all municipalities who are varticularly interested in the development of the Waterway. The President, Mr. G. K. Fraser, the Vice-President, Mr. F. D. Kerr, and the Secretary were appointed as the Finance Committee, to bring in a report at the next meeting of the Board of Directors.

Among those present were Messrs. J. C. Miller, Geo. J. Overend, and Captain Smith, of Orillia; J. J. Meyers, of Campbellford; N. Smale and Mr. Flavelle, of Lindsay; Senator W. H. Bennett and B. Hanley, of Midland; G. K. Fraser, of Burleigh; A. B. Johnson, M.P.P., of Orillia; His Worship Mayor A. A. McIntyre, City Clerk S. R Armstrong, and F. D. Kerr, of Peterborough.

Other matters of consideable importance were considered at the meeting, and without a doubt 1921 will see marked activities throughout Central Ontario, in the development of the most ideal water route in Canada.

Following the meeting the delegates paid a few visits around the city, including a visit to the new bridge.

There are two women immigrants for every man entering the United States.

MR. BURNHAM'S ELECTION ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Owing to my resignation, a by-election will be held here on February 7th. I resigned because when Liberals and others joined in electing me to support the Union Government of Sir Robert Borden in 1917, I promised, as did Sir Robert Borden and those supporting him, to go to the People in a general election when the war was over. Without that promise it would have been useless and unfair to ask for Liberal support. Union Liberals were warned against a trap, but they could not believe that anybody would betray their trust. And who would have believed it? The Union Government was elected for the period of the war, and no longer.

But the war ended and the Union Government ended, and why was the promised general election not held? Because, without any mandate or mission from anybody on earth but themselves, Messrs. Meighen and Calder seized the reins of power and announced to an astonished Canada a new government and a new party, "The National Liberal and Conservative Party." The members of the Conservative Party and of the Liberal Party were directed to hand in their submission to the new party without delay. Was there ever such a hold-up staged before? This is the age of hold-ups, it is true, but till now no one has attempted to run off with two parties and a whole state.

A local committee of the Meighen Government's supporters were directed to secure a Liberal as candidate for the new party at this by-election. The committee went around accordingly asking prominent Peterborough Liberals to take the job, but they were met with very definite refusals. A convention therefore of members of the new party (if there are any) is called to try and get a candidate. As I am a Conservative I shall not attend and on no consideration will I desert or try to break up the Old Party. Its fate may be said without exaggeration to depend upon this election. It is in fact a common cause—this effort to get back to where we were before the war. And the new government is already in difficulties, and it cannot last, for no party can be two parties at one and the same time—both Liberal and Conservative. No man can be both Grit and Tory. There cannot be two policies. A party must have one policy, a united following, and one name, unless it carries an alias. I stand as a straight Conservative, which the Prime Minister truly says his new party is not. But at this election my only policy is a demand for an immediate general appeal to the People.

It is most dangerous to government by the People that governments should be seizable with impunity. Where will it end? And the Conservative Party shall not pass. In the interests of Canada it and what it stands for must not be allowed to pass. How dare a clique elect itself to office and seek to wipe out the old parties; and all organized opposition to itself, and to treat the people with contempt? A defeat for the new Government here will mean an immediate general election with the old parties lined up against each other as before. It would then be a clear issue and a clear conscience, and a re-establishment of the rule of the People. And who do you think is behind the new government? It is not the People, for they were not asked. It is not the soldiers, for I knocked out Calder in one round when he tried to shut the soldiers out, and threatened that the government would resign. Who then? And watch for the comments of that branch of the Press when they begin to turn their mud-guns upon me. They have begun already. For the safety of popular government therefore, I ask your support.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S

By C. H. Wellington

BECAUSE of the repeated mis-statements of G. N. Gordon, the Mackenzie King candidate, made on the platform and in the Press by Advertisement and otherwise, it has become necessary to use this space in order that the people of West Peterborough may know the facts. The National Liberal and Conservative Committee believe that the attempts to mislead the electors of this riding by means of attacks, slanderous in character, will have no effect. Mr. Gordon may continue his campaign of misrepresentation according to his undisputed ability in this line, if he wishes. Again we desire to emphasize that it is our policy to state the facts, plain and unvarnished.

PETERBOROUGH POLITICS

MR. J. H. BURNHAM AND HIS ALLEGED PROMISE

In his election addess Mr. J. H. Burnham says, "I resigned because, I promised as did Sir Robert Borden and those supporting him to go to the people in a general election when the war was over."

MR. BURNHAM'S STATEMENT IS INCORRECT.

Not even Messrs. King, Ernest Lapointe or G. N. Gordon, at the recent Liberal rally in the Opera House affirmed anything of the kind in regard to the late Prime Minister. But that is really not the point. The point at issue at the moment is—to resign his seat on the conclusion of the war, and to whom did he make the promise. We can tell the electors when the late member for West Peterborough

WHEN DID MR. BURNHAM PROMISE

DID NOT MAKE THE ALLEGED PROMISE.

He did not make the promise in the course of his election address; he did not make it in the course of any speech during the campaign, at least so far as one can gather from the columns of the two local papers at the time. He must have been very careful and guarded in his utterances for so extraordinary a promise to have escaped the notice of the two news chroniclers of the city.

HE MADE NO SUCH PROMISE

in his card of thanks wrich he published the day following the elections. This being the case, is it not

A FAIR QUESTION TO MR. BURNHAM

To ask him when and to whom he ever promised to resign his seat in Parliament upon the conclusion of war. Of course one might also ask him why he has taken so long to fulfil his alleged promise?

Why he continued to lend his support to Sir Robert Borden, the man who according to Mr. Burnham thought so little of his pledged word that he continued to remain in power, in spite of his promise to resign on the conclusion of the war.

One might also ask Mr. Burnham why he outraged his better feelings by continuing to assist in the carrying out of the weighty and important legislation introduced into the house by his leader after war had ceased?

The Treaty of Peace was signed at Versailles, on June 28th, 1919 ,and it consequently took Mr. Burnham a year to carry out his promise which he asserts he made, presumably to the electors.

WHEN DID MR. BURNHAM MAKE THAT PROMISE?

TARIFF IS THE ISSUE AND NOTHING ELSE

Mr. Mackenzie King has made another announcement on the tariff. In Peterborough on Saturday he told his hearers that the tariff in this bye-election was not the issue at all, and that the Liberal party would never think of changing the present tariff without consulting the people at a general election. When the Liberal leader gets through with defining his position on the tariff the great public will be in an excellent frame of mind to be consulted. There will have to be a great consultation with him to find out what he means by a tariff first.

Most seriously, however,

HOW DOES MR. KING PROPOSE TO CONSULT THE PEOPLE

at the next general election on so grave a question? The electorate cannot be consulted upon any issue in order to give a mandate, unless a definite proposal is submitted to it either to be approved of or rejected. Is it to be a high tariff, a low tariff, a tariff for the protection of industries, or for reevnue only?

Is it going to be one in which the duty on all food stuffs and implements of productoin is to be removed or will it be one which will have the U. S. tariff in view? If it is to be which will seriously affect the revenues of the country, how does Mr. Mackenzie King propose to make up the differences so as to meet our financial requirements—by increased income tax, by sales tax, by a tax on land—or how? These are serious matters and the country can only be consulted intelligently on any issue by first knowing the definite terms of the issue, and anything in that respect so far proposed by Mr. King is like a pig in a poke.

MR. MEIGHEN, ON THE OTHER HAND,

alone as a leader, has stated definitely what he proposes to submit to the electors. He will lay an actual tariff schedule before them, in which the duty on every article of import is in black and white. The reasons for the schedule in the form in which it will exist will be given to Parliament and explained to the country when it comes time for the explanation to be made. That is the only reasonable and intelligible way electors can be consulted. They will know absolutely what they are voting for.

MR. KING IS AFRAID OF THE TARIFF

and hence he declares it is not an issue in this bye-election. He knows that West Peterboro is solidly protectionist. Bye-elections have always been regarded as indicating the trend of public opinion—that is, in a straight up and down fight as between the candidates of two parties—and the electors of this constituency, lest there should be any doubt about their protectionist principles, which are so seriously at stake, should cast their ballots on that issue, and that alone.

When he arrives in the constituency, Mr. Crerar

WILL TELL QUITE A DIFFERENT STORY

from Mr. King. He may not say it is the intention to do away with protection, at least for some considerable time to come, but he will argue with all his might in favour of free trade and against the evils of the tariff. If any but the government candidate wins, it will be argued that, as it was about East Elgin by papers supporting both Messrs. King and Crerar, it means a verdict for free trade.

THE CRY OF A DEMAGOGUE IS HEARD IN THE LAND.

"I stand for protection," exclaims the Mackenzie King candidate, and he adds, "I stand for protection for the many from the greed of the few."

Thus Mr. Gordon, an apt pupil of his leader, tries to get a foot on both ends of Mr. King's fiscal platform. The first part of his declaration is to deceive Protectionists; the second part to deceive Free Traders.

Peterborough has an opportunity of penalizing this kind of pussyfooting and demagogy. The man who comes out squarely for Free Trade impeaches his intellect, but has at least the merit of honesty. But the man who, like Mr. Gordon, tries by meaningless catch-cries, to curry favour with both sides, is a fiscal humbug unworthy of our public life.

THE OPPOSITION CANDIDATES AND QUESTION OF EXCHANGE

Canadian dollars are now worth but 85 cents in the United States. The reason is that while Canada, with a population of but nine millions, is buying goods from the United States at the rate of a billion dollars a year, the United States, with a population of one hundred millions, is buying goods from Canadians at the rate of but 500 millions a year. A nation like an individual, cannot go on buying more than it sells without going into debt, depreciates the value of its notes—hence the depreciation of our currency.

For such a humiliating position there is of course, but one remedy: We must buy less from the United States.

Yet the remedy which the Farmer and Mackenzie King parties prescribe is that we should lower our tariff barriers and make it easier to buy more from the United States.

MR. KING AND THE PEOPLE

Mr. King, who likes to pose as a constitutionalist, pretends to great confidence in the people. Judging from the, by-elections that have taken place within the past two years; however, the people do not reciprocate with confidence in Mr. King. Here is the record:

Stormont-Glengarry—No King candidate.

North Ontario—No King candidate.

Assinaboia—King candidate overwhelmed.

Temiskaming—King candidate overwhelmed.

Colchester—No King candidate.

St. John—King candidate lost deposit.

Yale—King candidate badly defeated.

East Elgin—King candidate last in 3-cornered fight.

Thus out of eight by-elections Mr. King, who professes so much anxiety for a fight, had five of his candidates snowed under and struck his flag altogether in the other three.

All of which does not support the claim that the people are just dying to put Mr. Meighen out and Mr. King in.

Mr. Ernest Lapointe, M.P., forgot to mention these facts last Saturday evening when referring to the results of by-elections.

MACKENZIE KING'S VAPORINGS AS TO ELECTION OF LEADERS.

Mr. Mackenzie King devoted a great part of his speech to Peterboro electors last Saturday to an effort to show that while his own leadership represented the will of the Canadian people expressed in open convention, Mr. Meighen's leadership was due to an autocratic assumption of power.

Well, let us see!

Mr. Meighen was elected leader of his party by the majority in Parliament, elected representatives of the overwhelming majority of the Canadian people.

Mr. King was selected by a small majority of the minority of a single party, the representatives of which were not elected by all the people, but who derived their authority solely from a few hole-in-the-corner local party associations.

Which leader ,then,

REPRESENTS THE MORE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE—

Meighen, the selection of the people's elected representatives, or King, the selection of a few local associations?

The plain truth is that the method by which Mr. Meighen was elected is the method by which all parliamentary leaders are selected—the method which selected Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir James Whitney, Sir Robert Borden, Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. King's claims to the contrary are the mere vaporings of a politician bankrupt in genuine argument.

MR. KING AND POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Mackenzie King, Opposition leader, evinces great solicitude for popular government. One cannot help feeling, however, that his anxiety for it is of mushroom growth. The cause of democratic, popular government passed through its greatest crisis between 1914 and 1918; and there is no record of Mr. King having battled valiantly or otherwise for its safety during those dark years. The cold truth is that during the past five years the cause of democratic government had been confined to hands like Mr. King's, its reign over most of the world would have been replaced by the battalioned despotism of German.

LIQUOR BEING SHIPPED VALUED AT MILLIONS

(Canadian Press.)

SASKATOON, Jan. 26.—Liquor valued at millions of dollars is being shipped into Saskatchewan at the present time by wholesale liquor concerns, according to an announcement made by the Saskatchewan Liquor Commission. There is enough whiskey being shipped into the Province at the present time to take care of all the export resuirements of Canada for at least two years, it is asserted. Members of the commission anticipate that while this liquor remains in the Province it will be a menace to the putting into effect of the prohibition measures which become effective February 1. There will always be a certain amount of leakage within the Province and will be until this vast quantity has been finally disposed of.

ROBT. SCOTT, OF CHANDOS, AT 30, YOUNGEST MEMBER OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL IN YEARS

WAS ELECTED TO THE TOWNSHIP COUNCIL IN 1913 AND 14 AND SERVED OVERSEAS WITH THE 93RD BATTALION—REEVE SHAW, OF HARVEY, NOW BEGINNING HIS TWENTY-NINTH YEAR IN THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

TWO SCOTTS IN COUNCIL

Robert Scott, the new reeve of Chandos, is one of the youngest members the County Council has received in years. He is thirty years old and was elected this year as successor to Fred Bullied. Reeve Scott was a Councillor for Chandos in 1913 and 1914 in his early twenties. He has an overseas record to his credit having enlisted in the 93rd battalion with which unit he trained in Peterboro before leaving for Kingston.

The youngest County Councillor in the memory of County Clerk E. M. Elliott was Rork Ferguson, reeve of Dummer township in 1912 and 1913 Reeve Ferguson was only 27 years of age, when he was first elected to the County Council. Like Reeve Scott he was unmarried at that stage of his career but his election to the reeveship was shortly followed his desertion from the ranks of the bachelors.

Reeve Scott's colleagues are wondering whether fortune will favour him in the same way.

The Scotts Have It.

There are now two Scotts in the Council, and to avoid confusion the members immediately began designating them by their first names. Reeve Robert Scott of Chandos and his namesake Reeve John Scott of Asphodel have a little majority of their own.

Max Brown former Reeve of Asphodel Michael Welsh, former Reeve of Douro, Fred Bullied, late of Chandos and now of Peterboro and ex-Reeve Squire of Norwood were all present yesterday. It was a sort of old boy reunion, and lacked only ex-Reeve Wm. Matheson of Havelock to complete the quorum.

The Nestor of the Council

Robert Shaw, reeve of Harvey, is this year begining his twenty-ninth term as a member of the County Council. He was first elected reeve of his township in 1889, thirty-three years ago, and sat on the County Council continuously for nineteen years. He retired on two occasions, the first in 1908 for one year and the second during the years 1916, 1917 and 1918, when Robert Ingram was elected reeve.

Mr. Shaw has been twice Warden, in 1894 and in 1904. Few men in this county are more widely known and more highly respected than the same "Bob" Shaw.

Harvey is not one of the "front" townships. It lies in the midlands of the county, and has its fertile as well as it sterile sections. On the whole it is a good average township, and it has quite a number of first class farms. For these reasons it is all the more striking that such a community should be so fortunate in finding in one man the qualities that survive the long test Reeve Shaw has been through. He is easily the veteran of the Council but there is none of the "old-fogey" about him. And in many respects he reflects a fresher and more youthful outlook upon life than many of his younger colleagues. Councils come and councils go, but Shaw goes on forever.

He holds the long service record in the Council of Peterboro county. His nearest competitor is J. B. Pearse who was reeve of Norwood for twenty-six years.

With Reeve Shaw and his twenty-nine years' experience and Reeve Robert Scott of Chandos who is in his thirtieth year, is the youngest reeve the Council has seen in a long time, the extremes of municipal service meet.

WINTER COST OF SURFACE DRAINS MUCH HIGHER THAN IN SUMMER

ESTIMATES BY CITY ENGINEER PARSONS SUBMITTED TO THE COUNCIL LAST NIGHT—REQUEST MR. TOOMS TO LAY PETITION FOR LOCAL LABORATORY BEFORE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

City Engineer Parsons' estimates of the cost of proposed surface drainage, which has been suggested as a means of providing employment this winter, were laid over for future consideration at the special meeting of the Council last night.

The report showed that the construction of a drain on Weller Street to complete the system between Park Street and the Monaghan Road would cvost $5,487.50 in winter and $4,276.30 in summer. These are approximate figures, but they indicate the difference in the expenditure for winter and summer outside work.

The estimate for a drain on Gilmour Street is $5,285.40 for winter and $4,110.50 for summer; and on Homewood Avenue $4,607.00 for winter and $3,522.00 for summer.

The Council decided to defer the discussion of this project for a short time.

Strike Out a Clause.

An amendment by Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald. Jones, was carried, eliding from the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee the recommendation that the committee interview the firemen, asking them whether they would work seven days a week and accept the back pay for the day they have already been off.

Is Acting Chairman.

Ald. Phelan was appointed acting chairman of the Finance Committee, in the absence of Ald. Turner, who leaves for Europe to-night. The appointment was made on the motion of Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Gainey.

The discussion of questions pertaining to the Fire Department was transferred from the Fire, Water and Light Committee to the Committee of the Whole Council on Ald. Hamilton's motion, seconded by Ald. Crowe.

The report of the Finance Committee was adopted, postponing action on the request of the promoters of the Well Babies' Clinc for a grant from the Council until the estimates for the year are under consideration.

The Finance Committee also recommended the acceptance of the offer of the Bank of Montreal to loan, at the rate of six per cent., funds for the construction of the Ashburnham Bridge until the debentures which have been authorized have been sold.

May Get Laboratory.

A deputation from the Medical Association informed the Council of the intentions of the Provincial Board of Health to establish three more laboratories, and urged that an effort be made to secure one of them for Petterborough.

The doctors present were T. W. H. Young, J. A. Morgan, A. W. MacPherson and T. N. Greer. They asked whether the Council would provide proper quarters for the proposed laboratory, together with light, heat and caretaking.

The Council's readiness to comply with this petition was expressed in a motion by Ald. Crowe, seconded by Ald. Hay, which included a request to Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., that he apply to the authorities to have the laboratory located in this city.

PETERBOROUGH TALENT ASSISTED IN PORT HOPE.

At the presentation of "As You Like It" at Port Hope, by St. Mary's Club of that town, about a score of Knights of Columbus from Peterborough and Cobourg were present. The piece was prettily staged and commendably presented throughout. As an adjunct to the play, recitations of classic passages, "The Taming of the Shrew," "Julius Caesar," and "Hamlet," were acceptably rendered. The Guide of Port Hope says: Miss Geraldine McManus, of Peterborough, delighted the audience with her sweet, rich voice, to which the piano acompaniment by Miss Florence Giroux was marked by faultless technique.

TOOK THREE TRIPS WEST SEEKING HEALTH

Toronto Woman, After Eight Years Suffering Is Now Well and Happy—Tanlac Gets the Credit, She Says.

"I took all kind of medicines and treatments, underwent several operations and made three trips West for my health, but failed to get any relief until I took Tanlac," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Minnie Robinson, of 950 Greenwood avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

"For about eight years I was in a terribly run-down condition, which started from internal trouble. My appetite was very poor and the little I managed to eat caused me to suffer fearfully with indigestion. My food gave me little nourishment, caused such awful pain I could hardly stand it and I lost considerable weight. I had dreadful headaches all the time, was so nervous the least little noise would upset me and I would lie awake a large portion of the night unable to sleep. My kidneys bothered me a great deal and I had very severe pains through the small of my back. I would get up mornings feeling dizzy and tired out and, in spite of all I could do, I could find nothing to help me.

"My husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac one day, and it did so much good I just threw all other medicines away and kept taking it until I now feel like an entirely different person. I have a splendid appetite, eat just anything I want and my stomach never troubles me a particle. I sleep like a child every night and have actually gained sixteen pounds in weight. It's certainly wonderful to be in such good health, and I just praise Tanlac to the skies."

Tanlac is sold by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

PUT UP FIGHT FOR GAME CONSERVATION

MOOSE AND MOUNTAIN SHEEP ARE BEING SLAUGHTERED BY THOUSANDS.

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26.—Major Neil Armstrong, big game hunter and pioneer Yukoner, is fighting a big fight for game conservation in Canada's frozen North. Moose and mountain sheep are being slaughtered by the thousand by multi-millionaire so-called sportsmen from the United States, he said in a recent interview, and explorers and prospectors who have to live off the country year after year are finding their task increasingly difficult. Even the caribou are being thinned out, although the largest herd retaining its identity on the American Continent still contains several hundred thousand head and is to be seen every year migrating from the Arctic to South-eastern Alaska. Last year it took two weeks for the herd moving continuously to pass.

During his interview Major Armstrong mentioned a discovery that will be of interest to ornithologists and nature students generally. The famous trumpeter swan, which until recently was believed to be extinct, survives in the Far North. During a recent visit to Ottawa Major Armstrong was permitted to view a private showing of a film obtained last summer by the Canadian Government, showing 19 of these beautiful birds swimming about in a lake, the location of which is a closely guarded secret. A member of the Parks Board staff found this flock in a wild bird sanctuary and made close observation of their movements. While the migratory habits of the birds make it impossible to guarantee that the birds can be preserved, arrangements with the United States game conservation authorities lead to the hope that the flock will multiply until trumpeter swans will again become fairly numerous.

QUICKER DEVELOPMENT FOR THE NORTHWEST

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—"Scientific farming on a small scale would bring bigger profits to the western farmer and quicker development for the country," C. S. Noble, of Nobleford, Sask., largest individual farmer in the West, declared in an interview here.

"Farmers in the West have cultivated large areas simply because land was cheap. But we must get away from the idea of so many acres and turn our attention to the number of bushels per acre to get the best results," he said. "Under present labor conditions the man who intensively cultivates a half section will make greater gains than the large-scale farmer. A big population of small-scale farmers, who are personally interested in the land, will bring prosperity to the Prairies.

Mr. Noble has 33,000 acres under cultivation and has been a successful large-scale farmer from the start.

"It takes many years to develop a large farm to a profit basis of operation," he said. "Now I use Government-tested seed and get big results, but it is expensive."

HAD BAD COUGH FOR THREE YEARS

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes:—"I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house, and also recommend it to others.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c. and 60c. a bottle; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUST BE VACCINATED.

SMITH'S FALLS, Jan. 26.—The Board of Education decided not to go on with the test case in connection with the vaccination of school children, which was to have been heard at Ottawa before a judge of the supreme court. A new order has been issued by the M.O.H. forbidding attendance at schools unless vaccinated. There are no cases yet in Smith's Falls.

AUTO BANDITS RAID WESTCHESTER ROADS NEAR ROCKEFELLER'S

AUTOMOBILE PARTIES HELD UP IN FOG, SNOTS FIRED, WOMAN AND TWO MEN ARE BEATEN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Highwaymen in a fast automobile raided at their leisure along the Albany Post Road, between Tarrytown and Ossining early yesterday morning. They escaped with more than $1,000 in cash, jewelry and costly furs belonging to the women companions of belated motorists whom they robbed at lonely spots near the Sleepy Hollow Country Club and the estates of Mrs. Finley J. Sheppard (formerly Miss Helen Gould), and William Rockefeller.

Shots fired by the marauders missed their victims in the darkness, but two men who made feeble signs of resistance and a woman who screamed in fright were assaulted with fists and pistol butts, one of them escaping worse treatment of feigning death as he lay in the roadway.

State troopers last night scoured the vicinity in the hope of coming upon the robbers—there were three of them—or at least of preventing further depredations. The police of Yonkers, Mount Vernon, Tarrytown, Irvington and Ossining joined in the search, but though two New York license numbers were reported on the touring car the raiders used, they had not been traced at a late hour.

The police of Westchester believe the highwaymen, who were said by their victims to have spoken with foreign accents, were the same who held up a Port Chester woman in Purchase last week and robbed several stores in Mount Kisco and Katonah.

NIGHT RIDERS AGAIN APPEAR IN THE SOUTH

WARN TOBACCO GROWERS TO HAUL NO MORE TOBACCO TO THE MARKETS.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 26.—Night riders visited farmers in Bath and Fleming counties last night and warned them not to haul any more tobacco to market until prices were higher, according to reports received here to-night. The reports, received from Mount Sterling, Carlisle and Flemingsburg, said the growers were warned that their barns would be burned and that they would be dealt with severely unless they complied.

The band, consisting of twenty-five or thirty masked men, visited farmers near Sherbourne, in Fleming County, twelve miles from Flemingsburg, and Bethel, in Bath County, twelve miles from Carlisle. About fifteen farmers were visited, although the names of only a few were disclosed by the authorities.

T. S. Robertson, a wealthy farmer near Bethel, was called to his door at 12.30 o'clock last night according to a report from Carlisle. Four men standing with their backs to him warned him that he was not to haul away any more tobacco nor to rent any of his farms for tobacco raising, nor to raise any himself. The warning was accompanied by threats of violence to himself and his property if he failed to obey.

Thomas Croath, Jake Boyd and a farmer named Stevens were then visited and the warning repeated.

The band next appeared near Sherbourne and warned two farmers named Shields and Tomlin. They are known to have visited three other farmers, but when the occupants came to the door they laughed and said they were "looking for a doctor."

THE USES OF FICTION

(By F. M. DELA FOSSE)

One hears of men and women sitting down to write an article without the faintest conception of what they are going to write about and, wonderful to relate, making a success of it. It is said that some of the best of short stories have been written in this way, and we know of two instances at least in literature where men relied for success on the extent of their reading and the copiousness of their imagination. Beckford, the eccentric author of "Vathek," wrote that wonderful combination of the fantastic and the sublime in a single sitting of three days and two nights, and Dr. Johnson, in order to obtain funds for his mother's funeral, produced "Rasselas" in the evenings of one week. But these were men of genius. Most of us have to have many books of reference at hand in order to write an article that will have some semblance of thought and continuity of argument to make it presentable for publication.

A librarian is in a happier position than many, for he is surrounded by the literature of the ages. He can, at will, consult Jew or Gentile, priest or pagan, and he must be hard driven indeed for a subject if he cannot find one on the shelves that confront him.

With these thoughts in my head and gazing alternately at the shelves and at the stream of people entering and leaving the Library, I couldn't help feeling that the taste for fiction was getting a stronger hold than ever on the reading public. There were few indeed of those who were looking at the books or who had already procured their reading matter who had showed any interest in anything but novels. For those of us who take any interest in such matters, the first feeling is apt to be one of regret that such should be the case, but it does not take much consideration to discover that. After all, there is more to be said in favour of the reading of fiction than against it.

That there are bad books, absolutely unnecessary books, goes without saying. But even a bad or unnecessary book, one may aver at the risk of appearing paradoxical, has a certain usefulness. It is simply bearing out the principles of analogy in nature, which provides good and bad in every stratum of existence. We have the poison in the bad book, we have the antidote in the good one. And what a fund of joy there is in a good novel! It cheers the sufferer in the sick room more than the visit of many a friend. When the jaded mind cannot pursue the trend of a work on science or on philosophy it can turn with delight and a feeling of restfulness to a work of fiction.

But the present-day novel has, in a large measure, usurped other realms of usefulness. We have the religious novel, the historical novel, the novel that deals with science, with literature or with art. In fact, so far has the novel invaded the domains of her older sisters that Mr. H. G. Wells lately gave vent to the remark that "there is no problem, divine, human or infernal from which the novelist of the future will be warned off." Mr. Wells is well known as a prophet and, as if to bear out his remark, we have Mr. George Moore presenting us "In the Brook Kerith," with a portraiture of our Saviour in fiction.

To many a schoolboy the dry facts of history have been rendered interesting by the writings of Scott, Macaulay, Kingsley, Dumas and many others, and who can tell what thirst for travel has been engendered in the minds and hearts of Britons by the fascinating books of Marryat, Mayne Reid, Ballantyne, Kingston, Brereton, Henty, Clark Russell and Conrad?

These things must not be forgotten in summing up the pros and cons of fiction.

F. M. DELAFOSSE.

Health

Comes to you and the children if you have Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house. For "little-ones" and "grown-ups" this old fashioned vegetable tonic and blood-maker is still used by the million bottles every year. It was first used by everybody 50 years ago and is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. It is made up of Blood root, Oregon Grape root, Queen's root, Stone root, Cherry Bark, without alcohol. Make your blood redder and your health better by going to your nearest druggist and obtaining Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form.

CENTRAL BUTTE, SASK.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a number of years, and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs, as it differs so from other cough medicines; instead of upsetting the stomach, as most cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—MRS. PERLEY WOOD.

COLLEGIATE TEACHERS MAY WALK OUT AGAIN

STRUCK LAST AUTUMN AND SECURED INCREASED SALARIES.

(Canadian Press.)

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Jan. 26.—That the staff of the Prince of Wales College and Normal School, who went on strike last autumn for higher salaries and returned to their positions on the promise of the Provincial Government that the matter of increases would be given favorable consideration, are still dissatisfied and may "walk out" again, is the substance of a persistent rumor. The faculty are keeping their own counsel, but interesting developments are expected at any time.

The pedagogical strike took place while the teachers were in receipt of the following stipends:

Dr. N. S. Robertson, principal, $2,100; G. S. Steele, vice-principal, $1,700; E. Blanchard, $1,400; J. G. Bennett, $1,300; Miss R. McGrath, $1,150; Miss L. Seaman, $1,200; J. P. Smith, $1,200.

After the college had been closed for several days and the staff withdrew its resignation as a body and went back to work, increases of $300 were given to the principal and the vice-principal, another member of the staff had his salary increased $400, another $250 and the remaining two each received a $200 increase.

These additions to their salaries did not meet the full demands of the teachers, who are asking $2,500 a year for the principal, $2,200 for the vice-principal and a further increase of $200 for the rest of the staff.

The school teachers of Prince Edward Island receive their training at Dr. Robertson's Normal School and another "holiday" at the institution might be a serious thing for the Island's educational system.

After the re-opening of the last school term in August there were seventy-five vacant schools in the Province, but the situation has been improved since then and the number has been reduced to about thirty. An increase in teachers' salaries passed at the last session of the Legislature, although not as large as expected, has prevented further decimation of the ranks of the pedagogues.

AMENITIES MARK THE OPENING SESSION OF THE COUNTY COUNTY

WARDEN GRIFFITH'S ELECTION EVOKED FINE SPIRIT OF SPORTSMANSHIP FROM REEVE JOHN CLARK, HIS OPPONENT FOR THE WARDENSHIP.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The election of William E. Griffith, Reeve of Belmont, as Warden of the County of Peterborough, at the opening of the Conty Council yesterday afternoon, was not only a triumph for himself, but also an event of honor for Reeve John Clark, of Galway, who was also nominated, but was defeated on the first ballot.

Reeve Clark accepted the decision of a majority of the Council with spontaneous grace and sportsmanship. He was the first to congratulate Warden Griffith and to assure him of the fullest co-operation in the work this year produces.

Mr. Griffith was nominated by Reeve McIntosh of North Monaghan and seconded by Reeve W. T. Curtis, of Havelock.

Mr. Clark was proposed by Reeve Darling of Dummer and seconded by Reeve Shaw of Harvey.

Reeve Duncan Brown of Burleigh was also nominated by Reeve Coughlin of Douro and seconded by ex-Warden Nicholls of Smith, but declined their nomination.

Warden Griffith was elected on the first ballot. He had eleven votes, a majority of the Council.

The Warden's Address.

In his address to the Council Warden Griffith said: "I don't know whether I am really qualified for the position and the honor you have conferred on me or not, but I want to say that I am thankful to one and all for their hearty support. I came to this Council in 1915, and there are only three faces here to-day that were here when I first came. I thank my mover and seconder and my supporters, and also those who did not see their way to support me. My opponent is a worthy man. He is probably better qualified than I am, and Iam thankful to those who stuck to their choice. I hope for the full co-operation of all the members. I shall endeavour to do my duty to the best of my ability, and I feel that there is no need of asking you to do the same. I know you will. You have done it in the past and I feel sure you will do it in the future. Therefore I see no reason why we shouldn't have a successful year in the management of the county's affairs. I ask for your co-operation, and I thank you."

Mr. Clark's Compliment.

Reeve Clark congratulated the Warden-elect ,and said that his defeat was mitigated by the realization that a better man than himself was appointed.

"I think Warden Griffith is worthy of the position, and I don't feel sore, I didn't canvass the members, for I know the County Councillors have brains enough to know what they should do. So I am well satisfied."

"I thank Mr. Clark for his kind remarks," Warden Griffith replied, "but I don't think I am better qualified than he is. I believe he is as well qualified as I am and a little better.

With these expressions of amity the new Council settled down to the business of 1921.

Auditors Appointed.

W. H. Casement of Lakefield and W. E. Packenham, of Norwood, were appointed auditors on Reeve Shaw's motion, seconded by Reeve Darling.

Mr. Packenham succeeds the late Archibald Breault.

Praise For Matron.

In the report of the committee were the following references:

"I have the pleasure to report to you the efficiency of the staff. No greater attention could be given than that given by the Superintendent and Matron.

As a result of wear and constant usage, some of the conveniences are far from satisfactory, and I would enlist the approval of the Council in giving my successor plenty of latitude in having these things brought back to a proper standard.

"Without complaint, the superintendent has struggled against great odds and it is not fair to impose on him much longer.

The stock are in prime condition and give evidence of care having been exercised in breeding.

"I would recommend painting of all buildings as soon as prices anything like reasonable prevail, for this past year the cost of such was practically prohibitive."

Roads and Bridges Report.

Ex-Reeve B. W. Squire, chairman last year of the Roads and Bridges committee, reported as follows:

The following bridges have been rebuilt under the supervision of your committee: Girvin's in Asphodel, Jack's on the boundary between Victoria and Peterborough; your committee had intended building the North Squaw river bridge in Harvey, and in fact has the plans and specifications in the custody of the clerk, having been approved by the Department of Highways, but due to scarcity of cement at the time we were ready to start, we had to lay the construction over for another year. I might say that the steel is stored at Hall's bridge. The cost of material and labour was so abnormal during the past year that your committee, with the consent of Reeve Scott, decided to make slight repairs to some bridges in Asphodel for the present. I might also say that although authority was vested in your committee to do some bridge building in Otonabee, through the thoughtfulness of Mr. Eason and with his consent, the same was delayed for another year. I had the Galway bridges inspected subsequent to your order-in-council last session, and those who were with me will bear me out in recommending the immediate propping up of the west end of the Molyneux bridge with a view to having a new abutment built at that end during the coming session.

We decided to have the boundary bridge between Victoria and Peterborough, on the Bobcaygeon road, rebuilt; that is subject to the acquiescence of the Victoria Council.

I would respectfully recommend the Council of 1921 to have all culverts and bridges inspected by your Warden, the chairman, the county roads superintendent and our Mr. R. Gordon, who has given so much satisfaction to the Council as a builder, and to bring in an estimate of the cost of repairs or construction as the case may be, thereby averting when such repairs have been made, any possibility of an action for damages by autoists. After which all money left could be expended on the roads proper.

In referring to the abnormal cost of improvements, whether bridges, county property, Court House, House of Refuge, your various committees have gone as far as they thought wise and absolutely necessary, and I am sure that the Council of 1920 have done nothing to regret along these lines, notwithstanding any criticism that might emanate from aspirants to public office or chronic grumblers.

Permi me to say gentlemen that in severing my relations with you, I do so feeling that all have done their duty, and I sincerely trust that you will have the same kindly feeling for me that I have for all my old colleagues."

GRASSHOPPERS PLAN INVASION OF STATES

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—Circulation of a despatch which credited to official advices at Washington the statement that "Grasshoppers are planning an invasion of the United States from Canada," has prompted the publication here of contradictory statements based on the personal investigation of United States agents in North Dakota. In a report on the "International Grasshoppers' Migration," being observations in Bottineau and Renville Counties, North Dakota, by A. C. Burill, U.S. special field agent, and C. L. Corkiss, county entomologist, Messrs. Burill and Corkiss express the opinion that the grasshopper migration is largely from the United States to Canada.

Excerpts from the "observations" go on to say: "The evidence from our observation shows no doubt that large flights of grasshoppers moved from the United States in Canada, upsetting much of what had been a hitherto successful campaign against the grasshoppers hatching there. Many Canadians are disgruntled about it and many farmers in Botineau County think it shameful that the Government of the United States could not or did not put on as successful a campaign on this side of the boundary. They see no reason why the United States failed to force the farmers to fight as strenuously on this side of the border as men were forced to do so on the Canadian side.

"We have the following results for days that flights were observed: 14 to Canada, 8 southward and 2 eastward. This would give 58 per cent. Canadaward, 33 per cent. southward and 9 per cent. eastward. Limiting the observations to the larger swarms, we have 6 Canadaward, 3 southward and 1 eastward, giving a larger percentage of 60, 30 and 20. This shows very clearly that the majority of the migrating adult hoppers have gone to Canada."

LOCAL SCOTS HONOUR ETC.

Continuing, he pointed out, the great countries of the world were indebted to the small ones for religion, art and learning and Scotland has contributed as much or more of these things than any other country. Over the known world Scotsmen held positions of power and influence. When the call came to defend the Emipre, Scotsmen returned and fought and died. "They were inferior to no race and superior to many," said His Honour.

To-night, he said, Scotsmen everywhere were pledging the memory of Bobbie Burns. Dwelling on Scotch literature, His Honour stated that the great poet awakened a new literature in Scotland, to be followed by Sir Walter Scott and others equally famous writers, of which the last great one has been Ian McLaren.

"I would like to tell you why I love Burns and why he has taken the position in literature that he has. Burns had a great true heart that felt all human emotions and his poetry was for this reason loved by all. While Scotsmen felt that "Tam o' Shanter" was his greatest poem, Judge Huycke believed his "Cotter's Saturday Night" to be his finest work.

With all due deference to his great poems Judge Huycke did not think it was his poems that had given him immortality—it was his songs. Not only his stirring war songs, as "Scots Wha Hae," but tender love songs which rank only second to the great Scotch love song, "Annie Laurie," which is sometimes credited to him, but by mistake.

Judge Huycke painted a glowing picture of Burns' achievements in giving expression to the character and ideas of the Scots people, but he drew a sadder picture of his last days spent in poverty His Honour read a "Commemoration Ode," written by a devout Scotsman, William Beatty, to Robert Burns, on the 150th Burns' Anniversary—paying a beautiful tribute to Burns.

While Burns lived and worked for his king he worked more for the Scottish people and his name and his memory will be ever sacred.

He hoped the Caledonian Club would celebrate many more Burns' anniversaries.

Rev. Monsignor McColl replied to the toast to the "Twa Countries."

"Scotland is a great country," he said, "but it is the people that have made it great. Scotchmen were successful because frugality was early taught them. Love of education is true of all Scots, and he said that even before the 15th century Scotland had three of the four universities she has at present. The Scots were naturally intelligent and as long as there are Scotsmen in Canada he believed that responsible government was not in any danger of downfall.

The toast to "Our City" was replied to by Mayor McIntyre, who said he was proud of the Scotsmen who lived here and that it was a pleasure to honour the name and works of Robert Burns

G. O Cameron replied to the toast to "The Lassies," and Dr. Malcolm McCulloch to the "Peterboro Caledonian Club." Love of Scotland was strong in all Caledonian hearts, he said and what was really love and fellowship was characterized by outsiders as clannishness. The mission of the Caledonian Club was to inculcate in the Scots in this city a love of Scotland and in their children's children, and he hoped that the society would never die.

The resources of Ontario were emphasized by Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., in replying to "Our Province." He referred to our diversified industries, our growing population, and, lastly, our splendid provincial government. Burns, he said, had done much for the Scots people and he hoped that more of Burns' spirit would permeate the province from which all things do come.

To Dr .Sutton fell the lot of replying to the toast to "Absent Mem."

The doctor recalled faces that were once with them but were now with some other society ,and some sadder still, who would never be again with them in body but would be in spirit. He felt sure he said that the thoughts of those in other celebrations would not forget the Peterboro club.

Rev. Harold W. Young, pastor of the George street Methodist church, replied to the toast to "Our Visitors." He admired the Scots people, he said, because of the simplicity of their lives ,their loyalty to the empire, the splendid calibre of men that they had produced ,and their greatest characteristic, loyalty to the cause of truth and the highest things in life. Rev. Mr. Young's story of the passing of Dr. William McClure, Ian McLaren's world famous and beloved creation, deeply touched the gathering.

Following Rev. Mr. Young's reference to the inherent love of every Scotsman for home and family, he spoke of the Scotch love for "mother" as expressed so beautifully by Dr. McClure.

Between the toasts Scotch songs were rendered by Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, J. A. Smith, R. Haddow, L. Fraser, John Anderson, William Weatherstone, W. H. Barry playing the accompaniments, and recitations by W. Thompson. Pipe selections by Mr. Smith and Mr. Grant gave a real Scotch touch to the evening and were much enjoyed.

The national anthem followed by "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot?" concluded the largest and most notable banquet that has taken place in the Empress Hotel in some time.

The Burns Committee who were largely responsible for the success of the banquet were J. Brown, J. Cumming, R. French, R. Haddow, R. Hendry, Stroyan Leith, J. Pirie, J. F. Reid, J. A. Smith and S. G. Hardie, convenor.

The club are indebted to Heintzman Hall for loaning them the piano for the evening.

RECORD AUDIENCE HEARS C. H. POOLE

DISTINGUISHED ORATOR OF NEW ZEALAND GIVES ILLUMINATING LECTURE.

A record audience attended the lecture given in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening by Charles Henry Poole, orator of the New Zealand Parliament, and the address given by the talented speaker, a most interesting account of social legislature in New Zealand, was thoroughly appreciated by all.

The speaker referred to government ownership in New Zealand, which covers the railway, telegraph, and the telephone systems. He pointed out how the Hydro system enabled the stock men in the most outlying districts to get power for shearing their sheep, and for all farming purposes; and he also outlined the Government's scheme of state life insurance.

The state, he said, recognised the asset young people about to marry are to the Empire, and provided for the young people starting out in life, so that they are enabled, with a small cash deposit, to purchase their own homes, the balance of payment extending over a long period of years.

Concluding, the speaker referred to the fact that though New Zealand had been known to Europe for over 200 years, it was only in 1842 that members' of the British Empire brought her into the Empire. He also told of the splendid response the colony had made to the Empire's call for men during the war—the island sending over 110,000 men, from whom 17,000 are on the Honour Roll.

Perth Amboy, N.J. — "For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. FINE SPIRIT SHOWN AT ATHLETIC BANQUET

MEMBERS OF THE WILLIAM HAMILTON ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION HAVE STRONG ORGANIZATION.

The spirit of good fellowship between employer and employée, was in evidence to a great extent at a banquet given by the William Hamilton Athletic Association in the Board of Trade rooms on Monday evening, when 100 men of the plant, who are members of the Association, sat down with members of the executive officers of the company, to a repast and heard addresses that must have been most satisfactory to the men and to the management.

Mr. Arthur Sharpe, president of the Association, occupied the chair, and on his right was Mr. P. B. Westbye, of the Managing Board of the Company. After doing justice to an excellent menu, supplied by Mr. T. H. Hooper, Mr. Sharpe gave a short address on the aims and objects of the Association, and thanked those present for having elected him as the first president of the Association. He dwelt on the good results that would be accomplished through the organization, both with the building up of the men of the plant, and for the good spirit that it developed as well.

The honorary president of the Association, Mr. P. B. Westbye, gave a short history of sport for some centuries back, where different games and sports originated, and how they have been developed since that time. After his address, he presented to the Association a handsome cup, which was donated to the five-pin inter-shop bowling league for competition. This cup was formally accepted by Mr. Sharpe for the Association, and presented by him to Capt. Gibbs of Team A, winners of the trophy. B. team took second prize, and were awarded handsome prizes as well. Mr. Fred Roberts was also awarded a prize for the highest average score, aind Mr. A. J. Halliday was the winner of the blind score. The recipients of the prizes presented their thanks to the Association for same, and predicted a fine future for the Association.

His Worship Mayor McIntyre, who was present, drew attention to the fine sporit that he found prevailing in the shops of the Wm. Hamilton Co., and felt that the Athletic Association had a great deal to do with this condition of affairs.

Mr. Leon Frazer spoke as secretary of the Board of Trade and as secretary of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association. As a result of his address the men who were present have evinced a greater interest and sympathy for the Board of Trade, and a practical illustration was given when an application was passed to affiliate with the Peterborough Athletic Association.

Mr. Chas. Curtis, President of the City Hockey League, gave evidence of the good sporting spirit in the teams that have contested in baseball, in hockey and other sports, from the Wm. Hamilton Athletic Association, and predicted that their City League team in the Mercantile Hockey League this season would give an exceptionally good account of themselves. He felt that it was an excellent way of developing good athletes and was a decided asset to the city.

Ald. Jos. Crowe, Superintendent Chas. Norley, Mr. R. M. Glover and members from different departments throughout the shop, all spoke enthusiastically of the Association and the results that would accrue from it.

The secretary's report, given informally, gave an idea of the activities of the Association from its inception about six months ago, and also showed a substantial balance in the bank.

The toast to the Ladies, proposed by Mr. Westbye, was responded to in one of the best speeches of the evening, by Mr. Jas. Dorris.

After the singing of God Save the King the banquet concluded, and was no doubt one of the most successful of its kind ever held in the city.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Wheat had a very weak tone and May at one time sold to within 1 1-2 cents of the low record on the crop. There was heavy liquidation in evidence and shorts sold freely, while at no time was the buying power big enough to absorb the offerings. Shorts were the only buyers on the break.

The factor was a private cable saying that the Argentine government will not place any super tax on wheat exports until 74,000,000 bushels of wheat have been exported. This was not officially confirmed, but it led to much liquidation. Even the break failed to stimulate export business, only 200,000 bushels being worked to Italy. Domestic milling demand was slow and mills reported flour demand dropped off. Receipts are growing smaller.

Corn sold at the lowest point on the crop. Liquidation was general and there was a little local selling. The feature was the lack of buying power. Receipts of corn continue of heavy volume while the domestic demand was slow. Export bids were reduced a half cent from yesterday. There is talk of smaller receipts among cash interests. Cash corn basis was unchanged to a half cent higher, indicating the good spot demand for the offerings.

Oats sold at new low levels on the crop. Cash interests sold and there was more or less liquidation in evidence. Buying power was poor. Eastern demand is very slow and some of the eastern trade are offering to resell oats.

Provisions were lower in sympathy with the break in grain. Cash interests sold and there was a little liquidation in evidence.

"GREAT CALL CAMPAIGN" SALVATION ARMY.

The Great Call Campaign, at the Salvation Army is going along in full swing, the methods for getting sinners saved are both old and new, and every unit in the ranks are being stirred to active service, we are trying to convince the people in their home, in the work-shop, in the office, and on the street, with a greater power than ever before, that Jesus Christ came from heaven to earth, to make friendship between man and God possible. He died on the cross of Calvary to save the whosoever ,and to smash the power of the devil over us, therefore we are not only workin gto save the bodies of men and women, we are anxious to have them brought to Jesus, who will save their soul, so that they will live with a desire to help someone else, and learn to sing with us.

Tune. "When the Mists Have Rolled Away."

There's a call for every soldier,
From the Throne of God above,
Rousing all to efforts bolder
Faith's unfailing power to prove;
There's a call to seek the sinner,
The Backslider to reclaim.
There's a call to be a winner
In the strength of Jesus name.

Chorus.

Obey the call! Obey the call!
Never let love's standard fall.
But with daring holy boldness,
Rush with courage to the fray,
With a song of faith and gladness
Heed the call of God to-day.

To-night at the Salvation Army Temple, 8 p.m., there will be a soldiers' converts and recruits meeting conducted by Adjutant and Mrs. Bunton. The subject for this meeting will be, "The Brothrhood of Man." All comrades are requested to be present.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MANY FANS WILL WITNESS GAME IN LINDSAY THURSDAY

The first hockey excursion of the season to Lindsay to-morrow night will give local fans a chance to see the decisive battle for the intermediate district honours. Although they are three goals down on the round, there is no dismay in the Petes' camp and with the prospect of keen ice they are confident that they can snatch the group title away from the Lindsay outfit on their own ice. Every man on the team is anxious to redeem himself for the poor showing made here and they will go into to-morrow night's battle full of fight and pep. Many fans have decided to make the trip on the special G.T.R. train, which leaves Peterborough at 7 o'clock.

THE JUNIORS NOW HAVE THREE GOAL LEAD TO BEAT

As a result of their defeat in Lindsay last night, the Peterborough juniors have a handicap of three goals to overcome in the final game of the series, which will be played here on Friday night. The score on the round so far as Lindsay 7, Peterborough 4, and to win out the local youngsters will have to beat Fred Martin's Midgets by four goals on Friday. The margin is just big enough to ensure a battle royal ,and there should not be a dull moment anywhere. The Petes are confident of their ability to turn the trick at Brock street rink, while the Lindsay crew are equally sure that they can hold their lead. There will be few vacant seats in the rink when the teams take the ice on Friday. The reserved seat plan went on sale this morning at Bond's drug store and tickets are in demand. It should be a memorable battle.

ation in encouraging co-operative selling by the farmers, and the results obtained were satisfactory. The Department even went so far as to loan to farmers in certain sections of the country a qualified man to grade wool, and in one case the farmers received by co-operative selling nearly double what they would had they sold individually in the market. Not only in the marketing of wool, but in the sales of live stock, the Department urged co-operative selling. In one instance in the Maritime Provinces, lambs sold by the carload brought the farmers two and three cents more through group selling than they would otherwise have received.

A Favourable Winter.

In the Western range country, the cattle went into the winter in a better condition than in some years. The weather was fine till this month; pasture was good, and there was no necessity to use any hay till the New Year. When these cattle are brought to the market in the spring, they will be in better condition than last year, and a larger percentage of dressed beef may be expected.

Needs Well in Hand.

The Minister, in telling of the work of the Department of Agriculture, gave ample evidence to prove that they had the agricultural needs and possibilities of the country apparently well in hand. Last year over $4,700,000 was spent in their work, while, he said, Hon. Mackenzie King charged there was only $200,000. At present, he said, the Department is making special studies on the whole tariff question as it pertains to the farmers, and studies of American markets, so that it can advise farmers in the event of heavy duties being placed by the United States on articles they are accustomed to market in that country. Hon. Tolmie expects changes in the American tariff that will affect Canada. He felt that it would be absolute folly to think of lowering Canada's tariff, and thus make trading in Canada by the United States easier than it is now.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie is a Protectionist, and he believed that the combination of industrial and agricultural life, as it is in West Peterborough, was the ideal combination to make a country prosperous.

The Minister of Agriculture, in his addresses, is avoiding political discussion. He told The Examiner today he was scarcely familiar with the local situation at all. This is the first time that he has been to this city and county, and in his speeches he would endeavour only to give the farmers an idea of the work the Department was doing, and the work it honed to do.

DURABILITY A BIG FACTOR IN ANY SPORT

Grantland Rice writes: Durability is a big factor in any sport. Not only in boxing, football and baseball, but also in tennis or golf. When Vardon, at the age of 51, proved his ability to play 36 holes a day (around 12 miles) for the better part of three months, he set up a target that few will ever hit.

Boxing has known its full share of durable parties, for the battle type in the profession can't go very far, except in the direction of the floor.

Lack of durability has stopped many a fine boxer, who had both skill and nerve. Jefferies and Sharkey were leaders in this respect 25 years ago, but few today have anything on Frank Moran, the Durable Celt.

Moran has taken in more terrific beatings to keep on going than any fighter now collecting from the profession. Fulton is credited with knocking him out, but the fight was stopped because of a deep cut over one eye that gave out the appearance of an impending slaughter. Charles Francis has soaked up the best that Willard, Jack Johnson and others had to offer in amazing fashion.

His system of boxing is to walk into the other party's range, take all he has to offer and then adjust Mary Ann for the demolishing punch.

PETERBORO JUNIORS BEATEN AT LINDSAY; THREE DOWN IN SERIES

Lindsay Juniors got the jump on the Peterboro Juniors in the third game of the series at Lindsay last night and before Dick Sheehy's crew got their bearings Lindsay had them 4 to 0 at the end of the first period. The Petes came back to earth then and held the Scugog bunch to two goals for the balance of the game while they found the nets, once themselves, the final figure being 6 to 1 in favour of Lindsay. The result leaves the Lindsay bunch three up on the series with the final game to be played here on Friday night. It should be a corker, Lindsay d'spatch says:

LINDSAY, Jan. 25.—The Lindsay juniors showed at their best on hard ice tonight, defeating Peterboro' by 6 to 1, in an O.H.A game. The locals grabbed the long end of the score in the first period, which ended 4 to 0 in their favor.

Ranger and Sabatino were Peterboro's best players.

Lindsay go to Peterboro on Friday with a three-goal lead on the round.

MR. BURNHAM VOTED AGAINST THE BILL

REPLIES TO GOVERNMENT PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

1. The Government Publicity Committee in The Examiner of Jan 25th. in an article on Mr. Burnham and the G.T.R. deal, says:

"Nothing more is necessary to illustrate the wildness of Mr. Burnham's statements unless possibly to add that he himself, instead of opposing the legislation, supported it."

That statement is absolutely false. I voted against the G.T.R. Bill Guarantee clause, as Hansard shows.

2. An illustration will show what I mean by the objectionable clause.

Suppose that a certain man had a large block of buildings in large grounds and that the whole property was going down hill and about bankrupt. Certain others seeing a big thing in prospect say that if they could only get the government to buy the property they could slip in and make a big haul. So they approach the government, and, strange to say, the government agrees to guarantee the revenue from the rental of the buildings before it agrees to purchase the property. The guaranteed rental of the buildings (preferred stock) raises immediately the value of the grounds (common stock). Now my contention, of course, is that this guarantee by the purchasers of the stock which they are to buy (through arbitration) absolutely ties the hands of the arbitrators, who must find a value for the property founded on the guarantee and not on the evidence. Those now owning or controlling the stock will accordingly make an enormous haul. Why did the government do this extraordinary thing? It was Mr. Meighen who engineered the bill through the House.

3. I have repeatedly told you that I made every effort to come to an understanding with the government regarding this bye-election. I wrote to Mr. Meighen and even offered to be the government candidate if my honour, that is my pleiges (re general election) were reserved to me. We did not reach an agreement. He offered to leave it to a convention. But I wanted his explicit promise. I am told that a roorbach is to be made out of this. What can be said that I have not already told? However, anything may happen when they have said that I supported the G. T. R. guarantee deal.

J. H. BURNHAM.

DEVELOP CO-OPERATIVE LIVESTOCK SHIPPING

(Canadian Press.)

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 26.—A campaign for the development of co-operative livestock shipping in the Province will open shortly. It is planned to send speakers out who will outline just what is meant by co-operative shipping and to assist, if possible, with the organization of co-operative livestock associations.

The advantages of co-operative shipping are set forth in a circular letter which has been distributed. It is pointed out there are 51 associations in Saskatchewan at present shipping livestock on the co-operative plan. A summary of the earnings of 11 typical associations shows a saving of appro imately 73 cents on 100 pounds.

In 1910, 8,280 vessels arrived at the port of Montreal.

"RUDDIGORE"

The most melodious and funniest burlesque ever seen on the stage, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddigore" which had a record run in New York last year, is to be given at the Grand theatre on January 31st.

During its New York run 'Ruddigore" received the unqualified approval of both the press and the public. Alexander Woolcott of the New York Times said: "There is more abiding humor in 'Ruddigore' than in all the rest of the current musical shows put together" and he added: "Doubtless there is an evening of higher enjoyment to be had than at a first hearing of 'Ruddigore,' but we don't know where or how."

Dr. Frank Crane, who speaks with authority, and not as one of the scribes, said: "I make bold to say that no other comic opera composed by anybody else can give me the genuine pleasure I get from a performance of the comic opera, 'Ruddigore.' For delicacy of touch, for exquisiteness and originality of conception, no musical work of the last thirty years, no modern novelty, slapstick or subtlety, can compare with it."

Those who are interested in theatrical statistics will take pleasure in the information that during its first eight weeks in New York, "Ruddigore" was witnessed by 92,648 persons which is a weekly average attendance of nearly 12000 persons.

The Boston English Opera Company with its New York cast give a performance of "Ruddigore" that is really too remarkable to be described. It must be seen for itself. It is a joy forever and once seen the temptation to see it again is irresistible.

ANITA TAKES TRIP WITH HUBBY AFTER "WEDDING"

The picture, which is Anita Stewart's latest First National release, will be shown at the Allen Theatre, commencing to-day. It is based on the story of the same name, written by Kathleen Norris, and was adapted to the screen by Monte M. Katterjohn. Playing opposite Miss Stewart are Charles Richman and Ward Crane.

NORMA TALMADGE LIVES ON INDIAN RESERVATION

Norma Talmadge's latest Select Picture, "The Heart of Wetona," will appear at the Grand Theatre on Thursday; Miss Talmadge is presented in ths picture by Joseph M. Schenck. "The Heart of Wetona" was filmed on an Indian reservation in California, consisting of 150 Indians and twenty log cabins. The reservation which is called Idyllwild is situated at an altitude of 6,000 feet. During the filming of this picture Norma Talmadge lived with her mother and her sister, Constance, in a beautiful bungalow directly outside the reservation.

Norma was idolized by the natives of Idyllwild. They never tired watching her work or watchhing her play. Before she left the reservation the Indians insisted upon giving a party in her honor. A huge celebration consisting of tribal dances and a barbecue was tendered her. She was made a princess of the tribe, the highest honor an Indian tribe can bestow on a woman.

The Profiteers Won't Vote for G. N. Gordon

What desperate necessity drove the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government to trundle its Electioneering Machine into West Peterborough?

Why is this Riding invaded by a flock of strangers supplied with lashings of money—who have to take over a building the size of the old Oriental Hotel to keep from falling all over each other?

And the very mysterious gentleman who keeps away from the Oriental, in fact, very much away from it—but more of him some other time.

Peterborough has usually managed to conduct its elections without the interference of a subsidized political machine.

And they might have pulled through this campaign without the spectacle the Meighen crowd is providing.

But no. Along came the Electioneering Experts from Ottawa bright and early and loaded for bear.

And the bear they're gunning for is G. N. Gordon, the Liberal Candidate.

There has never been any doubt about that.

First, the Liberals were approached with the suggestion that they should play dead dog in this bye-election.

That proposal was made by friends of the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government.

And it was flatly rejected.

They are all Saying:

Gordon Is The Man

Then came the deluge—rather, the cumbersome machine fresh from the Ottawa repair shop, where it was overhauled after East Elgin had jolted it out of gear.

Like a road roller it started to flatten G. N. Gordon, the Liberal Candidate, beyond recognition.

WHY ???

Folks, you don't need the detective talents of Sherlock Holmes to get underneath this thin plot—to locate the hidden hands in this campaign.

Did the people of Canada—the ordinary men and women such as greeted Mackenzie King, Ernest Lapointe, and G. N. Gordon on Saturday—did people such as they fashion this political machine and turn it loose in West Peterborough?

You know they did not.

Or had the millionaires who have accumulated huge fortunes in the last few years—had they a hand in it?

There's something behind all this scheme that doesn't appear on the surface.

The imported Electioneers were brought here for a purpose. And the Man of Mystery hasn't been hanging around for his health, either.

Do you think the profiteers of Montreal and Toronto would vote for G. N. Gordon if they had the chance?

How would Mr. Paton, of Sherbrooke, vote?

YOU REMEMBER PATON!

He is the man who said before a Committee of the House of Commons in 1918, when asked whether the consumer should not get the advantage of the Paton Manufacturing Company's purchase of raw material at a cheap price:

"Our mill was built, not for the "glory of God, but to make money
"for its shareholders."

He didn't mean ordinary, average dividends, but all the traffic would carry.

How would the big profits crowd the vote in this bye-election?

Are you going to vote on the side of the profiteers?

Friends of the Government would plead that this is mere innuendo.

Folks, you can't get the goods on the crowd who have chipped in to a campaign fund for the purpose of winning elections for this so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government so friendly to them.

They don't work in the open. Nor do they run around telling you what they are doing with their excess profits.

And what about the inside crowd who made the big rake-offs in the G.T.R. and C.N.R. purchases?

Whom would they support in this election?—Not G. N. Gordon.

Electors of West Peterborough, the Liberals offer you in G. N. GORDON a Candidate you can trust.

You will not be ashamed of him as your Member of Parliament. He has made good in local affairs. Give him the opportunity of serving you in the broader sphere at Ottawa.

Stand by him to the finish, and the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government's machine will have nothing to take back to its friends but a big expense account.

GAVE LECTURE IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

HELD UNDER AUSPICES OF FRASER MISSION BAND.

Last evening in St. Paul's Church under the auspices of the Fraser Auxiliary Professor Macdonald of Queen's University lectured on the subject "War Cartoons". The speaker who was introduced by the pastor Mr. Pogue spoke briefly in his opening remarks on the origin of the term "Cartoon" and told the use made of these pictures and the different types to be found in the various modern papers and magazines. Then followed an exceedingly interesting hour when cartoons from British French, Dutch American and German papers were thrown on the screen. Some very fine ones from 'Punch" were shown by special permission of that famous English paper and the now familiar pictures of the English 'Tommy' as typified by Bairnsfather showed very clearly the optimism of that nation which could not be "downed" even in the face of almost overwhelming odds. The attitude of the different nations who participated in the great world struggle was very clearly shown, and one's blood boiled with indignation as some of the atrocities, so simply shown by a few lines from an artist's pen, come on the screen. They needed no explanations and by their simplicity showed more clearly than words the awful tragedy of war, and were more convincing than columns of print. It is only to be regretted that owing to several other lectures in town there was not a larger audience to greet Professor Macdonald, and those who were there feel that they owed the Fraser Auxiliary a debt of gratitude for bringing the lecturer to the city.

During the evening Mrs. Davidson delighted everyone with two delightful solos "Time's Roses" and "Annie Laurie".

At the conclusion, a hearty vote of thanks, moved by Inspector Mowat and seconded by Mr. Madill was tendered the speaker and soloist.

BRITISH DELEGATION FAILS TO AGREE WITH FRENCH VIEWS ON GERMAN QUESTION AND SESSION OF SUPREME COUNCIL CANCELLED.

TO CONFER PRIVATELY

(Canadian Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 27.—It was understood this morning that the British delegation attending the Supreme Allied Council Session considered it impossible to agree to the French viewpoint regarding German reparations. The morning sitting of the Council was cancelled in order that the British Premier might have an opportunity to talk privately with members of the Council regarding the French position as met with yesterday by the French Minister of Finance.

CANADIAN GIRLS WHO WED TITLES

Although Miss Marion Cook, of Montreal, is not the first Canadian girl to wear an old-world title, none perhaps, has entered a family that has played so foremost a part in Imperial affairs or who is nearer the intimate court circle. A Montreal authority gives this list of Canadian women who have married titles

Audrey Lady Petre, before her marriage to the fourteenth Lord Petre, was Miss Audrey Clark, daughter of the Rev. Dr. William R. Clark, of Toronto. The late Lord de Blaquiere, who died a few months ago, married Miss Lucienne Desbarats, of Montreal. Lady Northcote was the adopted daughter of Lord Mount Stephen, builder of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Lady Barran, wife of Sir John Barran, of Leybley Hall, near Leeds, is the daughter of Mrs. Stevenson Brown of Montreal, while Lady Glen-Coats, the sister-in-law of Lord Glentarar, was before her wedding Miss Agnes Walker of Montreal. Lady Aylmer is a Canadian girl, as are also Lady Stafford Brunton and the Countess De Lesseps as well. The Marchioness of Donegal was Miss Violet Gertrude Twining, the daughter of H. St. George Twining, of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

REDUCED PRICE FOR HARD COAL

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—About the first of March a reduction of three or four dollars a ton in the price of hard coal may be expected according to a prominent fuel merchant here. The heavy freight rate and the exchange however, will prevent any thing like a drop to the old levels.

HESITANCY MARKS OPENING TRADING

ONLY CHANGES FROM YESTERDAY'S CLOSING PRICES RECORDED.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.— Hesitancy marked opening trading on the New York stock exchange to-day. Only changes from the closing prices of Wednesday were recorded and those generally could be traced to the conditions which governed late trade yesterday.

Supporters of General Asphalt were compelled to meet free offerings. The opening in that issue was up 1-2 at 68 1-2, later advancing 3-8 and quickly dropping to 68. Mexican Pet. was up 1-4 at 155 1-4 and Atlantic Gulf was off the same fraction at 68 1-2. Baldwin was 1-4 up, at 90 and U. S. Steel showed an equal gain at 82 3-4. Bethlehem Steel got a slow start. Directors of the company meet to-day. There was little trading in rails.

International paper was up 5-8 on opening at 60 3-4 and later rose to 61 1-4.

The opening quotations included: U. S. Steel 82 3-8, up 1-4; Amn. Car and Foundry 122, unchanged; A. T and T. 99 3-8, unchanged; Mexican Pet. 155 1-4, up 1-4; General Asphalt 69 1-2, up 1-2; Pan-American Pet. 74 1-2, off 1-4; Interborough Cons. 4 7-8, off 1-8; General Motors 14 7-8, up 1-8; Atlantic Gulf 68 1-8, off 1-4; Crucible 64, off 3-8; Baldwin 90, up 1-4; B. R. T. 13 3-8 up 1-4, International Paper 60 1-4, up 3-8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Foreign exchange opened to-day with Demand Sterling 3.85 1-4. Shortly after the opening it rose to 3.86, the highest since last July. Francs opened .0713; Lire .0370; Marks .0179; Canadian Dollars .8881.

Selling in Genneral Asphalt continued through the morning session. The reports of trading yesterday show 80,000 shares of this stock sold, five times more than were handled in the usual market leader, U. S. Steel. Reports on Steel conditions induced some buying in these isues: The market became two sided later. All sugar stocks moved up as did Royal Dutch, American Can and International Paper. On the other side there was heavy selling of Studebaker, Independent Steels and General Asphalt. U. S. Steel held steady.

PARIS PAPER SAYS LORD CHAMBERS TO OBTAIN POSTPONEMENT OF PAYMENT OF BRITISH DEBT TO U.S.

CONFERRING IN PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Lord Chambers, permanent secretary of the British Treasury, whose visit to the United States has been deferred for a short time, will be entrusted with mission to obtain a postponement of payment of the British debt to the United States until 1936 and 1947, says "Pertinax", the political editor of the Echo De Paris. EDUCATIONAL TALK AT SACRED HEART CHURCH LAST NIGHT

MRS. M. LEHANE AND MR. V. J. M'ELDERRY WERE THE SPEAKERS

The first of a series of educational talks to be given by the Educational Section of the Holy Name Society of the Sacred Heart Church was held last evening, and was a marked success.

Mr. F. J. McAuliffe, the chairman, gave a short, humorous introduction of the series, in which he said that "we don't have to go to school to learn things," and "there was no school ever made to take the place of home and mother."

Mrs. M. Lehane, of St. Peter's Parish, then read a short interesting paper on "Reading", which was the subject of many complimentary remarks, and Mr. V. J. McElderry also of St. Peter's, gave a talk on "This History of Canada". Although brief enough to be interesting to the last word this address covered a long period of time and described, in a clear and scholarly manner, that aspect of Canadian history selected by Mr. McElderry, viz: the relative powers of the different Parliamen in Canada.

Canadian System.

The speaker contrasted the Canadian system, with its elasticity which permits us, with changing conditions to fit almost any condition and circumstance, with the system of the United Sates, described as a very definite, hard and fast constitution, and remarked that ours is the better system.

The powers of the Dominion and Provincial Houses, with regard to trade and commerce, banking and finance, (here again our banking system is preferable to the American one) bankruptcy and insolvency, marriage and divorce education and the liquor traffic, were dealt with in a comprehensive manner, which made these ordinarily dry (excepting the last item) subjects very intereseing indeed.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mr. McElderry, in the course of his address, paid a warm tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whom he said came up to Cardinal Newman's definition of a Christian gentleman; "One who would not willingly hurt the feelings of another", and concluded his remarks by emphasizing the need of proper education, for "education is more a development of the character, the abilities and the brain, than a more cramming of mind with facts and formulaes", and recommended the adoption by each individual of a hobby, which might develop through time, to expert special knowledge on some particular subjects.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved and seconded, and Rev. Fathers O'Brien and Garvey and Mr. L. D. Letellier expressed their appreciation of the paper and address.

Master A. Lazure recited in fine style and Miss K. Masterson and Mr. E. Bartley contributed excellent solos accompanied by Mr. Armstrong.

SAYS MENACE TO INDIA IS OVER-PLAYED

STUDENT OF EASTERN AFFAIRS BELIEVES THERE IS NO MENACE TO BRITISH POWER IN ASIA FROM SPREAD OF BOLSHEVIK INFLUENCE.

DISCOUNTS RED RUMORS

(Special to the Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

London Jan. 27.—The eyes of England are turned apprehensively on the East. It is for India that she fears. But to-day the words of Lovat Fraser of the London Daily Mail one of the war correspondents of the Empire, who knows the East thoroughly and has travelled its every byway with the army, and alone on exploration, bring relief.

"I am not disturbed by the wild rumors of renewed war by the Bolsheviki in the spring," he says. "I do believe they may make another desperate attack on Poland in the near future, because of their obvious desire to restore the old Imperial boundaries of their country; but I also know their military strength is weakening through sheer internal decay. They have never fought a real battle yet."

"I never expect to see Bolshevist scallywags and Turkish catch-'em-alive-ones under Mustapha Kemal marching side by side. They would be scuppering one another before they had advanced five miles. Persia is undoubtedly under some danger of further Bolshevist menaces but then Russia has been threatening Persia for years."

"When I hear the stories of Bolshevist hordes in Turkestan for an advance on India, I only grin, for mine eyes have looked on the mighty ramparts of the Himalayas. Have you heard of the whispering galleries of the East There is not a bazaar in India that does not know how the Bolshevists treated Bokhara. The Afghans have had enough of Bolshevism. Nor do I worry much about the position of India The people of Great Britain must make up their minds (as I believe they are quite willing to do) that henceforth the Indians must play a far larger and more direct part in the control of their own affairs. They will probably govern themselves far less efficiently than we have governed them, but it will be madness to resist the spirit of the times."

"I see no reason for a world outbreak of Bolshevism, nor do I expect it to spread beyond its present boundaries; and within them it is burning itself out. Among a people less helpless than the Russians, Leninism would not have lasted a month. It can never live and thrive in the clear air of Western reason. It cannot even hope to accomplish any permanent growth in Germany."

DE VALERA "SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE"?

(Canadian Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, has been found "somewhere in France" by a correspondent of the newspaper, Ouvre. There have been persistent rumors that Valera was in Paris but inquiry yesterday failed to elicit any information except that in Irish circles he was believed to be in Ireland. The Ouvre prints an interview by Valera with its correspondent.

BROKEN MAIN DOES DAMAGE TO BUSINESS

GEORGE STREET, BETWEEN CHARLOTTE AND SHERBROOKE STREETS, FLOODED WHEN WATER MAIN BURST—LEGAL ACTION MAY FOLLOW.

BUSINESS CEASES

For the greater part heatless and absolutely waterless, the section of George street, between Charlotte and Sherbrooke streets, are anxiously awaiting developments involved in the repairing of the George street water main which burst yesterday afternoon south of Charlotte street.

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon pedestrians noticed the water bubbling up through the cracks in the pavement and a few moments later every merchant on the west side of the street and most on the east side discovered the contents of their cellars floating about in several inches of water.

At the Grand, as the audience sat watching the water seething about the sinking ship in the film, "Dead Men Tell No Tales," the suddenly became conscious that an unexpected bit of realism had been added to the customary show and those in the orchestra chairs heard the actual water furnace room carrying a fifty pound utes fully two feet of water had entered the dressing rooms through the window which the forte of the stream burst, and rushed headlong into the furance room carrying a fifty pound ash receciver from the furnace to the star's dressing room thirty feet south Every room in the basement was flooded by about two feet of water, the furnace extinguished and the contents of the rooms left floating. The electrical equipment suffered perhaps most severely, damage amounting to several hundred dollars having been done to it. Fearing that the flood might become more dangerous, Mr. W. L. Phillips announced that as a safety first precaution the show must close at once for the afternoon.

Laundry Tied Up.

At Fanning's Laundry all work was discontinued when the water was shut off pending repairs to the main, and the hotels which were particularly hard pressed for linen owing to an unusual guests list, suffered accordingly.

In the Lundy block the damage was confined to the discomfiture caused b the water being shut off and to the soaking of a considerable amount of goods which was stored in the different merchants' cellars, each of which was flooded to a depth of about twelve inches. The furnace luckily escaped being extinguished, but at a late hour it was feared that the volume of water would necesitate the shutting off of the fires.

Worked Till Four.

The Utilities Commission worked with the main until four o'clock this morning and digging was proceeded with during the day. In the meantime a fair skating rink has been unintentionally provided and the merchants are busy clearing up the wrecks will amount to several thousands, and It is estimated that the total damage and of several highway robberies. action against the city for damages is likely.

GOVERNMENT CAUCUS HELD

PROPOSED LEGISLATION CONSIDERED—REFORESTATION TO PROCEED—CHANGES IN MARRIAGE LAWS.

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Farmer and Labor members of the Ontario Legislature this morning held a caucus at the Parliament Buildings for the purpose of discussing proposed legislation for the coming session. There was a unanimity of opinion that the reforestation work should be proceeded with and upon an extensive scale. The report of the Public Service Commission was considered and as a result it is likely that during the present session the Government will introduce Legislation making the legal mariage age for males 21 years instead of 18 as at present. The Bill will also provide that the issuing of marriage licenses shall be exclusively in the hands of municipal clerks.

This figure, including the cost and freight, was due to renewed pressure.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CANADIAN CAR AND FOUNDRY

(Special to the Examiner).

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., was held at the head office here to-day.

All routine matters coming before the meeting were ratified, the financial report, already reviewed in these columns, adopted, and the retiring board of directors re-elected without change.

Two of the American interests were present, W. H. Woodin and A. Hicks Lawrence, both of New York.

Hon. N. Curry occupied the chair.

Considerable interest was evident in the address of W. W. Butler, the president, especially in respect to the pending car orders. He stated that only 1,700 cars were turned out during the year, the greatest source of revenue being that derived from the specialties manufoctured by the company and its subsidiaries.

Regular business was restricted considerably by the railroad embargoes, as well as general labour difficulties, strikes, etc.

STICKLER FOR PUNCTUALITY

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 27.—King Haakon of Norway, who arrived in England recently with Prince Olaf for a visit to Sandringham, is a stickler for punctuality.

While aboard the steamer Rollo, Prince Olaf appeared at breakfast table ten minutes late. After the meal he was told by the King that he must stay in his room for an hour as punishment, says The Daily News correspondent.

EMPLOYMENT HERE LITTLE CHANGED YET

CITY RELIEF OFFICER MILLER BELIEVES PETERBORO WILL HAVE TO SPEND $3,000 FOR RELIEF BEFORE WINTER ENDS.

HAVE SPENT $600

Unemployment and distress in this city shows little improvement, said City Relief Officer F. W. Miller today, and he continues to spend over $50 daily in carrying out the city's relief programme.

During the last two weeks some $600 has been spent by Mr. Miller in orders for groceries, fuel, clothing, and rent. If the situation continues until the end of March, as Mr. Miller believes that it will, the city will have spent over $3000 in relief.

Every day Mr. Miller is brought face to face with pitiable conditions. Many respectable and industrious men with large families, have been out of work since November. Their savings have been spent and no work has been obtainable. Their last recourse is the Relief Officer and bitter as it is to these men who have in many cases never had to appeal for charity before, the little ones at home have impelled the father to ask for relief. There are the deserving cases and the undeserving. Mr. Miller is bothered considerably by the class who won't work as long as somebody else will keep them, but these people cannot be allowed to starve, so they must be assisted to some extent.

From his continual observations in many years' relief work Mr. Miller is easily able to pick the deserving from the undeserving, but whatever misgivings he may feel the latter class must be assisted, and he deals with each case on its merits.

Work of some kind should be provided for these men to remove the stigma of pauperism, and to keep the men busy and drive away the dejection most of them have fallen into, in the opinion of the city relief officer. Of those being given relief the majority are laborers, with only a few mechanics. Two Italian families are the only foreigners the city has had to assist.

PULLMAN CAR WORKS BURN

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Fire in the repair shops of the Pullman car works to-day caused an estimated loss of three hundred thousand dollars. Twenty two new refrigerator cars and fifteen sleepers undergoing repairs were destroyed.

Turn rule

DOLLAR DAY WAS BIGGER THAN EVER

Breaking all previous winter records for crowds which turned out and for the receipts in the stores, Dollar Day yesterday was a complete success. Even the zero weather of the earlier hours of the day failed to deter the shoppers from trying to be the first on hand when the genuine bargains advertised were put on sale and long before the hours announced for opening of the shops a long line of eager housekeepers stood ready to shop. In some of the stores the merchants stated that the sales were fully twice as big as any previous January Dollar Day, while the average was better.

Blanks Being Counted.

At a late hour this afternoon the blanks were still in the course of being counted and it had already been ascertained that there were fully five thousand more blanks filled out than on the previous January Dollar Day.

EXAMINER PRIZE-WINNERS.

It is expected that the counting of the tickets for Dollar Day will be done in sufficient time to make a list of awards in to-morrow's paper. In any event, the list of winners for The Examiner's own contest will be announced in to-morrow's paper, even if it is impossible to announce the winners in the merchants' contest.

STORAGE FOOD SUPPLY LESS BY 20,000,000 LBS.

Canada's supply of food in cold storage to-day is less than it was a year ago by over 20 million pounds. In fact, only three prime articles show increases and of these only in butter is there a really important change. All meats together show a decline of 7½ million pounds compared with the supply available a year ago. Beef alone has dropped 6 million pounds. The total meat in store at the last return was 67,340,000 pounds which, however, great the figures may look, is not more than about three weeks' supply for everybody at the usual rate of consumption. There is a still greater decrease in cheese.

The detailed figures are given below:

Decreases.	Lbs.
Beef	6,193,000
Pork	756,000
Mutton and lamb	501,000
All meats	7,450,000

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. A great many perfectly good teeth are being extracted these days, thus greatly injuring powers of mastication, which is necessary to good health. Pyorrhoea is quite curable. Results are very gratifying. Consultation free. Electrical apparatus used in examination. — 158 Charlotte Street, corner George Street.

WOMEN BANDITS ARE GROWING IN NUMBER

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Women bandits are becoming nearly as numerous as their male counterparts in France, and a number of them have already been arrested.

The police have just arrested a gang of burglars who have long been wanted by the authorities for housebreaking in the suburbs and discovered that the gang was led by a widow, aged 54, and her three sons. Another of the burglars was aided by his sister and two other women formed part of the band.

Many of the robberies were accompanied by particularly brutal assaults.

EVERY YEAR LEAP YEAR IN ASSAM

BRIDE TAKES THE INITIATIVE AND GOES AND FETCHES HER BRIDEGROOM.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Every year is leap year among the Garo women in Assam, writes a missionary to the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society.

"Among those who have not been Christianized the bride takes the initiative in marriage," he says. "She goes to fetch the bridegroom, and it is etiquette for him to hide and resist until victoriously carried off. Occasionally, a man may get his wife by capture, but usually it is the woman who kidnaps him; that is to say, her male friends do it for her. One may still see such press-gangs bringing home their spoil.

"In the early days, the missionaries were inclined to rush to the rescue, thinking that violence was being committed, such is the noise made by the struggling youth. The reluctance and resistance, though, are seldom as they sound. If the youth dislikes the match, there is rarely any redress.

"Women of means are allowed to choose a temporary husband, and when tired of him, pay him off, and take another.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Permit me to say that I am an independent, pledged to no government or group, and as I resigned because I thought the Government and myself should redeem our pledge to the people made in 1917 and go to the people for a new mandate. I will introduce a resolution, if elected, demanding that a general election be held at once. I am against the present G.T.R. guarantee clause tying the hands of the arbitrators and I am a protectionist in tariff policy. I will, therefore, sit on the cross-benches with other independents, if elected, and do what I think is best for the people regardless of party and the usual party pledges.

J. H. BURNHAM.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In your issue of 22nd January I noticed that Mr. F. S. Scott, M.P., speaking at Sir George Foster's meeting, stated that farmers had in only a few cases made proper income tax returns, although they had advocated this tax. I suppose he means to insinuate by this that about 99 per cent. of Canada's 70,000 farmers are trying—by dishonest means—to evade paying their share of the income tax.

Now, if this gentleman knows what he is talking about, why does he not have the cases of these delinquents investigated and punished as a warning to others? Will he do it? Not on your life. It is easier to stand on a platform, before a city audience, and slander farmers by making such statements than to trouble about proof.

I understand Mr. Scott is a boot and shoe manufacturer from Western Ontario. If he had told the people why farmers sell hides at $2.50 to $3.00 and pay three to four times as much for an ordinary pair of boots, he would have enlightened a good many. If a low tariff party comes into power at Ottawa ater the next general election, Mr. Scott may find duties on footwear pruned to some extent, which will mean that 9,000,000 Canadians won't have to contribute so high a quota annually to a few of his clique.

Some newspaper editors and politicians have spent much time in bewailing the "class consciousness" of the Canadian farmers. The reason for the latter is not hard to seek. No class would stand for one-half the slurs and abuse that the farmers have taken in the last six years. This comes almost entirely from people whose ignorance of agricultural affairs and conditions is their chief qualification to act as critics.

The majority of urban people know that the farmers are fairly useful citizens, and doubtless consider that if they are content to take it all and say nothing, it need not concern them. The Government party would do well to leave men of Mr. Scott's stripe at home in future if they desire to retain any vestige of support in the county.

—Yours truly, Chas. S. Brown.
R. R. No. 9. Peterborough.

Editor of The Examiner.

Peterborough, 26th Jan., 1921.

Sir,—Many citizens who consider that government consists in something more than tariffs and office-holding, are asking where can Prohibitionists in his bye-elecion place their ballot to ensure consideration for the higher purposes of Government—moral, social, and economic?

I have attended the Opera House meetings. They have been both entertaining and amusing. The actors have exhibited their skill in fencing and their ability to set up straws and knock them down. They have proclaimed their respective virtues and marvellous powers to remedy human ills. One party asserts that the only issue is the tariff. The other as strenuously denies this. The public may well suspect that probably office is the real issue with both. Thanks to the modifying effect of the large number of ladies persent, the performance has been carried out without any objectionable features, and the sham battle has proved a very enjoyable entertainment.

All this may suit the voter whose politics are a mere habit, and who is Grit or Tory by accident or birth. It falls far short of what the thoughtful citizen demands. No information has been given save a little sparring on means of raising the tariff.

Not a word have we heard thus far from either of the old parties on their policy (if they have one) regarding the great moral, social, and economic questions of the day.

The final overthrow of the liquor interests is to-day one of Canada's greatest moral, social, and economic questions, yet both of the old parties are dead silent on this vital issue.

Has not the Meighen Government favoured the liquor interests by the repeal of the Order-in-Council prohibiting the importation of liquor into the Province?

Has it not again favoured he liquor interests by delaying for months the Referendum vote of next April?

Have not these two conspicuous failures to regard the great popular majority of the electorate been the principal cause of the nefarious thug and bootlegging business that has disgraced our country?

As temperance voters, let us give thought as to where we place our ballot. Raising revenue is not the only function of Government. We must legislate for humanity as well as for business; for righteousness as well as for prosperity.

In this contest the only party that has come out four-square on this issue is the Farmers' Party, now known as The People's Progressive Party. They are not afraid to make the prohibition of the importation, manufacture, and sale of intoxicating liquors one of the main planks in their platform.

The plank in their platform reads as follows:

"Prohibition of the manufacture, importation, and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage in Canada."

You will notice that there is no phrasing or word-juggling in that plank. Its meaning is clear, decisive, and committal. Let us beware of mere vote-catching phrases.

Mr. Campbell stands on this platform. This party is not afraid of the booze vote, and as a temperance voter I propose to support them.

Can we call ourselves consistent if we failed to do so? Is it not still a living truth, "that righteousness exalteth a nation?" That a man's life or a nation's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things they possess?

There are other issues than prosperity, and we must be strong enough and brave enough to face them. Who that listens to their call can be lured aside by the tinsel of mere partyism?

When temperance electors send enough real temperance men not policy men) to Ottawa to create a balance of power, then, and not till then, will the fruits of our previous victories be safe, and constructive legislation become the aim of all parties seeking public favour.

We are told that Canada is watching us. Let us show the country that no party that will not come out open and unequivocally on these gre moral and social issues, can hope either obtain or retain power if actions suggest either a silent partnership, or truckling silence, or ambiguo attitude on these matters.

Government for humanity must hand in hand with Government f prosperity, and the citizenship of t country can make it possible, if th will.

Yours for a clean, happy, prosp ous Canada, ...

A. B. Cunningham.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . ." Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

STATUTE LABOUR.

Tom Magladery, Conservative member of Timiskaming, will introduce a bill in the Ontario Legislature to increase the charge for statute labor from $3 to $5 per day. The man from the north will undoubtedly have his tongue in his cheek when this measure is brought forward for he knows how the Farmer member of the House will delight to jump upon the amendment. Under the present regulations a farmer must put in a certain number of days at work on the roads of his district or pay a substiute at the rate of $3. Many farmers have found it cheaper to provide the substitute than do the work themselves, and it is on this account, believing that the roads are deteriorating as a result, that Mr. Magladery is introducing his bill to increase the daily rate. It would be a good thing for the roads, but it is not likely to prove popular among the farmers, and the U.F.O. representatives in the Legislature can be depended upon to make short work of the measure when it comes before them, as the member for Timiskaming no doubt realizes.

THE ORATORY CONTINUES.

The United Farmers have not been successful, so far at least, in securing a visit from the leader of the Agrarian movement, Hon. T. A. Crerar, whom the people of Peterborough hoped to have had an opportunity of hearing. However, the policy of the Farmers' party should be eloquently set forth by Mr. R. W. Burnaby, the President of the United Farmers of Ontario, who will visit Peterborough on Friday, and will address a mass meeting in the Grand Opera House. Additional interest in the appearance here of Mr. Burnaby is that he is the U.F.O. candidate against Hon. MacKenzie King in North York, while he is regarded as one of the big men in the Agrarian party.

Incidentally there is no slowing up in the flood of oratory with which the electors are being deluged. The Farmers' meeting Friday is followed by another Government rally on Saturday night, at which Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, is the star attraction. During the following week both the Liberal and Government forces will hold big mass meetings as a wind-up to a remarkable campaign. Both Premier Meighen and Hon. MacKenzie King are expected to pay a second visit to the riding during the last week of the campaign and other orators will take part in the final drive.

WELCOME ANNOUNCEMENT.

Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, announces that he will be ready to bring down his Budget as soon as the debate on the speech from the throne is completed. That is welcome news and the business of the session will be considerably facilitated if the Treasurer makes good his promise. The Budget is always protective of a protracted debate, and if it is not brought down early there is usually little time left towards the end of the session for important legislation. The result has generally been a wild rush to get through and the slipping through with scant consideration of much vital legislation at the last moment. It is hoped that this session will see an improvement in this respect, that the debate on the speech from the throne, which is so much wasted time, will be kept down to reasonable length, so that the Budget can be introduced at as early a date as is possible and the real business of the Legislature proceeded with. With the experience of last session to guide him, Premier Drury may be able to speed up the programme and afford sufficient time for a proper consideration of worth-while legislation. The announcement that the Treasurer is ready to do his part will strengthen the hope that there will be less talk and more action in the session now under way.

CANADA'S TRADE.

The necessity of the Canadian people awakening to the desirability of purchasing made-in-Canada goods, referred to in these columns last evening, is further emphasized by Canada's trade returns for last year which have just been published and which should cause our people to do a little quiet thinking. Our imports seem to be increasing by leaps and bounds. For 1920 the goods imported into Canada reached a total value of nearly $400,000,000 more than for the year previous. At the same time our exports only increased about $8,000,000. The figures show that last year the Canadian people imported from foreign countries $1,336,921,021 worth of goods, while from this country goods valued at $1,302,805,114 were exported. By far the greatest amount of imports last year came from the United States, the total being $921,625,825. Our exports to the republic south of us amounted to $559,956,669 which, while an increase over 1919, leaves us with an adverse trade balance of $361,669,156. The only way in which this can be corrected would be to increase our exports, which will be almost impossible if the Fordney bill goes through, and to decrease our imports from the United Staes. The things that we can make in Canada should be bought by the Canadian people, and most of the articles we import can be produced here. The trade balance must be rectified and the exchange situation remedied, and every Canadian can help by confining his purchases as far as possible to Canadian-made goods.

HARDING'S POSITION.

After the exposure of Mr. R. T. Harding's questionable position as Government counsel in the timber investigation, while at the same time holding a brief for a lumber company, Hon. E. C. Drury, out of deference to public sentiment, solemnly announced that Mr. Harding must sever his connection with the lumber companies.

That Premier Drury was either not sincere or utterly failed to grasp the impropriety of the situation was manifest at the time, or he would have taken the obvious course and promptly notified Mr. Harding that his services were no longer required by the Government. Mr. Drury could not control Mr. Harding's private practice; he could terminate his connection with the Timber Commission.

But Hon. E. C. Drury has furnished unmistakable evidence that he is more anxious to make political capital than he is to guard the people's heritage.

Publication of correspondence between the Hon. W. E. Raney and Messrs. Blake, Lash & Cassels, together with a final letter from Deputy-Attorney Bayly, furnish an interesting commentary on Hon. Peter Smith's declaration that there is "absolutely nothing to it, boys. I don't know why Harding would want to write such a letter."

Although Premier Drury was prepared to defy public opinion and retain Harding as Government counsel, a private appeal to the commissioners by Hartley Dewart and Mr. Callaghan (the purchasing agent for Mr. E. W. Backus) appears to have been more effective.

The propriety of this private interview with the commissioners may be open to question, and the real reason which prompted it may be a matter of conjecture, but no person questions the propriety of Mr. Harding's removal from the conduct of the investigation. Formally and publicly Mr. Harding's withdrawal was announced. The commissioners issued a statement; Hon. W. E. Raney did likeiwse; Mr. Harding agreed, and the public cordially approved. According to the Hon. W. E. Raney, the Government "thus did its whole duty."

It is not only Mr. Harding's letter which does not jibe wth Hon. Peter Smith's statement, but the letter of the Deputy Attorney-General, dated 20th January, to Messrs. Blake, Lash & Cassels, concluding with this significant sentence: "I have sent a copy to R. T. Harding, WHO IS AT PRESENT LOOKING AFTER HIS CASE FOR THE GOVERNMENT."

Is it possible that this is merely one of the peculiarities of group government, where the Provincial Treasurer does not let the Attorney-General know what his left hand is doing?

Whatever the explanation may be, it would seem to be highly desirable that the various departments concerned should hold a caucus and decide once and for all whether R. T. Harding is or is not representing the Government.—Toronto Telegram.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When it comes to asking questions, the census enumerators will have nothing on Hartley Dewart or Howard Ferguson.

All the mis-statements are not found in political advertising. How about the man, not of Scottish descent, who attended the Bobby Burns' banquet and said he liked the haggis?

You can do your bit to avert unemployment. Buy made-in-Canada try."

Now it's the Farmers' turn. Their big rally is staged for Friday night and another crowded house is certain.

There is one redeeming feature about a five cornered election contest. The losers have a lot of ammo at their disposal.

All political groups should agree on protection against American buffoonists.

Dollar Day proved that there are a few of the articles for which the day was named, still in circulation.

ENGLISH TEACHERS ARE COMING HERE

NOVEL EXPERIMENT BEING TRIED BY CITY OF YORK.

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 26.—As a sequel to the suggestions made by the Canadian education authorities for an exchange of British elementary and secondary teachers with Canadians, a number of English teachers are shortly leaving for Canada for a year's tour. The City of York is introducing this novel experiment through Alderman J. B. Morell, who recently returned from a tour of Canadian towns and cities. It is understood that an interchange has been arranged between five or six principal Canadian cities. The teachers are paying their own travelling expenses, but will receive salaries from the schools they visit, the same as Canadian teachers exchanging here.

KING FIGHTING SHY OF THE ISSUE

"Let the people be consulted before any fiscal policy is adopted," says Mr. Mackenzie King, in effect. But how could the people express their opinion upon Mr .King's policy, seeing that nobody knows what that policy is. What could they say, for example, to a plank which calls for reciprocity with the United Staes at a time when the United States has turned its back upon reciprocity and is preparing to HEIGHTEN ITS TARIFF WALLS AGAINST US?

What could they say regarding the Ottawa low tariff platform, which, according to Mr. Fielding, Mr. King's first lieutenant and Opposition financial critic, was "merely made to get in on" and must be "accepted with reservations?" What could they make of Mr. King's incomprehensible statement that he "wants a tariff for both producers and consumers?" And how cold they reconcile his preaching of free fruit in the west while putting up a protected fruit candidate in the apple belt on the Coast?

The plain fact, of course, is that Mr. King is fighting shy of the tariff. His plan is to commit himself definitely to no tariff policy, to beat about the bush as far as is possible, hoping that when he gets into office he can safely deceive everybody.

MR. KING AND "THE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS?"

Not the Tariff, but the "people's rights" are at issue, said Mackenzie King in his Peterborough speech. How now!

Have the Magna Charta and the Habeas Corpus been suspended?

Have the courts of Canada ceased to function? Is the country under martial law?

Has any class of citizens been deprived of the franchise?

Is free speech at an end? Is it no longer legal to attend public meetings of divine worship?

Are citizens deprived of the right of buying and selling goods or are they forbidden to enjoy themselves in public sports or the moving picture shows?

What public rights, pray Mr. King, do you mean? Who is suffering the loss of "the people's rights?"

KING FEARS TO BE DEFINITE.

You say, "the people have the right to govern themselves." Granted. That is much of a truism as many of your platitudes in "Industry and Humanity.' Is there any difference between the way the country is governed now than it was when you were a colleague of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and had a seat in his cabinet or any other time since Confederation?

You say the present government has "usurped powers," that it has no mandate from the people, and some of your supporters have been saying the same thing. That does not make it so. You and they say more things than your prayers. You make this a cry and an issue because of a programme starving for ideas. You are afraid of anything positive or definite. You deal in "pompous platitudes."

PUSSYFOOTING PROMISES.

You want to slide into power without committing yourself to a single matter of consequence, on a campaign of mere words, of glittering generalities, of pussyfooting promises. Cease eloquent babbling and the uttering of such phrases "as rights of the people" and "true democracy," and "mandate of the electors," and tell us definitely what you would do if in power that is different or better than at present. What kind of a tariff—in specific terms—would you submit and what would be your financial policy? Get away from talkee-talk and down to brass tacks.

HOW CAN CANADA COMPETE AGAINST THE UNITED STATES?

If the times were not so serious, Mr. Mackenzie King's speech of last Saturday night would be amusing. He is curiously inept, strangely dense. He suffers from too much theoretical education and not enough practical knowledge of men and affairs. At a time when the main question with the average man and woman in Canada is how to make income balance outgo,

HOW TO GET BREAD AND BUTTER,

he bases his campaign on constitutional arguments, dry as dust, and without any meat on their bones. Instead of advocating practical measures to solve practical, pressing problems, he declaims about peoples' rights and liberties, constitutional injustice, the usurpation of authority, etc., etc..... We predict he will not go very far. His mind is purely academic. His grip of situations is the dilletante. He lacks, in a word, common horse sense.

THE GRIP OF THE ARM-CHAIR FELLOW,

The people of Canada are not seriously concerned about violation of constitutional authority and they have little patience with long-winded arguments along that line. What they are most concerned about is how we are going to survive as a nation in competition with the United States; how the country is to pay interest on its war debts and pay off some of the principal, so as not to strangle the children of the future; how we are to overcome the tremendous handicap due to our dollar being heavily discounted in the United States. These are the vital problems staring us in the face, and it will not suffice by boring the people with sophisms and subtleties about constitutional government and its violation.

MR. KING TO EVADE THEM

In a nut shell, the big question for most people in Canada to-day is how to make bread and butter and keep the nation alive. For the first time in our history, we are on our own. For years and years the excess of our purchases from the United States over our sales to them were financed through capital borrowing from England, but these borrowings are a thing of the past and now we have to settle up with the Untied States according to our trade with them. If we buy more from them than we sell to them the inevitable result is that by the American. We are buying today twice as much as we are selling to the United States, and that is why the perfectly sound Canadian dollar is considered worth only eighty to eighty-five cents in the United States. In other words, we have to pay from fifteen to twenty cents on the dollar more for United States' goods than the pepole of the United States pay, and, consequently, the cost of living is greater in Canada than over there. The difficulty can easily be overcome.

OUR DOLLAR IS DISCOUNTED

THE REMEDY IS SIMPLE.

Make more goods at home. That is the course advocated by the Government. he policy of the Government is to encourage production of every kind so that more goods will be made at home, thereby restoring our dollar to its real value and giving employment to additional hundreds of thousands of workmen.

Mackenzie King's policy and the policy of the Farmers' Party on the other hand is to reduce our tariff so as to to sell us goods.

One sometimes wonders if the leaders of these parties are sane? In normal times, their policies might be theoreti cally sound, but with our dollar at a discount in the United States these policies are nothing short of madness.

MR. GORDON AND THE EXCCANGE SITUATION

Referring agair to a recent letter of Mr. Gordon's in which, dealing with the exchange question, he said: "A nation that owes money after a war is in the same position as the United States after the Civil War," we would like to point out to Mr. Gordon that one of the principal steps taken by the United States to restore their dollar to par after the Civil War was to establish a high customs tariff, which in time accomplished its purpose. Mr. Gordon's leader, however, wants to pursue the opposite course—that of lowering the tariff.

A SIGNIFICANT OMISSION BY THE GOVERNMENT'S OPPONENTS

The Meighen Government and its predecessor have met and solved problems unparalleled in Canadian history. They successfully prosecuted a great war, demobilized a great army, carried out tasks of restoration and reconstruction on a scale that have challenged world wide admiration and incidentally achieved domestic reforms which called for statesmanship of the highest order. But despite the difficulties, complexities and obstacles such a gigantic task involved, despite the desperate haste and strain under which most of the work had to be carried on, and notwithstanding the gigantic expenditures involved, the Government's critics to-day, although clamouring to put it out, are against either its capacity or its integrity.

Mr. Mackenzie King, leader of the main Opposition, spoke in Peterboro on Saturday last said he was making an appeal against a Government candidate and an attack upon the Government itself, yet one reads his speech in vain to discover a single word or hint against that Government's honesty or capacity.

Think of what this means! A Government that has expended hundreds of billions of dollars, and yet its enemies, exploring every possible source of attack, are incapable of pointing to a single fact reflecting upon its integrity or ability.

Mr. Meighen and his Ministry could could have no better certificate of character.

MR. F. L. ROY GAVE AN ADDRESS TO THE PETERBORO ART ASSOCIATION

INTERESTING EXPOSITION OF MODERN PHOTOGRAPHY—THE "MOVIES."

Under the auspices of the Woman's Art Association last evening Mr. Fred Roy gave an interesting address on the modern art of photography. Mr. Roy first observed that all photography is comparatively modern. It is the youngest of the graphic arts, being less than a century old.

About the year 1568 Della Porta, an Italian, is credited with having discovered a "camero obscura." As a matter of fact it was known and used extensively by the early astromers as far back as 1300.

A mere toy conceived in a moment of fancy gave to the world a scientific phenomenon—an instrument of inestimable value. It remained undeveloped for nearly three centuries as apparently no attempt was made to permanently fix the image until the year 1814, when Niepce, a French chemist, began his experiments almost simultaneously with Louis Deguerre, a French scenic painter. In 1829 he entered into an arrangement with Deguerre to exchange with one another information regarding all their attempts to fix the pictures obtained by the "camera obscura." It was not until 1840, however, after the death of Niepce that any success crowned these experiments. Deguerre succeeded in that year in producing the first sun-light portrait of a human face, which was known as a Daguerrotype. Photography then is less than 100 years old and its development in that time has been phenomenal.

Early Days of the Art.

To produce a Daguerrotype in the early days of the art was a weird and wonderful affair. The subject was posed in the strongest possible light and compelled to sit absolutely still for from five to thirty minutes. Compare this with the exposure necesary to-day. In a very subdued light the average exposure does not exceed one second and in modern high-speed photography one one-thousand of a second is not at all uncommon.

A favourite practise in the good old days was to whiten the face of the sitter with powder or chalk in order to shorten the exposure for the face. To-day it some times becomes necessary to diplomatically suggest to the fair sitter that she remove some of the excess. In order to secure any detail at all in a dark dress, it used to be necessary to wave a piece of black cloth attached to a long stick in front of the sitter's face to prevent over-exposure of the white portions of the picture. With the modern dry plate of to-day tone graduations and colour values are correctly rendered without having to resort to such methods.

New Inventions.

The great French painter, Paul Delaroche, seeing an example of Daguerre's new light pictures, is said to have exclaimed, "Painting is dead." So far the prophecy has not been fulfilled and it is safe to say that painting has less to fear from the competition of photography than from its own over-productiveness. But Delaroche instinctively recognized in the new invention qualities and possibilities which would ultimately bring it in a class with the other fine arts.

However, it is not always good to be heralded into the world with a flourish of trumpets and the exaggerated expectations of the public regarding Daguerre's invention aroused the suspicion and animosity of the painters. This changed to contemptuous indifference as it began to be understood that photography had its limitations. The pendulum had swung to the opposite extreme—the art side was ignored and the process generally dismissed into the realm of chemistry and mechanics. The one attitude was as unreasonable as the other. Photography as an art fell upon evil times—it was seized and exploited for moneyed ends and its aristic possibilities almost entire-entirely igiored or obscured by commercialism. With the usual interacting of cause and effect photographers aimed to please the public and the public accepted their work as representative of the art at its best. Dip into the family album of twenty-five years ago and you will see exactly what commercialism did to photography. The photographer was simply producing what his patrons demanded and would pay for. Notwithstanding these facts, all the while a few enthusiasts disregarding the allurements of popularity and full of belief in the possibilities of their craft have steadily worked to produce photographs which shall appeal to the cultivated judgment as truly artistic pictures. This group of advanced photographers is striving to secure in their prints the same qualities which contribute to the beauty of a picture in any other medium and simply ask that their work may be judged by the same standard.

Photographic Control.

The photographer of to-day can so control the different stages of the photographic process that the print will embody the evidence of his own character and purpose just as an oil painting may do in the case of the painter. High lights can be subdued, shadows strengthened and the effect generally can be changed in accordance with the artistic inspiration of the photographer. Just here it might be of interest to explain the process of the realing of a photographer.

With the advent of what is known as the soft focus lens some few years ago photography took another stride forward. Portraits or landscapes produced with this lens lack the wiry sharpness of the picture made with the ordinary rectilinear or shape-cutting lens. Some of the most beautiful productions of recent years have been made in this way. It has the quality of subduing unimportant details and the softening of the outlines against very materially the effect from a pictorial standpoint.

The field of modern photography, however, is not by any means limited to portraiture and landscapes. Most people recognise the wonderful improvement along artistic lines, but very few realise its entire scope. Personally, I cannot think of any line of human endeavour to-day in which photography does not play an important part. As an industry, it is the sixth largest in the world, and if motion photography is included, it is second only to steel.

The world doubted Columbus, but it had to believe Shackleton's photographs.

X-Ray photography discovered by Prof. Rontgen in 1895, has achieved wonders in the field of surgical and medical science. By its use not only can foreign bodies be located in the human system, but the functioning of the whole body can be clearly shown and the most delicate organisms revealed. The greater part of X-Ray examination is conducted by photographic methods, as the image given by the rays on a plate or film show far more detail than can be seen by visual examination.

Illustrative Photography.

Modern illustrated magazines would not be possible without photography and photo engraving. Can you imagine said the speaker, how the public would receive the weekly newspapers if the illustrated supplements were eliminated?

The manufacturer could not dispense with the aid of photography in preparing his catalogue and selling his goods. Commercial travellers no longer are compelled to carry innumerable trunks full of heavy samples; all that is necessary is to have articles photographed and the pictures mounted neatly in an album. More and more is photography being used for this purpose, for a photograph is more convincing than the cleverest drawing, and the public is quick to recognise its truthfulness.

Legal and Criminal Photography.

The cleverest forgery can be instantly detected by photographing and enlarging enormously the signature. Valuable records can be reproduced with absolute accuracy. The criminal whose photograph is in a rogues' gallery along with the finger-prints, hasn't much chance of escaping detection.

The Movies.

And need I mention the "movies." You are all familiar with the wonderful productions of recent years. Technically wonderful, and artistically beautiful, they are pure photographs in motion projected upon a screen instead of stationary on a sheet of paper. And so on, the list is almost endless—submarine, microscope, astronomical, and telegraph photography, are all helping to solve some of this old world's problems.

Let me whisper to you that "photography won the war," notwithstanding numerous other claims. The work of the aerial photographers was indispensable. Their maps or mosaics of the enemy trench system were made up of hundreds of photographs cleverly joined together. Any change was immediately noticed, and before every important engagement the whole territory was carefully photographed in this way. There is no more interesting study than human nature itself, and the artist who has made photography his life work has a wonderful opportunity for such study. To read each individual, to recognise and bring out the character written in each face—is an absorbing and fascinating problem.

TAKE MEDICINE IN CAPSULE FORM

Gives Quicker Action—The Ideal Method for Home Treatment.

Why medicines in capsule form are best was recently explained as follows: "The object of taking medicine is to get quick results and also to make the taking as easy as possible. The capsule form does this. The palate does not revolt at the gelatine coating, no matter how repellant to the taste are the drugs contained. The capsule also goes down the throat without inconvenience."

A striking illustration of the effectiveness of capsule form medicine is given by Grip-Fix, a remedy containing just those drugs usually prescribed by physicians for Colds or Grippe. In its capsule form Grip-Fix provides a reliable home treatment for Colds, giving wonderfully quick results. Now that Colds are prevalent, get a box of Grip-Fix from your druggist. Sold at 35c a box. MUCH UNEMPLOYMENT NOW IN NOVA SCOTIA

SITUATION AGGRAVATED BY MIGRATION OF RURAL POPULATION TO CITIES.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, Jan. 27.—There are a great number of people in the Maritime Provinces who are out of work, according to information available at official sources here. Idlers are seen about the street corners of a good many of the industrial centres, and Social Welfare Bureaus, Salvation Army depots, Y.M.C.A.'s and other philanthropic and charitable institutions have their hands particularly full this winter looking after the dependents and families of those who are ordinarily the bread winners. Nevertheless there has been little report of the lack of necessities of existence so far and families who want food to fill their stomach and clothes to keep their bodies warm, have been pretty well looked after. With the disappearance of the last hash from the New Year's dinner and the decrease in supplies of the flour and fuel presented by the "Young People's Society," however, it is expected that further efforts will have to be made for their well-being, particularly in view of the post-holiday accentuation of business depression. It is probable that at the present time there are a few thousand men and women in the three Maritime Provinces who are without employment and are not likely to get work in the near future.

In spite of the stress of unemployment at this time, commercial business seems to have been about as good as it was last year.

Mining operations in various sections are considered to be normal, and there is the usual demand for experienced miners.

Lumbering has failed to show an expected increase in volume and reports from both Nova Scotia and New Brunswick indicate a superfluity of lumber-jacks running into several hundreds.

The universal tendency on the part of manufacturing interest to proceed slowly has its reflection in the Maritime Provinces with the consequent "laying off" of labor. In Nova Scotia this tendency has been increased to a marked degree by the unfortunate labor difficulty at the Dominion Iron and Steel plant at Sydney where a strike of fifty railwaymen and an embargo on exports from and imports to the company's yards has somewhat hindered operations.

There is little activity in the way of construction in the Provinces and the dullness which usually obtains during the winter months has been more prevalent lately on account of bad weather.

The unemployment situation is worse as a result of the annual migration of the rural population to the cities. In Halifax about five hundred men and women have registered at the Government employment offices and there are another hundred and fifty walking the streets who will not register until they are on their uppers. Reports from other centres of population would seem to show that a similar state of affairs is, to a greater or lesser extent, general.

SAYS ROCHEL WOULD SURELY MISS THE MOON

An English scientist points out the following difficulties which would confront Prof. Robert H. Goddard, of Clark College, Worcested, Mass., were he to endeavor to reach the moon by means of his rocket.

It is almost mathematically impossible, the Englishman thinks, to aim certainly from an object moving, as the earth does, about nineteen miles a second in one direction and nearly 2,000 feet a second in another and each direction varying with every microscopical fraction of a second of time at a target 240,000 miles away, also moving at another speed, especially when the actual speed of the rocket throughout the journey cannot be known.

Besides, the gravitational pull of the earth is complex and is varied by the tidal pull of the moon, and there are unknown air currents and many other factors that will make the rocket's destination problematical in the extreme.

Would Vanish in Wisp of Flame

"To have any chance of success the rocket needs to travel at something over six miles a second—that is about twelve times as fast as a bullet leaves a rifle. Now the possibility of this speed being attained is not the crux of the problem, which is to be found in the fact that when it is reached the rocket will vanish in an incandescen wisp of flame and smoke; for it is well known that bodies when they speed through the air are subject to friction, and if they travel at even two miles a second the friction against the air is sufficient to generate a tremendous heat, while at a greater rate a consuming white heat is soon reached, even if the body be of steel."

The heat engendered in the first hundred miles will "have a disastrous effect upon the nineteen tons of explosives that are by successive charges, to speed he rocket to its destinaion."

WILL PATENAUDE SUCCEED SIFTON?

RUMORED HE WILL BE TAKEN INTO CABINET AS SECRETARY OF STATE.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA Jan. 26.—Some force is left to the rumors that Hon. E. L. Patenaude is likely to join the Government by his presence in Ottawa to-day. Mr. Patenaude has made several trips to Ottawa of late interviewing the Premier. Again this morning he met the Premier by appointment. The suggestion is made that Mr. Patenaude might be taken in as Secretary of State succeeding Hon. A. L. Sifton. Mr. Patenaude held this portfolio for a time in the Borden administration and would be returning to familiar duties.

GERMANY PLANNING ATTACK ON SOVIET

RED MENACE FOSTERS MOVEMENT FOR WAR AGAINST RUSSIA.

(By Viggo Toepfer, Staff Correspondent of the Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—A movement for a German attack on Russia as the only means of stopping the increasing influence of Red sympathizers in Germany is finding adherents here, especially among the reactionary military leaders, who hope to see Germany a monarchy, and realize that their plan are threatened by the plans of Moscow for a Soviet revolution in North Germany.

An international war against the Soviet Government is urged by Gen. Hoffman, who was one of the principle negotiators of the peace of Brest-Litovak between Germany and Russia. He urges that an internotional force begin operations in the spring against Petrograd, and insists that the 3,000 Red Commissaries in control here could be driven out in no time, as the Red troops would be unable to withstand a well-disciplined and well-armed force.

Gen. Ludendorf supports Gen. Hoffman, and has just been in conference with members of the former Bavarian general staff on the question of a new Russia invasion. He suggests the employment of German officers to train the White Guards and other organizations already in existence in Russia and fighting the Soviet.

SELF-TAXATION BY THE JEWS IN HOLY LAND

PURPOSE IS TO RAISE $125,000,000 FOR RECONSTRUCTION OF PALESTINE.

LONDON, Januar 27. — All Jews throughout the world were asked to consent to a form of self taxation by tithes in the manifesto recently issued by the Palestine Foundation Fund, asking for $125,000,000 for the reconstruction of Palestine The manifesto was signed by a number of distinguished Jews, including Lord E. Rothschild, Sir Alfred Mond and Dr. Chaim Weizman.

The manifesto outlines a big programme of irrigation, drainage, forestry, road making, bridge building and town planning, which it says can be accomplished if the Jews of the world will tax themselves to produce the fund desired.

It adds that the purpose of the promoters is to enable immigration into Palestine to begin without delay and to provide for the economic development of the country. Thousands are waiting on the threshold of Palestine, it asserts.

CABINET VACANCY TO WAIT.

Hon. A. L. Sifton's Place Will Not be Hastily Filled.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27.—The vacant portfolio of Secretary of State will not be filled for some time, and, perhaps, not till well on or after the Parliamentary session, according to information in Government circles today. One of the other Ministers will act as head of this department, when a successor to Mr. Sifton is appointed he is unlikely to come from Alberta, already represented by Sir James Lougheed, Minister of the Interior, and head of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. It is felt that there is no particular reason why this province should have two Ministers now, though it was desirable in carrying out the union idea. The probabilities are that the Cabinet vacancy when filled will go either to Quebec or British Columbia.

Aglish, who was living under the assumed named of MacMahon, one of the fourteen officers killed here on November 21st. The Crown counsel applied for an adjournment until Friday on the ground that the principal witness who shared Lieut. Aglish's room when he was shot and killed had mysteriously disappeared. The witness left England for Dublin yesterday, the Crown counsel said, but could not be found. An application for adjournment was negotiated.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 27. — A farmer from North Yarmouth was in the city a few days ago looking for half a dozen men to cut cordwood in his woods and offered to pay them at the rate of $1.25 a cord. AN AREA OF RUIN AND DESOLATION

RESULT OF CONSTANT FIGHTING BETWEEN FRENCH FORCES AND TURKISH NATIONALISTS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Constant fighting between the French forces of occupation and Turkish Nationalists has transformed the Cilicia district of Asia Minor into an area of ruin and desolation resembling the devastated sections of northern France, declares Miss Elizabeth Webb, an American Missionary and worker for the Near East Relief.

In a letter to the relief organization, Miss Webb tells of a trip from Adana, recently delivered from a siege of 14 weeks, to the town of Deurt Yol, about 50 miles distant on the Mediterranean Sea. The trip was made on a French armored train.

"The Adana station itself was suggestive of the general situation with its barricades of sand bags," she wrote. "As we moved down the track we saw bent rails lying by the side of the new ones that has just been laid. Bridges that we passed over were newly repaired and village stations along the route were demolished. The ruins were surrounded by barbed wire entanglements and broken telegraph poles, festooned with tangled wire ,witness to the events of the past few months. No human beings were in sight but the barbed wire entanglements were hung with tin cans, which, in the weeks of fighting that preceded my visit had been put up by the defenders to prevent surprise attack, for one touch on the wire would set the whole row of cans jingling.

"In the four hours between Adana and Toprak Kale we saw only one human being outside the vicinity of these two places. This one exception was a Turk riding a forlorn looking horse, with a white rag hanging from a pole stuck upright in his pack saddle. There were scores of threshing floors where the cut wheat had been allowed to rot in the sun and rain.

"The difficulties in Deurt Yol and Euzerli have greatly increased by the addition of about 3,000 Armenian refugees to the population. Most of the refuges abandoned rich crops and houses that had been newly repaired with aid from the Near East Relief. We found them in a pitiful condition. Houses of two and three rooms were sheltering four or five families.

"All empty houses porches, storehouses and every inch of available space was filled with them. Some were sleeping on the bare ground with no covering.

"To meet the need in these two places, the Near East Relief has sent 400 sacks of flour, 3,400 yards of cloth, flour, meats, quinine and 1,750 blankets.

DIRECTORS MILLBROOK FAIR ARE OPTIMISTIC

REPORTS AT ANNUAL MEETING SHOW SOUND CONDITIONS—CHURCH AND PERSONAL NEWS.

MILLBROOK Jan. 26.—The Millbrook Agricultural Society, held their annual meeting in the Clerk's Office, Town Hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday January 19th. Although the attendance was not large a keen interest was taken by those present in the business on hand.

The various reports given showed that, in spite of the fact that the Fair last fall was called off on account of rain, and the fact that a new building had been erected, the society is in a good flourishing condition. The Directors hope to wipe off the balance of the debt on the building by private subscriptions.

The following officers and directors were elected:

President — R. J. McKnight, 1st Vice President—L. W. Smith, 2nd Vice President—A. J. Fallis, Secretary-Treasurer—J. N. McGill.

NEW LAMP BURNS 40 PER CENT. AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 p.c. air and 6 p.c. common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, F. R Johnson, 246 Craig street west, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month. (Advt.) 30-13-27-10-24

SPANISH SERVANTS ORGANIZE A UNION

DETERMINED TO FORCE THEIR DEMAND FOR INCREASED WAGES.

Associated Press.

MADRID, Jan. 27. — Americans accustomed to paying their hired girls $50 or more a month for general housework will be interested to learn that Spanish domestics are forming a labor organization to enforce a demand for an increase that will bring their wages up to the equivalent of $5 or even $10 a month.

Cooks, parlormaids, kitchenmaids, wet nurses and general help have united in a movement not only for higher wages but an eight hour day. This may look ridiculous in America, but it is a serious business for the Spaniards. They are accustomed to paying their hired girls the equivalent normally of about $4 a month, and requiring them to be on duty from early in the morning to late at night, or even until one o'clock the following morning.

The servant girls of Spain usually are allowed a half day off each month

The eight hour day proposalj hits the householder the hardest. One newspaper satirically asks: "How will baby get on if the wet nurse declines to perform her duties for more than eight hours a day?"

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

IT USUALLY DISAPPEARS WHEN THE BLOOD IS MADE RICH AND RED.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and profit by the better condition in which they will put your blood.

These Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOVEMENT TO MAKE APSLEY BEAUTIFUL

REPRESENTATIVE MEETING URGES CIVIC IMPROVEMENT ON COUNCIL.

APSLEY, Jan. 26.—A kind of civic improvement movement was inaugurated on Friday evening, when a public meeting was called in the Town Hall to discuss the advisability of petitioning the Council to improve the Town Hall and surroundings by moving the former further back from the road ,planting trees, and putting up a new fence. The place where the war trophies should be placed also came in for consideration.

The meeting was well attended, about forty ratepayers being present.

Rev. W. Hall, the Methodist minister, presided, and outlined the scheme pointing out that Apsley was on the eve of development, as shown by the increased number of tourists visiting the neighbourhood, and that steps should be taken for the beautifying of the village by removing the Town Hall some distance back from its present position and by the planting of trees and enclosing the grounds with a wire fence, and thus making the place into a small park. Trees could also be planted along each side of the street. He thought the Council should be petitioned to make a grant for this object.

Councillor Tucker could not see that the ratepayers would derive any benefit from such a scheme. Let each beautify his own premises, he said. He did not approve of a few ratepayers springing this on the Council, and expecting it to bear the expense.

After a desultory discussion, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence said that evidently the meeting was of the opinion that improvement was needed, and he moved that a deputation be appointed to wait on the Council and ask them to renovate the Town Hall and the grounds.

This was carried unanimously, and Messrs. Hall, Ben Coones, and Esau Tucker were appointed to act as a deputation.

War Trophies.

With regard to the disposal of the war trophies, Mr. Spence moved that the memorial be raised higher and on a base large enough to contain the trophies, the whole to be protected by a railing, and that a committee be appointed to undertake the work.

This resolution was also carried unanimously, and Messrs. Ben Coones, H. Trickey, and Alex. McColl were oppointed to carry out the work.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Kicked by a Horse.

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

No rest day or night for those who are afflicted with that terrible skin disease, eczema, or as it is often called, salt rheum.

With its unbearable burning, itching and torturing relief is gladly welcomed.

There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers; no remedy that has done, or can do more for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture.

Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning, and promotes a healthy healing.

Take it internally and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood,—for eczema is a blood disease— and drives it out of the system.

Miss L. M. Boutilier, 89 Victoria Road, Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I have suffered for years from eczema. I could not rest day or night. I suffered great agony, and was nearly crazy with the itching and burning. I used all kinds of salves, but nothing seemed to help me. I saw Burdock Blood Bitters advertised, and was advised to try a bottle. I found great relief ,and I really cannot recommend it highly enough for what it has done for me."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN ENGLAND

(Associated Press.)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 27.—What is described as the worst outbreak of foot and mouth disease for 30 years has occurred among the cattle in the midland counties.

The appearance of the disease was first noticed on December 26 at the Central Meat Market here. A number of cattle from country markets were found to be suffering and were immediately slaughtered, but the contagion had already spread. The Board of Agriculture has since ordered the destruction of 400 more animals and the closing of the market. The midland counties are scheduled as infected.

The first recorded case of the present epidemic occurred at Ripon on January 9, 1919. Since then 27 separate outbreaks have been occurred in as many different places not traceably connected with each other.

National Progressive Party

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

The Average Citizen and the Tariff

In the loud cry that is going up at present from at least three of the candidates in the West Peterborough bye-election for the "protection of our industries," "adequate protection," a "safe tariff," and so forth, there is a danger that the interests and protection of the average citizen may be lost sight of. The National Progressive Party is opposed to radical and sudden changes in the tariff. Nevertheless, it believes that the interests of the average citizen come first.

Let us examine, for a moment, how our tariff laws are made. Generally, it is about as follows: A group of manufacturers of, let us say, boots and shoes, meet behind closed doors and decide what they think the tariff should be to protect THEMSELVES AND THEIR SHAREHOLDERS. When they think they have set it high enough, to be sure that they have a "safe tariff" THAT WILL BUILD UP THEIR INDUSTRY, they begin to send delegations of the most influential men they can find to the Government to ensure having the schedules fixed to suit themselves. Sometimes they send experts to argue their case before tariff commissions, but this is generally a camouflage, because they know very well that the tariff will really be set later behind closed doors at Ottawa. The woollen manufacturers, the furniture manufacturers, the tanners, sugar refiners, and about every other industry that can be named, follow the same procedure. In the meantime, the average citizen is going about his business in the ordinary way without realising just what they are plotting to make him pay for the things they know he must buy.

HOW THE TARIFF IS COLLECTED.

Later the Government announces its policy and what the people are to be taxed. When the tariff is not too high, some goods are imported, and the duty paid on these goes to the Dominion Government. Thus when we import goods, we are helping to swell the Government revenue. When, however, the tariff is so high that protected manufacturers simply put up the price of their goods in Canada, the people pay the extra prices to them instead of in the form of a duty to the Government. No wonder these rotected interests cry "Buy Made-in-Canada Goods."

IT IS THE AVERAGE CITIZEN WHO PAYS THE PRICE.

After the Government has decided what the tariff shall be, its Customs officials stop goods that are being imported into the country at the Customs House, and collect whatever duties are to be collected thereon. Later, when the average citizen goes into a store to buy a pair of boots, he does not realise that he is probably paying from $1.00 to $3.00 or $4.00 extra, either to a protected manufacturer or to the Government because of that duty. When a young working girl goes into a store to buy a coat, she does not realize that she is possibly paying $10.00 or $15.00 more for it than she otherwise would. The mother who is frantic to know how her small allowance can be spread out to buy enough sheeting, cotton, and other goods for the needs of her family, does not realize that she may be paying 20 per cent. to 30 per cent. more for these goods than she would if it was not for the tariff, and that in many cases this extra money is going to build up some of the big combines in Canada. If she did, she would soon have very different ideas about the tariff. Yet this is how it works. People who cry out against the high cost of living and against the combines and trusts do not seem to see clearly that these combines and trusts grow and prosper and flourish behind tariff walls which give them "adequate protection." Yet this is what Messrs. Denne, Burnham, and Gordon are all crying aloud for. They say they are against the combines and trusts, but they are pledging themselves to give these industries the so-called "adequate protection" these industries want. You can't build up these industries by a tariff without taking the money out of the pockets of the common people. No wonder the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer. The common people have not been getting a square deal. It has been estimated that for every $1,000,000 the Government gets in revenue through the duty collected on imported goods, the protected interests in Canada receive $3,000,000 in the higher prices they are able to charge our ordinary citizens, because of the tariff.

THE GOVERNMENT FEARS THE NATIONAL-PROGRESSIVE PARTY.

Premier Meighen, when he was speaking in Peterboro, said that he feared the National-Progressive party more than he did the Liberals. One reason for this may be because the National-Progressive Party has been winning by-elections, whereas the Liberals haven't. Another reason may be that he believes that the National-Progressive party, if elected, will fulfill its pledges. He admits that Hon. T. A. Crerar states frankly what the policy of the party is, just as Mr. J. C. Campbell, the candidate of this party, is doing in this by-election.

If you have somewhat lost faith in the old political parties with their promises and long list of broken pledges why not get behind the National-Progressive Party and its great leader, Hon. T. A. Crerar, and give it a chance to give the people something better. If you approve of their platform (it was announced in last night's issue of The Examiner) then we would ask you in this by-election to

GOVERNMENT LINES FACE BIG DEFICIT

EXPECTED ANNUAL STATEMENT WILL SHOW $60,000,000 DEFICIT, $13,000,000 GREATER THAN LAST YEAR.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Figures are now being prepared showing the result of last year's operation of the Government Railways, and will probably be made public within a few days. It is expected that they will show a deficit of about $60,000,000, including the Grand Trunk Pacific. This is in comparison with a deficit of $47,000,000 in the previous year. In both cases the fixed charges are comprised in the deficit.

The increased loss is caused chiefly by higher wages and deferred maintenance.

During the war years, the roads could not be maintained at their usual standards.

Increases granted in passenger and freight rates have, it is said, been more than taken up by the increased labour charges.

ASNBURNHAM BRIDGE IS OPEN TO ALL TRAFFIC

KAMINISTIQUIA COMPANY PRESENTS ANNUAL REPORT

Special to Examiner.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27. — The annual financial statement of the Kaministiquia Power Co., Limited, for the year ending Oct. 31, 1920, shows a slight increase in revenue which is more than offset by an increase in operating costs. Gross revenue of $449,273 is up from $442,387, the preceding year. After the reduction of operation, maintenance, depreciation and renewal reserve of $146,578 against $122,860, the net revenue was $302,696 against $319,577 in the preceding year. Deducting fixed charges of $96,063 against $96,125, the net income remains $206,633 against $223,452.

Dividends took up $175,992 against $175,972, leaving a surplus of $30,640 against $47,480 in 1919.

Expensive labour, supplies and the high taxation restricted the net revenue, these costs being further aggravated by the neecssity of carrying out the maintenance work deferred during the war for want of men.

During the war there was redeemed for sinking fund purposes $20,000 of the mortgage debt.

The total assets are given at $5,234,634 against $5,153,234, the previous year. The property, plant, franchises, etc., are valued at $14,633,072 against $4,625,091. Cash is $1,034,312 against $30,414; accounts receivable are $88,702 against $65,718.

TRIUMPH OVER THE HERO OF FRANCE

MARSHAL FOCH DEFEATED BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR AND FORMER PRESIDENT POINCARE MILLERAND SHARES BLAMES.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Marshal Foch whose strategy confounded the Germans, suffered a crushing defeat the other day. President Millerand of France shared the blame, for they were partners.

It was not at war, but at dominoes. The American Ambassador, Hugh C. Wallace, and former President Poincare triumphed over the great marshal and France's chief executive. The incident is related by a writer of the Cri De Paris in the best of French journalistic style, substantially as follows:

The presidential train carrying high personages of France and other nations to Verdun to attend the dedication of the monument marking the Bayonet Trench had been under way for an hour and conversation had begun to lag.

"If we had a game of dominoes," exclaimed Marshal Foch.

Alas! the box of dominoes of the Elysee had been forgotten; and there were no dominoes in the restaurant.

"We must get some for the return journey," declared M. Millerand, who entrusted this important mission to his son, Jean.

When after the ceremony they rejoined the train for the return journey, a magnificent box of dominoes was spread out on the table of the saloon car. It has been borrowed from a colonel of the gendarmerie.

Two camps were immediately formed. The President had the Marshal for partner. Their adversaries were M. Poincare and Hugh C. Wallace.

"Are we strong enough?" M. Poincare asked the Ambassador. "The President and the Marshal are crack players."

"We, too, I hope," replied Mr. Wallace, smiling.

"Hm!" questioned M. Poincare. "You, certainly."

The first game began. It went in favor of M. Millerand and Marshal Foch.

"I knew it," signed M. Poincare.

"Let us see how it goes in the second game," responded Mr. Wallace. "Never despair."

The second game commenced. It was a surprise. The Poincare-Wallace side gained a sweeping victory over the Millerand-Foch side.

"Let us have a revenge," the Marshal declared impetuously. "We cannot, Mr. President, allow ourselves such a defeat."

The revenge was palpitating, but in the end the game, which for a long time swayed in the balance, pronounced itself in favor of M. Poincare and Wallace.

"Well, Mr. Marshal, you are beaten," M. Millerand said.

"It seems to me, Mr. President, that you are, too," rejoined the Marshal. "But what adversaries! Mr. Poincare plays very well and the Ambassador is a champion player."

VAUDEVILLE AND GAMBLING UNDER FIRE BY COUNCIL

SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL OF CANADA WANTS INVESTIGATION OF POLICE COURTS.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The will and future policy of the Social Service Council of Canada on many matters of national importance, was indicated in several resolutions which were adopted by the delegates at to-day's session of the annual meeting.

Vaudeville shows of an indecent or immoral nature were condemned, as was race track gambling and contraventions of the Prohibition laws, while persons and organisations, including license inspectors, who were helping to bring about the abolition of bootlegging, were commended for their efforts.

Investigations were ordered into conditions governing local Police Courts and also into the relationship of crime to the facility with which revolvers may be purchased.

Dean Tucker of London was re-elected as president of the Dominion Council.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Wheat exhibited much weakness to-day and May sold down to 1.48, the lowest price of the crop. Omaha longs liquidated and there was a lack of buying power. P. S. Goodman, the local statistician issued a statement showing world's surplus 17,000,000 bushels over requirements and this caused much selling.

A Toledo authority claimed information to the effect that the French Commission had purchased almost all the wheat the French will need this season. G. R. Marcy, President of the Armour Grain Company, construes the Goodman report as bullish, claiming the average pre-war carry-over is 250,000,000 bushels. The domestic wheat demand is slow. Export demand failed to show much activity despite the decline and the only sales reported were 100,000 bushels to Germany. Winnipeg reported cash premiums 1-2 cent higher and Kansas City reported exporters buying March wheat there.

Corn sold at new low levels for the season but the market held much better than wheat. There was excellent buying in evidence on the break through commission houses while local bought. Most of the demand was in the way of short coverings. Despite the talk of reduced receipts, the arrivals continue above the four hundred cars mark. The domestic shipping demand for corn was slow while export bids are out of line.

Oats also broke to new low levels for the season and are now selling at pre-war levels. Shorts picked up the oats on the break and a little investment buying was noted. The domestic demand for oats is broadening. Receipts continue of fair volume.

Provisions were lower. A little outside selling resulted in a break in grain.

MILKMAID'S ROMANCE TRUER THAN FICTION

Leaves Pony and aCrt at the Church to Become Bride.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—As a rule such things happen only in books and plays, but the romance of Miss Beryl Seppings of Oakmere Farm, Potters Bar, goes to prove that truth can also be more romantic than fiction. Miss Seppings is a milkmaid, who drives a pony and cart over her route every morning. While thus engaged she wears a slouch hat, a smock, breeches and gaiters. When she went over her route in her usual attire one morning recently, she came to the Potters Bar parish church, Middlesex and left the pony and cart in charge of a blacksmith and walked into the the church.

Almost immediately Reginald James of Barnet drove up in an automobile and followed into the church. After a time he came out with the milkmaid on his arm. There was a plain gold band on the third finger of her hand. Then the new Mrs. James got back into her cart, for she had to continue with her work. Moreover she had decided to continue the farm work another month before exchanging her milk cart for a half interest in the James automobile.

A GOOD YEAR IN ST. PAUL'S

The annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's Church for the transaction of business and receiving reports from the various organisations, was held last evening in the Sunday School Hall. After devotional exercises by the minister, Inspector Mowat was elected chairman of the meeting. All the reports presented were of a most encouraging character, and showed that the financial side of the work is in a healthy condition. Indeed, this last has been by far the best year in the history of the congregation in the amounts of moneys received for congregational, missionary, and philanthropic work. This is to be accounted for by the new spirit of service and sacrifice which was evoked in connection with the appeal of the Forward Movement. St. Paul's subscribed for this fund the sum of $30,765. Two years are allowed to make complete payments. Already the sum of $17,737 has been paid in.

The financial statement was presented by the treasurer of the church, Mr. E. F. Mason. It showed that $8,397.25 was subscribed by envelope and open collection, an increase of $93.94 over a year ago. The total received by the treasurer for strictly congregational purposes was $11,333.93 —or $1,519.49 more than in 1919. The gifts to missions also showed an increase, the total being $6,139.00. This is apart from the Women's Missionary Society and the Fraser Auxiliary. These societies subscribed respectively $1,775.00 and $437.00. The grand total for all purposes actually paid in by the congregation for the year is close to $39,000.

The report of Session passes in review the entire work of the church. A few extracts from that report are as follow:

In reviewing the work of the congregation in all its departments for the past year, the Session sees many reasons for thanksgiving and encouragement. The hand of God has been upon us for good, and His mercies have followed us throughout the year.

Two important visitations of the congregation were made by the men of the church, the one in connection with the Forward Movement in the month of February, the other in the interest of increased revenue for both the current expenses of the church and for missions. The heartiness with which the men responded to these calls for service and the large number taking part, is an evidence of the genuine interest of the men in the work of the church, and all for which he stands.

The response to the Forward Movement exceeded the most sanguine expectations, even of those who believed that not only was there the ability in St. Paul's Church to do large things, but also the willingness. That the sum was as large as it was is an evidence, surely, that the members of the congregation have an increasing sense of the stewardship of life and of money. If the givings of a people to the cause of Christ is the measure of their love for Christ, then there is cause for thanksgiving in the givings of this congregation for the past year. They show a devotion to the church and a self-sacrifice on the part of many, which is beautiful.

The work among the young people of the congregation has not been as encouraging in its outlook for a number of years. The Sunday School is being ably superintended by Inspector Mowat, assisted by Mr. Wm. Madill. The attendance for the whole school shows a slight increase over a year ago. A marked increase is shown in the attendance at the Young Men's Class, which is taught and cared for by Mr. H. B. Cowan.

The Young People's Guild has shown a marked improvement over other years, not only in attendance, but in the way in which the members discuss the topics and are developing the expressional side of their Christian life. A good work is being done for the Juniors of the congregation in the Junior Guild, which meets at 7 o'clock on Monday evenings. Miss Helen Morrison is the president, and is assisted by the teachers of the Intermediate Department of the Sunday School.

The members of the congregation do not know as much as they should about the work of the Sunday School. The school has to be seen in session in order to appreciate the character of the work done. There are three departments downstairs. The Juniors meet in the Guild Room and the work is carried on under Miss Nina Davidson, with a separate secretary and organist and a staff of six teachers. No superintendent has yet been found for the Primary Department. The work, however, is not neglected. Miss Rae and six assistants care for the religious training of those in this department. It is no reflection on any other part of the school's work to say that no department is quite so well organised and cared for as the Beginners, under Miss Cameron's able leadership. At the recent tea, one hundred and twenty children were present under seven years of age. This promises well for the future of our Sunday School and church.

The interest of the congregation in missions continues to deepen, as is evidenced by the increased gifts through envelope collections, and a more pronounced missionary spirit on the part of many. The W. M. S. has again to record that the closing year has shown an increase in the amount contributed over any former year. The members of this society arranged for a visitation of the women of the congregation in the hope of enlisting their sympathy and co-operation in the great task of giving the Gospel to the whole world. A number of new members have been secured as a result. The Fraser Auxiliary aims at enrolling the senior girls and younger women of the congregation in the work of missions. The Session would commend this organisation to all such, and would urge upon them attendance at its meetings.

Letters received from Miss Maud Ackison, our missionary to Formosa, show that she is making rapid progress with the language, and reports from the missionaries there speak very highly of Miss Ackison's character and fitness for the work, and the influence which she is already exerting on all who come in contact with her. Our missionaries should have the prayers of all the members of the congregation, for it is only as their arms are upheld by the prayers of the Church at home that they will have the spiritual power necessary to cope successfully with the difficulties in their work.

The Session wishes to express its appreciation of the self-sacrificing service of the members of the choir. The musical service of the church has maintained a high standard under the able leadership of the organist, Mr. Frank Tattersall. The music chosen and the manner in which it has been rendered have contributed in no small part to the helpfulness of the worship of St. Paul's Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society reports an increase in attendance and interest. The organisation should have the support of all the women of the church. The society will, in all probability, be called upon to do more in relieving distress than for some time, and hence any help given by the members of the congregation will be appreciated.

During the summer holidays union services were held between George Street Methodist Church and St. Paul's Church, with gratifying results to all concerned. Members of both congregations appreciated the very close fellowship into which they were brought by this arrangement. The plan worked so well, it is likely to be followed another year.

The election of managers for the year resulted in three former members of the Board being returned — William Scott, Frank Ellis, and J. W. McDermid. Three new members were also elected—E. Roland Wilson, H. R. H. Kenner, and Dr. Wood.

Votes of thanks were heartily passed—for the treasurer of the church, Mr. E. F. Mason, for the choir, the Sunday School teachers, the ushers, the auditors, and the chairman, Inspector Mowat.

A resolution was then introduced, and passed, that the minister receive a bonus of $500.00 for the year 1921.

The meeting was brought to a close with a few words from the minister, in which he thanked the congregation for their kindness to him as expressed in their gift of a bonus for the coming year, and for their hearty co-operation with him in the work of the church.

HOPES TO SCALE ROOF OF WORLD

SIR FRANCIS YOUNGHUSBAND WILL ATTEMPT TO CLIMB FORT EVEREST, THE HIMALAYEAN HIGHEST PEAK.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Mt. Everest, the Himalayan peak called "the roof of the world," which Sir Francis Younghusband, the British soldier-explorer, will attempt to climb next summer, has never yet been scaled by man.

Towering above the frontiers of the hitherto forbidden land of Tibet and the remote province of Nepal, India, another land of mystery, the difficulties in even approaching Mt. Everest have been sufficient to baffle explorers.

The world's highest peak lies in Tibet, north o the British Indian border, yet, so far as known, no European has ever approached nearer than 60 miles from its base and few travellers have ever seen its upper slopes.

Other Attempts.

The attempts which have been made to ascend some of Mt. Everest's sister peaks of the Himalayas have usually been made through Nepal because access of them through Tibet was not open. The approach to Mt. Everest through Tibet is said to be more accessible and present greater prospects of success than from the Nepal side.

Sir Francis Younghusband announced that the Tibetan Government had granted him permission to attempt the ascent of the mountain by the Tibetan route. It was Sir Francis, who as colonel commanding a British mission to the Forbidden City of Lhasa in 1903-02, opened Tibet to civilization.

Mt. Everest, named for Sr George Everest, famous British surveyer general of India, is the highest known mountain in the world. Its trigonometrical altitude is 29,002 feet; its probable height is 29,141 feet. The next known highest of the Himalayan peaks are Kinchinjunga, 28,256 feet, and K-2, or Bride peak, whose altitude is 28,191 feet.

The Intrepid Duke.

The intrepid Duke of the Abruzzi, who reached the top of Mt. St. Elias in Alaska (18,024 feet) and who at one time held the record of "farthest north" in Arctic exploration, tried to climb K-2, or Bride peak, in 1909 but failed because from whatever point of the compass he advanced he could find no way up to attain the summit. At 24,600 feet he and his companions were in good physical condition, although progress was slow and laborious; a thick mist warned them that to go on "would have been madness." This achievement of the Italian explorer, however, is the world's record for mountain climbing. Bride peak is in the Karakoram Himalayas. Besides it and its two higher sister peaks, there are in the Himalayas no less than 75 peaks above 24,000 feet, 48 above 25,000 feet, 16 above 26,000 feet and five about 27,000 feet.

Ancient Adventure.

Mountain climbing is one of the most ancient as well as fascinating forms of adventure. It chief dangers are avalanches, landslides, falling rocks, blizards, falling ice, land slides, falls from precipices or into crevasses, falls from ice slopes or down snow slopes.

Sir Francis' announcement of his intention to attempt this mountain climbing feat recalls the exploits of two American women—Mrs. Fannie B. Workman and Miss Annie S. Peck—and their conquest of some of the highest peaks in Asia and South America.

Mrs. Workman in 1899, 1903, 1906 and 1908 made ascents in the Himalayas, including one of the Nun Kun peaks, whose summit is 23,000 feet high, or more than half a mile above the apex of that forbidding sentinel of the Alaskan silences, Mt. McKinley. Miss Peck in 1908 negotiated the top of Mt. Huascaran in the Peruvian Andies, a height of 21,812 feet, and three years later she climbed the two peaks of the volcano Coropuna.

Some Notable Climbing.

Some of the notable mountain climbing peaks of history and the year in which the peaks of the various mountains were attained follows:

1744, the Titlis, the first true snow-mountain; 1786, Mt. Blanc's summit reached for first time; 1811, the Jungfrau; 1812, the Finsteraarhorn; 1813, the Zermatt Breithorn; 1820, Pike's Peak; 1894, the Wetterhorn; 1855, the Mounte Rosa; 1865, the Matterhorn; 1879, Chimborazo; 1883, the Cordillera; 1888, the Selkirks; 1897, Aconcagua; 1898, the Bolivian Andes; 1899, Sikkim in the Himalayas; 1909, Mt. Ruwenzori. There have been no pre-eminent achievements by explorers since the last named date.

PANORAMA OF MISERY IN AUSTRIAN CAPITAL

VIENNA NOW SHOWING TRAGIC EFFECTS OF GREAT WAR.

(Associated Press.)

VIENNA, Jan. 27.—One American business man who has just revisited this city was so surprised at the changes that had taken place in the once gay Austrian capital that he declared that "the panorama of misery," he witnessed here, was the greatest shock of his life.

Henry Barna, of St. Paul, Minn., last visited Vienna ten years ago when, as he said, there was "great fun" here. Now he has returned and spent about two weeks, long enough, he savs, to know what he is talking about.

"I never dreamed," said Mr. Barna to an American Red Cross representative here, "that Vienna would show such tragic effects of the war. I have been in nearly every capital of Europe since the armistice, but nowhere have I seen such wholesale misery. Everything is out of joint. Everything is uncertain. Food is scarce, and fuel still more difficult to obtain. I don't suppose anyone can be happy in a sea of misery like this.

"Why," he went on, "there isn't a smile, much less a laugh, in that crowd," referring to the people passing the hotel in the Ringstrasse. "They seem so sad and dull-eyed, these Viennese, who were so gay when I was here before.

"Everybody seems to be carrying something. Those little bundles are scraps of food which they have been given by some more fortunate neighbor or relief agencies. There's a man in a fur coat carrying a handkerchief full of food. He wouldn't be seen doing that when I was here last. He would be too proud."

Mr. Barna told of a visit he had made a few days before to the Wienerwald, a great forest, an hour's street car ride from the centre of Vienna, where he saw a sight which he likened to a nightmare. The people were allowed to go there for wood were emerging from the forest, their backs heavily laden with the packs of fuel.

"There were hundreds of men, women and children," he said; "there clothing soaked with the cold rain and they were filing along the road side in an almost unbroken line, all headed for Vienna, stooped from the weight of 60 or 70 pounds of wet wood. Sixty pounds was their allowance but I was told that many slipped by the inspectors with more than that.

"There were many sorts of people in that line which has been stretched along that road for more than a year. I saw a woman of evident gentle birth, in a fur coat, probably the last vestige of her wealth, bent over under the weight of her pack, trudging along beside a former officer in the Austrian army, who still wore his great grey coat and cap. Then came children of the very poor with their little feet protruding from their worn shoes. It was very wet underfoot and at their every step one could hear the water oozing from their shoes."

PRESENTS TO POPE FROM ABYSSINIA EMPRESS

ROME, Jan. 27.—The Pope has received a special mission sent by Waizeru Zanditu, Empress of Abyssinia and the Prince Regent, Ras Taffari Makonnen, bringing messages and presents from both. The mission was composed of French missionaries, to whose care the Ethiopian Catholics are entrusted.

The presents included a processional cross in massive silver from the Empress and a pectoral crucific in massive gold from the Prince Regent.

There was also another gold pectoral cross from the Governor of Harrar to the Pope, and a silver gift crucifix from the Prince Regent to Cardinal Gasparri. All the presents are interesting specimens of Abyssinian craftsmanship.

BRITIAN'S DEBT TO U.S. REDUCED

Great Britain reduced her national debt by £247,000,000 in the year 1920. The British debt outstanding on December 31 was £7,832,000,000, compared with total debt of £8,079,000,000 at the close of 1919. Less than one-sixth of the British debt, or £1,163,500,000, is owed to foreign countries, principally to the United States.

Apart from whatever arrangements may result from the impending conferences between British Treasury representatives and the United States Government, Great Britain has no very heavy repayments of foreign debt maturing for several years to come. Detailed statistics received by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York from its English information service, disclose that, in their present status, only about one-tenth of the total of Great Britain's foreign obligations is due to be repaid in the next five years.

Comparatively limited repayments, also, are due this year on the debt held at home. The detailed figures show, however, that more than £850,000,000 of the British home debt is due to be repaid in the four years succeeding 1921.

The amount of the early maturing obligations, by years, is as follows:

British Debt Maturities.

Year.	Home Debt.	Foreign Debt.
1921	£ 71,982,000	£70,719,000
1922	239,212,000	34,568,000
1923	366,609,000	6,268,000
1924	53,256,000	6,268,000
1925	196,983,000	.....

The maturing home debt comprises approximately £275,000,000 of exchequer bonds and the balance is national war bonds. Of the maturing foreign debt £81,850,000 represents payments due the United States on treasury bills, notes and for silver advances, and £29,568,000 is Canadian bank loans. The remainder is due to Japan, Sweden and Mauritius.

FARMERS' CLUBS ARE TO RUN A CREAMERY

PLANT AT HARWOOD WILL OPERATE UNDER AUSPICES OF CO-OPERATION.

COBOURG, Jan. 27.—The U.F.O. clubs of this district have taken over the creamery at Harwood, and it will be operated this coming summer by the Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Co., an organization that has just been effected. The officers are: President, Alex. Campbell; vice-president, A. Carruthers; directors: F. Sherwin, Roseneath; Walter Jennings, Centreton; J. A. Arnold, Baltimore; Joseph Jibb, Cold Springs; Mr. Perkins, Bewdley, and representatives from two or three other clubs yet to be appointed.

Great interest is being taken in the movement, and stock, in shares of $20, is selling readily among the farmers. This factory was purchased a year or so ago by a Lindsay creamery company, but was not operated last year. The new company, it is understood, is capitalized at about $8,000.

The first meeting for general organization and to get things into shape was held at Harwood, and was very largely attended. The hall was filled, and after an interesting program the members of the Women's Institute and U. F. O. clubs served supper. The operation of the factory the coming season will be a distinct asset to the dairy interests of Northumberland county.

JUNIOR BATTLE WITH LINDSAY WILL ATTRACT A BIG CROWD

The battle btween Lindsay and Peterborough juniors at Brock street rink to-morrow night should be one of the features of the hockey season. With a lead of three goals to overcome the Petes will have to cut loose from the first clang of the bell and carry the battle to the visitors. The teams have met three times, each winning one fixture, while the other game was a tie, so that they are very evenly matched. The Lindsay victory on Tuesday night gives the Midgets a three goal lead on the round and the margin is enough to ensure a real struggle all the way. The manner in which the reserved seats are being snapped up augurs well for a big attendance to-morrow night, and the fans are pulling hard for the local youngsters to overcome the lead and win this section of the junior group.

Thursday and Friday nights, Feb. 3th and 4th, will bring to the Grand Opera House, Peterboro, the "Hoop La" Minstrels", under the direction of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., for and under the auspices of the Belmont Club, assisted by some of the best local talent, the most colossal, stupendous and amazing array of beauty and comedy, of vocalists and dancers ever assembled in the history of amateur minstrelsy. The program abounds in astonishing features, unparalleled, unequalled —from the bewitching Borneo Girls, the adorable Melody Lane Chorus, the fascinating Bridesmaidsc Group, the tantalizing Oriental Court Dancers, the talented Yvonne, graceful premier solo dancer, the charming peppy Queen My Gollygosh, King Poo Poo and his retinue of Cannibals (more or less from the South Sea Islands), all the way through the mammoth array of male and female soloists, the antics of the comedians the fame of whose extaordinary ability has spread from the shores of West Peterboro to the far-flung end of the Dominion of Canada.

You will see, also, la-dees and gentlemen, the greatest array of freaks ever brought together under one roof when the scenes of the Minstrel Side Show are placed before you. There is "Lizzie Leaf-Lard", absolutely the largest white woman in captivity today, and many other freaks which I have not the time to enumerate nor you the time to read, but suffice it to say that his scene alone is well-worth the small sum charged for admission to the whole show.

This aggregation, by stupendous effort and through enormous expenses and prodigous work, will offer absolutely the greatest, positively the grandest and gorgeous performance, abounding in mirth, music and wonderment ever produced on the American stage, a spectacular riot of color and harmony, a whirlwind of ragtime and jazz, a burst of royal magnificence and unrivalled splendor, unequalled in this or any other country, and which is unqualifiedly guaranteed to drive away the blues, to chase gloom from the face of the earth, to make the audience glad that they are alive and so fortunate as to witness this unique presentation of exalted stars in supreme acts put over with a bang compared to which the roar of a 16-inch gun is but the mild popping of a penny-cracker)

Quick, Watson! the needle.

"RUDDIGORE" A HIT IN HAMILTON

Mr. W. L. Phillips of the Grand Opera House, has received the following telegram from Mr. W. B. Naylor, manager of the Grand, Hamilton, in regard to "Ruddigore," the big musical production which appears here on Monday:

Hamilton, Jan. 26.

"Boston Opera Company gave excellent performance of Ruddigore tonight to one of the biggest houses of the season and everybody was delighted with the singing of this very funny Gilbert and Sullivan opera. They can play return here anytime.

"W. B. NAYLOR,
"Manager Grand Opera House."

AT THE EMPIRE

MAY ALLISON DRIVES FAMOUS RACING CAR.

Earl Cooper's speedy Stutz racing car—the car with which he broke several world's records in days past—is used by May Alison in her latest picture, "Are All Men Alike?" which is now showing at the Empire Theatre.

The Cooper racing car comes into use in the new Allison picture when, as Teddy Hayden, the star establishes her reputation for dare-devil acts, from driving at break neck speed about the country in the racing automobile to taking flights in an aeroplane over the Metro studios in Hollywood.

But it is in the reckless driving of the famous Stutz that Miss Allison registers the most thrills.

"Are all Men Alike?" was adapted by A. Y. Younger from Arthur Stringer's novel, "The Waffle Iron." It was directed by Philip E. Rosen.

"RUDDIGORE"

When the critics of every New York daily pronounce "Ruddigore" the one big hit in recent years, little remains to be said in praise of that opera, although much may be added in praise of the notable company of stars that will present it at the Grand on January 31st.

The cast includes George Bogue, Dan Marble, Bertram Goltra, Marionne Godbout, Alice May Carley, Joseph Florian, Eva Quintard and a number of other prominent fun-makers.

The chorus is the best looking, best dancing and best singing in America, and especial interest in it comes from the fact that the company will carry its own orchestra. This is absolutely essential to a perfect performance of "Ruddigore," for its music is so brilliant and so tuneful that it requires the interpretation of an organization of musicians especially assembled to play it.

Humor as well as music is an important part of "Ruddigore." It contains genuine fun which the performers enjoy as well as the audiences. The foremost critics of New York said: "Don't miss 'Ruddigore.'" The newspapers of this city say the same, and their advice will be followed.

She escapes from him after the ceremony and the tragic end of the perfidious Blondin results in real happiness for Harriet.

Don't Mix Business With Politics-- Mr. Breyfogle

W. R. Breyfogle has joined the tariff chorus.

As general manager of the Peterborough plant of the De Laval Company, the opinions of W. R. Breyfogle on industrial and perhaps on economic questions too are worthy of attention.

But when W. R. Breyfogle undertakes to discuss the "real issue" in this by-election he places himself in a peculiarly assailable position.

The substance of his letter in the Examiner on Tuesday, January 25th, was the conclusion that the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government should be endorsed by the electors of West Peterborough on February 7th.

W. R. Breyfogle frankly says that he "looks upon this situation purely from a business point of view and without any political bias."

and further—"the present situation is one demanding a business settlement and not a political settlement."

Hasn't Canadian Viewpoint

W. R. Breyfogle's detached view of the issue in this by-election is probably due to the fact that he is not as deeply imbued with Canadian ideals AS ARE THE PEOPLE WHO HAVE SPRUNG FROM CANADIAN SOIL.

Although he has lived in Canada some twelve years, Mr. Breyfogle has remained A CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES.

He is not a British subject, and consequently he has no vote in this by-election.

The fact that W. R. Breyfogle has not renounced allegiance to the land of his birth is an indication of a strong character.

Love of country is an attribute everyone admires.

In this country the LIBERAL PARTY HAS ALWAYS CHERISHED THE BRITISH IDEAL of "government by the many" and not government by the few.

Compacts Then--Profiteers Now

Nearly one hundred years ago William Lyon Mackenzie was temporarily exiled in the United States because of his FIERY OPPOSITION TO THE FAMILY COMPACT.

And the Liberals of West Peterborough to-day take pride in the fact that his grandson, William Lyon Mackenzie King, IS ENGAGED AGAINST THE FAMILY COMPACT OF PLUTOCRATS who are trying to keep this so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government in power contrary to the wishes of the great majority of the Canadian people.

This is the rallying call to support G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

W. R. Breyfogle, in his letter, is apprehensive of any dislodgment of the Meighen Government.

He need not worry. The Government has declared its determination to hold on to office to the end in spite of the demands of the people—as though their obligations were not safe in their own hands.

And besides, the De Laval Company is continuously prosperous without the high protection other industries enjoy.

Liberalism Brought Prosperity

Although the Liberals contend that the TARIFF IS NOT AN ISSUE in this by-election, they point to the tariff policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the beginning of Canada's industrial development.

Prior to 1896, industry was so depressed in this country that thousands of young CANADIANS EMIGRATED TO THE UNITED STATES.

Under the Laurier administration that tide was stemmed and turned. In late years it has been flowing this way.

It was a Liberal Government that laid the foundation of the prosperity that eventually brought such men as W. R. Breyfogle to Canada to compensate her for the men she lost in the stagnant years prior to 1896.

Canada needs the genius of Liberalism to-day as a release from Meighenism.

Elect G. N. Gordon as the beginning of the end of the Meighen Family Compact.

ALLIES OCCUPY CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 27. — The Turkish cabinet has accepted the allied stipulations in regard to the control of the finances and thereby 1,200,000 Turkish pounds have become available to the government, which will be immediately applied to officials' salaries.

Constantinople will become virtually an allied city February, when the French will occupy Stamboul, the British will move into Pera and the Italians into Scutari.

This move presumably is in pursuance of the notice given the Turkish govenment last week by the allies that a renewed military occupation of Constantinople was imminent to guard agains disorders owing to Nationalist and Bolshevik activities, and because of the failure of the Turks to ratify the peace treaty.

PROGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN IS SPEEDING UP

FARMER HEADQUARTERS ON HUNTER STREET BEGINNING TO BUZZ WITH ACTIVITY AND, LIKE OTHERS, HAS EAST ELGIN ENGINEER.

BIG MEETING TO-NIGHT

The National Progressive Party's campaign is warming up, both in the city and in the county, and in the Farmer headquarters on Hunter street the buzz of industry grows deeper. Here S. C. McKee, who engineered the East Elgin victory, is located, and with several assistants is planning a similar coup in West Peterborough. Meetings are planned for every night next week. Last night two enthusiastic meetings weer held in North Monaghan, one at the Town Hall and one at May's school house. At the Town Hall Mr. F. E. Ellis of the "Farm and Dairy," Mr. J. Breathen, of Norwood, and Mr. J. C. Campbell, the candidate, were the speakers, and at the School House, W. R. Shields, President of the Peterborough branch of the U. F. O., S. C. McKee and the candidate spoke.

To-night the farmers are holding a big meeting in the Opera House, with an aggregation of leading U.F.O. speakers, but next week they open a whirlwind campaign with their fiery, hard-working secretary, J. J. Morrison, who has been given much publicity of late and who is a spell-binder with the farmers, Mr. A. A. Powers, President of the U.F.O. Co-operative Co., and Mr. R. H. Halbert, M.P. for North Ontario, as the principal oratorical attractions.

On Monday night two meetings are scheduled, one for the hall on the 2nd line of Smith and the other for Brailey's Schoolhouse, North Monaghan. At the former Mr. Campbell and Mr. Powers will conduct the meeting and at the later R. H. Halbert and other speakers. Tuesday will find the U. F. O. platform elucidated at Bensfort by Mr. Powers and Mr. Anderson of that township. On Wednesday night three meetings, one at Selwyn and two at Galway, the first at three o'clock in the afternoon at Union Creek and the other at Swan Lake at eight in the evening are booked. Selwyn will hear Mr. Halbert and J. J. Morrison, and the two outposts in Galways will be coveredi by Mr. Campbell and Mr. McKee, the organizer.

Thursday night Mr. Halbert and Mr. Campbell speak at Reilley's School, Ennismore and at Buckhorn Mr. Morrison and an unknown Labor man he is importing will address the gathering. GOVERNMENT CRITICISED

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS DEPARTMENT ADMINISTRATION OBJECTED TO AT GOVERNMENT CAUCUS —LOAN MAY BE INCREASED.

NIXON'S ESTIMATES

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 28.— Supporters of the Drury Government met in caucus at the Parliament Buildings this morning. Hon. F. C. Biggs was called upon to explain the policy of his department concerning public highways. Rural members criticized the administration, not so much on account of the money expended, but because they wre not satisfied that the Government was doing sufficient along the lines of improving small roads.

Bond dealers to-day waited upon Hon. Peter Smith, asking that the recent ten million dollar loan which has been over-subscribed, be increased. The bond dealers reported that there was considerable money available. The Provincial Treasurer favors increasing the loan and an announcement to this effect may be expected very shortly.

Hon. H. C. Nixon this morning staed that although the cost of maintenance will be lower, the estimate for his Department will not be lower than last year. This is due to the Provincial Secretary having two more institutions under his care Speedwell Hospital at Guelph and Cobourg Hospital.

CAMPAIGNING IN NORTH COUNTRY

Word was received from the north country this morning to the effect that Mr. G. N. Gordon and his party are holding meetings each afternoon and evening. The meetings are well attended and the residents in that part of the country are manifesting a keen interest in the election campaign. Mr. Gordon will return to the city this evening.

DECISION ON REPARATIONS IS EXPECTED

EXPERT COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO SUPREME ALLIED COUNCIL ON GERMAN QUESTION SOMETIME TO-DAY—TURKS TO ATTEND.

KEMALISTS INVITED

(Canadian Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 28.—At this morning's meeting of the expert committee appointed by the Supreme Allied Council to consider the amount and method of German reparation payments M. Jasper, Belgian Foreign Minister, set forth Belgium's viewpoint. He urged that Germany be compelled to pay a maximum of from five to six million gold marks annually. The committee was expected to reach decision to-day and draw up a resolution to be presented to the Supreme Council before the day was over.

CONSTANTINOPLE Jan. 28. — Acceptance of the invitation from the Supreme Allied Council to send Turkish representatives to the Conference in London beginning February 21st at which the revision of the Seyres treaty will be considered was announced by the Sultan's Foster today. In its reply to the Council, the Government promised to transmit a most urgen invitation to Angora asking Mustapa Kemel Pasa, or some other representative of the Turkish Nationalist Government to participate in the conference.

The Belgian plan as elaborated by M. Jasper before the committee this morning, was presented to Lloyd George after the committee had concluded its first session. The French official viewpoint is that if the British Premier agrees to these terms in principle, the committee at its meeting this afternoon will be able to put the finishing touches upon the plan and then present it to the Supreme Council. Committee men let it be known that they considered good progress had been made.

METHODIST DISTINCTION

Rev. Ollie G. Regan, of the Kentucky Methodist Conference, claims that a little Methodist church at Bethel Ridge, Ky., seating a scant 350 persons, has the distinction of having produced more than 100 ministers. The largest part of these are the descendants of an Irish family named Regan, that settled there 150 years ago. When the only child of the family died the then pastor performed he services. The family were so impressed that they joined the church and from that time all their descendants have devoted their lives to the ministry.

WINNERS IN THE $ DAY CONTEST

THE CORRECT NUMBER WAS 21,574.

The counting and sorting of the estimating blanks for Dollar Day has become such a mountainous undertaking that results canot be announced until two days' of hard work have finally located the prize winners. This Dollar Day was a remarkable one, inasmuch as the crowds filled the street and stores from opening till closing hours, in spite of a severely cold day, and the merchants' offerings were so attractive that the shopping passed all previous winter Dollar Day records. This was shown by the increase in the number of estimating blanks which were put in the box at the Examiner Office, which disclosed the surprising total of 21,574 when the count was completed.

In spite of the big jump in number, of over 6,000 above any previous January Dollar Days, the estimates were very close, and all the winners were within 9 of the correct figure.

Following are the names of the successful estimaters. The prizes will be paid out on and after Monday:

CANADIAN DOLLAR AT NEW YORK TO-DAY ..... 99 CTS.

Prosperity Is Outlook

BY W. H. DUNSFORD,
Manager of the Local Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The present unsettled state of business cannot, in the true sense of the word, be called a depression, but merely a temporary slowing down of trade, pending the re-adjustment to lower levels of abnormally high values created by an extraordinary demand for all kinds of commodities during the period of the greatest war in the history of the world. War conditions have passed. The consumer is disinclined to any longer one dollar for goods having an intrinsic value of twenty-five or fifty cents. This stand by the consumer may be considered more of a blessing in disguise than otherwise, even though losses may have to be faced, and the result, just so soon as values drop to more normal levels, will be a restoration of confidence and an active resumption of trading on a more stable basis. The latter state of things is fast approaching, and the so-called depression will probably be the shortest this country has ever experienced.

The purchasing power of the people has not materially diminished. Public deposits in our banks are at a record height. Our products are in demand abroad. The annual value of Canada's field crops has reached a figure unheard of in the past, and we possess the most extensive unploughed areas in the world, now attracting the best class of immigrants. With its vast agricultural, forest, mineral and industrial wealth, the continuance of our prosperity is assured, no matter what pessimists may preach to the contrary.

Peterborough is particularly fortunate in possessing a surrounding prosperous farming community, and a class of industries which, with a few exceptions, are still operating steadily. The number of unemployed is therefore not serious, and conditions are more satisfactory than in many other cities and towns. We have nothing to fear and much to be thankful for.

Coal and Oil rose 1-4 to 36 1-4. A statement by the General Manager of the Mexican Pet. FIRE RAZES FORUM HALL IN TORONTO

$180,000 LOSS WHEN BUILDING BURNS AT MIDNIGHT—ALL OCCUPANTS RESCUED BUT MANY OVERCOME BY SMOKE.

FIREMAN INJURED

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—The entire Yonge Street Forum Hall, fronting on Yonge and Gerrard Streets, was totally destroyed by fire which broke out shortly after midnight. A first box alarm was sent in to fire headquarters at 12.32, but by the time the first consignment of reels arrived on the scene, the building was too far gone to be saved. Eleven people who were living in apartment rooms on the second floor and who were in bed at the time the fire broke out, were rescued, although most of them were suffering from shock and overcome with smoke fumes.

Those who were rescued and have lost all that they had are Rev. and Mrs. Spring, who were visiting here from Cambridge Springs, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Middleton and their son Gordon; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Elliot; Miss Irene Bridgeman and Miss Gertrude Bliss. All were suffering to some extent from nervous shock, and Mr. and Mrs. Elliot were nearly overcome by smoke. All were brought to the street in their sleeping garments.

George Robinson and wife, caretakers of the Mississauga Club quarters, were also in the building.

Fireman Robert Bullock, of Portland Street Station, was badly injured when a piece of brick cornice falling from the roof struck him a glancing blow on the head, knocking him, unconscious. He was taken to the General Hospital.

James Mort, also rescued from the building, was taken to the hospital suffering from heart trouble and is threatened with pneumonia. Mrs. Arthur Middleton was later found to be so greatly overcome by smoke as to necessitate her removal to the general, as was Mrs. Spring, wife of Rev. G. E. Spring.

A second alarm was sent in a few minutes following the first alarm, and a general alarm was rung in on the heels of the second.

Despite the valiant efforts of the firemen, the building was a total loss, and the total damage was estimated by Fire Chief Russell at $180,000. It was owned by the Canada Life Insurance Company and was almost fully insured. The building is a ramshackle old building erected 35 years ago, and, according to the Fire Chief, has been considered a fire trap for a number of years.

The fire apparently started somewhere in the middle of the building. The layout of the structure made it impossible to fully check a fire when it had once started. It is divided up into long meeting halls and wide staircases, which acted as fire vents, carrying the blaze upwards.

EXAMINER PRIZES FOR DOLLAR DAY

A GREAT DEAL OF INTEREST WAS TAKEN IN THE EVENT—ESTIMATES NOT AS CLOSE AS USUAL.

The Examiner Contest for Dollar Day, the estimating of the coppers in the jar that was exhibited, commanded more interest than any other Dollar Day Contest put on by the Examiner. The size of the jar, and the fact that there were new coppers in it, made the estimating not up to former years in accuracy. The total number of coppers in he jar was 2922 and the following are the winners:

1st W. S. Howson, 370 Hunter street, 2929, $6.00.

2nd Herb Mason, 740 Water street 2931, $5.00.

3rd Mrs. H. McClennan, 326 Charlotte street 2900, $4.00.

4th W J. Mann, Bridgenorth, 2945 $3.00.

5th M. J. Swanston, 500 Driscoll, 2950, $2.00.

6th Mrs. A. Corbett, 580 Aylmer 2887, $1.00.

7th Kathleen Grady, 122 Park street 2884, $1.00.

8th Herb. Mason 740 Water street, 2961, $1.00.

9th Mrs. P. Roache, 122 Park street 2881, $1.00.

10th Mrs. F. Raines, 302 Boswell street, 2963, $1.00.

The prize money will be paid on Tuesday next. The Estimating Blanks of which there were a very large number have been gone over carefully. Prizes for this contest will be paid at the Examiner Office.

R-34 DISABLED IN EFFECTING LANDING

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 28. — Airship R.-34 was damaged while making a landing on Yorkshire Coast at two o'clock this morning and for a time was unmanageable, drifting out to sea. Naval destroyers were sent out to find the craft which in July 1919, made a voyage to the United States from England. Shortly after eleven it was officially announced, however that the airship was only partially disabled and was returning to her base. None of her crew was injured, it was stated.

NEW QUEBEC LIQUOR LAW

PROPOSED LEGISLATION WOULD PREVENT EXPORT OF LIQUOR FROM PROVINCE AND GOVERNMENT TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR SALE.

BOOTLEGGERS TO JAIL

(Canadian Press.)

QUEBEC, Jan. 28.—Quebec is going to end the export of liquor to other parts of Canada.

Wehn the Province takes control of the traffic, under the new law now being framed, orders for liquor from Ontario will not be honored.

It is believe that the Taschereau Cabinet has made up its mind on this phase of the new legislation.

It will be possible, of course, for a person to buy liquor and ship it out of the Province, but this will be classed as bootlegging, and if caught the bootlegger goes to jail. The Province is going to hold itself responsible for the entire wholesale distribution of liquor.

DISRUPTION OF COUNCIL IS FEARED

DIVERGENT VIEWS OF MEMBERS OF ALLIED SUPREME COUNCIL CAUSE INTERRUPTION AND SOME FEAR IT WILL BREAK UP.

(Late Despatch; Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 28.— The divergence of the views of the members of the Allied Supreme Council regarding German reparations, caused an interruption of the conference to-day, and in some quarters it is regarded as in danger of breaking up.

The optimistic feeling of this morning when members of the Reparations committee expressed pleasure with their progress, was soon dissipated when Lloyd George found that the projects under discussion by the committee were entirely unsatisfactory to him. He sent immediately for Premier Briand and conferred with him for ninety minutes. The Belgian representatives were to meet the Premier later regarding their proposals. The Special Reparations committee is continuing its efforts to reconcile the different viewpoints, while M. Briand and the British Premier will try and find a solution in private conservations.

BOTH FERGUSON AND DEWART HOTLY CENSURE GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE ON HYDRO RADIALS ON GROUND HOUSE NOT TAKEN INTO CONFIDENCE

NO SKINS ON FENCE YET

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Jan. 28. — No hides were hung on the fence in the Legislature yesterday, Conservative Leader Ferguson evidently regarding the occasion as a closed season and reserving the operation for some future occasion. Both he and Liberal Leader Dewart spoke in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. The latter dealt more particularly with the proposed people's party, Hydro affairs and civic service superannuation, while Mr. Ferguson deplored the sombre picture which U.F.O. leaders were constantly drawing of conditions of farm life and of creating class feeling. He hinted also that he would later have something to say about the conduct of his former department during his regime as well as the present administration.

Premier Drury moved the adjournment and will be the first speaker when the House resumes on Tuesday. The long adjournment was made because of the dinner to Mr. Ferguson at Kemptville to-night by his constituents, and of Premier Drury's conference at Ottawa on Monday regarding the levels of the Lakes of the Woods.

Mr. Dewart on Hydro.

In opening his speech Hartley H. Dewart, Liberal leader, said there had been no intimation last session from the Government regarding the appointment of a Hydro Electric Commission of Inquiry. "At the present rate of progress of the Commission we shall be fortunate if before the end of this session we have any inkling what its views are, and what policy it is going to recommend to the Government of the day," remarked Mr. Dewart. "It seems to be rather unfortunate that these things have to be dealt with outside the House, rather than inside the House."

The Liberal leader stated that in December, 1919, the suggestion was made to the Premier that the whole Hydro Electric Commission should be reorganized and reformed so that it might be a commission representative of all classes and parties in the Legislature. He (Mr. Dewart) could not help thinking that if these suggestions had been adopted they would have had a commission which in its report to the Government would have dealt with the issues as they arose and rendered unnecessary a further commission to be appointed.

RECORD NET PROFIT FOR DOMINION BANK

INSTITUTION'S JUBILEE YEAR SEES STRONGER CASH POSITION AND INCREASE IN SAVING DEPOSITS.

The jubilee anniversary of The Dominion Bank, of the local branch of which Mr. John Crane is manager, is significantly marked by the largest net profits earned during any one of the fifty years in the bank's history. These profits, according to the annual statement covering the year ending December 31, 1920, amounted to $1,188,511, an insrease over the previous fiscal year of $18,807. On the bank's capital and reserve they are 9.14 per cent.; a gain of .14 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1919.

As a result of this satisfactory showing the bank, after paying $780,000 in dividends and a bonus, $35,000 for officers' pension fund, and writing $200,000 off bank premises, was enabled to carry $669,218 forward to profit and loss account, a sum in excess of the previous year by $173,511. Taxes to Dominion and Provincial Governments, which are deducted from the gross profits, amounted to $158,500.

Strong Cash Position.

A particularly pleasing feature of the statement is the figures covering the cash assets of the bank, the total value of which stands at $34,611,000. This is an increase of $2,758,000 for the year and is the largest in the history of the institution. Compared with the bank's total liabilities to the public, these cash assets show a proportion of 27.65 per cent. or an increase of 3.06 per cent. for the year. Total immediately available assets, at $64,320,000 are equal to 51.31 per cent. of the bank's liabilities to the public.

Increase in Savings Deposits.

Interest bearing deposits, the savings of the Canadian public, show a gratifying increase of $10,563,782, or 14.20 per cent., the amount on deposit at the end of the year being $84,889,439. Owing to the gradual withdrawal by the Dominion Government of the proceeds of the last Victory Loan, there was a decrease of $17,000,000 in non-interest bearing deposits, the amount standing at $20,051,816. In this particular the experience of The Dominion Bank is similar to that of the other leading banks of the country.

Commercial loans increased slightly during the year, the total amount outstanding on December 31 being $66,740,000.

The Bank's Expansion.

In view of the fact that the statement for the year 1920 is the fiftieth issued, it is fitting that some reference should be made to the growth of the institution.

Glancing over the figures available one of the features that particularly impresses one is the persistent improvement that has taken place in the financial position of the bank. Take, for instance, the total assets. These at the end of 1920 stood at $139,263,093. This is an increase of $76,585,273 ,or over 122 per cent. in the past 10 years. Compared with 20 years ago it is a gain of $118,438,946 and with 30 years ago $126,953,715 or of 569 and 1,000 per cent. respectively. In liquid assets the showing is even better, there having been an increase of $42,280,457 in ten years, $56,593,082 in twenty and of $60,164,615 in thirty years. The percentage of increase was 192 per cent., 732 per cent. and 1,447 per cent. respectively. Since 1907 the reserve, now standing at $7,000,000 has exceeded capital by a million dollars ,and in ten yeurs has increased bc 40 per cent., in twenty by 366 per cent., in thirty by 438 per cent., and in forty years by 1,871 per cent. Capital, standing at $6,000,000 has increased in ten, twenty and forty years by 50,300 and 518 per cent. respectively.

The figures covering deposits are of particular interest to the public. The total at the end of December, 1920, amounting to $104,941,256 show an increase in ten years of $55,638,472, or 113 per cent., in twenty years of $89,150,855 or 561 per cent., and in thirty years of $96,824,384, or 1,192 per cent.

Owing largely to the increasing sercice which banks generally in Canada are rendering the public without remuneration, profits are not as easily earned as they were some years ago, and particularly when their proportion to capital and reserve is taken into consideration. The net profits of The Dominion Bank have steadily increased, the record figures for 1920 representing a gain of 80 per cent., in ten years and of 454 in twenty.

The policy of The Dominion Bank in establishing new branches has always been conservative, a branch only being placed where, after careful investigation, it was deemed to be a necessity. During the past year there was an increase of 18, bringing the total up to 126. Ten years ago it had 80, twenty years ago 22, and thirty years ago 16.

The figures given in the following table show the progress made by The Dominion Bank since its inception in 1871:

	Total Assets.	Total Deposits.	Net Profits.
At end of first year	$ 2,541,583	$ 1,057,150	$ 107,488
1881	5,939,422	3,380,554	143,930
1891	12,731,841	8,576,955	220,423
1901	25,623,245	18,577,617	275,192
1911	70,179,522	53,547,865	704,045
1920	139,263,093	104,941,256	1,188,511

DOCTORS SKEPTICS IN "PERFUME" TALE

They Don't Believe Girl Victim Has Things Straight.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The finding and disappearance of perfumed handkerchief believed to have been used by the mysterious "perfume bandit," who, Miss Ruth O'Shea declares, drugged and robbed her late Wednesday night, deepened to-day the mystery surrounding the case. Police are still at sea in their efforts to solve the mystery.

The handkerchief was found by George Roschlein, who discovered Miss O'Shea lying unconscious two blocks from her home on an exclusive north side residential district It was picked up a few feet from where Miss O'Shea lay.

Roschlein intended to turn the handkerchief over to the police when a woman, representing herself to be a reporter, asked to see the handkerchief and took it away. Roschlein said the handkerchief was stained by a brown spot, and that it gave off the odor of a peculiar perfume.

Medical men continued skeptical to day of the story told by Miss O'Shea declaring they knew of no anaesthetic powerful enough to render a person unconscious sixteen hours by merely taking a whiff of it. Miss O'Shea sticks to her story, however, and Dr. and Mrs. David O'Shea with whom she lives, declare they believe her.

MAKE SWITZERLAND DRY

GENVEA, Jan. 28.—A campaign to make Switzerland dry has been undertaken by the Swiss Anti-Alcoholic League. Its first step, it is announced, will be to demand a federal referendum authorizing the Swiss cantons to exercise local option.

The prohibitionist leaders here say that recent unofficial ballotting indicated that a large number of the cantons would vote to become dry if the issue were presented to them.

QUITE A GAIN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Department of Agriculture estimates that the passing of the Migratory Bird Law, which forbids shooting of game birds in the spring, has gained $20,000,000 in food to the country. In many districts where the birds were almost extinct, they are rapidly increasing in numbers, it is said.

BELOW ZERO

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

He was a dreamer and a sentimentalist, but a genius as well, so the combination was rational to a degree. To the little community of Newton he was known as Jarvis Morton, a newcomer, living in a modest cottage with his mother, and reputed to be an artist. In the live and active world his newspaper pen and ink sketches had begun to make him a name.

He was standing at the window of a cold and cheerless room, but not gazing outside, for the frost lay like a blanket across the panes. The merest excuse for a fire spluttered in the grate. On an easel was a drawing board with a sheet of paper tacked to it. The outline of a fair girlish face showed, but only half finished. Too cold to continue careful work, but the creative impulse always seeking expression, he applied the pencil tip to the frosted pane and began sketching that same face.

Amid his abstraction he had not heard a knock at the frosted portal nor footsteps in the hallway. The door of the room was timidly pressed open.

"If you please, if you are Mr. Morton," commenced a pleasing voice, and its owner, girlish and attractive, faltered. Her glance had fallen upon the limned face on the easel and its more finished duplicate on the window pane. Surprise, pleasure, wonderment and admiration blended.

Jarvis Morton turned to instantly recognize the original of his art effort. He had seen her across two vacant lots several times, but had never spoken to her. He spoke now, with an encouraging smile, for she had become timid and embarrassed.

"I am Jarvis Morton," he said. "You are our neighbor, I believe, Miss Illsley?"

"Yes, Marian Illsley," hurried on the girl, fluttering. "If you please, your mother sent me over. It is so cold and slippery outside that I wished to save her exposure and discomfort. She came over to use our telephone to hurry up the load of coal you ordered. The dealer says they haven't a pound of fuel in the yard, and mother says that this coal shortage makes us all like one family, and the weather man says the cold snap will last for a week, and you people are to bring over some comforters and lock up the house and we'll do the rest."

"And what a beneficent 'rest!'" rejoined Jarvin brightly. "This isn't mere hospitality. It's a real rescue from freezing to death! I was just thinking of splitting up a couple of chairs and muffling in all the blankets in the house and hibernating until the zero menace was gone."

His joyousness was manifest, and she entered into the enlivening zest of the occasion with demure, but pretty graciousness.

"You see, we managed to just graze the famine by getting a ton of coal delivered yesterday," she resumed. "Your mother insists on bringing over whatever there is cooked in the house."

"Won't you help me rummage the larder?" suggested Jarvis, and they laughed and chatted like two happy children as they loaded up a clothes-basket. Then Jarvis went to secure the blankets. When he returned Marian stood surveying the easel sketch.

"How nice to be able to draw like that," she ventured, detected at studying her own presentment.

"And how fortunate was I to catch your face as a study while you were cleaning the snow this morning!" said Jarvis. "When the sketch is finished I shall call it 'The Snow Queen.' The newspaper asked for something wintery, and that graceful twirl of the snow shovel and the shimmery flakes forming an airy veil just filled the bill."

"Oh! it won't be printed, will it?" marveled Marian. "Me in the paper! How strange it will seem to me! It must be delightful to be able to make the world look at whatever you wish to draw."

"Bless the coal shortage!" uttered the artist and lover after four days' sojourn in the cosy Illsley home, for the latter he had unconsciously become, and the fulfillment of a cherished ideal of loveliness, artless innocence and silent but sweet devotion had brought a bewildering joy to his impressible heart. It seemed as if his mother had emerged from direful loneliness into perfect enjoyable comfort and companionship, shut in from the outside world with happy-spirited Mrs. Illsley. Marian flitted about the little house with smiles and bright sayings, making it a delight to Jarvis to hear, to see and to cherish her. He frowned when the cold moderated, he growled when he realized that they must soon leave this eden of perfectness.

"What a happy four we would all make!" he soliloquized one day, and, musing at the window, he began tracing on a lightly frosted pane, as Marian chanced into the room.

"Come here, please," he spoke, with a bright sparkle in his eye. At the window she had first seen him, at a window she now joined him, and as he handed her his pencil she flushed and trembled, as she read:

"I love you."

Then, in pretty embarrassment, but ecstactically quiet, she traced the true, simple words:

"I love you, too!"

THE FLYER

By T. B. ALDERSON

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

No one in the village could understand why pretty Althea Dorrance favored Gale Marston as a sweetheart, least of all her cross-grained, parsimonious, yet wealthy grandfather. He allowed her no visitors, and when he found that she was meeting Gale clandestinely at the rear garden gate, he surprised the romantic duo and gave Gale a severe dressing down.

"If I find you skulking about my premises again," declared the drastic old tyro, "I'll get out my shotgun! You'd better do something in the world before you think of getting married."

The taunt cut deep. To his own way of thinking, Gale averaged pretty well for a young man of twenty-two. He had worked up from entry clerk to bookkeeper, was receiving quite a liberal salary, lived respectably, dressed well and loved Althea, which was the crux of the situation. And Althea loved him in return—that was the joy that drove away the despair caused by the cruel and cheerless opposition of a crusty, mean-souled old man.

"Do something in the world, eh?" communed Gale with himself, as he saw Althea driven, rather than led, into the house by her tyrannical relative, in tears. "What does he mean? I'm headed right in a business way and they elected me president of the Merchants' club last week. They gave me a great sendoff in the papers, too. Maybe the old curmudgeon is thinking of Darcy Moore, who invented a new collar button and made a lot out of it. Or that favorite of his, Ben Junkin. I'll bet that's it! Junkin has become a professional aviator. Mr. Marston tried to interest Althea in Junkin, but she won't have it. Yes, he's hinting at what a superior fellow Junkin is. His stunts down at the aviation training field make the old man think he's won fame and is worthy of winning Althea! Well, it's given me an idea."

The young man's idea was soon put into execution. He decided to cater to the belief that to amount to anything in the world a fellow must become a hero, or a money success, attain notoriety and get to be looked upon as "somebody." The aviation field seemed sensational and popular. They were offering to teach aspirants the way to fly at the field, ten miles distant, with a view to training recruits for the army and postal service in the future. Gale got a leave of absence of two days and went down to Ardmore.

Ben Junkin was there, the king of the roost, so to speak. He was so filled with a sense of his own importance, that he feigned great interest in Dale's frankly expressed aspiration to become an "ace." He flattered the hopes of the novice and then took one of the expert aviators aside.

"See here, Jim," he said confidentially, "I want you to put that fellow through the paces. He's got the flying bug. Encourage him. Wear him out with the tests."

"All right," acceded the other.

Gale Marston never forgot the day he put in with these practical jokers. They took him to a building where a tub-like contrivance wheeled him around on his feet at lightning speed. This he was told was done to test any tendency towards dizziness. Then he was swung aloft on one foot to discover any tendency towards a rush of blood to the head.

When Jim took him up in the air he gave the propellers a tip which sent the victim rolling to the bottom of the pit. Then he made a sharp dive with the machine, yelling out, "Ough! I've lost control!" He allowed the airship to strike the ground nose first, and Gale was sent whirling twenty feet across the field. By this time Gale began to suspect horseplay. He righted himself pluckily, sat on the ground, lit a cigarette and coolly remarked:

"Fine exercise, eh?"

He was bruised, he had been frightfully scared, he was through with aeronautics, but Gale displayed sheer pluck to the last and, limping from the field, decided that he would thereafter devote his energies distinctly to winning Althea exclusively. No more truckling to the prejudices or favoritism of the whimsical Josiah Dorrance! He got word to Althea and had a stolen interview with her.

A few evenings later Ben Junkin was chuckling over "the course of sprouts" they had put Gale through. He narrated its incidents to Mr. Dorrance.

"The fellow showed pluck and nerve, I will admit," he observed, "but he will never be a flyer."

"What's that, now!" exclaimed the old man, as the chugging of an automobile sounded in the lane behind the house.

He looked into the next room where he had left Althea quietly sewing a few minutes previous. She was not there. He dashed out through the garden. An auto was just speeding down the lane and he caught sight of two figures in its seat as it flashed around a lighted street corner. White and gasping, he dashed into the presence of Ben Junkin.

"You bragged that Gale Marston was no flyer!" he blurted out. "Well, he's stolen a march on me. He has fled fast enough with Althea!"

In the village of Fengghi, China, the sole industry is the making of earthen and china ware, in which more than 2,000 workers are employed. All the work is done by the piece, the wages of workmen ranging between 36 and 72 cents a day. Women helpers receive considerably less.

KEENE NEWS

KEENE, Jan. 26—On Wednesday evening, the members of Threshing Company, of Line No. 7, gathered at the home of Mr. Alex. Stewart, and gave an oyster supper to two of the firm, and their families, who will shortly move to the village, where they will make their future homes. Following the supper, the evening was happily spent socially, and the following address was read and presented to each family:

To Mr. and Mrs. Z. Renwick and Mr. and Mrs. B. Kindred:

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered this evening to express our regret that we are losing you from our immediate neighbourhood, and to manifest our appreciation of your splendid qualities. In a rural community such as ours, we are of necessity dependent more or less upon our neighbours for many little deeds of helpfulness, and in this respect you took your full share. We have always felt that your creed for each day was one of consideration for others. And so we have taken this opportunity of conveying to you some idea of the esteem in which you are held by us, and of our appreciation of your unfailing kindness. During your long residence with us, without an exception, you were always with us in everything that tended to make a pleasant and helpful community. We sincerely regret your removal, but our loss is sweetened by the knowledge that you will still be united with us in every good cause. We congratulate you on the success of your labours, and rejoice with you in your prospects for enjoying the fruits of your toil in the beautifully situated village of Keene. We all join in wishing you many happy days in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Threshing Company—William and Harry Stewart, Stanley Braden.

THE TRENT CANAL

The decision of the Trent Waterway Development Association at its meeting here the other day to urge upon the Dominion Government the completion of the Severn Division of the Canal is one that should be vigorously pressed. The temporary abandonment of the work on this section has not only thrown many men out of employment, but as a commercial proposition the waterway is practically valueless until the Severn Division is completed. The cost of the unfinished portion of the work is small compared to what has already been expended on the canal, and there does not seem any sound reason why the completion of the canal should be delayed.

The Waterway Association, too, is wise in the decision to advertise the scenic beauties of the Trent system. Hundreds of visitors were attracted last year by the advertising campaign carried on, and the results were such as to warrant a similar effort along this line. Every tourist who comes is in himself an advertising agent for the Trent Canal, and an intelligent publicity campaign cannot fail to have cumulative results. The municipalities along the route of the canal all benefit by the influx of visitors, and are doubtless willing to pay their share of the advertising appropriation.

A STARTLING REPORT.

If the report of the Special Committee of the Ontario Legislature, which has been considering the question of a more equitable distribution of Hydro-Electric power in the Province is not class legislation, it is difficult to know what would come properly under that head. Boiled down to its fundamental principles, the report practically recommends that the surplus from the rental of Hydro-Electric power in the cities and towns shall be spent in the rural districts. The recommendation is made that if a number of farmers desire a power line to provide power for their farms, the Minister of Power may assist the project by granting a sum sufficient to meet 80 per cent. of the annual charge necessary to pay for the cost of building and maintaining the required transmission line. In other words, if five or six Smith Township residents decide to operate a power line for their own use, the people of Peterborough and the other cities and towns would, if the Minister of Power so decides, provide four-fifths of the cost of building and maintaining the line. And that is not all, for if the cost of power happens to exceed $30.00 per horse-power per year, the Minister of Power may pay half the cost up to a maximum payment of $25.00 per horse-power per year.

What do the power users of the urban centres think of a one-sided policy like that? The rural power lines will be of no benefit to the people of the towns and cities, yet they would be expected, under this system, to pay nearly all the cost of their erection and maintenance.

NO EASY SAILING.

The Drury Government is not going to have such easy sailing during the present session, judging by the questions on the order paper of the Legislature, which show that both the Liberal and Conservative sections of the Opposition are greedy for information and are determined to carry on a brisk warfare. During the first session of the U.F.O.-Labour regime, the Opposition groups more or less refrained from any persistent criticism, but it is apparent that different tactics are to be followed during the present session, and Premier Drury will have to do some skilful handling of the Government ship to steer it past the rocks and shoals, and safely into harbour again. For instance, Mr. Hartley Dewart's notice of motion to make the Government take full responsibility for all its bills, is liable to cause the Farmer-Labour alliance considerable embarrassment. Mr. Dewart wants the Legislature to "record its firm adherence to the principles of responsible government under which the ministry in power shall take a stand as a Government upon the prominent questions of the day." All Governments with the advent of the present administration in Ontario have met that responsibility, and the pressing of the point by Mr. Dewart, especially if his efforts are supported by the Conservative group, will give Hon. Mr. Drury some very anxious moments. The session promises to be full of fireworks.

BETTERING RAILWAY CONDITIONS.

The railways of Canada and the United States are making a determined effort to help themselves out of rather trying conditions. They realise how unpopular are rate increases, and are seeking to establish the highest possible measure of efficiency as a means of increasing net revenue. They have really done well.

In the United States the average daily movement of a car of freight has been increased from 22.3 miles to 28.6 miles, and the average carload from 28.3 tons to 30 tons. A substantial reduction has also been made in the accumulation of loaded but unmoved cars. All this is very much on the side of economy. In Canada the facts are not available with regard to the distance movement of loaded cars or the status of unmoved freight; but it is known that the average carload has been increased from 17.3 tons to 23.46 tons. At the same time, the average trainload has been raised from 311 tons to 442 tons.

The comparison of carload gains in the United States and Canada is not unfavourable to our railways, as might seem to be the case on the surface. The proportion of heavy carrying units is considerably higher across the line, and that quite clearly affects the average. The test of efficiency turns on the percentage of increase, and in that respect Canadian lines have made an enviable record. The average trainload on American roads exceeds 625 tons, as compared with less than 450 tons on Canadian roads; but trainload is at all times determined by tractive power and grade. The number of high-power locomotives in the United States relatively greater than in Canada, and lines across the border have not to contend against the heavy grades which control on this side.

Railways cannot develop efficiency in loading without the co-operation of shippers. It is the shipper who makes up the load. Yet the matter is of vital importance to both railway and shipper. It has been computed that better loading and better moving of freight in the United States last year represented the equivalent of an expenditure of $2,000,000,000 on equipment. That is to say, if the old averages had been left undisturbed it would have required new cars and locomotives at a cost of that huge sum to move the same volume of freight. Obviously, such a capital outlay would increase fixed charges, and such charges could only be met by higher rates. It is thus clear that in co-operating with the railway the shipper is doing something on the positive side to arrest the further advance of rates.

The intensive methods of the railways cannot be relaxed. Economy must be pressed in all departments; for the outlook is not bright. Traffic has shown a tendency to shrink in volume for the past two years—not seriously, but nevertheless perceptibly—and those who are assumed to be most competent to gauge the prospects are disposed to predict further declines. Traffic is at all times the product of trade, and it must be confessed there are few signs just now discernible which point to any considerable commercial expansion. Deflation is inevitably on the side of conservatism. There must be confidence before genuine buoyancy and increased trade activity can make themselves felt.

The railways must have the hearty co-operation of shippers. We have a very big problem on our hands in the Canadian National Railways, and every dollar that can be kept from swelling the annual deficit of that huge state system will be just so much less to be met by taxation. If better loading and quicker loading and unloading save capital outlay for equipment that is certainly a definite form of economy, since all additions to funded debt are at once reflected in smaller fixed charges. All the railways are concerned. There were only a few of them which earned a surplus last year, and that surplus has been dwindling slowly but surely since 1916.—Ottawa Journal.

PETERBOROUGH POLITICS

THE ONE AND ONLY ISSUE OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN

There is but a single issue in this campaign. It is the issue of Protection versus Free Trade. It is the issue as to whether Peterborough electors favor lowering our tariff barriers to the United States, injuring Peterborough industries and the industries of all Canada, compelling them to make their goods there and pay their wages there; or whether they favor the protective policy, the policy that has built up Canada, that has made Peterborough a hive of industry, that is giving employment to hundreds of thousands of Canadians and providing a home market for Canadian farmers.

TO MOVE TO THE UNITED STATES

Those who want to see the first condition prevail, who want to see the work of smothered out by United States' competition, will vote either Liberal or U.F.O.

Those who want the other condition, who want to see their city and country increase in strength and greatness, and who do not want to see the Canadian dollar worth less than the dollar of the United States, who do not want to see Canadian industries ruined and Canadian workmen out of employment, will vote for the Government candidate.

THERE IS NO OTHER ISSUE.

Mr. Gordon, the Mackenzie King candidate, is trying to evade this issue. By introducing subsidiary and unimportant questions, as well as by the use of vague, meaningless phrases, he is endeavouring to mask his real position. The electorate must not be deceived.

We ask them to go behind Mr. Gordon's rhetorical twilight and read the platform and speeches of his leader, Mackenzie King. That platform and those speeches practically advocate free trade. They make it clear that in this election a vote for Gordon is a vote against protection for Canadian industry.

MR. GORDON WOULD MAKE FOODSTUFFS FREE

"I stand for reasonable protection for our industries," says Mr. Gordon, the Kingite candidate. Well, what about the manufacturers of foodstuffs and farm implements, whose products Mr. Gordon's party wants duty free; aren't they industries?

There are hundreds of factories in Canada engaged in making foodstuffs. They represent a capital investment of hundreds of millions of dollars and employ tens of thousands of workmen. Are they to receive no protection?

Surely, if there is any class of industry in Canada that ought to have protection, is is the industry that is engaged in the manufacture of such a vital thing as food. Nobody cares particularly about luxuries or non-essentials; but foodstuffs are vital. Yet Mr Gordon, whose capacity to talk apparently greatly exceeds his capacity to think, would wipe out factories producing food.

We don"t ask you to take our word for it; we merely ask you to read the platform of his party.

MR. GORDON'S FALACIOUS POSITION

Mr. Gordon tells us that he stands four-square for the British Preference. Does he not realize that you cannot have a preference under Free Trade? How, for example, can you give Britain a preference, if you throw down your tariff barriers to the United States?

The only way to give the Motherland a preference is to maintain tariffs against foreign countries.

Mr. Gordon, despite his talk, would strike at that preference, by removing the tariffs we maintain against other countries. Instead of developing inter-Imperial trade by having our commerce flow east and west, he would foster trade with a foreign country by having it flow north and south.

MR. GORDON'S PROTECTION OF LABOUR

Mr. Gordon informs us that he stands for the "protection of Labor." A nice phrase, but what does it mean? In what way is he going to protect labor and from what is he going to protect it?

The thing that Labour most requires protection from is unemployment. We wish some local workingman would ask Mr. Gordon how he is going to protect Labor from unemployment by a policy that will close down factories and make it harder for Canadian workingmen to get work?

THE TARIFF THEN AND NOW

The Kingite candidate says that he is opposed to a tariff which enables people to get rich quick. His attitude must be a somewhat mushroom one, for for fifteen years, between 1896 and 1911, he supported a tariff that was aproximately five per cent. higher than that which at present exists.

Moreover, from 1896 to 1911 not a cent was taken out of the pockets of tariff beneficiaries. To-day Big Business is taxed for the benefit of all the country.

MORE WILD AND SILLY STATEMENTS

Mr. Gordon, in a recent letter published in the "Examiner," said among other things: "The reason the mills are idle in this country is that the steamship combine, which is a product of this Government, costs $40,000,000 to ship from Montreal to Liverpool the same crop that previous to the steamship combine, cost $2,030,000 to ship." Of all the wild and silly statements made by Mr. Gordon in this campaign, this is the wildest and silliest. He says there is a shipping combine and that it is the product of the Government. Nothing could be more untrue. The Government has never encouraged in any shape, manner or form any shipping combine and there never has been a shipping combine the product the Government. On the contrary, the Government now owns and controls over fifty ships which are operated independently of any other shipping company or concern. Mr. Gordon knows this as well as anybody, but it suits his political purposes to make an infamous charge against the Government for which there is absolutely no foundation. The figures he qoutes are the purest moonshine. While, owing to the decrease in shipping, there has been an increase in shipping transportation rates, there has been no such increase as he states or anything approaching it.

His argument that the idle mills in the country are due to the alleged shipping combine, the product of the Government, is positive nonsense. What about the idle mills in the United States and Great Britain? There are more idle factories and more unemployment in these two countries than in Canada.

POLITICAL NOTES.

"Wolf, wolf," cries Mr. Gordon. It's horrible. Money, mystery and election experts. Shades of the political school in which you have been trained, Mr. Gordon! Figments of your own disordered political imagination! But you ought to know. Where does your own assistance come from?

* * * * *

We would suggest that Mr. Mackenzie King send to John D. Rockefeller the famous American Oil King for whom he worked (or fought?) during the war a copy of one of Mr. G. N. Gordon's speeches on profiteers. If "J. D." has a sense of humor he would be bound to enjoy its perusal.

* * * * *

No greater tribute could be paid to a sense of moral decency and love of Fair Play than the resentment which respectable citizens are showing towards the character of the publicity campaign being carried on by Mr. G. N. Gordon and his associates. Fortunately for Canada few political campaigns, especially of recent years, can show a parallel for this studied attempt at vulgarity. Surely the time has passed, if it ever was when business men of the highest standing in the community can become the subject of individual attacks of a low character, simply because they happen to differ from Mr. G. N. Gordon's political views.

Unforunately this candidate has made it impossible to describe this campaign as being clean or devoid of personalities. In referring to the ladies of this city, such terms as "silk-stockinged sob-sisters" are used in Mr. Gordon's advertisement. Surely such language is beneath contempt, and fully deserving of the resentment which is being expressed on all sides. If this is your conception of how to run a political campaign, Mr. Gordon, keep right on. You are hurting no one so much as yourself.

* * * * *

In the course of his speech when the Labour party opened its campaign, Mr. W. F. O'Connor, of the McMurray-O'Connor Labour party, stated that he intended to work against the government candidate. Mr. Denne, because the government had not favoured his tariff views, which in the opinion of some people are very extradordinary. In view of the character which the present campaign has assumed, Mr. O'Connor's atttiude is unfortunate. Instead of aligning himself with the forces which if successful could render little or no assistance during the balance of the present term of parliament, he should be supporting the government and its constructive administration.

Voice Of The People

THE REAL ISSUE IN THIS BY-ELECTION.

Premier Meighen, known as the "gramophone of the Mackenzie and Mann interests," came to this city to tell us that the main issue in this by-election was the tariff, and the "political renegade" he brought with him told us the same thing. Even poor old Sir George Foster left his honeymoon to tell the Midland city that the one and only issue in this contest was the tariff. Poor old Sir George puts us in mind of potatoes that have taken the second growth. And that little fellow from South Waterloo, J. A. Scott, he also told us the one issue was the tariff. He reminded us that with the exception of a few instances, the farmers had not made proper returns as regards the income tax, and suggested that a land tax would be more in their line. We can only conclude that any farmer who will swallow that dope and mark his ballot for the big interest candidate on the 7th of February has not sufficient vim to sit up all day without a tonic. We do not believe that all the efforts of the above-mentioned leaders of the big interest party, alias National Liberal and Conservative party, served any useful purpose when they told us that the tariff was the only issue in this contest, for, in the first place, we have not sufficient confidence in any of the big interest outfit to put much pass upon anything they tell us. We do not believe they have played the game fair. But perhaps they do not know how to play the game fair. Probably never played it that way. Were they playing the game fair with the soldiers' vote, or with the American pluggers' vote? Were they playing the game fair when they lorded it over us with their orders-in-council, suppressing so far as they could every semblance of responsible and democratic government? Are they playing the game fair now when they foist themselves upon us, seizing the reins of power, forming a new party and a new government, contrary to the will of the people? When they told us that the main and only issue was the tariff they told us that which we believe to be utterly untrue. We believe they told us to hide the real issue of this contest. Mr. Burnham will tell us that the tariff had nothing whatever to do with his resignation. He resigned, he has said, because he did not approve of a parcel or group of men foisting themselves upon the country, seizing the reins of power, forming a new party and a new government, in which the people have neither part nor lot. The question is, Was Mr. Burnham right or was he not? The matter upon which we must decide on the 7th of February is not a question of the tariff but an affair of such grave importance that the tariff pales into insignificance beside it. The question is, Do we want a government that truly represents the people, a government of the people, for the people and by the people, a government that is truly representative, really responsible and democratic, or are we content to allow a rabble to control our destinies with those domineering orders-in-council, in which the people have no voice? Democracy or autocracy, the choice is ours. It is the people against the big interests which we believe own that outfit at Ottawa, body and soul.

Mr. Burnham appears to think that the Ottawa group obtained that idea of usurping power from Mexico. We think that that idea was imported directly from Russia, for, to our minds, the government of Lenin and Trotsky in Russia resembles that of Meighen and Calder in Canada. The great majority of the people in Russia abhor the regime of Lenine and Trotsky, and so in Canada the great majority of the people dislike the government of Meighen and Calder. Yet both Lenine and Meighen continue to hold the reins of power, contrary to the will of the people. Lenine and Trotsky will imprison anyone bold enough to make a disparaging remark against their government, and is is not long ago since anyone here in Canada was in danger of imprisonment who passed a remark on any of the Meighen-Calder outfit. That was in the days when those gentlemen had plenty of rope. The degree of despotism to which a government may attain depends upon what rope they have, whether it is in Canada or Russia, or anywhere else. That game will not work here nearly as well as it does in Russia, for the people of Canada are neither slaves nor fools.

John Servins.

Sir,— In making statements of truth, I do so with all due courtesy and kindness to anyone, who may not accept what I state, I wish also o say I am not appearing publicly in order to provoke controversy, nor yet for mere pastime. Seriously and earnestly I want to do my part in bringing light, truth and comfort, that I myself have received to all of my fellowmen. There is real confession in the minds of many, in regard to the meaning of the word soul. Early training and the teaching of present day religious leaders no doubt tend to mystify. Earnest seekers after truth have much, in these days, to help them free themselves from error Those who cannot read the Scriptures in its original language will find the American Revised Version of the Scripture, Creeder's concordance etc., helpful on those lines. The word soul is used in the common authorized version of the Scripture a number of times, when to bring out the real meaning and proper translation, the word life should be used. Look up, Psalms 33:19; Levi 26:14; John 12:10; Isaiah 15:4; Jeremiah 31:25; Matthew 16:28; Matthew 26:38; Luke 12:20; Hebrews 13:17; James 5:20; Matthew 16:26. The word soul in 1 Samuel 18:1; Job 33:20, might mean heart or the affection and in Job 27.7 the stomach.

Numbers 5:6; Psalm 11:25; Ezekiel 4:20; Soul signifys person. Acts 4:32 Philipians 1:27; Hebrews 12:3; soul means mind. I reiterate the statement that nowhere in the Scripture does it say man is immortal that is his soul or life cannot die. In Genesis 3:22; God put a barrior hindering man from living forever. Immortality or eternal life comes as a possibility through the resurrection. Paul in speaking of some who said there was no resurrection said that if there was no resurrection thase who fell asleep in Jesus are perished (or are really dead). The comforting truth is "As in Adam all die so in Christ shall all be made alive." I just here ask if all are to be resurrected or made alive again does it not infer that it is to give them an opportunity of obtaining eternal life and escaping the second death which might be called everlasting death because there is no resurrection from it. If an individual committeed an offence against the law of our land and incurred the penalty due to the offence and some benevolent person paid the penalty or fin, the individual would go free thus giving him a chance to obey ehe law of the land in the future. More anon.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT ST. JOHN'S —BIG FORWARD MOVEMENT EFFORT BY PRESBYTERIAN BODY.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 28. —The annual vestry meeting of St. John's church, Lakefield, was held in the school room on Monday night. There was a record attendance and the meeting was exceedingly satisfactory. The rector, Rev. Frank Vipond, occupied the chair. He reported an increase in the attendance at both morning and evening services.

The church warden's statement showed that there were liablitiies to the extent of $800 and a committee was appointed to wipe out the liabilities. Mr. A. E. Dawson is chairman of the committee.

Mr. S. E. White was re-elected people's warden and the rector was re-appointed Mr. O. A. Langley as his warden.

Messrs. E. R. Tate, A. E. Dawson and W. G. Fitzgerald were elected by representatives to the Synod.

Mr. E. R. Tate was re-appointed financial secretary and a vote of appreciation was tendered him.

Mr. J. C. Strickland was appointed to take charge of the Forward Movement fund, to succeed the late Wm. M. Graham.

Mr. T. B. Marling was appointed envelope secretary.

Messrs. J. C. Strickland and T. W. H. Patrick were appointed auditors.

Votes of appreciation were given the various organizations of the church, which had done such splendid work during the past year.

It was moved by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, seconded by Mr. J. C. Strickland, that a resolution of appreciation of the splendid work of the late Wm. M. Graham be passed and the sympathy of the vestry extended to his wife and daughter.

The rector announced that on Sunday evening next he will not preach a sermon but that Mr. A. E. Dawson, chairman of the committee to wipe out our liabilities, will speak on church finances and the present position.

Presbyterian Church.

The annual meeting of the Lakefield Presbyterian church was held on Tuesday evening, Jan. 25th, at 8 o'clock. Rev. P. L. Jull was in the chair. Mr. F. J. Burgess officiated as secretary. The attendance was the largest in years and keen interest was manifest. The treasurer's statement by J. H .Chant showed that the congregation raised for revenue and missions $2,957. In addition they subscribed $2,500 to the Forward Movement fund, of which $1,765 has been paid, and $200 to the Chinese famine fund.

Mr. A. E. Kennedy, the financial secretary, pointed out that the revenue had doubled and contributions to missions had increased over four-fold in the last four years.

Mr. B. Hunter read the report of the Woman's Missionary Society, showing that the past year has been the best year since the amalagmation of the missionary societies.

The membership has increased, $182 has been contributed and $43 raised for the expense fund.

The report of the mission band was read by Main Charlton, showing the contributions as $21.

Messrs. A. J. Kidd, D. S. Campbell and H. Sutton spoke on behalf of the Sunday school and Bible class, emphasizing the importance of the work done by these organizations.

Mr. A. J. Kidd was re-elected superintendent of the Sunday school. Messrs. A. E. Kennedy, J. A. Porter, W. Blewett and W. C. Campbell were elected member of the Board of Management. Mr. J. H. Chant was re-elected treasurer of the congregation.

In commenting on the reports for the year the chairman pointed out that they presented a practical rebuke to faint-heartedness and timidity, and he exhorted the members in all their church work to substitute "can" for "can't' and go forward translating faith into faithfulness.

The congregation will endeavor to double their missionary budget for 1921.

After the business meeting the members adjourned to the school room when refreshments were served and a social hour was spent.

WORLD'S FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

Report and Resolutions of the International Financial Conference, Held at Brussels, Sept. 24-Oct. 8, 1920.

Published for The League of Nations Union, By Hadden & Stoughton, Ltd., London (England) and Toronto.

This interesting pamphlet of 36 closely-written pages is crammed full of information with regard to the present financial difficulties under which the world is laboring as a direct result of the Great War, a review of the contributory causes of this situation, and the remedies which 86 representatives of 39 countries, (who, attending as experts and not as spokesmen of official policy, were enabled through the conditions of their appointment to give the Conference the full benefit of their knowledge and to express their personal opinions with freedom) have, after two weeks' careful consideration, decided upon as the only means of relieving the distressful conditions which exist in the world to-day.

The discussions of the Conference were governed by the resolution passed by the Council of the League in February, 1920:

"The League of Nations shall convene an International Conference with a view to studying the financial crisis and looking for the means of remedying and of mitigating the dangerous consequences arising from it";

And by the further instruction approved by the Council on August 5th, 1920, to the effect that,

"None of the questions which are the subject of the present negotiations between the Allies and Germany should be discussed at the Conference."

The Conference first devoted itself to hearing an exposition of the financial situation of each of the 39 countries represented, from which it developed that the total eternal debt of the European belligerents converted into dollars at par amounts to about 155 milliard dollars compared with about 17 milliard dollars in 1913, and part of this external debt, amounting to about 11 milliard dollar due to the United States, to 1¼ milliards pounds sterling due to Great Britain, presents an even more difficult financial problem, because in nearly every case it is payable in a currency which is less depreciated than that of the country concerned.

Even in the case of the European neutrals, although the position is essentially different, the financial difficulties are also serious.

"During the war their trade balances were very favorable, owing to the demand for their products from the belligerent nations and the stoppage of their imports. The result was an accumulation of gold which led to an expansion of currency and a rise of prices almost as serious as that which for entirely different reasons took place in the belligerent countries. Since the war, the trade situation has been reversed, as these countries have been importing the goods required to replenish stocks, and, owing in part to the premium to which their exchanges have risen, as compared with the depreciated currencies of the belligerent nations, the maintenance of their exports has become difficult. To some extent, therefore, the favorable factors in the situation of these countries are actually an embarrassment."

The members of the Conference were conscious that: "Finance is, after all, only a reflection of commercial and economic life—a part only, though an essential part, of its mechanism. The wealth of the world consists of the products of man's work, and the sum total of human prosperity can be increased only by an increase of production. All that any official or organized action can do is to create conditions which are favourable to production, and of those the most imprtont fall outside the sphere of finance."

The Conference divided the work involved in the examination of existing conditions and their remedies into four parts, and intrusted special commissions of its members with the task of making a detailed study and preparing specific recommendations with regard to (a) public finance, (b) currency and exchange (c) international trade and commerce and (d) international action with special reference to credits.

The detailed arguments which accompany and amplify the recommendations of these commissions, and which have been unanimously approved by the Conference, are, although very illuminating, too lengthy to be considered in this article. The resolutions of the four commissions may be summarized as follows:

The Commission on Public Finance:

"It is imperative that every government should as the first social and financial reform, on which all others depend:

"(a) Restrict its ordinary recurrent expenditure, including the service of the debt to such an amount as can be covered by its ordinary revenue.

"(b) Rigidly reduce all expenditure on armaments in so far as such reduction is compatible with the preservation of national security.

"(c) Abandon all unproductive extraordinary expenditure.

"(d) Restrict even produce extraordinary expenditure to the lowest possible amount.

"Armies should everywhere be reduced to a peace footing, and armaments should be limited to the lowest possible figure compatible with nation security, with a view to securing a general and agreed reduction of the crushing burden which, on their existing scale, armaments still impose on the impoverished peoples of the world, sapping their resources and imperilling their recovery from the ravages of war."

Every government should abandon at the earliest practicable date all uneconomical and artificial measures which conceal form people the true economic situation; such measures include:

(a) The artificial cheapening of bread and other foodstuffs, and of coal and other materials by selling them below cost price to the public, and the provision of unemployment doles of such a character as to demoralize instead of encouraging industry.

(b) The maintenance of railway fares, postal rates and charges for other government services on a basis which is insufficient to cover the cost of the services given, including annual charges on capital account.

In so far as it is impossible to cut down expenditure within the limits of existingrevenues, fresh taxation must be imposed to meet the deficit and this process must be ruthlessly continued until the revenue is at least sufficient to meet the full amount of the recurrent ordinary expenditure.

In future the loans which are sequired for urgent capital purposes must be met out of the real savings of the people. But those savings have, as it were, been pledged for many years ahead by the credits created during the war, and the first step to raising fresh money must be to fund the undigested floating obligations with which the markets are burdened.

A suggestion is made that the countries represented at the Conference should continue to furnish half-yearly statements of receipts and expenditures to the Council of the League of Nations, and the report of this commission finishes with "it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to practise the strictest possible economy and so to contribute his maximum effort to the common weal. Such private action is the indispensable basis for the fical measures required to restore public finances."

The Commission on Currency and Exchange:

"The currency of a country, in the

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it ad draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

SYNDICALISTS' TERROR

SPAIN FACES NEW SORT OF WARFARE.

Deadly Struggle Now In Progress Between Syndicalism and Its Opponents—Shootings Take Place and the People of Barcelona Live In an Atmosphere of Murder and Intrigue.

A FEW days ago Barcelona and all Spain shuddered at the most atrocious murder among all those perpetrated in the deadly struggle between syndicalism and its opponents. Though this murder was committed in Valencia, there seems little doubt that the extremists of Barcelona, the men who constantly meet in secret session to decree the death of those in their path, were responsible for it. And while groups still meet on every street to comment on the dastardly shooting of Count Salvatierra, ex-Governor of Barcelona, his wife and young sister-in-law, a Madrid newspaper is causing a sensation by its revelations concerning the notorious "Baron Koenig" and his "black band" of satellites, who, it is alleged, were employed by the Barcelona authorities to fight syndicalists, and instituted a reign of terror by their illegal and ruthless methods, among which murder was quite as ordinary a thing as it is to the syndicalists who constantly employ it against their enemies.

In the attack on Count Salvatierra, his wife, and his sister-in-law, the Marchioness of Tejares, Spanish syndicalists have for the first time included innocent women among the victims of their hired gunmen, says the foreign correspondent of the New York Evening Post. The count, who had received warnings that his life was in danger, was driving on the avenue between Valencia and El Grao, when a group of men suddenly stepped before the carriage and opened fire with revolvers. The coachman whipped up his horses and drove frantically towards Valencia. Near the city he hailed a passing automobile and begged its occupants to take those in the carriage to the nearest hospital, which they did. On arrival at the hospital it was found that the young marchioness was dead, the count dying and his wife in a critical condition. The count died a few hours later.

Close on the heels of the Salvatierra murder comes the revelation of La Tribuna of Madrid regarding "Baron Koenig" and his henchmen. "Baron Koenig," the hero of a detective story of real life, is a Prussian who was expelled from Spain a few weeks ago. He is a native of Potsdam, Prussia, and was at one time a waiter and later proprietor of a bar in Brussels. Having sold his bar his adventurous disposition asserted itself and he devoted himself to living by his wits in the twilight zone of crime and baffling the police of various countries when his activities brought him into conflict with the law. Eventually he gravitated to Barcelona and secured an introduction to Bravo Portillo, chief of police there, who took him into his employ as an assistant against the syndicalists. Bravo Portillo was soon murdered, his assassination having held first place among the sensational crimes of the Barcelona extremists until eclipsed the other day by the attack on Count Salvatierra. The "baron" then took command of the band of men who had been working under the orders of Bravo Portillo and under him they were spurred on to such a pitch of violence that they became celebrated as the "black band."

From the fate which befell some of the members of the band it is easily seen that whatever the crimes of the "black band" may have been, their syndicalist foes gave them tit for tat, and made their lives while they worked for the "baron" hardly worth a nickel. No fewer than five men, including Bravo Portillo, were killed as a result of the deeds of the "black band." The Barcelona chief of police was shot in broad daylight on one of the streets of the city. Another man, pierced by ten bullets, fell within a stone's throw of Las Ramblas. Another, ten days after becoming a member of the band, was shot to death on the street. A fourth while walking in broad daylight was attacked and killed. And an individual of unsavory record nicknamed "El Matterquin," who succeeded in getting out of Barcelona when it became too hot for him, and taking ship for America, was murdered on the high seas. Several others, including the "baron" himself, were attacked with murderous intent, but managed to escape alive from their assailants.

The Madrid newspaper gives astonishing details of man-hunts engaged in by "Koenig" and his associates, of which the victims were Barcelona workmen. On one of these occasions, the "baron" himself, revolver in hand, is said to have led the chase against a man who was walking on the street with his mother. When they overtook him, the mother threw herself in front of her son, crying, "Shoot, coward, if you dare." The "baron" decided not to shoot. Another accusation is to the effect that a woman who insisted that she had seen one of the "baron's" murderous attacks on workmen, asked to be allowed to testify, and was not allowed to do so by the authorities, who were desirous of shielding the chief of the "black band" and his helpers. When this occurred the Governor of Barcelona was that Count Salvatierra who was murdered recently in Valencia. And so it goes—charges and counter-charges, secret death tribunals and sensational revelations, and always the feeling that men with loaded revolvers may be walking along beside you on their way to fill somebody with lead. Truly one lives in Barcelona in an atmosphere of murder.

FUEL OILS.

Experiments That May Have Very Important Results.

Before very long every farmer may make his own fluid fuel for lighting, heating, running farm machinery and other purposes.

This has no reference to alcohol, but to a substitute for gasoline derivable from straw and other farm wastes by destructive distillation. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is now making experiments looking to the development of a simple and inexpensive apparatus for the purpose, which will render the farmer independent of the oil monopoly for all time to come.

The apparatus in question, complete in itself—a "farm unit," as the experts call it—will consist of a retort, a "scrubber," and a condenser. It will cost only about $250, and will be so constructed as to be fool-proof. This implies that anybody can run it and keep it in order. All that need be supplied is heat and straw (or other vegetable waste), and the machine will do the rest.

As yet the experiments have been restricted to straw, but they will presently be extended to include cornstalks and leaves, cotton stalks, sugar cane refuse and other materials.

The most important application of the idea now in view is in the Far West, where fuel is scarce and where the straw discarded by threshing machines is customarily burned to get rid of it, there being no accessible market for this waste product, so enormous in total quantity.

If by the aid of simple mechanical apparatus this straw can be made to yield a fluid equivalent to gasoline it will solve a great economic problem.

The process of destructive distillation yields a gas, which in the condenser is converted into a liquid. It may even be transformed into a solid; and the experts think that possibly it may be utilized to best advantage in this shape.

It has gone far enough, however, to convince the investigators of the practicability of the idea. They have even run an automobile with straw gas contained in a huge bag attached to the car.

Beyond the first cost of the outfit, the farmer will be at no expense for his fluid fuel, inasmuch as the waste of his farm will furnish it. He will use it to light and heat his dwelling, to keep the cook stove going, to operate the washing machine and sewing machine, and to drive the grindstone and feed-cutter in the barn.

He will use it for his automobile and also to drive the farm tractor. Indeed, with unlimited supplies of cost-free fuel the conditions of life for himself and his family will be to a great extent revolutioned.

BACTERIA IN THE MILK

Bacteria, Yeasts and Moulds Greatly Influence Milk.

Most Bacterial Changes Are Hurtful—How Bacteria Gets Into Milk—How to Prevent Injury to the Milk.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

BACTERIA play a very important role in the milk and dairy industry. Practically all the natural changes either good or bad that take place in milk from the time it is drawn until the time it is consumed, or otherwise used, are due to the action of the various species of bacteria that gets into it, though sometimes yeasts and molds are involved.

If the milk is to be consumed as milk, then most of the changes that take place in it, as a result of bacterial action, are injurious. Exceptions to this are found in the prepared fermented milk, as Kephir, Koumiss and Bulgarian milk; in these, however, the bacterial action is controlled and cultures of certain species of bacteria are added to the milk to bring about the desired changes.

Everybody knows that if a sample of ordinary milk is kept for a few days, particularly if it is not kept cold, it will sour or become gassy or ropy or putrid. This souring, ropiness, gas production and putrefaction, is brought about by different species of bacteria in the milk. As the changes in the milk which these bacteria produce are injurious and undesirable, everybody who has anything to do with the handling of milk should know how to prevent their occurrence.

In the ordinary methods of obtaining and handling milk it is impossible to prevent some bacteria from getting into it. With proper care, however, a large percentage of the bacteria that ordinarily get into milk can be prevented from getting in, and with proper handling of the milk the few that do get in can be prevented from producing any marked changes within a reasonable time. It is desirable, then, that those who have to do with the production and handling of milk should know how to prevent, as far as possible, the bacteria from getting into the milk and also how to prevent those that do get in from bringing about the changes which result in the spoiling of the milk.

How Bacteria Get Into Milk.—Unless the cow's udder is diseased very few bacteria are present in the milk as it is drawn, and those that are present are of very little consequence. Thus the bacteria found in raw milk get into it during the milking operations and during the later handling of the milk.

Bacteria of many kinds are present in large numbers in a dusty atmosphere, on bits of hay, straw, cow hairs, manure, flies, dirty hands, dirty clothes, and in milk pails, cans, bottles, strainers, and other milk utensils that are not thoroughly washed and scalded. Consequently, if we are to keep bacteria out of milk we must prevent the above-named substances from getting into the milk, and we must pay particular attention to the washing and thorough scalding of all milk utensils and in having clean hands and clothes.

It is generally considered that provided the milk is passed through a strainer when being filled into the cans from the milk pail all the objectionable materials are removed from the milk, as dirt, bits of hay, straw, manure, cow hairs, flies, etc. This is a great mistake as the bacteria which were present on these when they dropped into the milk pail are washed off into the milk, and these bacteria pass readily through the finest strainers used. Consequently, steps must be taken to prevent these materials getting into the milk.

1. The atmosphere of the stable must be free as possible from dust during the milking operations. Any feeding, bedding down or cleaning up should be done at least an hour before, or left until after milking.

2. Cover-top or sanitary milk pails should be used instead of the wide open-top pails.

3. Doors and windows should be fly screened.

4. Cows should be kept clean and groomed so that bits of dirt, manure, hairs, etc., shall not fall from the cows' flanks into the pail during milking.

5. All milk utensils should be thoroughly washed and scalded every time before use.

How to Prevent Bacteria From Spoiling the Milk.—Even after all reasonable care has been taken to prevent bacteriological contamination of the milk as outlined above, some contamination will occur, that is, a few bacteria will get into the milk in some way or other. If these are allowed to multiply in the milk they will spoil it.

The best way to prevent their rapid multiplication in the milk is to chill it immediately in the cooling tank or refrigerator, and keep it cold until used. A small amount of bacterial multiplication will take place, even at refrigeration temperatures, and this will show itself in the condition of the milk in course of time. But milk that has been obtained under clean conditions and has been kept cold should be in excellent condition even after forty-eight hours.

Summary of Milk Contamination Preventive Measures.—Prevent dust, cow hairs, bits of hay, straw, and manure, flies and drops of dirty water from getting into the milk during milking operations as outlined above. Thoroughly clean and sterilize all pails, cans, bottles and other utensils. Cool the milk at once down to refrigeration temperature and keep it cool and covered until used.—Prof. H. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

Citrus Powders.

Announcement is made of the discovery of a successful process for reducing orange juice and lemon juice to dry powders, the method adopted being much like that employed for the production of powdered milk.

Dry air, at not too high a temperature, evaporates the juices to dryness, thus preserving the fresh flavor. When wanted for use, it is necessary merely to add water.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . . . ." Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

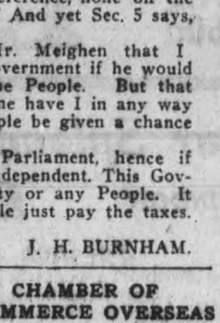
CANADIAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OVERSEAS

(By Frank Tewson, Staff Correspondent of the Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Plans for the inauguration of the proposed new Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London are progressing satisfactorily. I understand that the Prince of Wales is interested in the project and will be invited to be its first president.

In Ye Olden Time

hoop skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having the genuine Favorite Prescription put up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago and never contained alcohol.



Beauty depends upon health.

Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders and weakness of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

PHIPPEN, SASK.—"Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me when all other medicines failed. The home doctors could do nothing for me. I happened to see Dr. Pierce's advertisement in the paper, sent for the medicine, and felt a great benefit from even the first few doses. I took but a few bottles until I was entirely well. I cannot speak too highly of the merits of the Prescription." MRS. JANET BROWN, R. R. 1.

24,000 Miles of Tree-Lined Roads.

Many of us trudged up and down the tree-lined roads of France during the war. All the national roads, to the extent of 24,000 miles, are lined with trees planted and cared for by the Government.

Four centuries ago Francis I. started the good work with a batch of Lombardy poplars, and it has even since been carried on, despite all political upheavals.

The Ministry of Public Works has now more than 3,000,000 trees under its control. When the road is between ten and sixteen metres in width one row of trees is set out on each side. When the width is over sixteen metres two rows are planted, with a foot-path between them.

Tree-planting is given out in small contracts to local men, who receive a lump sum as soon as the trees are planted and the balance at the end of two years.

During that period the contractor is responsible for the care of the trees, and for replacing any that die or prove defective.

Parnassus on Tap.

Parnassus is going to furnish baths for the city of Athens. It is a real place after all and not that abode of eternal ease and notoriety, reserved for poets only, that tradition has tried to make of it. An Americanized Greek, by the way, Mr. Miltiades Rezos, is the man to whom honor is due for increasing Athen's water supply to the bathing point. This is a true story. Two hundred thousand bathtubs have already been ordered for the Greek capital from a sample they already had.

This plan calls for a great reservoir on the slope of Parnassus. At present little mountain streams, washed-out rocky hill roads, and an old marble bath at the shrine of Apollo mark the site. This is one of the few spots in Greece where water is readily obtainable for purposes over and above the requirements of diet. Perhaps this accounts for the legend that the inhabitants of Parnassus were more given to poetry than the rest of the Greeks.

Mr. Rezos had a very hard time to convince the authorities that his scheme would work. For many years the committees of investigation had had their corporate eye fixed upon a distant lake in the Peloponnesus, but that scheme was so much open to debate that the patient Athenians had about given over all thought of baths and very little was being done to push the project. Mr. Rezos was detained in Greece by the exigencies of the war and one day, much angered by the gasping and futile trickle of his bath spigot, made off for the hills and rediscovered Parnassus.

An Excellent Start.

In a third-class railway carriage in England, a young fellow was boasting as to how fast he could run, when an old man sitting in one corner of the compartment said, "So tha can run a bit, can tha?" "Aw reckon aw can," came the reply. "Aw'll race tha if tha'll gi' me a yard start." "Done," said the youth; "where will thee run?" "Up a ladder," came the answer.

GETTING NEXT THE THIBETAN GOVERNMENT

J. FARLEY FIRST EUROPEAN TO HAVE AUDIENCE WITH DALAI LAMA SINCE 1811—MAY LINK FORBIDDEN LAND UP WITH INDIA

(Associated Press)

CALCUTTA, Jan. 28.—The first European who has an audience of the Dalai Lama of Tibet at Lhasa since Manning in 1811 has put returned here after two months' residence in the "forbidden land."

He is J. Fairley, a telegraph engineer in the service of the government of India, who reports that Tibetan government is apparently anxious for the country to be linked up by telegraph with India, and there are also faint signs, he thinks, of a desire for industrial advance on European lines.

Back to Middle Ages.

"A visit to Lhasa," he says, "transports one straight back to the middle ages. There is no sanitation or drainage in Lhasa to-day and if it were not for its low temperature owing to the fact that it is built on a plateau 11,000 feet high, its 20,000 inhabitants would quickly die of typhoid fever.

"The audience of the Dalai Lama took place in the Norblinga palace three miles outside the city. The reception hall was gorgeously decorated in red and gold, with a magnificent silk canopy over the throne on which the Lama was seated in European fashion. His Holiness wore an oriental yellow-brown robe, and his hair was done in the familiar plaited fashion of the Lamas. His salutation took the form of placing over my arms extended in front of me a long silk shawl, which courtesy I returned by placing a silk shawl over the arm of His Holiness.

Curious as to Wife.

"The Dalai Lama's first question concerned my age, and the second my wife's age, and he showed great interest in my experiences on my journey. His Holiness gave me the same impression of gentle kindliness which I derive from all my contact with the Tibetans.

Mr. Fairley also visited the Council of Shapes, as ehe Tibetan cabinet is called.

"The Shapes," he says, inquired anxiously if the war were now over and Europe at peace again. Afterward, they invited me to a 24-course lunch The only mishap was that my interpreter was so overcome with nervousnes that he spilled the tea in the lap of one of the Shapes as he poured it."

The Buddhist Cathedral

Mr. Fairley also visited the Jo Kang the Buddhist Cathedral, where he found a bell left behind by the Capuchin fathers in 1745 when they abandoned their attempt to found a mission in Lhasa.

"In front of the main altar", Mr. Fairley says, "Stands 27 butter lamps of solid gold, 10 inches high. The figure of the Buddha is finely gilded and ornamented with gold and turquoise. In a corner close to the door there is a large butter lamp of solid silver, about two feet in diameter and three feet in height. This lamp is literally plastered to the wall by the filth left by millions of pilgrims, who have been in the habit for centuries of touching it in the course of their devotions."

EXTEND ANTI-JAP LAND LAWS TO AUSTRALASIA

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Extension of the Californian anti-Japanese land owning laws to the islands south of the Equator, have been entrusted to Australia under a mandate, which has been recognized by the Japanese themselves, though with ill grace.

"This concession is tantament to admitting that Japan is disputing with regard to California," says the "Tokio Kukmen," one of the influential journals of the Empire. "It signifies that Japan recognizes anti-Japanism and with her consent it has been extended farther. Now is the Government going to explain this inconsistent attitude?"

Sufferance of a discriminatory attitude against the Japanese in California will frustrate all resistance Japan might make with regard to the exaltation of Japanese from America.

ENGLISH SAILORS ARE DESERTING IN AMERICA

LONDON, January 26. — A large number of English seamen are deserting their ships in American ports, and joining American vessels because of the higher pay that they receive from American shipowners.

One magistrate before whom one of the deserters was arraigned called the practice "scandalous" and said it was prejudicial to Britain's mercantile service.

The man in question was fined £5 and costs and his wages were impounded.

NEW ZEALAND SETS EXAMPLE

ALL DAIRY PRODUCTS EXPORTED ARE GOVERMENT GRADED.

Grading of butter was started in New Zealand as an educational measure, and also to give information to buttermakers as to the quality and character of the butter which they were turning out, states J. A. Ruddick in a paper delivered before a recent convention. When this matter was first taken up there were no regular exporters in that country. Export butter and cheese was mostly handled by wholesale importing firms who bought New Zealand produce or secured the shipping of it in order to help out their exchange. There was no examination or inspection of the butter or cheese at the time of shipment. It was usually consigned to some importer in London. It was from three to six months old before it reached its destination and then another month or two would elapse before definite reports on the quality came back to the maker. It was this state of affairs that induced the Government to inaugurate a system of examination, largely for the purpose of giving information and guidance to the makers.

Government Grading Established.

The grading of dairy produce in New Zealand, according to Mr. Ruddick, is now carried out under the Dairy Produce Act and regulations thereunder. The butter or cheese, as the case may be, must be shipped regularly to certain specified cold-storage warehouses. All export butter and cheese must go through these establishments. The regulations require that the churning number shall be marked on each box of butter and the vat number on each box of cheese, so that the grader may select one package from each churning or vat in the shipment and score the whole as one lot. The grading is done as the butter or cheese is being transferred from the railway cars or trucks to the Government cold store. When the grade has been determined one or other of the grade marks is placed on each package in the shipment. After grading and marking, the butter and cheese are wholly under the control of the Government officer in charge of the grading station, and the owner has no access to it. He gives his instructions as to when and to whom it is to be shipped and the manager of the warehouse attends to the shipping details.

Designed at first as a purely education scheme value of the New Zealand grader's certificate became more and more recognized until to-day it is of first importance. Sales are now based almost wholly on the grades of which the grader's certificate is visible and accepted evidence.

DANCING IS BANNED.

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 28. — Dancing at Bethany College is banned under a rule by officials of the institution. Another rule informs coeds that they must be in the dormitory by 7 p.m. each night.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE IN FEBRUARY

(By Frank Tewson, Staff Correspondent of the Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—It is understood that Premier Lloyd George will meet the premiers of the overseas dominions or their representatives, in London about the end of February, at which there will be discussed a big scheme for settlement by state aid of the unemployed over the whole Empire. These pourparlers will be quite separate from the original Imperial Conference which is to be held in June.

There's a trick in making Mirrors, and there is a trick in making Photographs, and the makers know that most people are not above a little self-deception when it comes to viewing their appearance.

If there is any trick in Storekeeping that makes things appear better than they are, then we do not want to know about it.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, NEED

BRITISH ECONOMIST SUGGESTS THIS AS SOLUTION FOR PROBLEMS.

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—That an international conference of the nations of the world, including Canada and other dominions, for a settlement of the economic situation to be held probably in Washington in simultaneous conjunction with the proposed international conference with Senator Harding for a solution to the disarmament problem, is the suggestion of Gratton Doyle, M.P., the British political and economic expert. Doyle, who negotiated the British Key Industries Bill, suggest that the conference appoint an international commission to investigate the assets (real and potential, of war-torn European countries and arrive at a plan for mobilization of these in order than an international bond issue could be launched and the bonds backed up by the respective countries and the international commission.

"This would immediately solve the exchange questions and enable the European countries to buy much needed materials, start factories, abolish unemployment, and enable them to get back on their feet economically," Mr. Doyle declared. "The real cause for the present industrial unrest is the unreasonable attitude of labor and its alleged leaders throughout the world. I believe the United States has been hit harder than Britain. She has much widespread unemployment proportionally than we have. However, owing to the recent British coal strike we have been a big loser while she has been a big gainer in the world's coal. America captured our foreign markets during the strike and now we are faced with the pecular position of having plenty of coal and no place to send it."

Doyle's Washington economic conference suggestion is not unlike the one adopted at the recent League of Nations' meeting at Geneva, but because of the obvious anti-league attitude of the next American administration it is believed the league and its work at Geneva will be shelved, and therefore, something should immediately be done for a speedy world economic stability.

DEATH IS URGED FOR BURGLARS

Several States are Expected to Fix Capital Penalty in Banditry Cases.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Legislators in this state have served notice that they intend introducing measures to provide greater punishment for highwaymen and burglars.

With daring robberies becoming everyday occurrences the courts here quickly decided to mete out maximum punishment wherever possible and raised bail to isure keeping criminals behind bars.

Capital Offence in Three

A study in existing laws in various states shows that in three burglarly is punishable by death and in four robbery also, should the maximum be applied.

First degree murder may be punished by death in North Carolina and Virginia by means of electricity and in Delaware by hanging. Alabama and Virginia's laws provide the maximum of death in robbery cases while Nevada specifies death for train robbers and Texas for robbery accomplished by means of deadly weapons.

Several states provide for life imprisonment or for "any term up to life" in burglary cases. The life penalty thus is possible in Massachusetts Florida Iowa Ohio Rhode Island and South Carolina while in Maine the law merely provides "any term of years" making it possible to impose a sentence which virtually means life New York, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota accomplish the same end by stipulating that burglary shall be punished by 'not less than ten years."

40 Years in Utah.

Other states vary from maximum punishment of 40 years in Utah and 20 years in New Hampshire to only seven years in Arkansas. The heaviest fine possible for the offence is in Pennsylvania, which provides "not over ten years and $10,000."

Roberry may be punished by life imprisonment in Idaho, Rhode Island Texas, Oregon, Utah, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan and Hawaii. California provides for "not less than one year." The least severe penalty is that of Connecticut, which stipulates not more than seven years". In most states the maximum varies from 10 to 20 years.

In view of present conditions, however, bills are being prepared for introduction in several states to increase the maximum penalty to death or life imprisonment.

BOY BANDITS ARE TAKEN BY POLICE

WOUNDED BY BULLETS, MOTOR THIEVES CAPTURED IN TORONTO

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—With the arrest yesterday afternoon and last night of C. W. Landon, aged 16, of 569 College street, and Samuel Greenberg, aged 18, of 322 Euclid avenue, by Detective-Sergts. Nursey, McConnell, Stewart and Mulholland, the police claim to have in custody the two youths who gave Nursey and McConnell such an exciting chase throuhg the down town streets on Tuesday night and finally escaped by jumping from their auto at Wellesley and Jarvis streets.

Both youths bear bullet marks. Landon was shot twice through the neck, although the bullets in each case just pierced the fleshy part. Greenberg was shot through the right shoulder, the bullet passing right through.

Landon, it is said, is the worst injured of the two, although both are expected to recover. Dr. H. E. Clutterbuck, 148 Grace street, extracted the two bullets from Landon's neck. He still lies at his home as his condition was rearded as too serious to allow him to be removed to the hospital. Greenberg was removed to the General Hospital where his conditoin is not regarded as serious.

Landon was the first taken in custody. Detective Sergts. Nursey and McConnell received information yesterday afternoon which led to his arrest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. From him the two detectives secured the name of the man who was with him on the wild escapade, and Greenberg's arest was made at about 9.30 last night.

ASKS US TO JOIN WAR AGAINST BOLSHEVIKI

BRITISH INTELLIGENCE OFFICER CLAIMS THIS IS PLANNED.

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The United States and Canada are about to be asked to back an offensive against the Russian Soviets on four fronts, which is to be launched next spring.

Major O. R. Colton, of Winnipeg, an expert on Russian affairs, with the British Army Intelligence Department, is here making arrangements. He says that America will not only be asked to give financial support but assist in international recruiting.

The program for the offense outlined so far includes simultaneous assaults on the Soviets by the armies of Wrangel, Kerensky and Polish generals, one of whom now holds Kieff.

Military chiefs in conference here on the plan of campaign are seeking inancial backing needed. It appears that France has agreed to co-operate if Britain joins.

"Our biggest problem is to finance such a campaign,' says Major Colton. "Within three months, however, we'll have popular drives started in Canada and the United States to raise a hundred million dollars. I've been fighting the Bolsheviki for three years and have just returned from a tour of investigation in and around Russia. I am positive that the Bolshevik Republic would collapse this year if the United States and Canada will give sufficient support to our our fronts of offensive.

Let The People Rule!

Some Planks in the National - Progressive Platform

HON. T. A. CRERAR,
Leader National Progressive Party.

LAST year the electors of Ontario, because of their distrust of both of the old political parties, voted a new government — the Drury, Farmer-Labor Government — into power in Ontario. This government is one of the best, if not the best, Ontario has ever had. It has given fearless, progressive legislation, and it has safeguarded the interests of the common people against those who would exploit them.

The electors of West Peterboro will have an opportunity on February 7th to elect to the House of Commons the candidate of a similar party in National affairs, the National Progressive Party. The candidate is J. C. Campbell. The great leader of this party, Hon. T. A. Crerar, is the public idol of scores of thousands of people in Western Canada, where he is best known. He is well and favorably known, also, to many thousands of people in Eastern Canada. His public record is such that he can be depended upon to give the same efficient, honest, economical government in Dominion affairs, as the Drury Farmer-Labor Government is giving in Ontario, in provincial affairs.

PUBLIC DOMAIN MUST NOT BE SQUANDERED.

Both Liberal and Conservative Governments, as well as the present hybrid government at Ottawa, have shamelessly exploited the people. They have done this by handing over to private companies, grants of millions of acres of lands,leases at low values of enormously valuable timber limits, and water powers, and other similar concessions. In many cases these things have been done without even calling for public tenders

The National Progressive Party believes that a stop should be put to these practices. One of the planks in its platform reads as follows:

> "The National Progressive Party holds that no more natural resources shall be alienated from the Crown, but that these shall be brought into use only under short term leases in which the interests of the public shall be properly safeguarded, and that such leases shall be granted only by public auction."

The foregoing plank means that the National Progressive Party will never lease or give away large areas of the public domain, great water powers, such as those now being fought for on the St. Lawrence, important fishing rights, and similar concessions. Instead the right to develop and work such concessions will be granted only in short term leases, and these leases will have to be purchased at public auction. Could anything be more fair?

THE REFERENDUM—AN IMPORTANT PUBLIC SAFEGUARD.

There are other ways in which the rights of the public need to be safeguarded. For instance, when the present Dominion government agreed to take over the Grand Trunk Railway on terms and conditions involving hundreds of millions of dollars, the public had no means of checking the purchase. The same was true of the purchase from Mackenzie and Mann of the Canadian Northern Railway.

Greedy grafters know how helpless the public is in matters of this kind. For this reason they have made it a practice for years to maintain highly paid lobbyists at Ottawa to wring concessions out of the government which should never be granted. Both Conservative and Libera Governments have fallen victims to their blandishments frequently in the past and have received handsome contributions to their campaign funds in consequence.

The National Progressive Party believes that an end should be put to these conditions. The plank in its platform dealing with this matter reads as follows:

> "The National Progressive Party believes that the time is opportune for the introduction into our national life of those practices that will bring government into closer and more intimate relationship with the people. It, therefore, advocates the adoption of the Referendum as an instrument of democracy to achieve this object."

What is the Referendum? It is a form of legislation which has proved very successful in many countries. The Referendum prevents the government from making improper and extravagant bargains with private companies or individuals. It does this by making it possible for the people to demand that such bargains shall be submitted to a vote by the people, when the people so desire, before they can be finally ratified. When the people have this power they seldom have to use it. The government knows that the people have this power, and it, therefore, is careful about the measures it passes. The big grafters also know that the people have this club, and reluctantly let the government alone as they are aware that the public, when they so desire can throw out and upset any improper concessions the government may make. Is this not a reform well worth securing

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING—A PUBLIC MENACE.

The High Cost of Living has become a public menace. It is so intolerable that tens of thousands of farmers have not been able to earn a fair return from their labor and investment, and have abandoned their farms in despair. Over 200,000 acres of land have gone out of cultivation in Ontario during the past few years. This condition has further increased the cost of living by decreasing the production of foodstuffs. In our towns and cities the average man and woman has been frantic at times in the effort to buy enough of the necessities of life to meet their needs, out of their relatively small incomes. Many have not been able to do so, and have had to go into debt.

The National Progressive Party believes that this condition is due largely to the Protective Tariff which in Canada is one of the highest in the world. This tariff is so high it has fostered scores of combines and trusts which have been bleeding the public right and left. For instance, in 1891, there were 557 carpet manufacturing plants in Canada. In 1917, after over 30 years of high protection, there were only 5. The big fellows had got together behind the tariff and had squeezed the little fellows out of business.

In 1891 there were 5,398 establishments in Canada making boots and shoes. These employed 15,041 people. In 1917, there weer only 185. These employed only 13.013 people. Similar conditions exist in many other lines of production. These figures show how foolish is the idea that high protection builds up industries.

In 1919 every man, woman and child in Canada, paid the Dominion Government in tariff taxes an average of $19.50 each. (In the United States the average was only $1.67.) For a family of five, this is equal to a tax of $97.50. But the people bought over three times as much goods from the protected manufacturers as they imported. Thus they paid these manufacturers, because of the tariff, an average of approximately $58.50 each, or of $175.50 for a family of five. Thus the total cost of the tariff to the people of Canada in 1917, was $78.00 per head, or $312.00 per family. The cost to the average farmer's family was greater because he had more to buy. Is it any wonder that our people are groaning over the high cost of living?

While the National Progressive Party realizes that the welfare of our great manufacturing industries must not be jeopardized, it has pledged itself to a substantial all-round reduction in the tariff. It is the only party to-day which has. It believes that in doing this it will be promoting the best interests of the country at large

These are only a few of the important reforms advocated by the National Progressive Party. If you believe in them,

GETS MILITARY MEDAL AND INSULT WITH IT

English Sergeant is Victim of Low Humor.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A Nottingham soldier, Sergt. Harry Camm, who recently received the Military Medal in recognition of his gallant service, had the misfortune of also being subjected to an official insult through a misplaced attempt at within the part of a tactless clerk. As Camm did not know for what particular act the medal had been awarded he wrote to the records office at Woolwich Dockyard to find out. In due time he received a typewritten reply, stating that no particulars had been given, but written on the paper in red ink were the words:

"It was probably issued with the rations".

The matter was brought to the attenion of Lord Henry Cavendish-Bentinck, member of parliament from South Nottingham, who saw to it that the guilty person got what was coming to him.

It was discovered afterward that the decoration was conferred upon Camm for keeping a battery supplied with ammunition during the offensive from Valenciennes to Mons and for carrying a wounded comrade under heavy fire to safety.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities ,are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exeedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia for many reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In order to make the muddle of this election more complete Mr. Cunningham, in last night's issue, drags in the question of prohibition. Now, even Mr. Burnham, with all his extraordinarily weird ideas as to prohibition and the Deity leaves this matter strictly alone now because he knows perfectly well that this by-election has no bearing on prohibition whatever. I do not know what the views of Mr. Denne and Mr. McMurray are, but I do know that Mr. Gordon never touches liquor except for medicinal purposes and that he has supported every prohibition measure that has come before the pople.

Mr. Burnham himself has defined the issue in this election. That issue is whether a goverinment, after changing its iame, changing its members, changing its leaders, can continue to carry on in defiance of the will of the people for its own selfish ends and for the benefit of the profiteers of Montreal and Toronto. It is practically admitted that the fight is between Mr. Gordon and the Government candidate. If the progressive, democratic people of the constituency divide their forces the Government candidate will go in. The only way to deal a solar plexus blow to the stale office-holders and reactionary interests at Ottawa is to all get behind the real people's cndidate. G. N. Gordon.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH WEARING.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At a public meeting of the Independent Labor Party I was chosen as their standard bearer for the coming by-election, February 7th.

In appealing for your support I wish to ask you whether you think the Labor Candidate cannot represent you better than any of the old parties, being in the same walk of life as most of you, and knowing your requirements, to make your home a happier and brighter place to live in, I know I can be of great benefit to you in the House of Commons, to place your needs before those people who control the destinies of this Dominion, and I will never fail in my duty in doing so.

Anything I undertake will be along Constitutional lines, as this is the great re-construction period and in standing for this election I have nothing at heart but the interests of the masses of the people and Canada as a whole, and especially the West Riding of Peterboro. I know your needs as I have laboured amongst you, from the farm where I was born, to the mines in the West of this Dominion, and therefore I should be in a better position to legislate for you than my opponents.

I am in favor of Protection for the manufacturer, and I am also in favor of Protection for the worker, so that the greatest good shall come to the greatest number, and if we want to build up this great Dominion of ours, we must work along these lines, and promise that if you favor me with election, that will be my one endeavor.

I stand on the platform of the Referendum Recall.

I may not be able to meet you all before election day, but I tender a hearty invitation to the electors, especially the ladies, to our meetings, where public questions will be thoroughly discussed. Trusting that you will honor me as your Representative for West Peterboro.

Respectfully Yours,
T. J. McMURRAY.

SPEAKER IMPERIAL HOUSE COMING TO CANADA IN SPRING

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 27.—As already cabled, Rt. Hon. J. W. Lowther, Speaker of the Imperial House of Commons, hopes if possible to pay a visit to Canada in the spring, in order formally to hand over the new Chair for the Canadian House of Commons, which has been presented by the United Kingdom Branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association. The new House at Ottawa will rejoice in several gifts presented from the Mother Country. When Sir Robert Borden was here for war conferences he took back with him one year a new Black Rod, which was given by both members of the Lords and Commons of the Mother of Parliaments. Three years back Sir Robert also received at the Guildhall a new mace, given by an ex-Lord Mayor of London, Sir Charles Wakefield, and the ex-sheriffs, Sir George Touche and Sir Samuel Shead.

In welcoming the Right Hon. J. W. Lowther Canada will receive one who is certainly by no means the least illustrious of the long line of Speakers who have filled the Chair of the Commons at Westminster during the last five and a half centuries. Mr. Lowther sits for the Penrith Division of Cumberland. Curiously enough his immediate predecessor, Mr. Gully, afterwards Lord Selby, sat for the neighboring division of Carlisle, but these are the only Speakers ever drawn from this northern county in all the half a thousand years wherein the office has existed. Mr. Lowther has moreover intimate family ties with Cumberland.

For fifteen years he has filled the Speakership and his retirement, owing to indifferent health, has often been considered likely. Mr. Lowther, however, has never been in better health than during the last few months, and there can be no question of the general satisfaction with which the general body of members will regard his retention of office. As one writer said of him recently: "He was made for the great position. He is 'a fine figure of a man,' whether rising in full-bottomed wig and silken gown and silver-buckled shoes to announce some message from far shores to the Mother of Parliaments, or riding his big horse or fencing on the Terrace o' Mornings to secure air and exercise in order to counteract the long sittings beneath his canopy in the Commons.

"With such a figure, tall, dignified, that of a finely developed Englishman, there was one voice that the Speaker of the Commons needed. Mr. Lowther has it. It is a voice full of deep resonant tones, and capable of great meaning in its inflections."

DIFFICULT TO GET QUALIFIED TEACHERS IN PETERBORO EAST

INSPECTOR LEES REPORTS SITUATION MOST DISCOURAGING—19 TAUGHT IN RURAL SCHOOLS LAST YEAR WITHOUT CERTIFICATES.

TEACHERS WERE SCARCE

School Inspector Richard Lees, for Peterborough East, has submitted to the County Council now in session, his report on the schools under his jurisdiction, for the year 1920, as follows:

There were in operation during the year 69 rural schools, 3 village schools and one suburban school, with a total of 92 teachers.

All the schools were visited at least twice with the exception of No. 10, Methuen, which was closed at the time I made my spring visit to that part; No. 8, Otonabee, which was not open at all during the fall term, and so was visited only once; No. 7, Chandos, which was open only for a few weeks during the summer and was not visited at all. One of the schools, in Section No. 2, Anstruther, was not open at all. For a part of the year the children belonging to this school were conveyed to the school at the other end of the section, the cost being paid by the Government. Some of the pupils from No. 7, Chandos, succeeded in getting to some of the neighboring schools for a part of the time.

Rapid Changes.

The record for the rapidity with which teachers change was well sustained. Only 28 schools had the same teacher throughout the year. In 36 schools there were two teachers each, 5 schools had three, and two had four different teachers during the year—making a total of 123 teachers for 70 positions. In the graded schools there four changes, making 26 teachers for 22 positions.

As regards qualifications of teachers ,the condition is, I think, the most discouraging it has been my duty to report. Of the 70 teachers employed at the end of the year, in the rural schools, 19 weer without qualification, and 17 others held only District or Third Class Certificates.

The Various Causes.

For this condition, there are various causes. Teachers were scarce and hard to get last midsummer and in consequence, salaries increased from 30 to 50 per cent. Many boards failed to realize this tendency, and so missed the opportunity of securing teachers till it was too late. In a few cases, teachers who had made engagements, finding later that they could do better, failed to keep their engagements; while others resigned shortly after the opening of schools, thus leaving trustees in a position where it was practically impossible to get teachers. On the other hand,there were a number of cases where teachers kept to their contracts rather than break faith, though, in some cases they were doing so at a sacrifice of $200 or more. In some sections the vacancy did not occur till it was too late to secure teachers, but after all these things have been taken into account, it must be admitted that in many cases, as usual, the slowness, indifference, lack of enterprise, or incapacity, of the trustees and secretaries, are the chief causes of failure. It is a remarkable fact that there are some boards who can always get teachers and others who never can. To some much credit is due for the promptness with which they have met the changed conditions, a considerable number having voluntarily increased the salaries of their teachers when they found that these teachers could have secured higher salaries elsewhere.

Qualifications in Townships.

The qualifications of the teachers by townships was as follows at the end of the year:

Asphodel, Second class 5; Third class 1; No certificate 1

Belmont and Methuen, Second 1; Third 4; District 2; and Temporary 8.

Burleigh and Anstruther, District 3; Temporary 2.

Chandos, Third class 2; District 2; Temporary 4.

Douro, First class 1; Second 9; and Third 1.

Dummer, Second class 4; Third 1; District 1; Temporary 2.

North Monaghan, Second class 2.

Otonabee, First class 1; Second 10; Third 1;No certificate 1.

Holders of Temporary Certificates have had no training as teachers and hold no certificate of qualification. They are granted emergency permits by the Minister making it legal for them to teach. In the two cases reported as having no certificates these permits were not granted.

In the village schools and in No. 2, North Monaghan, which is a suburban, graded school, all the teachers were fully qualified except that one assistant in the last mentioned school holds only a Third Class Certificate.

Grants were Liberal.

The grants received by the rural schools were very liberal, the total amount for all the public schools of the inspectorate being about $20,000, most of which went to the rural schools, as the grants to the village schools are merely nominal. There was some dissatisfaction in regard to the mode of distribution of the rural school grants In the year 1919, a sum of $250,000 was voted for the purpose of supplementing the salaries of the teachers. This was distributed in September of that year on a scheme, based on a joint consideration of the salary paid and the assessed value of the property of the section. In 1920, the vote was increased to $400,000, and trustees were induced to increase salaries in the expectation of securing a larger share of this grant, basing their estimate on the plan of distribution employed in 1919. In 1920, however, the scheme was changed so as to operate more favorably for schools paying higher salaries. In consequence a number of boards received sums considerably lower than they had expected, while others got more. Naturally there was no complaint from the latter but some of the others had a feeling of having been unfairly dealt with. If the purpose of this special grant is to raise the salaries of teachers to such a standard that persons suitably endowed may be induced to enter the teaching profession in sufficient numbers to provide teachers for all the schools, the change must be considered a wise one, and the scheme of 1920 is to be preferred to that of 1919, though it would have prevented a good deal of disappointment and dissatisfaction could it have been announced in advance.

School Fairs a Success.

During the year School Fairs were held as usual under the direction of the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture, whose energy and untiring efforts in this connection have done so much to make this feature of the work a success. It has been said that in some quarters the interest in the school fairs is waning. While this may be true in regard to the attendance of parents and others, the children continue to be as keenly interested as ever, and no part of their work is undertaken with more zest and enthusiasm than the preparation for the fair. In schools that have for any reason been prohibited from taking part, the pupils are always eager to know if there is any plan by which they may be included.

In addition to the work in connection with the fairs, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, a number of schools are now taking up the prescribed course in Agriculture under the regulations of the Department of Education. Notwithstanding the fact that only a few of the teachers have had the advantage of a course at the Agriculture College, some very effective work is being done. This work when properly conducted appeals strongly to the interest of the pupils and there is nothing connected with the school that they are more proud of or more anxious to exhibit than the garden plots.

School Attendance Act.

The School Attendance Act came into operation a year ago. It does not appear so far to be an unqualified success. Some of the townships were unable to secure attendance officers till toward the end of the year. In many cases the requirements of the act were not carried out in the matter of notifying the schools of the name and address of the attendance officer. It was found at the teachers' convention in October that a very small proportion of the teachers, even at that date, knew the names or the addresses of their officers. In order that the act may be of any use, there must be the closest cooperation between the teachers and the attendance officers and that cannot be if the teachers are not officially informed as to the name and address of the officer. The maintenance of schools is now costing the people of the country a very large sum and it is perfectly obvious that if the attendance of children is only half what it should be, half the money is being wasted. To prevent that waste and secure for every child the schooling to which he is entitled, should be the aim of every good citizen. Every official should be vigilant and enthusiastic and should have the hearty support of all the people.

BIG MEETING AT YOUNG'S POINT

REFERENCE TO THE DRURY GOVERNMENT—THE SPEAKERS.

The National Liberal Conservative Party held a meeting at Young's Point last night. V. G. McElderry, Lt.-Col. (Trooper) Mulloy, Roland Denne and Donald Sutherland M.P. for South Oxford were the speakers.

Mr. McElderry spoke briefly pointing out that Premier Drury of Ontario had stated an obvious truth when he said the farmers organization was all right to advance the farmers economic interests but they should not attempt political rule.

Dealing with the assertion that the tariff was not the issue in the Peterboro bye-election. Lt.-Col. Mulloy pointed oue that aside from personalities which should not be indulged in, the only issue in an election is the written platform of the opposing parties. While these were divergent in points of minor importance they were in direct conflict on the tariff—hence the real issue.

Unemployment Situation.

Quoting the Minister of Labour, he stated that between October 15 last and December 31, 133,000 men had been laid off by the industries of Canada. During this 2 1-2 months Canada had imported appproximately $200,000,000 worth of American goods most of which could have ben produced by Canadian Labour in Canadian industrial plants. With two parties pledged to reduce the tariff is the tariff an issue to the labouring men of Peterboro and do not you farmers depend on Peterboro for a good deal of your markets, he asked.

M. Denne assured the electors of Smith township that if elected he would serve them in the same spirit as he had shown both in his business relations with them and in his former efforts on the public behalf referred to by previous speakers.

Mr. Donald Sutherland, who is a farmer supporter of the government dealt at length with the error in the conception of government by special group or class as being opposed to the spirit and practice of British democracy. Every man should be elected to serve all the people he said, and the best representative of the Canadian farms homes now in Parliament and the personification or not an eight hour day but an eighteen hour day, standing for government of all the people was the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada

FURTHER DECLINE IN RAW SUGAR IS NOW LOOKED FOR SPECULATIVE TRADE CIRCLES IN NEW YORK EXPECTANTLY AWAIT ANOTHER CRASH.

(Special to he Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The raw sugar market broke sharply yesterday on a sale of Cubas at four cents, or a drop of 5-16 of a cent, from the previous sale. The signal for the decline was made late Wednesday when a sale of 1,800 bags of San Domingoes ,afloat, was sold to the American Sugar Refining Comapny at 3 7-8 cents, c.o.f. Yesterday's sales included two lots of Cubas, one of 25,000 bags and the other of 8,000 bags, afloat, at four cents C and F to Arbuckle Brothers. This price of four cents compares with last year's low of 3 5-8 cents for Cubas. The market is weak in tone at present with the trade inclined toward the belief that further lots of Cubas will be forthcoming at the present figure or lower if refiners continue to hold off. It is pointed out that Cuban shippers may be in a position to offer even lower, inasmuch as the freight rate from Cuba has been reduced from 38 1-2 cents per 100 pounds to 20 cents. That the decline has not ended is believed in speculative trade circles, the opinion being based on the fact that there is a good deal of sugar on offer, more, in fact than there appears to be anything like a ready market for.

PUNISH SHORT INTERESTS IN STOCK MARKET

JUMP IN RIORDON PULP ASSOCIATED WITH STEPS IN THAT DIRECTION.

(Special to the Examiner)

MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—Another sharp jump in the price of Riordon Pulp and Paper shares in the local stock market to-day was generally associated with steps to punish the Short interest. Some days ago an upward movement in the stock was accepted as a step towards driving them in and another step was taken in the same direction yesterday afternoon when brokerage houses were called upon to make delivery of stock they had sold. It was found that some of them could not make delivery and they had to go into the open market to-day and bid for the stock with the result that in a short time the price ran up to a new high on the present movement around 160.

It is stated that one of the difficulties in which some brokerage houses found themselves was that they had borrowed stock from other brokers for the account of clients who desired to sell short which eventually had to be returned to the lender. This left them still technically short without the stock to make delivery if called upon to do so. This was the plight of some firms when called upon to deliver stock to-day A good deal of borrowing securities is going on all the time and nothing is apparently thought of the matter it being seldom that there is ever any trouble about returning them when desired even if it should be necessary to buy them in the open market in order to make the return.

In the case of Riordon, however, the situation is one of the notable exceptions to the rule. Always in moderate supplies in the street owing to the large private holdings the amount flowing has been materially received in the past few months. Riordon, was selling above 200 when the market commenced to slip last year and it took its share of the decline with the rest of the market, touching 126 at the extreme low. Evidently a number of people thought the stock was due to go even lower but apparently this view met with some contestation as he price continued to hold up as many believed "out of line".

"EVERYTHING IS LOOKING FINE"

REPORT FROM LABOR HEADQUARTERS.

"Everything is looking fine" said T. McMurray. Labour candidate in the five-cornered political engagement in West Peterborough to-day. Last night a rally was held in the committee rooms and every indication pointed to success. Labour like the other parties has a long agenda of meetings next week commencing Monday night in the G.W.V.A. hall when Joseph Marks of Toronto, secretary of the Independent Labour Party, H. Harper organizer of the Machinists Union will speak with local Labou leaders. Tuesday Mrs. Singer of Toronto, assisted by local men will address another meeting at the G. W. V. A. Hall. On Wednesday, Mr. McMurray will lead Mr. Tooms and Mr. Harper to doubtful Ennismore and on Thursday night, Mrs. Singer, Mr. McMurray and other speakers will hold a meeting at May's schoolhouse. May's schoolhouse saw the opening of Labour's rural campaign and on Thursday night it will see the conclusion. The G.W.V.A. is chartered by Labour for Friday night. Saturday afternoon and evening here the curtain will be drawn on the campaign.

CHICAGO GRAIN

United Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. — Wheat was unsettled to-day. The market started lower on selling induced by Goodman's revised figures on supplies. Good support from a leading elevator interest developed on the break and a sharp bulge was recorded but thereafter selling was encountered on every bulge and a see-saw trend was noted. March held well but the May weakened materially during the later trading.

There is a more friendly feeling towards the March because of light receipts, big premiums for the cash and the moderate stocks.

The governments' estimate of stock on hand Jan. 1st of 320,000,000 bushels was generally ignored. Local statisticians believe that some mistake has been made in calculations as the supply indicated does not conform with crop and carry over figures as well as the amount exported and reports of slow domestic demand. On the basis of the Government figures, domestic consumption must have been over 400,000,000 bushels. Seaboard said that Belgium bought their wheat in Argentia to-day. Cash premiums were unchanged.

Corn held fairly steady. Prices have reached a level where shorts are not inclined to press the decline much further. There was good buying around last night's colsing level to steady the market but hedging pressure came into the pit from buyers of the spot corn. Offerings to arrive have fallen off. The domestic demand was very slow and there were no export bids in the market.

Oats sympathized with corn. A rally followed an easier opening but every rally found offerings increasings.

Cash oats basis was unchecked.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. — Chairman John A. Richort of the Finance committee of the Chicago City Council has solved the problem of soothing the council into silence. At a recent meeting he passed around "all day suckers" and for an hour the aldermen sat baby fashion and licked them. It is said it was the quietest and most successful meeting on record.

NTERMEDIATES ARE NOW OUT OF THE O.H.A. RACE

The Peterborough Intermediates re neatly and scientifically elimin-d from the O.H.A. race at Lindsay t night when they were beaten 11 to by the fast Lindsay gang. The nners were as much better as the re indicates, and their capture of group title was decisive and clean t. The Petes have no excuse to r. They gave the best they had, d their best was not good enough—at is all there was to the battle. The was fast, the refereeing of Lou arsh was competent and impartial, d the Petes, with 350 fans from Pet-borough behind them, did not lack r support, so there are no alibis. e superior team won—that is be-nd argument.

Lindsay are a much improved team r last year. They are big and fast, perfecting a neat combination ck back like fiends and never stop ing. They had a wide margin r the Petes in back checking last ght, were quicker and more accu-te in their shooting, and had far re system around the nets. It was rely that the Petes were able to get ar away from the Lindsay forwards. o were back with every rush, both-ing the puck carrier so much that e Lindsay defence had a compara-ely easy task. Coombs, of course, s the head-liner in this department, d the persistency with which he bobbed up from nowhere to spoil a Peterborough rush was uncanny. He broke up attack after attack, and was always going. Lefty McElroy staged a magnificent game in centre. He showed more speed last night than ever before against the Petes, and his shooting was quick and accurate. Chuck Carew never played better hockey either against the Petes, while the subs., Stoddart and Lipsett, did not weaken the team any when they were on the ice. Flavelle and Green made a good defence, and O'Loughlin was effective as usual in the nets.

For the Petes, Ray Rose was the pick of the advance guard. He was always working, and his swift shots from the side were responsible for three of the Peterborough tallies. Red Sheehan, of last year's Juniors, was used on the defence, and the young-ster turned in a clever game. He never stopped trying, and the way he waded into Coombs and company tickled the Peterborough fans. Halpin worked his head off to turn the tide, while Murray made a lot of nice stops in the nets.

Lindsay led by 4 to 2 at the end of the first period, and at the end of the second were in front 7 to 2. Outside of a few moments early in the first session, the winners were always in front.

The game opened out fast, and play had hardly started when Carew drew a penalty for hooking Sheehan. Playing a man short, however, Lindsay were the first to score. Flavelle, Coombs and McElroy combined nicely, and although Murray stopped McElroy's shot, Flavelle slipped in and netted the rebound for the first counter.

Coombs was chased for interference, and while he was off the Petes pressed. O'Loughlin saved a goal by falling on the puck. A minute later Rose went down the boards and beat O'Loughlin with a pretty shot, tieing the score.

Coombs drew another penalty and was followed to the boards by Thornton. Then Lipsett was banished for tripping, and, playing five men to four, the Petes set the pace. Rose put them ahead when he again beat O'Loughlin from the side, and the score was 2 to 1.

Green came down alone, and, shooting as Sheehan crashed into him, beat Murray with the tieing goal.

Hambly drew a sentence for holding, and while he was off, Lipsett put Lindsay ahead with a swift shot from the side.

Rose was chased for holding. Lindsay increased their lead when Carew recovered the rubber from behind the Peterborough nets and slipped it out to McElroy, who scored easily. Just before the end of the period Jackson was penalized for tripping Coombs.

The Petes opened the second session a man short, and just after Jackson got back, George dumped Coombs, and was waved to the side. Carew put Lindsay further ahead when he circled across the Peterborough defence and scored a fast one in.

Green was the next player to draw a penalty, but the odd man advantage did not help the Petes, for Stoddard slapped the rubber past Murray from a face off in front of the Peterborough nets, and it was 6 to 2.

Rose and Flavelle got too strenuous and Referee Marsh gave them a rest. There was no scoring while they were off.

Just before the period ended Carew gave McElroy a neat pass close in, and the centre man made no mistake —7-2.

Early in the last session McElroy increased the gap by a swift shot from a scrimmage.

The Petes took a hand in the scoring, when George, after a three-man rush with Jackson and Rose, tallied from close in.

Sheehan took the rubber away from Coombs, and, going up alone, shot between the Lindsay defence pair for a nice goal. Score 8-4.

George was chased, and while he was off Lindsay scored again. McElroy did the trick on a swift shot. Halpin bodied Green, and both went down. McElroy flashed in from behind and beat Murray.

Tripping gave Lipsett a rest. Then Coombs scored on a side shot from a scrimmage and it was 11 to 4.

Murray slashed at McElroy with less than two minutes to go, and went off for the balance of the game, and Coombs accompanied him for shooting at Murray at point blank range after the bell had rung. The Petes got the last counter in spite of the absence of their goaler, when Rose scored on a pass from Halpin.

Just before time was called Carew drew a penalty for elbowing Halpin.

The summary:

First Period.

GREAT JUNIOR BATTLE WILL BE STAGED HERE TO-NIGHT

The Lindsay Juniors, accompanied by a big crowd of fans, are coming down on a special train to-night, confident of handling the local youngsters a repetition of the beating the Peterborough Intermediates received last night. The Peterborough kids, although three down on the round, hope to win out to-night, and it will be a great battle, with the biggest crowd of the season in attendance. Both teams are in good shape, and very confident, and the game should be a great exhibition.

CRESSMAN TEAM WON HOCKEY GAME

THE GAME WAS FAST, WITH LOTS OF ROUGH WORK.

An interesting game of hockey was staged last night at the Brock street rink when the Cressman team defeated the Young Men's Class of the Y.M. C.A. by a score of 6 to 5. The game was fast but far from clean; too much rough stuff was knocked out.

Both teams hit a fast clip. For the young men Miller was the best. He back checked and worked hard throughout the game. For Cressman's Cobb was the star, his lone rushes being a feature of the game.

Mr. C .Smalley refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

"RUDDIGORE"

"Ruddigore," the comic opera hit of New York last season, is coming to the Grand Theatre on Jan. 31st. This most brilliant musical success of many years in New York was pronounced by press and public as the funniest and most tuneful comic opera production in years. It will be heard in this city with an all-star cast of Broadway favorites, a fine chorus unequalled on the American operatic stage, and the company's own orchestra of selected musicians.

Since half the fun derived from witnessing "Ruddigore" is due to the many surprises of its unusual plot, no outline of its story is necessary. It is sufficient to say that it burlesques the extravagances of the familiar melodrama, the characters being take-offs of the old-fashioned types of men and women who strut their fretful hour upon the stage.

The cast of this production of "Rudigore" consists of George Bogues, Alice May Carley, Bertram Goltra, Marionne Godbout, Dan Marble, Joseph Florian, Eva Quintard and others, with a large chorus and the company's own orchestra. All these singers have the happy faculty of taking the audience into their confidence until everybody thinks they are themselves an actual part of the performance, or rather that it isn't a performance, but simply actual happenings.

When such an influential critic as Alexander Woolcott of the New York Times says that "it's the best show I ever saw in my life," little more need be said. During its run of over two hundred performances in New York it was seen again and again by many notable men and women. Indeed quite a number of them admitted that they had seen and enjoyed it at least a dozen times.

AT THE ALLEN

"O, Golly! I busted my sword on him and ran a hole clear through his B. D. V.'s."

The exultant tones of Johnny Jones rang through the hayloft during the filming of the second of the "Edgar" pictures, "Edgar's Hamlet," which comes to the Allen Theatre, commencing to-day. Johnny and Buddy Messenger put so much vim into the sword duel between Hamlet and the King that Buddy came out a little the worse for wear. In fact the fighting was so lively that Harry Penn, the colored boy who plays the Queen showed real consternation in his wildly rolling eyes—he never knew at what minute he might have an eye poked out with one of the wooden swords.

Last night in the Business Men's Five Pin League, the Grocers took two out of three, the Post Office winning the last game by three pins. For the Post Office Ballard was high man with 507, Cummer next with 490. For the Grocers Solomon was high with 602, R. Ross 580.

ENID BENNETT VERSATILE

"THE FALSE ROAD" CASTS STAR IN UNIQUE ROLE.

The last few pictures made by Enid Bennett have demonstrated the pretty star's versatility. In "What Every Woman Learns" she was a society woman. In "Stepping Out" she played the hard-working wife of a young penny-proud clerk. "The False Road," showing at the Allen Theatre Friday, casts her as a pretty girl-crook, member of a New York gang of "slick articles." She goes to Sing Sing to meet her sweetheart, who has just been released, after serving a two-year term, and is amazed when he tells her that he intends to go straight. After some exciting adventures she too sees the light, and they are made happy together.

Lloyd Hughes plays the leading male role. Fred Niblo directed the picture, which is a Thomas H. Ince production for Paramount Artcraft release.

ACCEPTED CHALLENGE.

The Ashburnham Boy Scouts' hockey team accepted the challenge of the St. James' Scouts, and played the challengers at Mark Street Rink last night. A snappy game resulted, with the score at the final standing; Ashburnham Scout 3, St. James' 10. The Southerners' parents were, indeed, lucky, as only three hearses were required to carry their warriors home.

The East City Scouts will accept the challenge of any other Scout team.

They Talk Tariff But They Mean PROFITS!

If the Reactionaries and the Profiteers themselves, instead of their paid agents, trooped into West Peterborough and tried to frighten the Electors into believing that the tariff was the issue in this campaign!!

Can you imagine it?—Impossible.

.... The forces that are behind the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government don't work that way.

Their method is exactly the performance the imported electioneering experts are putting on in the old Oriental Hotel.

These are the chore boys of the Meighenites and their powerful backers.

The Electors of West Peterborough knew for months before Christmas that THE ISSUE IN THIS BYE-ELECTION WAS THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF THE RULE OF THE PEOPLE.

There was no doubt about it then.

But the hirelings of the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government land in here with the Honourable Arthur Meighen, and at once the welkin rings with "Tariff, Tariff."

They are trying mightily, and with all the resources the profiteers have put at their disposal to make the people believe that black is white:

That the issue is not the right of the people to decide who shall govern them, but that it is the tariff.

Pleaders for the Profiteers

Look at these imported propagandists of the Profiteers, take a good look at the high-salaried staff who are operating from the old Oriental Hotel, and see them for what they are—

Identify them, and you discover the personal representatives of the sinister forces that would fasten Meighenism upon the Canadian people.

The voice is the voice of the Honourable Arthur Meighen, but the hand is the hand of the Profiteers.

The deception is so obvious that only those who will not see are blind to it.

They are all Saying:

Gordon Is The Man

G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE, declares that the issue in this Election is the RESPONSIBILITY OF THE GOVERNMENT TO THE PEOPLE, and not to this thing called Meighenism, which the Money Trust has foisted upon this country.

Is this fact not impressive—that the groups opposing the so-called National Liberal and Conservative Government are unanimous in declaring that it does not represent the Canadian people, and that it has no mandate from them?

Is the majority wrong—and this single intruding group right?

The Government can't defend the charge that they are usurpers, so they resort to what the Toronto Globe describes as "THE DESPERATE DEVICE OF A POLITICAL PARTY IN SORE STRAITS."

They try to sidetrack public opinion by shouting "Tariff, Tariff," when what they mean is "Profits, Profits."

A Sample of Profitering

Just as a reminder of how the profiteers have dipped their hands into every family's purse, consider the recent earnings of the Ogilvie Milling Company, manufacturers of flour:

Year Ending Aug. 31	Surplus for Common	P.C. Earned on Nominal Capital	Divid'ds and Bonus's Paid
1912	$ 276,431	11	$ 8
1913	331,734	13	8
1914	309,943	12	8
1915	1,379,594	55	8
1916	634,270	25	12
1917	1,218,847	48	25
1918	1,815,415	72	27
1919	1,492,516	59	27
1920	819,065	32	22

"Some profits this, in a commodity which is the basic element in the cost of living," comments the Toronto World. "In 1918 the company earned no less than 72.6 per cent. on the nominal capital, and the average earnings for the six years, 1915 to 1920 inclusive, were nearly 50 per cent. on the nominal capital. The shareholders certainly had no cause for complaint, and their dividends and bonuses for the last four years were just over twenty-five per cent.

A VOTE FOR GORDON IS A VOTE AGAINST THE PROFITEERS.

Liberal Publicity Committee

sense of the immediate purchasing power of the community, includes (a) the actual legal tender money in existence and (b) any promises to pay legal tender, e.g., as bank balances —which are available for ordinary daily transactions."

From the "inflation" of currency, (i.e., printing more paper money or creating fresh credit) which was one of the direct results of the war, there arose what has been called a "vicious spiral" of constantly rising prices and wages and constantly increasing inflation, with the resulting disorganization of all business, dislocation of the exchanges, a progressive increase in the cost of living and consequent labour unrest.

Therefore:

"It is of the utmost importance that the growth of inflation should be stopped, and this, although no doubt very difficult to do in some countries, could quickly be accomplished by (1) abstaining from increasing the currency (in its broadest sense) and (2) by increasing the real wealth upon which such currency is based."

Governments must limit their expenditure to their revenue. (We are not considering here the finance of reconstructing devastated areas).

Banks, and especially banks of issue, should be free from political pressure and should be conducted solely on the lines of prudent finance.

The creation of additional credit should cease and governments and municipalities should not only not increase their floating debts, but should begin to repay or fund them by degrees.

Until credit can be controlled merely by the normal influence of the rate of interest, it should only be granted for real economic needs.

Commerce should as soon as possible be freed from control, and impediments to international trade removed.

All superfluous expenditure should be avoided.

It is highly desirable that the countries which have lapsed from an effective gold standard should return thereto.

It is useless to attempt to fix the ratio of existing fiduciacy currencies to their nominal gold value.

Deflation, if and when undertaken, must be carried out gradually and with great caution.

We cannot recommend any attemot to stabilize the value of gold and we gravely doubt whether such attempt could succeed.

We believe that neither an international currency nor an international unit of account would serve any useful purpose.

We can find no justification for supporting the idea that foreign holders of bank notes or bank balances should be treated differently from native holders.

In countries where there is no central bank of issue, one should be established.

Attempt to limit fluctuations in exchange by imposing artificial control on exchange operation are futile and michievous.

We support the suggestion that: A committee could be set up for continuing the collection of the valuable financial statistics that have been furnished for the Conference and also the further investigation of currency policy.

The Commission on International Trade:

"The International Financial Conference affirms that the first condition for the resumption of international trade is the restoration of real peace, the general restoration as soon as possible of good-will between the various nations, and in particular endorses the declaration that the States which have been created or enlarged as a result of the war should at once re-establish full and friendly co-operation and arrange for the unrestricted interchange of commodities in order that the essential unity of European economic life may not be impaired by the erection of artificial economic barriers."

It expresses its conviction that the instability of the exchanges constitutes a great hindrance to the resumption of normal international trade, and would welcome any action which can be taken by the League of Nations to enable the countries which under present conditions cannot purchase the necessary supplies for their reconstruction temporarily to obtain commercial credits on an approved basis for this purpose.

It expresses the conviction that the repair, improvement and economical use of the transport systems of the world, and particularly of countries affected by the war, are of vital importance to the restoration of international trade.

The Commission on International Credits:

Recommends also the restoration of peaceful relations, and of order in public finance, the cessation of inflation, the purging of currencies, and the freedom of commercial transactions.

It recognizes that certain countries, to restore their economic activity, will require assistance from abroad, and, recommends that "in principle the resources out of which this assistance is to be provided should be found from the savings of the lending countries and must not result in undue increase of the fiduciacy circulation—that is to say, in the creation or extension of a despropartion between means of payment and the genuine requirements of business—and believes that this assistance should only be accorded to countries which are making every effort to bring about within their own frontiers the sincere collatboration of all groups of citizens and to secure conditions which give to work and thrift liberty to produce their full results.

"The Conference does not believe that, apart from particular decisions dictated by national interests or by considerations of humanity, credits should be accorded directly by governments.

"It appears to the Conference that one of the chief obstacles to the granting of credits is the absence in borrowing countries of sufficient security for ultimate repayment," and several proposals were submitted with a view to creating guarantees which would provide satisfactory security for exporters. A plan is here developed which has been devised to enable States to facilitate the obtaining of commercial credits by their nationals, and a recommendation is made that a committee of financiers and business men should be nominated forthwith by the Council of the League of Nations for the purpose of defining the measures necessary to give practical effect to this proposal.

of the existing system of export credit insurance is recommended as worthy of consideration, and attention is directed to the present system of "finishing credits," that is to say, of credits under which a lien in favour of the exporter or a banker is maintained on the raw material in all its different stages and upon the proceeds of the manufactured article. This system has suffered greatly owing to the lack, in many countries, of sufficient legal protection for the exporter throughout the various stages of importation, manufacture, re-exportation and sale.

The commission desires to draw attention to the advantages of making progress under each of the following heads:

(1) Unification of the laws relating to bills of exchange and bills of lading;

(2) The reciprocal treatment of the branches of foreign banks in different countries;

(3) The publication of financial information in a clear, comparative form;

(4) The examination of claims by the holders of bonds, the interest of which is in arrear;

(5) An international understanding on the subject of lost, stolen or destroyed securities;

(6) The establishment of an international clearing house;

(7) An international understanding, which, while ensuring the due payment by everyone of his full share of taxation, would avoid the imposition of double taxation, which is at present an obstacle to the placing of investments abroad.

In conclusion:

"During the course of its deliberations the Conference could not fail to be impressed by the fact that all, or almost all, of the many proposals submitted for its consideration require at some stage the active intervention of the League of Nations. The Conference is unanimously in sympathy with this tendency and believes that it is desirable to extend to the problems of finance that international cooperation which the League of Nations has inaugurated and which it is attempting to promote in order to improve the general situation and maintain the peace of the world."

AUDITORS' REPORT TO SHAREHOLDERS

We have compared the above Balance Sheet with the books and accounts at the Chief Office of The Dominion Bank, and the certified returns received from its Branches, and after checking the cash and verifying the securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches on December 31st, 1920, we certify that, in our opinion, such Balance Sheet exhibits a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs, according to the best of our information, the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the Bank.

In addition to the examinations mentioned, the cash and securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches were checked and verified by us at another time during the year and found to be in accord with the books of the Bank.

All information and explanations required have been given to us and all transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have, in our opinion, been within the powers of the Bank.

There will be a public holiness meeting at the Salvation Army Temple this evening, conducted by Adjutant and Mrs. Bunton. The subject for this meeting will be "Temptation to Sin." To every person who is interested in holiness of heart and life will derive much good by attending our Friday night holiness meeting. There's a call for greater fervor
When we seek the Lord in prayer;

From their sin and misery.

LINDSAY Jan. 28.—A deputation from the Trent Waterway Association waited on Victoria County Council on the question of advertising the Trent Waterway system in the three of the largest motor boat magazines in the United States. The object is to bring this beautiful scenic route impressively before the notice of people across the border planning a holiday water outing the coming summer. This county is asked to participate in the cost of a publicity campaign to the extent of $100. The question was referred to a committee.

WEDDING BELLS

CROFTS—PAYNE

A very pretty house wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Payne River Road when their eldest daughter Eva Isobel, was united in marriage to Mr. William Crofts, by Rev. J. F. Chapman, pastor of St. James Methodist Church. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of white satin, with veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and carnations. Miss Nellie Payne, sister of the bride, as maid of honor and Miss Phyllis Davis, sister of the groom as flower girl, were charming little attendants, dressed in blue satin. A corner of the parlor was banked with evergreens, and the bridal party stood under a large bell of evergeens interspersed with roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a check for $50, to her little attendants rings, and to the pianist, Mrs. J. F. Chapman, a pearl set brooch.

After congratulations, the guests to the number of about 70, partook of a sumptuous dejeuner.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, among them, a set of Old Colony teaspoons from the Sunday School Class of which she was a member. Mr. and Mrs. Crofts will reside in this city.

BREAK REPAIRED THIS AFTERNOON

The break in the water main on George street, which tied up the business section between Charlotte and Sherbrooke streets, was located to-day and inspection showed that the burst was probably caused through a defect in the service pipes leading to the vacant lot nearby. It is expected that the water will be turned on in the mains by 6 o'clock this evening. It was stated to-day that it is improbable that the property owners in the area effected will be enabled to hold the city for damages.

VOL. XLIX. NO 24 — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JANUARY 29, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

HAVE AGREED ON QUESTION REPARATION

DIVERGENT VIEWS OF FRANCE AND BRITAIN RECONSTRUCTED THROUGH BELGIAN INFLUENCE —SLIDING SCALE OF PAYMENTS.

PAYMENTS PROPORTIONAL

(Late Flash; Canadian Associated Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 29.— The Allied Supreme Council to-day approved the German reparations plan drafted by its special committee last night.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The session of the Committee of Experts of the Allied Supreme Council ended early this morning after having reached a complete agreement on the system of annual payments of reparations by Germany and annuities of Germany's foreign trade. It now remains only for the plenary sitting of the Supreme Council to endorse the agreement, draw up instructions for the Brussels experts, and fix the penalties for default by Germany.

The proposed scheme provides for the payment of annuities on a sliding scale of from 2,000,000,000 to 6,000,000,000 gold marks over a period of probably forty-two years, and also a 12½ per cent. ad valorem tax on Germany's exports, so that her creditors will be paid according to Germany's increasing prosperity.

The second ironing out of the differences came after two days of continual widening, that threatened to break up the conference, it being virtually suspended except for private conferences.

Official French circles give the Belgia delegation credit for the success in reconstructing the British and the French viewpoints.

The acceptance of the German reparations plan presented by its Expert Committee was believed to have been decided upon by the Supreme Council shortly after the beginning of the session this morning.

The Council met at eleven, with a decided relaxation from yesterday's tension noticeable. After it had been in session an hour, the military experts were called in to present their report on the German disarmament.....

This was generally accepted a indicating that the reparations plan had been approved, although there was no announcement to that effect.

Germany would be required to pay 226 billion gold marks in forty-two installments under the plan submitted to the Council by the special reparations committee. The first two installments would be two billion marks; next three, three billions; next three, four billions; next three, five billions, and the next thirty-one, six billion marks each. In addition Germany would be required to pay a twelve per cent. tax on her exports. This tax, calculated on the basis on German exports in 1913, would total a little more than a billion and a half gold marks. The plan submitted would place the task of collecting the tax on the Allied Reparations Commission.

The plan will be communicated to the Germans in a few days and they will be invited to a conference on February 28th to consider the terms. In the meantime the Council of experts will resume its sessions on February 7th. The penalties provided in the reparations plan are in general the same as under the Versailles Treaty, including both military and economic measures.

DOGS SAVE 16 PERSONS, LOSE OWN LIVES. — Photo shows the ruins of the Forum Building, Yonge and Gerrard streets, Toronto, which was destroyed by fire with a loss of $150,000. The lives of the 16 persons in the building were saved by the barking of two dogs which gave the alarm. The dogs were burned to death in the fire.

TO INCREASE INDEMNITIES

NO OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT BUT UNDERSTOOD LEGISLATURE MEMBERS TO GET BONUS OF $600 AS ASKED.

WOULD MAKE $2,000

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—While no official announcement has been made it is generally taken for granted around the Parliament Buildings that the Government of its own accord will propose at this session to grant members of the legislature bonus of $600. The continued high cost of living is given as the reason. At present members draw a salary of $1400. This plus the bonus will net them $2,000 this session. At the last session of the House the round robin was signed by nearly every member asking the government to increase the indmnity to $2,000. U.F.O., Labor, Liberal and Conservative alike not only signed it but in the House.

FATHER LOSES LIFE IN ATTEMPTING TO SAVE LIVES OF CHILDREN.

(Canadian Press.)

KINGSTON, Jan. 29. — Patrick Burns, aged 55, an employee of the Canada Locomotive Works, and his two little sons, Emmett and Stanley Burns, aged six and four years respectively, were burned to death last night in a fire which practically destroyed their little one and a half storey frame house on Queen Street.

Another child, Arthur, is in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, and Mrs. Burns is suffering severely from shock.

The fire started after midnight, and is supposed to have been caused by Burns throwing a lighted match among some paint cans stored under a stairway.

To save little Arthur's life, Burns threw the child through an upstairs window to the ground. Before this, he had carried his wife to safety, and had come back to try and save the children. One of them he did save from the clutches of the flames by adopting heroic measures, but overcome by heat and smoke he perished with the other two.

RE-ORGANIZE JUDICIARY?

INTERIM REPORT OF PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION PROPOSES RADICAL CHANGES IN POLICE COURT SYSTEM.

TO ELIMINATE MUCH

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Changes in the police court system of the province which would effect a radical alteration are proposed in the interm report by the Public Service Commission just submitted to the Attorney-General. The suggested scheme of re-organization practically involves the elimination of the Police Magistrate as the public knows him to-day. In his place would be a provincial or district magistrate specially qualified for the work and devoting his whole life to it with jurisdiction over a specified district. This jurisdiction would be exclusive except in cases where the Attorney-General saw fit to send in another magistrate to try certain case or where the magistrate invited another to assist him.

HIGH PRICES ON FARMERS' MARKET

BUTTER AND EGGS STILL IN HIGH PRICE ZONE.

There was a small market to-day. The basket market was unusually small at 10 o'clock, but the prices were high. Butter sold at 58c and 60c, and eggs at 68c to 75c. Eggs were still in the high price zone but showing a few signs of descending with the comfortable reach of the ordinary citizen. Chickens were priced from 35c to 40c a lb, and were the only fowl on the market.

Outside Market.

Outside the sun shone genially down through a spring like haze and it seemed hard to picture other years when the weather man was less kind. The is no sleighing and everywhere were buggies, wagons and automobiles. Meats bulked the agrarian display. Beef sold at 15c to 18c, and pork at 26c to 28c. Potatoes were fairly plentiful and could be had at $1.25 were taken, to $1.40 and $1.50 if a single bag was bought. Spy apples (the first on the market in many Saturdays) sold at $8 a barrel, Ben Davis were $5 and Greenings $6. There is little to tell of the last market in January. Mixed wood sold at $6 a small load, and hay was $30 a ton.

PORTABLE SEWING MACHINE.

A sewing machine which may be carried about in a small case is among the latest inventions. On a train recently a young woman after first employing her time over an afternoon paper, a magazine and a glance or two at the fleeting scenery, rang for the porter. She had a table set up, opened a small leather case, took out a miniature sewing machine, attached it up and was soon sewing away merrily.

She was a saleswoman for a sewing machine company and booked a dozen orders from passengers between stations.

A RECEPTION IS TENDERED TO FERGUSON

REMARKABLE TRIBUTE TO LEADER OF CONSERVATIVES IN ONTARIO HOUSE FROM PEOPLE OF HIS HOME TOWN, KEMPTVILLE.

WANTS OLD PARTIES

(Canadian Press.)

KEMPTVILLE, Jan. 29.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson received a remarkable tribute from his home town, Kemptville, last night, when over three hundred and fifty people sat down to a voluntary banquet prepared by the ladies of the town. When it is realized that Kemptville's total population is slightly over seventeen hundred, the zeal with which the ladies of the town labored in the matter can be realized. There were present twelve colleagues of Hon. Mr. Ferguson in the Legislature, all of whom spoke and praised the choir that led him to the head of the Ontario party.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson was received with ovation on rising. He praised British institutions and deplored the departure from these to the group system of government, now prevalent in Ontario, which, he hinted, could easily lead to the conditions of which Russia was such a glaring example. Considerable amusement was caused by the reading of a telegram fromA. Hartley Dewart, leader of the Ontario Liberal Opposition, in reference to Hon. Mr. Ferguson's speech Thursday in the Legislature: "Regret that I cannot be present but Ferguson has so tanned my hide that I feel quite flattened out."

NARROW ESCAPE WHEN HOUSE IS RAZED BY FIRE

INMATES OF SMITH'S FALLS HOME RESCUED BY LADDER WHEN ESCAPE CUT OFF.

(Canadian Press.)

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., Jan. 29.—A fine residence, the home of Mark Phillips, was completely destroyed by fire last night. In the house there were staying with Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, a niece, Mrs. Wendell Clark, of Ottawa, and two lady teachers of the Collegiate staff, Mrs. Thomas and Miss Sweeney.

At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were awakened by cries of fire from the street. They found the whole lower part of the house in flames, and no avenue of escape down the stairs.

Mr. Phillips got out through a window to the balcony, and dropped to the ground. Getting a ladder, he climbed to the windows of the young ladies, who were not yet aware of the fire.

The flames were coming up into their rooms when Mr. Phillips aroused them, and escaping by a ladder in bare feet and clad only in their night clothes, they had to go to neighbours' houses.

Everything in the house, including all clothing, jewellery, and other possessions of the inmates, were lost.

FORDNEY BILL SIDE-TRACKED

BELIEVED BILL WHICH WOULD SHUT OUT CANADIAN WHEAT FROM U.S SHELVED.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. — Hope that the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill would come to a vote in the Senate at this session had been practically abandoned by the proponents to-day, when the measure dame up for what was generally believed to be its final day of debate in that body.

With the appropriation measures crowding for passage, the leaders were understood to have definitely decided to put aside the measure which would shut out Canadian wheat, and take up the money bills when Senate convenes on 'Monday.

That the Bill could be brought before the Senate again was admitted by the proponents to be doubtful, in view of the opposition which has met the Act thus far.

LARGE RALLY OF LIBERAL WOMEN HELD

MEETING IN G.W.V.A. HALL LAST NIGHT ADDRESSED BY MRS. MARY CARPENTER, OF HAMILTON, AND MRS. W. H. FERGUSON, OF TORONTO.

LIBERALISM EXPLAINED

A large and appreciative audience of women attended the meeting in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening, to hear the address of Mrs. Mary Carpenter, of Hamilton, President of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, and Mrs. W. H. Ferguson, of the Women's Liberal Association of Toronto.

Mrs. Robt. Harstone occupied the chair in her usual efficient manner, and opened the meeting with a few concise and well-chosen words on the importance of the franchise for women, saying that a woman's vote should not be merely a duplicate of a man's, and that principle, not expediency, should be the watchword.

Clarity of Thought.

Mrs. Carpenter's address evidenced a clarity of thought and purpose often entirely absent from the speeches of the stronger sex. After complimenting the organizer, Miss Helen Doherty, of Ottawa, on the fine organization which has developed, she asked her audiece to do their utmost to help with the good kork. "Woman suffrage "is the most important constitutional "reform since Confederation, but this "sceptre in our hands may be used "for good or ill. You cannot get far "in politics if you only think, and do "nothing, or are mere echoes of men. "Women should study the principles "of each party, and then align themselves with that party which stands "for the principles they would like to "see in force. We are either going to "justify or jeopardize our vote according to the intelligence we display "in using it."

The Main Issue.

The main issue of this election, which is not the tariff, but the right of the present government to be in existence without a direct mandate from the people, was then explained in a simple, intelligible way, without frills or those misleading flowers of rhetoric which platform speakers of the sterner sex are wont to use to colthe simple facts. The tariff issue was discussed in the same manner and the statement that the present government that the present government stands for the rights of the classes against the masses in this regard was backed up by concrete examples: cotton, a necessity of the poor, sago, rice and similar food stuffs, are marked out for a high rate, while the tariff on the luxuries of wealthy life, such as silk, velvet, grape fruit, hot house cucumbers, and American Beauty roses is is low.

"Blue Ruin."

In 1896, the cry of "blue ruin" if the Liberals came into power rang through the land, but when this very thing transpired, there followed a splendid wave of industrial prosperity. An illusion was made to the international reputation of the Hon. Mackenzie King in labour circles, and to his book on the Labour question, which has been translated into more languages than any book on this subject in print to-day.

"Liberalism is the bulwark against "Bolshevism," said the speaker, and quoted from a pamphlet by Lord Aberdeen, entitled "Liberalism, the Christianity of Politics."

While many people contend that present day politics are too dirty for women to meddle with, that is all the more reason why we should help in cleaning things up, and to attain this end the speaker requested the aid of her hearers in electing Mr. Gordon on the 7th of February.

"An Appalling Fact."

Mrs. Ferguson followed with a humorous, heart-to-heart talk which captivated her audience, evidencing also that single-minded earnestness which marked the utterances of both women. She said that it was an appalling fact that the twentieth century had dawned on the world before women received the franchise and quoted the first chapter of Genesis, which gave to both (not one only) of our first

Progressive Party Held Mass Meeting Grand Opera House

DR. AGATHA DOHERTY, who was married in London, Eng., to W. J. Wyatt, a prominent English financier. She is a sister of Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

FIRST GUN IN CAMPBELL'S CAMPAIGN IN THE CITY FIRED LAST NIGHT—WOULD LOWER TARIFF—HAVE LITTLE FAITH IN THE OLD PARTIES.

APPEAL TO FARMERS

A mass meeting in the interests of Mr. J. C. Campbell, National Progressive Party nominee, was held last evening in the Grand Opera House.

The chair was filled by Mr. A. B. Cunningham, who said that the name of the farmers' party was changed to the National Progressive Party because of the scope of its policy, and to do a wider service in Canada. Speaking of the evident division between the city and country he said that the country understood the city better than the city understood the country.

The Candidate.

Mr. J. C. Campbell was the next speaker. He was glad to see, he said, that the disqualification trouble had passed over and he hoped they would understand his position.

He discredited the government's form of taxation and he believed that a better form of taxation would be to tax unused lands in both city and country. There are millions of acres in the west held for speculation and this should be heavily taxed. "The government is a big interest government and it can't be denied," he said. If the government taxed the land it would have to be tilled or sold for valuable use, and not left idle as now. The speculative land tax would also benefit the city by encouraging building on unused land.

"Took Their Loss."

On this year's crop, he said, the farmers had taken their loss and the "masters of organs" in the city should take their loss as well. As their forefathers had cleaned up the land, their party, he declared, was now out to clean up the government. He said the soldiers were not given the treatment they should have been. They were denied the consideration they should have been given, but after the men had gone home the members grabbed $1,500 each for themselves in salary. Both parties at Ottawa were the same. The Opposition made no opposition to the soldiers' treatment, he said, and yet the leader of the Opposition grabbed $10,000 for his own pocket.

Appeal to the Electors.

He appealed to the electors of the city to allow an agrarian to represent this riding once in the House of Commons. He disclaimed against the government's immigration policy in allowing foreigners to enter this country and bring about a stagnation period. He declared "the big interests" did this to lower the wage scale in the spring. Touching on the textile industries of Canada he said they they made greater profits than any other industry and he produced statistics to show that one company made 310 per cent. profit, but paid only the lowest wages possible.

The government manipulated this by-election so that the weather would be the most unfavourable, Mr. Campbell charged. It could as well have been held earlier.

Farmers' Movement.

Rev. E. E. Watson, M.P.P., traced the farmer movement to the desire by agrarian for higher ideals in politics. Launching into a discussion on trade he said competition was not the life of trade to-day, but co-operation. Approaching combinations and trusts, which he said had effected wholesale profiteering, to illustrate Mr. Watson read a letter sent July 3, 1920 to a certain person, from the secretary of the wholesale grocers, recommending the appointment of W. F. O'Connor, K.C., as chairman of the newly created Board of Commerce. Mr. O'Connor was recommended as a very suitable man and in every way his appointment was being pressed. Finally it was made.

Board of Commerce.

The Board of Commerce he likened to a jockey horse on a stage, lots of action but no motion. This matter was only one section of the whole system of combination, he said. The old party system, he declared, was controllable by the same interests who controlled the prices of the necessities of life. At Ottawa, he said, Canada should have another man like Premier E. C. Drury, whom he eulogized highly after paying flowery tributes to the farmers of this Dominion.

Before concluding he said he wanted to speak on prohibition. Things were fairly satisfatcory, he said under the order-in-council prohibiting importation of liquor into Ontario. On Oct. 26 the Farmer government went into power. On Jan. 1, for some reason or other, the order-in-council was rescinded and a deluge of liquor was allowed to be poured into Ontario, knowing that Ontario would only provide a channel to the United States. The Ontario government asked for a referendum and was assured of one in a year, but for no adequate reason whatever they postponed the referendum till this spring. He charged the Dominion government did this just to

ELECTION IN BRITAIN, MAY

LONDON TIMES SAYS THAT LLOYD GEORGE HAS SENT INSTRUCTIONS TO COALITION MACHINE FOR ELECTION IN MAY.

TO REDUCE BUDGET?

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Lloyd-George, says the London Times, has sent instructions from Paris for the Coalition Party machinery to be ready for a general election in May or June, after the introduction of the Budget early in April.

It appears, the newspaper comments, that the Prime Minister and the Chancellor of the Exchequer have decided it is possible to introduce a Budget of £950,000,000, which would allow a considerable remission of the taxation, and thus afford a favourable opportunity for appealing to the country.

TRADE DWINDLED IN MOST ISSUES

WEEK IN STOCK MARKET SAW ACTIVITY ONLY IN SPECULATIVE STOCKS—INVESTMENT MARKET MUCH IMPROVED.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. — Trading dwindled almost steadily in the stock market this week, the only activity being in issues of a more speculative character under pool or professional control.

Oil furnished the preponderance of dealings, especially the Mexican division, although the movement was largely regulated by further reductions in the prices of raw and refined products.

Steels, railway equipments, and various shares which are governed by the course of industrial conditions, were not especially responsive to the financial statements issued by the United States Steel and the Bethlehem Corporations. Optimistic views of the executives of these companies were given strength to by a moderate revival of activity at the mill centres, but increased consumption seems to be waiting on lower price schedules.

Conditions in the investment market show a visible improvement, as evidenced by the speedy sale of such important underwritings as the Pennsylvania railroad bond offering, Belgian lead, and the more moderate issues of industrial companies and domestic municipalities.

The interest in the foreign exchange market centred mainly in the strength of British remittances, which rose to their highest quotations in over half a year. There were concurrent advances in rates to Continental Europe, according to a popular report bearing close relation to the meeting of the Reparations Commission.

REBELLION IN STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once ends Indigestion and Sour, Acid Stomach

Lumps of undigested food cause pain. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralise acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the pain, acidity, indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless stomach antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.

EUGENIE REMEMBERED MUSEUM.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The executors of the will of the late Empress Eugenie upon opening the document, found in it a small sealed package marked, "For the Carnavalet Museum," and containing a magnificent jewel representing the arms of the City of Paris.

When the Empress Eugenie visited Paris in 1913 she spent an afternoon in the museum and was so touched by the affectionate and cordial welcome she received that she promised that she would remember the museum in her will. This museum is largely a municipal rather than a national collection and the Empress desired in this way to express her affection for the City of Paris.

Salvation Army Bandsman's Testimonial in Favour of

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 23 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I had tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly grateful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all." It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and watch the results. Price, 25c, 50c and $1 per box at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough.

SCHOOL CONDITIONS IN WEST PETERBORO ARE ENCOURAGING

INSPECTOR G. E. BRODERICK REPORTS HE HAS NOT EXPERINCED THE SHORTAGE GENERALLY COMPLAINED OF IN THE PROVINCE.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS

Mr. G. E. Broderick, Public schools Inspector for West Peterborough, presented to the County Council in session this week his report for last year as follows:

The inspector made the required number of visits—200 in all—and visited each school twice with the exception of No. 1, Cavendish, and No. 7, Galway, one of which was closed when the other schools of the north were visited.

The inspector here gave the qualifications of and salaries paid teachers in Smith, Ennismore, Harvey and Galway, together with the approximate grants on salaries under the present scheme of distribution. The report also showed the following total enrolments and average attendance in the several townships:

Township.	On Roll.	Average.	P.C.
Smith	431	273	63
Ennismore	100	466	47
Harvey	214	118	50
Galway	79	43	54

Situation in West.

The report here went on to define the encouraging situation as to teachers in Mr. Broderick's field. For, while editorial comment in a leading Toronto daily says that Ontario needs six hundred additional qualified teachers, whatever be true of the Province there has been no appreciable shortage in his own inspectorate. In Peterborough West at the present time one school is, as usual, closed for the winter months. Of the remaining twenty-six teachers, three are limited thirds teaching in schools for which their certificates do not qualify them chiefly through the accident of teachers resigning at Christmas, and one is a temporary. There may be a shortage of teachers in the Province, but in his inspectorate the situation is more encouraging than at any previous time. On the other side of the inspectorate conditions are not so favourable. With a Normal school in the centre of our territory, it is absolutely certain that every school may secure a qualified teacher at midsummer if Boards be awake to the situation, if they be prompt in acting, and offer salaries reasonably demanded by qualified teachers and fully justified by the very liberal grants now paid by the Legislature.

Government Grants.

These grants are of three kinds:

(1) A fixed grant varying from $20.00 to $30.00, according to assessment. Where the assessment is $50.00 or more there is no fixed grant.

(2) A general grant on salary which varies from 20 per cent. of all salary from $400.00 to $600.00 in sections with one hundred thousand assessment up to 40 per cent. of salary from $100.00 to $600.00 in sections having an assessment below $30,000.

(3) A special or supplementary grant on salary, which was in 1920 distributed as follows:

(All sections in the Province were divided into six groups, according to assessment).

Group One—Sections having less than $20,000 assessment.

Group Two—Sections having $20,000 but less than $40,000.

Group Three—Sections having $40,000 but less than $60,000.

Group Four—Sections having $60,000 but less than $100,000.

Group Five—Sections having $100,000 but less than $300,000.

Group Six—Sections having $300,000 or over.

In group one there is no special grant on salaries below $300.00; in group two, below $400.00; in group three, below $500.00; in group four, below $600.00; in group five, below $700.00; in group six, below $800.00.

In each group the percentage of salary paid by the Government runs from 5 per cent. to 40 per cent., according to the salary paid. Of course, the higher the salary the higher the percentage paid.

In group one the percentage was paid on all salary above $100.00; in group two, $130.00; in group three, $200.00; in group four, $350.00; in group five, $500.00; in group six, $800.00.

To illustrate the working out of this grant scheme, suppose that a school section in group five were paying only seven hundred dollars, the special grant would be 5 per cent. of $200.00 or $10.00. If the same section were paying $800.00, the grant would be 10 per cent. of $300.00 or $30.00. If the salary were $900.00, the grant would be 20 per cent. of $400.00 or $80.00. If the salary were $1,000, the grant would be 40 per cent. of $500.00 or $200.00. That is to say, a section in group five can raise its salary from $800.00 to $1,000 at a cost to the section of only $30.00.

A section in group five now paying $900.00 earns under the present scheme a grant of $80.00. By raising its salary to $1,000, it will earn $200.00, a clear gain to the section of $20.00. If a section be now paying $950.00, its grant will be $90.00. By increasing its salary to $1,000 (fifty dollars), the grant will be increased $110.00, a clear gain of $60.00.

High Salary is Economy.

It is true of all groups that it is good economy to place the salary high enough to earn the 40 per cent. grant. The total Government grant in West Peterborough for 1920 was $11,308.00.

The whole scheme is a cleverly devised plan for inducing rural Boards to pay the salaries to which competent teachers are entitled. The response to the Government's efforts to secure higher salaries has been in West Peterborough very encouraging. Already two-thirds of the schools are paying from $900.00 to $1,200.00, and I fully expect a still more general adoption of a higher remuneration for competent teachers.

We are frequently asked whether the same method of distributing grants will prevail in 1921. To this question no categorical answer can be given. The Government has made no announcement as to its plans for this year.

The report here drew attention to a disparity in the rate of taxation in the different municipalities, running from a shade over 6 mills in one section and to a trifle under 30 mills in another, and expressed the opinion that some scheme should be adopted by which school taxes would be uniform over a large area.

TEAMSTERS MUST SECURE LICENSES

Acting upon numerous complaints by the carters of the city that unlicensed teamsters were doing considerable work in this city, Chief of Police Newhall found that many teamsters were employed in hauling ice who did not have the necessary license. A policeman secured the names of four men working for a local ice company who were not licensed, and one of the men was summoned to appear before Magistrate Dumble on Monday.

After consulting his lawyer, the man decided to secure a license, but he will have to appear before the Magistrate notwithstanding.

Licenses, secured at the City Hall, are $7.50 for a team and $5.00 for a single horse. The city by-law states that all carters must secure the required licenses and the Chief of Police intends to carry out the law to the last letter.

As H. P. Lindsay, the local issuer of motor licenses, is temporarily out of application forms, several days' more grace has been granted by the Chief to motorists to secure the license and number plates.

OPEN MEETING OF THE BABIES' CLINIC

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. N. H. SUTTON.

At the open meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic held on Tuesday last Miss Beamish, superintendent of Nicholl's Hospital showed how a tent could be erected over a baby's cot in cases of croup, and the best method of treating croup in such cases. She afterwards demonstrated how an umbrella and sheet could be converted into a simple device for the same purpose.

Dr. Sutton's Address:

Dr. N. H. Sutton gave a splendid address on the feet of babies and children, first demonstrating what the normal foot should be. Later he showed how hollow feet are caused and the arch spoiled of its beauty and usefulness in very young infants by the use of shoes or stockings which are too short, which have a tendency to contract the soft bones of the foot, thereby producing what is known as a hollow foot. The defect, the doctor observed, is more marked in later years and there are thousands of cases which have been examined by him which were directly attributable to the use of boots too short for the foot. In such cases the toes become doubled and sore.

He then dealt with club feet in infants and showed how it could be remedied or prevented if taken in time. He warned mothers against allowing heavy children to stand on their feet too soon as this is apt to produce bow legs.

Knock knees, he said, are a condition resulting from rickety bones. If a child were brought to the clinic this condition would be immediately noticed by one of the doctors and the mother instructed on how to remedy the deformity.

A number of questions were asked the doctor about feet. In answer to a query as to what is the proper boot Dr. Sutton said that it must be a boot close fitting about the ankle to about the middle part of the foot, the rest of the boot loose and easy and sufficiently long. Steel and other apparatus used in the boot are harmful as they do not yield sufficiently to the spring of the foot.

In reply to a question as to the cause of calluses, the speaker said that such were due to the breaking down of the front arch of the foot to a certain extent. Corns are caused by friction and by ill-fitting boots. Several mothers asked about special cases, which the doctor fully explained.

King's Daughters.

Mrs. N. H. Sutton and Miss M. English were hostesses of the afternoon for the King's Daughters and served tea.

It was announced that the regular clinic will be open every Tuesday from 3 o'clock until 5.

Literature Expected.

It is expected that literature will be issued to mothers attending the clinic on subjects especially dealing with children and their proper care. The pamphlets, which will be written by experts employed by the Government, will be invaluable to mothers, containing, as they will, the latest knowledge of childrens health.

ARE GIVING BONUSES.

The management of the Pembroke Shook Mills, Ltd., show a very considerable interest in the welfare of the company's employes. This week they are giving out bonuses earned during the last six months of 1920. These represent ten per cent. of the wages of those who remained steadily during that period and will aggregate $8,000. Instead of handing the money over to the men direct, the company is opening a savings account in the Royal Bank for each one of the employes entitled to a bonus, and the amount earned will be placed to the credit of their individual accounts.

WHY NO GENERAL ELECTION

Why this Government with a mandate from nobody refuses to go to the country, and what part I took in the G. T. R. deal when the proper time came, will be apparent from the following. As recorded on page 1728 Hansard, Vol. 2, 1919, Second Session, (to be seen at the Peterborough Public Library), Mr. Campbell, M.P., moved:

"12. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Bill the value of the four per cent. stock of the Grand Trunk amounting to twelve milion five hundred thousand pounds ($62,000,000) shall be submitted to arbitration."

On p. 1739 appears my vote supporting this resolution which was voted down by the Government. The arbitrators' hands were tied. It was the whole G.T.R. deal in a nutshell.

Sec. 5 of the Bill as amended, read:

"The present guaranteed stock and the new guaranteed stock, or any part theerof, may be called in or redeemed by the Government at par . . . . . " Why at par?

Extract from Mr. Cahill's speech: "In the book furnished us by the Government, it is shown that for 1918 no dividends were paid on the guaranteed stock, none on the first preference, none on the second preference, none on the common stock." And yet Sec. 5 says, "at par"!

As I have repeatedly said, I notified Mr. Meighen that I would even be a candidate in support of the government if he would recognize my right to demand an appeal to the People. But that would have settled too many things. At no time have I in any way compromised my right to demand that the people be given a chance to say what they want.

There is now no Conservative party in Parliament, hence if elected I will sit on the cross-benches as an independent. This Government declines to be responsible to any party or any People. It is just a little tea-party of its own. The People just pay the taxes. That is to be their sole privilege apparently.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 29, 1921.

THE U.F.O. MEETING.

The interest that the people of Peterborough are taking in the bye-election and the commendable desire they ...e evincing of hearing the arguments ... all the different groups, was shown ... the large attendance at the meet... of Mr. J. C. Campbell, U.F.O. candidate, in the Grand Opera House last ...ght, in spite of the hockey game and ...any other attractions. The platform ... the Farmers' or the National Pro...ressive Party, as they prefer to be ...lled, was set forth by Mr. R. W. E. ...urnaby, the president of the United ...armers of Ontario, and by other ...peakers, and for many of the city ...eople in the audience it was the first ...pportunity they had of hearing the ...olicy of the Agrarian Party explain... by one of the leaders in the move...ent. Mr. Burnaby is an able speaker ...d made an excellent impression, ...en on those who may disagree with ...m in regard to the political situa...on. Four of the five parties involved ... the bye-election have now discussed ...eir policies before Peterborough ...udiences, and Mr. Burnham will com...lete the list next Wednesday night ...hen he is announced to hold his one ...nd only meeting of the campaign.

AN INTERESTING MOTION.

An interesting situation promises to ...evelop in the Legislature as a result ... Mr. Dewart's resolution calling up... the Legislature to affirm its ad...erence to the principles of respons...le Government. According to the ...oronto Star, usually well informed ... to the activities of the Drury Gov...rnment, the U.F.O.-Labour adminis...ration will not dodge the issue, but ...ill treat the motion as one of lack ... confidence, and defy the Opposi...on groups to force a general elec...on by outvoting the Government. ...he membership of the House is even... divided, and were the Conservative ...embers to vote for Mr. Dewart's ...esolution, there would be created a ...risis that might cause the resignation ... the Government. The whole thing ...inges on whether or not the old par...es are anxious to force a general ...lection just now. The Premier be...eves that they are not eager for a ...attle of ballots, and feels on safe ...round in courting a show-down on ...he issue raised by the Liberal leader. ...evertheless, it is an unusual situa...ion, and the people generally will ...wait the introduction of Mr. Dewart's ...otion with much interest.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

The directors' report of the Toron...o Savings and Loan Company, pre...ented at the annual general meeting ...f the company, held yesterday, was ...ndoubtedly most satisfactory to the ...hareholders, for the thirty-sixth an...ual report shows that the past year ...as been a most prosperous one, in...icating sound business methods and ...ood judgment on the part of those in ...harge of the company's affairs. It is ...parent that the affairs of the Toron...o Savings and Loan Company were ...ever in a more healthy condition. ...During 1920, after the payment of in...erest on deposits and debentures, ...nd after all the expenses of manage...ent had been met, the directors are ...ble to show net earnings of $155,-...24.75—a splendid profit on the year's ...perations. With the balance brought ...orward from the profit and loss ac...ount from the preceding year a total ...f $198,818.13 was avaliable, which was ...isposed of by the payment of four ...uarterly dividends at the rate of 12 ...er cent. for the year, and of a bonus ...f 2 per cent. for the year on $1,000,-...00 paid up capital, leaving a balance ...n the profit and loss account to be ...arried forward this year of $58,818.13. The strength of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company is further indicated by the fact that the reesrve fund stands at $1,100,000.00, which is $100,-000 more than the paid up capital. The report must from all viewpoints be considered one of the most satisfactory presented at an annual meeting o fthis flourishing company.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE

Taking as we may the Annual Report of an institution as large and important as the North American Life as a guage of financial conditions, we have reason to view with optimism the outlook for the future. In every importane feature of the business marked increases were made After pointing out the great strides in business written, the President, Mr. L. Goldman, at the recent annual meeting of Directors and Policyholders referred with just pride to the Company's assets now amounting to $20,041,882.64. After liabilities have been fully provided for there is a substantial net surplus of $2,609,827.21, establishing beyond a doubt the unexcelled financial position of the Company.

Policies issued and revived during the year amounted to $24,363,971 which sum is over $2,150,000 in excess of the previous year's business. The total assurance now in force amounts to $99,600,473, the highest mark reached in the Company's history.

The management of the Company bend every effort towards advancing the interests of the Policyholders. During 1920 over $2,163,000 was paid to Policyholders. Of this amount $424,948.52 represented Dividends and at the same time the Company announces that the Dividends payable in 1921 will be on the same liberal basis. It is to be noted that during the past ten years this company has paid the sum of $2,565,164.43 as Divjdends or Surplus to Policyholders. A survey of the 40th Annual Report must renew the sense of pride and security which every North American Life Policyholder enjoys.

Mr. G. A. Benor of the Royal Bank Chambers, is the District Agent of the Company.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE PRESS.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, one of the several candidates in West Peterborough, is holding no public meetings to help along his candidature, and for the very good reason, as he puts it, that the Press has superseded these public meetings and he can do more good to himself and his cause by using the newspapers than by wasting his efforts at public gatherings. To quote his own words:

"Formerly there was no rural mail and no city delivery. Election meetings, no matter how small in attendance, were necessary to rouse the people, but now I can address through the press twenty thousand people every day and over my own signature as a pledge of what I say. The day of meetings is past. The press has superseded the platform."

Here is a new line of thought for those people who aspire to public office—here a hint to those who are not "spellbinders" or platform orators as to how they may get in touch with the people in a more simple and direct way ,and for that matter in a more lasting and effective way, for undoubtedly the printed word carries more weight than the spoken words and is much longer remembered.

Mr. Burnham is a more or less erratic genius and he is not likely to be elected in the present contest, because all the big forces are arrayed against him and he has no organization behind him. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that there is both force and reason in what he says of the Press and of the influence it now wields as compared with other days when newspapers were not so generally read and were more organs and political mouthpieces, as they happily no longer are. Where the platform speaker reaches only hundreds an appeal through the newspaper reaches thousands. Indeed, most so-called public speeches are made largely in the hope and expectancy that they will be reported in the Press. Without such reports their influence would be woefully circumscribed—but the Press, being the Press, plays it part fairly and honestly and gives even at the expense of its own pocketbook, publicity that quite often and quite properly should be paid for. Better far that it should err on that side than that it should rest under the imputation of being "bought."—Kingston Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Now that the hockey teams are out of the running, Peterborough will begin to take an interest in the election.

Speaking of mandates, the Lindsay Juniors certainly didn't have one to win the round.

The "embattled farmers" having been heard, Mr. Burnham is the next in order. He will try his power as a drawing card against Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Chas. Murphy, M.P., on Wednesday night next.

There is nothing in those mother-in-law jokes. Here is a Toronto man who carried his wife's mother out of a burning building. And there was lots of her, too—260 pounds, to be exact!

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Poland is to get more than 35,000 bales of Australian and New Zealand wool under a contract signed with the British Director-General of Raw Materials. Poland is to give bonds for £1,500,000 as payment to the International Committee for Relief Credits, which will finance the affair.

The Polish Government has agreed not to requisition the manufactured goods and plans to have most of the cloth held for export trade.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The open season for votes is drawing to a close.

Silence may be golden but the professional politician won't admit it.

Wonder whether the cynic who termed women the "weaker sex" ever has occasion to argue with one.

The Toronto Star says there are so many candidates in the Peterborough election that it looks like a boy's race at a picnic. Not a Sunday School picnic, surely.

The reports that Hartley Dewart and G. Howard Ferguson almost agreed recently when attacking the Drury Government, will make many believe that the millenium has come.

A New York alienist claims that the insanity epidemic can be traced to moonshine whiskey. And when there is the matrimony epidemic which can be traced to another form of moonshine.

The head of the Doukhobors in Canada is now advocating a blood diet as a substitute for meat. There will probably be quite a little blood which he might procure when Howie Ferguson gets through nailing those hides to the fence.

Two prominent and gifted ladies passed their opinion on those Inglewood kissing stunts. The married lady disapproved and the single lady approved. What is the answer?—Toronto Star.

The Trying Days

IT has been well said, a school teacher has more influence in shaping the lives of her scholars than their parents.

How necessary, then, is it that she should have a bright, clear brain, and be strong and vigorous in order that she may give them of her best.

The worry and the work, the strain and anxiety of a teacher's life are such as tell severely on the nervous system. Time and again teachers have had to give up good positions on account of a weak heart, run down health and shattered nerves.

To such Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills come as a boon and a blessing.

Their purpose is to make the weak heart strong and the shaky nerves firm, and thus build up the entire system to full strength and vitality.

Miss L. E. Hopkins, Kirkton, Ont., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for weak heart. I was so nervous I had to leave school for two years. After I had taken five boxes of the pills I was able to go back to my school again, feeling in good health."

$200,000,000 worth of goods, most of which could have been produced in Canada by Canadian labour. With two of the candidates who are opposing Mr. Denne pledged to the lowering of the tariff,

IS IT AN ISSUE OR IS IT NOT?

What is the moral to be gathered from the present situation? Simply this, that Canadian people must buy more of the home product. It follows then that Canadian industries must be adequately protected from the influx into Canada of the surplus stocks from the United States. And this incidentally is the one and only way

TO PROTECT CANADIAN LABOUR.

Canada bought more from the United States last year than she sold by between $400,000,000 and half a billion. Think how much better Canada's position would be to-day if that huge balance of purchases against had been spent by Canadians in Canada. There is not an industry in Peterborough, there is not a workingman in the city, who would not have greatly benefited.

And yet Mr. Mackenzie King, and naturally his henchman, Mr. G. N. Gordon

ARE PLEDGED TO LET FREE INTO CANADA

the principal articles of food, including wheat, wheat flour, and all the products of wheat and machinery. And the Liberal Party has rashly promised (according to its solemnly-drawn-up platform) to bring in legislation to implement this promise whenever they are returned to power. No wonder that the Liberal Party's aim in the present bye-election is to befog the issue—for them.

ANYTHING, ANYTHING BUT THE TARIFF.

Admitting that the contention is correct that the Liberal Party stands for Free-trade, as far as "the principal articles of food and machinery" are concerned, as a perusal of the Liberal platform will show, is it not fair to predict the curtailment of the activities, if not the complete ruin, of many of Peterborough's industries? Let the workingman, whose interests and those of his family are so closely knit with the interests of the man for whom he is working, closely scrutinise the whole question for himself, and give the answer.

BRIEF RECORD OF THE GOVERNMENT SINCE 1917

Electors Please Read This Carefully

Canada's head was held up proudly throughout the whole period of the war. No country did more proportionately; none did its part better; and no troops made a more glorious and enviable record than those of Canada. Everything humanly possible was done, and well done, by the Government to keep our fighting forces up to strength, to provide our soldiers with everything they needed for their welfare and comfort. Even the most bitter opponents of the Government have never uttered a word which they have been able to make good.

A War Trade Board supervised the production and distribution of our materials of imports and exports.

A Food Control Board performed many useful functions. The profits of packers, millers, and wholesale merchants were restricted.

The use of grain in the manufacture of beer and spirits was prohibited.

The hoarding of foodstuffs was prohibited and restrictions were placed on the use of certain foodstuffs. Thus Canada played an important part in the feeding of the Allied Armies and civilians in Europe.

A Fuel Control Board regulated the supply and distribution and price of coal at a critical time.

A Munitions Board and a War Purchasing Commission were also established, the former producing enormous quantities of munitions, while the latter saved for the country many millions of dollars.

CANADA'S METHODS COPIED BY OTHER NATIONS.

No country in the world demobilised its troops more expeditiously and so efficiently and humanely was the duty of taking care of the maimed and wounded and of the dependents of the killed and disabled that many countries, including Great Britain and the United States, sent commissions to examine Canadian methods of dealing with these problems, and in many instances closely followed these methods. Could there be stronger testimony than that?

The Military Hospitals and Re-establishment Homes have taken care of 150,000 returned men. Forty-eight thousand have been admitted to vocational training, of which twenty-eight thousand have graduated already. In these vocational institutions no less than four hundred and ten different occupations are taught.

The Department of Civil Re-establishment has placed in permanent positions no fewer than 175,000 undismen.

CANADA'S GRATUITY PER MAN THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

No less a sum than $160,000,000 has been paid to the returned soldiers in gratuities. In this respect Canada paid by far the largest amount per man of any country, even of the richest country in the world to-day—the United States.

In the matter of pensions, Canada is also ahead of all other nations. Up to date, the pension list includes 177,000 persons who are receiving benefits. Up to the present, approximately fifty-five million dollars have been spent in this way.

There has also been adopted the cheapest life insurance for returned soldiers which is the cheapest in the world. Insurance in sums of from $500.00 to $5,000.00 can be taken out at cost, and without examination.

Over 23,000 returned men have already been placed on the land, and loans made to them to the extent of some $73,000,000. By this plan 2,000,000 acres of land have been brought under conditions of cultivation.

PATRONAGE ABOLISHED.

Patronage has been abolished by the Government.

To the fullest extent of its authority the Union Government assisted the Provinces in bringing about Prohibition of and to the extent the people desired. During the war it exercised its extraordinary powers under the War Measures Act, and prevented trade in liquor between the Provinces and the importation thereof, as well as the manufacture thereof.

HOW FARMERS BENEFITTED.

The wheat crop was nationalised under the control of a Government Board, and so successfully was the crop marketed for two years that farmers got the highest prices obtainable without the intervention of the middlemen, and for the crop of 1919 the Wheat Board was able to divide among the farmers the huge sum of $42,000,000 in excess of what would have been realised from the guaranteed prices.

The C.N.R. system was taken over and nationalised, and similar action is now being taken as respects the Grand Trunk Railway.

GOVERNMENT HAD TO CLEAN UP RAILWAY MESS.

The Government was compelled to take these steps to save the situation, to prevent the railways going into bankruptcy, and being rendered useless to the people by the breaking up of railway systems with serious losses to the Dominion as a Government and to the credit and reputation of the country as a whole. The Union Government are not responsible for the deplorable railway situation which developed, but Union Government had to clean up the mess.

The Government provided a grant of $10,000,000 for technical education conditionally on the Provinces spending a similar amount. All former Governments neglected this subject.

The Union Government, casting politics aside, voted twenty millions of dollars to assist the Provinces in the construction and improvement of highways, the money to be spent within four years, and to represent 40 per cent. of the total expenditures to be made by the Provinces. Plans covering every detail of superintendence and otherwise are now in full operation.

HUGE SUM FOR GOOD ROADS.

The Provinces following the lead of the Dominion Government have voted in the aggregate no less a sum than fifty-three million dollars, so that the total expenditure on good roads in Canada within the next few years will be something like $73,000,000.

A Department of Health was created, and is doing excellent work.

The important Housing problem was dealt with, no less a sum than $25,000,000 being loaned to the Province.

The franchise was extended to women.

A new and eminently fair and reasonable franchise law was passed, pronounced even by papers opposing the Government to be the fairest Franchise Act ever passed.

CANADA'S EXTENDED MERCANTILE FLEET.

A vigorous shipbuilding programme was carried out, with the result that Canada to-day owns 40 ships, which are plying the seven seas, carrying the produce and wares of Canada to all countries. Twenty-three more will soon be ready.

Canada came out of the war financially better than any of the belligerent countries, except the United States which of course was only in it for a short time. Our securities stand to-day as high or higher than those of any other country in what is to-day the greatest market for foreign securities—New York. Our national debt is smaller per capita than that of all the principal countries of the world, except the United States.

CANADA'S FINANCIAL STABILITY.

Bearing in mind that before the war our capital requirements were financed by Great Britain, and that during the war and since the Armistice we have had to provide our own capital requirements, and, in addition, extend credits to other countries, the situation of the country's currency is quite remarkably good. The percentage of our gold reserves and the Dominion and Bank Note circulation is 43 per cent. as compared with 25 per cent. for Great Britain and 55 per cent. for the United States.

Apart from politics, it is generally admitted that the national finances were handled during the period of the war, and especially since the formation of a Union Government, in a manner which maintained the high standard of the credit of the country, stabilized and encouraged trade and commerce, provided the requisite increased currency to cope with the increased cost of commodities, and enabled production of all kinds to be kept up to the maximum.

ENORMOUS SUMS TAKEN FROM BUSINESS FIRMS.

Up to date, no less a sum than $139,000,000 has been collected from the business firms of the country under the Business Profits Tax.

In addition to that $34,000,000 have been collected as Income Tax.

The profits of packers were cut down to less than 10 p.c., all the balance being taken by the government.

The Sales Tax, which has met with universal approval (except perhaps in detail) stands to the credit of the Government and to the ingenuity of Sir Henry Drayton.

GOVERNMENT TARIFF REDUCTIONS.

Tariff reductions were made in 1919 as follows:

A reduction from 27 1-2 to 15 p.c. on—
Cultivators.
Harrows.
Horse rakes.
Seed drills.
Manure spreaders and weeders.

IS TELLING HER FRIENDS ABOUT IT

MRS. GREEN WANTS EVERYBODY TO KNOW OF WONDERFUL RESULTS SHE GOT FROM TANLAC.

"My friends already know what I think of Tanlac, for I have told them; and I am glad to give my testimonial to be used in letting everybody know about the medicine," said Mrs. Lillie May Green, of 51 Caroline Street North, Hamilton, Ontario.

"For three years I suffered with stomach trouble and nervousness, and my health became very bad indeed. My appetite was very poor; I hardly cared whether I ate or not, for when I did eat a little something, I filled up with gas and suffered misery for hours. I always had a mean, sour, sickening taste in my mouth, and the pain and distress after meals finally became so great, it seemed best for me not to even try to eat anything. Of course, not eating anything to speak of, I lost a lot of weight, and became very weak. Then my nerves were in a bad condition, too, and I felt perfectly miserable all the time. I felt tired and worn-out all during the day, just like dropping down and going to sleep, and finally I got to where I could hardly do my housework.

"Some of my friends told me about Tanlac, and thinking what had helped others might help me; so I got a bottle, and almost from the start I began to feel better. I have taken six bottles now, and I certainly feel like a new woman. My stomach is in fine condition, and I enjoy every meal, and my nerves are again calm and steady. That tired, worn-out, sleepy feeling has left me entirely, and I have gained so much weight and strength, I can do my housework with ease, and even take long walks without feeling the least bit tired. My restoration to health has been simply wonderful, and I'll praise Tanlac the longest day I live."

Tanlac is sold by The Warne Drug Company, Ltd.

MOTHER!

"California Syrup of Figs"
Child's Best Laxative

Accept "California Syrup of Figs" only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless physic for the little stomach liver and bowels. Children love its fruity taste. Full directions on each bottle. You must say "California."

THE HOME CIRCLE

The best brought up family of children we ever knew were educated on the principle of always commending them when it was possible to do so and letting silence be the reproof of ar wrong doing which was not really serious. We have heard the children of the household, when their mother had failed to say any word of commendation after some social occasion, ask as anxiously as possible, "What was it, mamma? I know something was wrong. Didn't we treat the other children well, or were we too noisy?" In that house reproof was never bestowed unsought—only commendation of whatever it was possible to commend, was gratuitous. We think this system would be as good for those grown-up children, the husbands and wives, as for those still in the nursery.

If you love, love more. If you hate, hate less. Life is too short to spend in hating any one. Why war against a mortal who is going the same road with us? Why not expand the flower of life and happiness by learning to love, by teaching those who are near and dear the beautiful lessons? Your hands may be hard, but your heart need not be. Your form may be bent or ugly, but do you know that the most beautiful flowers grow in the most rugged, unsheltered places? The palace for care, the cottage for love. Not that there is no love in a mansion; but somehow if we are not very careful, business will crowd all there is of beauty out of the heart. This is why God has given the Sabbaths and Saturday nights, that we may leave business and have a little heart cleaning.

Let us all remember that the higher and happier our home life, the more wisely and better we may hope to do the work that lies waiting for us beyond it. A pleasant place to come home to is the greatest energizer a man can have. Then let us strive with an earnest and constant purpose to make and keep the home cheerful, inviting and pleasant.

Man can build the house and roof it in, a resistance against the storms and elements; but the man with all his genius and artisan science cannot make the home; that ever has and ever will be the task of woman. It is she alone that can bring to it warmth and beauty. Here she reigns supreme.

When crepe on the door tells of a mother gone, only those who have moistened a mother's grave with their tears can fully understand and read aright the black threads in the bow.

Oh, make your home bright! Bring in the violin or the picture. It does not require a great salary or a big house, or chased silver or georgeous upholstery to make a happy home. All that is wanted is a father's heart, a mother's heart, in sympathy with young folks.

Someone has truthfully said that nothing but a mint can make money without advertising. It might be added that the mint couldn't do it if it didn't put its competitors in jail.

He is a selfish being who, having trouble in his trade or calling or profession, always brings his troubles home for the purpose of making every one else miserable.

Times are not near so hard with some men when they want a plug of tobacco as when their wives ask for a pair of shoes.

Unkind words do as much harm as unkind deeds. Many a heart has been wounded beyond cure, many a reputation been stabbed to death by a few little words.

How much of your success do you owe to your wife? It is only just to own this fact before her day by day. It will make her happy and keep her youthful.

A noble purpose, a brave spirit, and a patient soul can never be defeated in the battle of life. Don't give up; you will win yet.

CHANGES IN WELL KNOWN BUSINESS FIRM

With the New Year comes the announcement of important changes in the organization of the well known advertising agency, heretofore known as McConnell & Fergusson. The partnership has been incorporated and now includes as shareholders and directors several of the executives of the old firm.

J. E. McConnell is President and M. M. Fergusson is Vice-President. These two men formed the partnership which founded and built the business of McConnell & Fergusson to its present important volume. They will remain in their respective positions in the organization. A. R. Malton formerly inspector of the Bank of Toronto, joins the board as an active executive officer. Walter E. Gunn, well known throughout Canada in publishing and advertising circles, is a director and manager of the Company's Toronto Office. As manager of the Montreal Office, Lionel T. Benison who has had many years experience in handling the complex advertising problems of Eastern Canada also joins the board. D. C. Coutts, manager for Western Canada, with his office in Winnipeg, is the Western representative on the board. John P. McConnell, well known throughout Canada as a publicity writer and journalist, makes the seventh member of the board. He specializes in financial and propaganda work.

A convention of the manager and executive has just been concluded in the London Office, at which policies and methods for the ensuing year were discussed and decided upon.

The principles and ethics which have governed the conduct of the busines under Messrs. McConnell & Fergusson for the past seventeen years will be continued in the new organization.

It was concluded after a careful survey of conditions in Canada that greater merchandizing effort and more intensive advertising than had ever before been done in Canada was now necessary to solve the marketing problems of Canadian manufacturers. Undoubtedly the market in Canada will absorb the products of Canadian industries, but the consuming public is now critical of both prices and quality and will demand to be shown "reasons why" in purchasing in the future.

The McConnell & Fergusson (Limited), executive, in view of this situation, have decided to throw into the work of the coming year, the most serious and concentrated effort to bring the work of the various offices to the highest state of efficiency.

With four offices in the leading commercial centres of Canada, Montreal, Toronto, London, and Winnipeg each co-operating with the other is the merchandizing problems of their clients, the new company claims it is in a position to offer the advertisers of Canada a highly efficient service.

THE "FLU" Dare Not Return

The "Flu" will certainly get a warm reception this winter if it dares show its ugly head in our peaceful midst, for the people are confident now that they can deal it such a smashing blow it will never survive. In every village, town and city in Canada, families are fortifying themselves with the greatest "Flu" ammunition known to science—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. Colds, coughs, etc.—the advance guards of Flu—are met with withering fire, and relief from these troubles is sure every time. One hundred thousand Canadians are only too willing to testify to the great healing power this remedy contains. It has conquered coughs of 35 years' standing. It cannot fail to do for you what it has done for others. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, as it is sold under a money-back guarantee to banish coughs, colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma and prevent you from getting the "Flu." WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 29.—The changes which have taken place in the demands of seamen as compared to the times when "salt horse" was the chief food in the forecastle, are shown by a new set of requests just formulated by the Federated Seamen's Union. They ask that their menu should include canned fruits, condensed milk, Worcestershire and tomato sauces, rolls and scones, bacon and eggs, boiled eggs, steak and onions, soup, Irish stew, roast beef, mutton, veal, assorted salads cakes, plum pudding with sauce, custards and jellies. "Salt horse" was not on the list. Enamelled utensils and clean tablecloths three times a week are insisted upon.

WAS SUFFERING FROM INDIGESTION

NO FEAR OF PAINS NOW

Indigestion is one of the worst forms of stomach trouble, and many people suffer terribly after every meal they eat. The rising and souring of the food, pains in the stomach, heartburn, water brash, belching of wind, vomiting shortly after eating, etc., are some of the symptoms.

There is no need for any person to be troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble if they would only take Burdock Blood Bitters, which contains a combination of nature's roots, herbs, barks and berries; a combination that cannot help but put the stomach right.

Mr. H. H. Collins, Norton, N. B., writes:—"I was with the overseas forces for four years and two months, and in October, 1916, I was unfortunate enough to be wounded and taken prisoner. I was a prisoner for 2½ years, and the food they gave us was not good, at times, and after a few months I found I was suffering from indigestion. When I came home in July, 1919, I was nearly a wreck. I was told to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and found great relief, and can now eat without fear of pains and sickness. I would recommend B.B.B. to all who suffer from indigestion."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has made a reputation second to none for relieving all stomach troubles. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Three minutes with potter's clay.

As Clay in the hands of the potter, so is newspaper advertising space in the hands of the merchant.

He can mould it, fashion it, and with it create a thing almost animate: to wit, a clearly written or pictured expression of his merchandise and of the personality of his store.

Few merchants have experienced the fascination of doing this, because they are too busy to cultivate the art of written expression.

Yet the art well repays the cultivation.

For example: Supposing you were told that for three minutes, to-morrow, 20,000 people would gather to listen to you talk about your merchandise.

Supposing only five per cent. of them were possible purchasers.

And you had just three minutes.

You would think out very carefully in advance what you were going to say to them, wouldn't you?

You would make every sentence a graphic picture, and say it with all the force and animation that you are capable of.

Well, then, the readers of this paper are your audience, your clay—and you are the potter. They are yours to talk to, not only for three minutes to-day, but for three minutes every day.

Isn't it worth while, then, to put all your skill and judgment into the preparation of your Daily Newspaper Advertising?

COTTON FALLEN BELOW COST OF PRODUCTION

SIR CHARLES MACARA URGES A WORLD CONFERENCE TO DEAL WITH SITUATION—SAYS GOVERNMENTS SHOULD TAKE OVER SURPLUS.

(Associated Press.)

MANCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 29.—A leading cotton-grower has sent a message to Sir Charles Macara urging that a world cotton conference be called without delay, to deal with the situation arising from the decline in the price of fibre and the threatened 50 per cent. reduction in acreage under cotton, says The Manchester Guardian. In the course of an interview, Sir Charles, who is one of the largest cotton manufacturers of Great Britain, said:

"Cotton has fallen a long way below the cost of production, and the inevitable result will be that a great curtailment in the acreage devoted to cotton will follow. I have contended for many years that cotton is a commodity which, if properly packed and stored, can be kept for years without deterioration.

"A recommendation such as I made at the outbreak of war, that the surplus cotton should be taken over by the governments interested, should be adopted now. This would save the situation. If action is not taken we shall have a repetition of what occurred in the early days of the war, when American cotton fell from 7 1-2 pence to 4 pence a pound, involving all concerned in heavy losses, and subsequently rose to 45 pence, increasing the price of the world's cotton crop by £1,000,000,000, and raising the price of clothing enormously.

"We are undoubtedly suffering from the press campaign of 'slump,' the restriction of credit to bring about forced sales, and the government excess profits duty, which, instead of encouraging industry, has had the effect of strangling it.

"These are the factors mainly responsible for the present dearth of business, from which, however, there is bound to be a great reaction. Both 'boom' and 'slump' are equally pernicious. What is wanted is a readjustment of values."

NEEDED A CHAIR TO HELP HER TO WALK

NOW MRS. EASTCOTT IS PRAISING DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Port Hope Lady who suffered from Rheumatism and Heart Trouble tells how she found relief.

Port Hope, Ont., Jan. 28.—(Special).—Among the thousands of women in Canada who sing the praise of Dodd's Kidney Pills, none is more enthusiastic than Mrs. S. Eastcott, a well-known and highly respected resident here. And Mrs. Eastcott is always ready to tell the reason why.

"I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism and heart trouble for the last four years," she says in telling her story. "I doctored and tried all kinds of treatments, but got no good results. I got so bad I had to walk with a chair.

"After taking Dodd's Kidney Pills for some time I could walk alone. Now I am better than I have been for the last four years. I am on my eighth box and will continue to take Dodd's Kidney Pills till I am perfectly well."

Rheumatism and heart trouble are both caused by sick Kidneys. The weakened Kidneys fail to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood and the trouble begins. The rational treatment is to strengthen the Kidneys so they can remove the cause of the disease.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the help sick Kidneys are crying for.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(PATERFAMILIAS)

THE TRENT WATERWAY.

The Trent Waterway Development Association is much perturbed over the thought that work on the canal's Severn River division is not to be finished this year. But what's the hurry? Why, this big undertaking—the Trent Valley Canal—was only conceived in 1833—eighty-seven years ago—so it's quite a young conception yet, you know?

With a history of Peterborough to hand I find that in 1833—mark the date—the idea was to connect the waters of Lake Simcoe and "ultimately"—with an emphasis on the ultimately—of Georgian Bay, with Lake Ontario through the Bay of Quinte, and Mr. N. H. Baird, C.E., estimated the total cost of the canal at £495,515—pounds, you'll notice, which is another sign of antiquity in Canada. Well, the Upper Canada Legislature got busy and did some of the work in preparation for the "eventual" consumation of the system. (By the way, the project did not reach the dignity of a system till recent years). Below Rice Lake £90,000 was expended, the old locks, just below Peterborough at Whitlam's Rapids, were completed, and much money spent in improving navigation on the Otonabee, between Peterborough and Rice Lake. Bobcaygeon locks, we are told, were undertaken in 1833-4; the contract cost was £1,600, but the rebellion of 1837 upset things, and the work was not then completed (it is now, as you all know). However, in 1880, according to the annual report of the then Minister of Railways and Canals, extensive work had been done at Port Perry, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn, the big chute at Burleigh and the Lakefield dam. In 1883, Mr. T. D. Belcher, superintending engineer, declared that "there seems to be now new life and activity along the entire 200-mile route." At Burleigh Falls, Lovesick Rapids, Hall's Village, Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls active prepartions were underway for building the lock. And history goes on to say that the near future would see the completion of this work, there can be no doubt. Ahem!

But the "near future" was disappointing, for the project, after these locks were completed, seems to have been flodded with pessimistic views as to its commercial importance, only to be drained at election periods to serve as a shuttle-cock for the battledores of ambitious politicians, until many people in this district looked on the matter as more or less of a joke. 'Twas in the late nineties, if memory does not miscarry, that a new impetus was given the Trent Valley Canal—beg it's pardon, waterway—proposition, since when it's substantial progress toward near completion is too well known to need trespassing on valuable by-election space by indulging in lengthy retrospection. Following Sir Wilfrid, his opposition party, Sir Robert Borden's administration carried on, until now we have a perfectly lovely scenic water route from Trenton to so near Georgian Bay and all its trade promises, that to hear even a "whispered" suggestion that there is to be nothing doing on the Severn River this year, conveys a sting of disappointment to all who have been looking forward to an early institution of a commercial water route from the upper lakes to old Ontario.

Apropos of this opening of the route's upper end, one supposes there'll be doings that day in a formal way with customary social amenities and quickened public interest. This brings back to mind the lift lock's opening in July, 1904, when, accompanied by big guns from Ottawa and newspaper representatives from near and far in the province, Peterborough lesser lights were conveyed on a special train to just above Nassau, whence they tramped through lush grass and despised wild bloom to a spacious marquee, where lunch and other things were served. It was a sumptuous banquet indeed, that on the river's bank, and nothing was lacking to content the inner-man to say nothing of fortifying him against whatever lay ahead in the unknown trip to a sheer drop of 65 feet from canal above to canal below.

After lunch the gathering boarded two steamers, and steamed merrily down to and through the Nassau swing railway bridge and onward down the upper reach of section two of the Peterborough-Lakefield division to the waiting lock chamber just across Armour's hill. This, the first going over the lock, excepting by officials, was made in the presence of thousands of rain-soaked spectators for it rained, and still it rained, and never left off raining until the most of us aboard the boats were also pretty well drenched to the skin. But what cared we, who had made the first wonderful trip over the largest lift lock of its kind in the world, although the going had been somewhat like that of a submarine with oceans of water both above and below.

But to be serious, why delay the completion of this altogether too long deferred inland waterway between the two big deep water lakes. The undertaking has had altogether too many lapses in prosecution—perhaps at times for want of faith in its commercial importance by the powers—that be, and at one time by obstruction from Port Hope interests who agitated for a cut from Rice Lake to connect with Ontario at that town instead of at Trenton. Millions have been spent on this project, and Canada's need for freight-carrying expansion is ever growing; then why not open the other outlet at Georgian Bay and put this system's commercial value to the test. Other canal routes have found and are finding their freight-carrying importance, locally and nationally then why not this. It was originally conceived for freight-barge traffic, the scenic beauty and tourist attractions are secondary considerations. And so, the Trent Waterway Development Association is to be commended on its action in not only advertising this waterway among wealthy holiday seekers, but in seeing that the great hoped-for objective—a paying inland water commercial route for our increasing products is not again sent to the procrastination shelf, for lack of representative pressure to the contrary.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

DON'TS, WARNINGS AND PRECAUTIONS.

These days of applied science to human life, coupled with hygienic rules inculcated broadcast with a view to prolonging man's vital forces beyond his alotted three score years and ten, are filled with such a multiplicity by precautionary ethics that one's every movement seems shackled with a query and harassed by a doubt. Many foods and drinks our forefathers absorbed are now found positively harmful, or at least lacking in longevity qualities, habits affected with impunity by the authors of our being are full of menace to us, and yet how many of this generation can hope to live to the eighty, ninety, aye even a hundred years we find not a few of our predecessors reaching? The present-day race knows too much, or imagines it does, for its own comfort. Life to-day is beset by a whole army of don't, warnings and preventatives; the insatiable microbe lurks in most unsuspected spots seeking whom he or she may devour; it's perfectly dangerous to kiss one's wife before she's had her morning meal, because her lips may be secreting disease germs gathered over night (so a scientific story read not long ago); man's mustache is too often a death-dealing forest, in which diminutive but ravenous monsters lie in wait for the lady love who all unheeding accepts his oscular salutations, while the law of sanitation confronts our every turn. And yet our progenitors—poor, simple and unlearned though they were as to hygiene—got along quite comfortably without all these don'ts and parents authority and dominion "over every living thing."

The speaker remarked that the very people who refuse to take an interest in legislation are the ones who are most eager to appeal for protection in times of need to the laws they were too indifferent to take a hand in making, and asked her audience to not neglect their opportunities in this regard.

The parrot-like cry of the government on the tariff question came in for a few scathing remarks, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie's change of heart from Liberal to Conservative opinions was attributed by the speaker to his inclusion in the government clique, which pays such hig salaries.

The Old Days.

Mrs. Ferguson hopes to see a return to the days of the two political parties, where one was constantly watching the other, and said that the Farmers would have done better to have selected either party, and stuck to it, asserting that the Farmers had expected to get rich quickly, and now find that they are far from having a "jubilee."

The league of the sugar barons and their hold-up of Canadian consumers on quantity and price while Canadian sugar was being shipped to the United States, came under fire, and the contention was made that one might have suffered this imposition for a much longer period but for the flood of indignant remonstrances which inundated the government on this question, proving that it is not Cabinet Ministers who make laws, but the individual electors, and the results that can be achieved when these rise to the occasion. "But men do not work "to the best advantage, either politically or economically when alone. If "woman is a helpmate in the life of "the home, why not also in the life of "the state?"

Mrs. Harstone expressed her own and her hearers' appreciation of both addresses and tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Geo. H. King, whose solos, accompanied by Mr. King, added so much to the evening's entertainment, her vocal abilities having been favored by the visiting speakers with marked appreciation.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY HELD MASS MEETING GRAND OPERA HOUSE

discredit the Farmers government. "You should resent that," said Rev. Watson.

Tariff Question.

The Farmers' platform does not call for the complete elimination of the tariff wall between the United States and Canada. Ideally he believed free trade to be best, but it was not practicable, he said with the United States for high protection. Notwithstanding, the tariff should not be abused to make millionaires.

In the absence of Mrs. Frank Webster, Miss Pearl H. Petrie, of Otonabee, spoke. Representing the women of the country, she said that the women of the city and country should be brought closer together. She urged the ladies to use their franchise to clear out the evils in this Dominion. The stand of the farmers' party on prohibition should be appreciated by all ladies, she declared. The farmers' plank against compulsory military training should be considered by the ladies who knew all the sufferings a war causes.

Touching on the tariff, Miss Petrie said that if the duty on agricultural implements was removed, foodstuffs would be cheaper. On these and on foodstuffs there should be no tax. She appealed to the home-makers to support a man who was independent. In concluding she urged them to steer clear of "camouflage" on the parts of the old parties.

North York Candidate.

R. W. E. Burnaby, President of the U.F.O. and the Dominion Council of Agriculture, the principal speaker, who is out to "skin" Hon. MacKenzie King in North York, dwelt on the principles of the farmers' organization. "I am not going to do any mud-slinging," he said. He denied the farmers were Bolshevists. Twenty years ago, to protect themselves, the farmers in the west began to organize. The views of farmers all over the Dominion were co-ordinated and the farmers' platform, their declaration of principles, resulted. Farmers, he said, had had enough of the old parties. When the farmers' platform was first formed they had no idea of entering a political arena. he farmers are for democracy. Democracy is the concensus of opinion of the people crystallized into law. We believe in equal privileges to all, special privileges to none. "Our organization is a class organization." Mr. Burnaby said the farmers had brought out a platform that was endorsed by the people wherever it had been presented. He denied that their platform was narrow. "If our platform is narrow what about the ones we have been following in the past?"

The Government.

"We have today a government which the people did not elect." Mr. Burnaby said the men were chosen on one platform, but now had another. Let me say here, in respect to Mr. Burnham, I have a great deal of respect for him for the stand he took. "The farmers," he said, continuing, "were fighting class legislation instead of making it."

Going into the East Elgin fracas he said the people when they saw the great government machine, began to wonder why the government was so anxious, and becoming suspicious, voted for the farmer candidate. You have read in the press that the farmers are free traders. This is a lie and you who swear know what kind of a lie it is. The farmers, he said, only wanted to rip the tariff up the back and see what it was. Free trade would only be practicable if the whole world was free trade, he said. If industries need protection they should put their hands of the table and show why they needed it. I say it's very unfortunate, and I say I hope if there is another election in this riding the farmers and their friends can get together and pick a man, said the speaker, referring to Labour also bringing out a candidate.

Remove Tariff.

The tarifi should be removed on agricultural implements and foodstufis, he said. A tax should be placed on unoccupied land in the west and Canada's agricultural industry furthered. On the tariff, he said, the people paid $6 to secure $1 for the public treasury. The farmers favoured a public statement of election campaign funds, said Mr. Burnaby. Mr. Burnaby disclaimed the government railway purchases. Their policy was public ownership, he said. All government works were not inefficient; for instance the postal system.

Politics is nothing more than running the business of the country. If the candidate did not fairly represent the riding the farmers could recall the member. My object in coming here to-night is to put the principles before you. It isn't the man, it's the principle, said the speaker, upholding the farmers' platform. The last thought he wished to leave with the audience was the personal responsibility of every elector in this by-election. "Let us put politics on a higher plane. It should be a sacred thing, not a thing to be corrupted. The great common people are going to do it. If people would educate those who don't understand the issues and prepare them for the onslaught of the "ward heelers," it can be achieved. The prosperity of Peterborough depends primarily on the prosperity of the country, he said.

Reeve Griffith, the concluding speaker, called the attention of the audience to the success achieved by the Drury government and declared the farmers could do the same in the Dominion house. Reeve Griffith said he was a Labor man and he was sure justice would be given if Mr. Campbell was elected. "Throw aside the old party heelers who have been the ruination of this country for so many years," he said.

During the evening, Mr. Petrie and Miss Doris Rathbone delighted the audience with several solos.

A TEMPORARY FUSE.

A burned out fuse on one's car in the country is very inconvenient if there are no spares with which to replace it, but if the motorist will cary a little tinfoil in his box of odds and ends he can make a serviceable temporary repair in a minute. As a matter of fact, anyone who smokes cigarettes or chews gum or eats candy on the road usually has some tinfoil on his person, and so it is not necessary to make a special point of including it with the tools. To rehabilitate the burned fuse it is wrapped with one or two layers of the foil, and reinserted in the fuse box. Care should be taken not to wrap the fuse too heavily, as if this is done damage is liable to result to the wiring if it is suddenly stressed with an overload.—in Motor for January.

THE HOLY NAME

From Minority to Majority.

In a recent issue of MacLean's Magazine there is a little poem which professed to be a translation from the Japanese of Osucha Tummiake. (Which name sounds suspiciously like the cry of the small boy who has eaten too many green apples.) The first stanza has some very comforting words for the non-elect in the recent civic and municipal contests.

"These are my consolations:
I rejoice in defeat because the intelligent are always in the minority."

There is considerable truth in O. Tummiake Son's sourgrape philosophy. It is true that in democracy the majority must rule. But it is also true that in the beginning of any movement for human good the majority is always wrong and the minority right. If the movement is continued long enough, this order will be reversed. The minority which is right will become the majority; and the majority which is wrong will become the minority. But at the outset of any reform the few are right and the many are wrong.

The Magna Charta, the Great Charter of English liberties, was the thought of one man, Archbishop Stephen Langton. The struggle against the despotism of the Stuart kings was begun by a handful of Puritan members of parliament. The first protest against the iniquity of slavery in modern times was made by the few and despised Quakers. The first effort to restrict the devastating flood of alcohol was put forth by a small number of humble men who were despised and jeered at as fools and fanatics. In every case the apparently contemptible and hopeless minority struggled on till it gradually became the majority, and its cause won victory out of many defeats.

All religious progress has had the same history. The Jews, the one people who kept alive faith in the true God, were for many centuries a pitiful minority, an insignificant mountain tribe, despised by the powerful heathen nations of the ancient world. But the God the Jews worshipped is fast becoming the God of all mankind. The twelve apostles, humble fishermen of Galilee, were a contemptible minority when they went out against the might of Rome and the unbelief of the whole world. They too are growing into a majority. Jesus Christ was a very small minority when He left His carpenter shop in Nazareth long ago. He is the mightiest factor in human life to-day, and will continue to grow till not onlf a majoritty, but all, will own His sway. The minority has become a majority.

Do not crow too much when you score a win over some fellow who is just beginning to make his voice heard, just starting to get his ideas before the public. Do not build bonfires and burn him in effigy. This is only a preliminary skirmish. By the time the long war is over, that fellow, if his ideas are worth more than yours, will be in the majority, and you will be in the minority. It is the man who laughs last who laughs best, though he may have to wait a lifetime for the opportunity. The good cause will have a majority in the end, even though it may have to wait a century or a millenium.

On the other hand, if you are in the minority, do not be too downcast. Even if you are defeated many times, do not get peeved, pull out of everything and have nothing to do with the world. The woods are full of that kind of people. Because they did not put their ideas over at once, they took to the tall timbers, denned up and now growl at the public for fools.

The Psalmist said in his haste, "All men are liars." Of the people of England Carlyle said in his bitterness, "Thirty millions, mostly fools." Both were wrong. All men are not liars. Neither are they mostly fools. They may be a bit hard to convince, slow to believe. But they are mostly decent, honest people, who once they are convinced that an idea is right, will give it the majority.

If you have something worth while to do, some idea for men's good to put across, stay with it in God's name and look pleasant. Through time the minority will have become a majority, and God, through you, will have blessed men.

"EVERYBODY IS SLUGGING GOVT."

REPORT FROM LIBERAL CAMPAIGNERS IN NORTH COUNTRY.

Mr. G. N. Gordon returned with his Campaigning Party this morning from the Northern Townships. He said they had mild weather, the meeting were well attended and his canvass was most encouraging.

Mr. Gordon said practically everybody was against the Government North of Chemong Lake, but the only question arises as to which candidate opposing the Government they will support.

Mr. Campbell, according to Mr. Gordon, shows strength in some spots, but, on the other hand, the U. F. O. organization is only located in spots.

Mr. Gordon claims there is nothing to it, in this election. Everybody is slugging the Government and during his canvass up North he did not find a man or woman who said they intended to support the Government, and the people are complaining that instead of the Government arranging for proper polls they are compelling some people to drive seven and eight miles past a school house where a poll could be held, to vote in another part of the Township. This is done, it is said, to make it difficult for people to vote in the country, if it is stormy and in ths way t will help the Government candidate.

Experience is one of the few things that never find their way to the bargain counter.

TRAIN FERRY FROM SWEDEN TO ENGLAND

THIS IS NOW BEING PLANNED AT A COST OF 10,000,000 POUNDS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 29.—A plan for linking up Sweden with England by means of a train ferry to cost £10,000,000 is being considered by business men of the two nations.

The scheme aims at the establishment of a daily service by at least six 12,000-ton ships of 18 knots speed, each capable of carrying 50 railroad cars. As the gauges of the British and Swedish railroads are the same, rapidity of transportation would be assured.

The Swedish Government is understood to be willing to guarantee a 10 per cent. return over a given number of years, if Britain will guarantee the capital necessary for the initial outlay.

The route suggested runs from Hull to Gothenburg and there is also a suggestion of an extension across the Baltic, so as to provide direct communication between Hull and Petrograd.

IMPERIAL HONOUR.

Squire is now living in Erickson, Manitoba, where he is manager of the Royal Bank. He enlisted during the war and served in the air force in Canada, but the war ended before he got overseas. The notice received this morning is in recognition of his services in Canada.

COMPLAINS TO COUNTY COUNCIL

RESOLUTION SENT TO CROWN ATTORNEY HATTON.

Complaints that he had been ignored by Crown Attorney Hatton, were laid by High County Constable A. R. Moore before the County Council Mr. Moore referred to a recent case in which he said Mr. Hatton ignored him and ordered the Provincial policeman to act on the case. Mr. Moore stated that at the Police Court recently the Crown Attorney never spoke to him. He said he had always tried to work in conjunction with the Crown Attorney, but the way he had been treated of late prompted him to appear before the Council. On Mr. Moore's charges against the Crown Attorney, which went back to the part he said the Crown Attorney played in the notorious liquor case that resulted in a police investigation in the summer of 1919, the Council decided to ask the Crown Attorney to meet the Council and give an explanation of the charges Mr. Moore laid against him. If he failed to comply with the request of the Council an investigation will be demanded of the Department by the Council. A copy of the resolution as passed was sent to Mr. Hatton by the Clerk but to-day no reply had been received from the Crown Attorney. Suspicion was felt by the members of the Council that this resolution might be ignored by the Crown Attorney.

MEDICAL FAKER FOUGHT BY CITY

DETROIT OFFICIALS CONSTANTLY ON ALERT FOR "DOCTORS" WHO SWINDLE SICK.

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—Coyotes that feed on wounded sheep is what health officers call the medical frauds that play on the sick, and whose activities keep the health department constantly on the alert. Although Detroit is believed to be comparatively free from quacks at present, there is no relaxation of vigilance, nor will there be any, Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner, said Saturday.

"Medical frauds are the meanest of swindlers," asserted Dr. Vaughan. "They not only rob the poor and ignorant of every available penny, but raise false hopes and cause added suffering to the ill.

"Generally speaking, the so-called doctors that cause us the most trouble may be placed in three classes—the 'electric' specialist, the fake with a 'tuberculosis cure,' and the physician who performs illegal operations.

Instruments Are Impressive.

"An amazing array of apparatus, coils of wire, shining nickel instruments, strange contrivances—these are the stage properties of the 'electric' wizards, and they tend to mystify the gullible public. But the methods and treatment of the 'wizards' are simplicity itself. The patient is given an 'examination' and properly frightened by the array of 'dangerous symptoms' discovered. He is told to disrobe in a private room and then is taken into another room for treatment. Here a cap is placed over his head and he is given a few moments' treatment of high frequency electric current that is about as beneficial as the buzzing noise he hears and the blue flames he sees.

"This treatment lasts long enough for the assistant to ransack the clothing of the patient and report to the 'doctor' how much ready cash was found. The patient is presented with a bill for the treatment which corresponds with the amount he has with him.

Smoke for Tuberculosis.

"The class of quacks who pretend to cure tuberculosis are in some respects the most dangerous. A poor woman from the east side came to us for help. She was in the last stages of tuberculosis, and told us that she had been taking treatment from a 'doctor' near where she lived, and had been paying from $1.50 to $2.50 a treatment. We went to the man's place and there we found another woman far gone in the same disease.

A stovepipe entered the room through the floor. It was capped and three tubes led from it. These were labeled, the first being for bronchitis, the second for asthma, and the third for tuberculosis. We ripped off the cap and found that all three tubes drew air from the same pipe.

"We followed the pipe and found it ran through a trench to an excavation in which was set a piano box. In this box was a stove, in which the medical fraud burned wood saturated with oil, and passed the smoke through a charcoal filter for the alleged benefit of his patients. The smoke probably did them little harm beyond irritating their lungs.

WILL FIGHT DEADLY MALERIAL FEVER

DUKE OF ABRUZZI PLANS TO DEVELOP RESOURCES OF ITALIAN SOMALILAND.

(Associated Press.)

ROME, Jan. 29.—The Duke of the Abruzzi has undertaken an ambitious program to develop the resources of Italian Somaliland, the most eastern part of Africa, by means of the expedition to that colony on which he has embarked. The distinguished Italian explorer plans to fight the dreadful form of marlarial fever which decimates the people and the terrible tse-tse fly which attacks the cattle. He hopes also to increase the production of cotton and other products of the colony.

He will attempt to accomplish this by controlling the course and the surplus waters of the Ubi Shebeli River, the main water supply of the southern portion of Somaliland, known as the colony of Benadir. The Duke plans to spend the entire winter in an effort to make it healthy, prosperous and a source of profit to Italy.

An attempt will be made to direct the irrigation of the country adjacent to the river by construction of reservoirs for the use of animals so as to save them from the tse-tse fly, which attacks them when they are taken to the river to drink.

Starting from Mogadiscio, the Duke will go by the Ubi Shelbel River to Maaddei where his enterprise will be centered. He carried a large quantity of agricultural machines and hopes with their aid to develop cotton growing along the river, as the English have done along the Nile.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ASKS A QUESTION

Mr. J. H. Burnham says he would like an answer to the following statement to be given, if possible, by Sir Henry Drayton in Saturday Night:

"Soldiers who were in France will be able to say that when the 1917 election was proclaimed, and it was put in orders, that it was also then stated that soldiers voting at that election would have a chance to vote at a general election, which would be proclaimed and held when the war was over and peace declared. Was this statement not in orders? Was not this promise then made by Sir Robert Borden?"

TRAIN FERRY FROM SWEDEN TO ENGLAND

THIS IS NOW BEING PLANNED AT A COST OF 10,000,000 POUNDS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 29.—A plan for linking up Sweden with England by means of a train ferry to cost £10,000,000 is being considered by business men of the two nations.

The scheme aims at the establishment of a daily service by at least six 13,000-ton ships of 18 knots speed, each capable of carrying 50 railroad cars. As the gauges of the British and Swedish railroads are the same, rapidity of transportation would be assured.

The Swedish Government is understood to be willing to guarantee a 10 per cent. return over a given number of years, if Britain will guarantee the capital necessary for the initial outlay.

The route suggested runs from Hull to Gothenburg and there is also a suggestion of an extension across the Baltic, so as to provide direct communication between Hull and Petrograd.

COMPLAINS TO COUNTY COUNCIL

RESOLUTION SENT TO CROWN ATTORNEY HATTON.

Complaints that he had been ignored by Crown Attorney Hatton, were laid by High County Constable A. R. Moore before the County Council Mr. Moore referred to a recent case in which he said Mr. Hatton ignored him and ordered the Provincial policeman to act on the case. Mr. Moore stated that at the Police Court recently the Crown Attorney never spoke to him. He said he had always tried to work in conjunction with the Crown Attorney, but the way he had been treated of late prompted him to appear before the Council. On Mr. Moore's charges against the Crown Attorney, which went back to the part he said the Crown Attorney played in the notorious liquor case that resulted in a police investigation in the summer of 1919, the Council decided to ask the Crown Attorney to meet the Council and give an explanation of the charges Mr. Moore laid against him. If he failed to comply with the request of the Council an investigation will be demanded of the Department by the Council. A copy of the resolution as passed was sent to Mr. Hatton by the Clerk but to-day no reply had been received from the Crown Attorney. Suspicion was felt by the members of the Council that this resolution might be ignored by the Crown Attorney.

MEDICAL FAKER FOUGHT BY CITY

DETROIT OFFICIALS CONSTANTLY ON ALERT FOR "DOCTORS" WHO SWINDLE SICK.

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—Coyotes that feed on wounded sheep is what health officers call the medical frauds that play on the sick, and whose activities keep the health department constantly on the alert. Although Detroit is believed to be comparatively free from quacks at present, there is no relaxation of vigilance, nor will there be any, Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner, said Saturday.

"Medical frauds are the meanest of swindlers," asserted Dr. Vaughan. "They not only rob the poor and ignorant of every available penny, but raise false hopes and cause added suffering to the ill.

"Generally speaking, the so-called doctors that cause us the most trouble may be placed in three classes—the 'electric' specialist, the fake with a 'tuberculosis cure,' and the physician who performs illegal operations.

Instruments Are Impressive.

"An amazing array of apparatus, coils of wire, shining nickel instruments, strange contrivances—these are the stage properties of the 'electric' wizards, and they tend to mystify the gullible public. But the methods and treatment of the 'wizards' are simplicity itself. The patient is given an 'examination' and properly frightened by the array of 'dangerous symptoms' discovered. He is told to disrobe in a private room and then is taken into another room for treatment. Here a cap is placed over his head and he is given a few moments' treatment of high frequency electric current that is about as beneficial as the buzzing noise he hears and the blue flames he sees.

"This treatment lasts long enough for the assistant to ransack the clothing of the patient and report to the 'doctor' how much ready cash was found. The patient is presented with a bill for the treatment which corresponds with the amount he has with him.

Smoke for Tuberculosis.

"The class of quacks who pretend to cure tuberculosis are in some respects the most dangerous. A poor woman from the east side came to us for help. She was in the last stages of tuberculosis, and told us that she had been taking treatment from a 'doctor' near where she lived, and had been paying from $1.50 to $2.50 a treatment. We went to the man's place and there we found another woman far gone in the same disease.

A stovepipe entered the room through the floor. It was capped and three tubes led from it. These were labeled, the first being for bronchitis, the second for asthma, and the third for tuberculosis. We ripped off the cap and found that all three tubes drew air from the same pipe.

"We followed the pipe and found it ran through a trench to an excavation in which was set a piano box. In this box was a stove, in which the medical fraud burned wood saturated with oil, and passed the smoke through a charcoal filter for the alleged benefit of his patients. The smoke probably did them little harm beyond irritating their lungs.

"Oh! What A Difference!"

That is what everyone says who comes to our store and hears the pure musical tone of Edison's Amberola Phonograph, after listening to shrill "talking machines" and the metallic sound of ordinary phonographs.

That is what you will say when this revelation of pure melody greets your ears. No wonder Edison's Amberola has proved its marked superiority over ordinary phonographs in great public tests.

EDISON'S NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA

is the world's greatest phonograph value—the "master product of Edison's master mind." Just consider its genuine Diamond Point Reproducer, which forever does away with the bother and expense of changing needles!

And Amberol Records are just as far superior to ordinary records. They are practically indestructible, and give years of enjoyment after ordinary records have broken and been thrown away.

When you consider that you can own Edison's Amberola on practically your own terms you must realize you owe it to yourself and your family to come to our store without delay and let us play the world's best music for you on this wonderful phonograph. Don't delay your visit—come today, tomorrow, as soon as possible—we will expect you. Bring all the family and your friends, too—they will all be welcome.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ASKS A QUESTION

Mr. J. H. Burnham says he would like an answer to the following statement to be given, if possible, by Sir Henry Drayton in Saturday Night:

"Soldiers who were in France will be able to say that when the 1917 election was proclaimed, and it was put in orders, that it was also then stated that soldiers voting at that election would have a chance to vote at a general election, which would be proclaimed and held when the war was over and peace declared. Was this statement not in orders? Was not this promise then made by Sir Robert Borden?"

WILL FIGHT DEADLY MALERIAL FEVER

DUKE OF ABRUZZI PLANS TO DEVELOP RESOURCES OF ITALIAN SOMALILAND.

(Associated Press.)

ROME, Jan. 29.—The Duke of the Abruzzi has undertaken an ambitious program to develop the resources of Italian Somaliland, the most eastern part of Africa, by means of the expedition to that colony on which he has embarked. The distinguished Italian explorer plans to fight the dreadful form of marlarial fever which decimates the people and the terrible tse-tse fly which attacks the cattle. He hopes also to increase the production of cotton and other products of the colony.

He will attempt to accomplish this by controlling the course and the surplus waters of the Ubi Shebeli River, the main water supply of the southern portion of Somaliland, known as the colony of Benadir. The Duke plans to spend the entire winter in an effort to make it healthy, prosperous and a source of profit to Italy.

An attempt will be made to direct the irrigation of the country adjacent to the river by construction of reservoirs for the use of animals so as to save them from the tse-tse fly, which attacks them when they are taken to the river to drink.

Starting from Mogadiscio, the Duke will go by the Ubi Shelbel River to Maaddei where his enterprise will be centered. He carried a large quantity of agricultural machines and hopes with their aid to develop cotton growing along the river, as the English have done along the Nile.

SPORTING NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP

OUR LUCKLESS JUNIORS ARE OUT OF RUNNING

OUTPLAYED LINDSAY CREW BUT 3 TO 2 VICTORY WAS THE BEST THEY COULD GET AND SCUGOG BUNCH WIN SERIES BY TWO GOALS.

Although they beat Lindsay 3 to 2 in the final game of the group race at Brock street rink last night ,the Peterboro Juniors are out of the running, losing out by a margin of two goals on the four games played. The better team did not win the round, for the Goddess of Luck was certainly on the side of the crew from Lindsay in last night's battle, and the Petes, who had the edge all through the game were a decidedly unfortunate outfit not to pile up enough goals to win the series. They carried the battle to the visitors all the way, and were always on the aggressive, but McElroy's excellent work in the Lindsay nets saved the round for Fred Martin's kids. He stopped a host of shots, some of them at point blank range, and the Lindsay gang can thank him for the oportunity of being eliminated by the Belleville aggregation next week.

It was a real merry battle, and there was nothing lady-like in the way the players waded into each other. They were pulling off too much for Referee Sproule, and although he kept the penalty box well occupied he could not get all the butt-ending and slashing that were mixed in with the hockey. The pace was fast from gong to gong and in the last period when the Petes came from behind and took the lead and battered their heads off trying to save the round, there was excitement enough to suit anybody. A big crowd that included 160 rooters from Lindsay, saw the struggle, and they got their money's worth.

The Petes looked the better team on last night's battle. They for the most part outskated the visitors and stick-handled better while they never stopped trying, but in spite of the margin they had on the play it was not until the last four minutes that they took the lead. It was 1 to 1 at the end of the first period and Lindsay were in front 2 to 1 at the close of the second. The Petes got the only two counters in the last session.

For the home crew, Ranger, who was used in the defence last night, Legon, the litte right wing player, and Sabatino, were the most effective. Ranger's rushes were always dangerous and he showed a great turn of speed. Legon was going like a streak from start to finish, while Sabatino had the crowd with him because of the manner in which he upset the Lindsay crew with his body checking.

McClory did great work in the nets for Lindsay, several of his stops being almost of the impossible order. Hare was the next most effective member of the visitors. He is a hard boy to stop when he gets under way, and he was dangerous more than once. Chambers was the best of the forwards.

The teams:

Peterboro, Goal, Bergoine; defence, Sabatino, Ranger; centre, Collins; right wing, Legon; left wing, Foley; subs, Pethick, Maniece.

The game had hardly got under way when Legon was chased for tripping and when he was off Chambers went up the side and slanted a goal past Bergoine in a shot from the board. The Petes came back strong after the initial disaster, and Ranger after one of the prettiest rushes of the night missed the net by inches. Reeves was banished for tripping but the Petes failed to score while he was off. The sides were even when Foley scored on a nice shot from a scrimmage.

Collins was chased for hooking. A little later Legon nearly scored on a combination rush, McClory making a fine stop of a close-in shot. Mills drew a penalty and a little later Sabatino was benched for tripping. The score was 1-1 at the end of the period.

In the second session the Petes kept coming down in rush after rush but they could not beat McClory and they lost beautiful chances by having no one around the nets for the rebound. Finally after Peterboro had had a big edge on the play for ten minutes, Chambers put Lindsay ahead in a long shot from the side. The figures were unchanged when the period ended. Chambers and Collins drew penalties during the session.

The last period was the most exciting of the three. The Petes battled for every ounce they had in them to win out but for a while it looked as if they were going to be outlucked, not only out of the game but out of the round, for the minutes passed swiftly with the score unaltered.

Early in the period, Wiliams was chased. Then Mills was banished, and Pethick followed him to the penitent bench. Petes were pressing hard, and finally Collins camped in front of the net ,took a pass from behind and batted in the tieing goal.

Then the pace grew still warmer. Pethick and Mills mixed it and were benched together, and a little later Reeves was waved to the side. The Petes lost two or three good chances, and McClory robbed them four or five times by fine stops. With four minutes to go Foley scored from close in, putting the local crew in front, but Lindsay held them safely for the short time left.

"RUDDIGORE"

Some actors or singers put on their costumes and make-up and walk through a part. But George Bogues in his costume and make-up as Richard Dauntless in "Ruddigore" does something more than that. He assumes the charatcer, the looks and the personality of Richard Dauntless every time he walks on the stage in that amusing role. Not to see him is to miss part of one's education. New York adopted him as her particular pet and this city will do the same when he comes with the rest of the company which is to present "Ruddigore" in this city at the Grand Theatre on Monday.

As Richard Dauntless, Mr. Bogues scored the greatest hit in his career of many hits. His make-up and his sailor dialect are artistic in every detail. He is redolent of sea breezes and he seems to be walking the deck of a ship as he gets every bit of mirth-making in the character across the footlights. His dancing also is a sheer delight, and to watch him dance the sailor's hornpipe is to witness the real thing.

If George Bogues was the whole show, "Ruddigore" would be worth while. But "Ruddigore" itself is the musical hit of the country and of this generation of comic operas. It was given over two hundred times in New York last season, and the critics pronounced it the best comic opera that that city had been favored with in the past thirty years.

AT THE ALLEN

We feel sure that you would not miss a thing that will be the talk of the town a few days from now. That is why we wish to remind you that on Monday at the Allen Theatre will be shown one of the most remarkable and forceful motion pictures that has yet been produced—"The North Wind's Malice," by Rex Beach. For broad sweep, originality of plot and intense dramatic appeal it surpasses anything that has appeared in recent months. In presenting "The North Wind's Malice" by this famous author we are offering you an evening's entertainment you will long remember.

AT THE EMPIRE

What is said to be the funniest screen comedy that Owen Moore has yet appeared in its announced to appear at the Empire theatre next week, when this unique comedian will be seen in "The Poor Simp," his latest Selznick picture.

Mr. Moore and a cast of well-known favorite photoplayers romp through the funniy situations of J. Shakespeare Sap's farce in a manner calculated to arouse the risibilities of even the most gloomy sort of person.

One of the funniest characters in the cast is Clarence, Moore's colored butler, who proves to be a comedy sensation ,although it is his first appearance before the camera.

"THE BOY"

When London's gladdest, gayest musical success "The Boy", opens its engagement at the Grand one week from to-day, a good many old-timers are due for a jolt that will bring a flood of recollections, for the reason that this musical comedy success is Pinero's famous farce, "The Magistrate" in new form. For nearly forty years, "The Magistrate" divided honors with "Pinafore" in popularity with amateur organizations and there are few indeed who have participated in amateur theatricals who have not essayed a role in the famous old farce. The best part of the approaching engagement is that giving it a musical comedy setting and atmosphere, none of the rollicking fun and genuine human nature of "The Magistrate has been lost by the librettists and composers. A. S. Byron will be seen in the role of Magistrate Meebles Other members of the cast are Marie Dilworth, Clyde Dilson, Mabelle Mignon, Cosmo Bellew, Lillion Lee Anderson, Donald Archer, Gene Laymon.

Campbell's Election Address

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

As the nominee of the National Progressive Party I respectfully solicit your support and influence. The National Progressive Party is an outgrowth of the farmers' political movement. The forces which have led to its inauguration have been in operation for many years. They resulted from the chaotic condition into which the two old political parties have lapsed.

The platform of the National Progressive Party, which has been known as "The Farmers' Platform," is one which is eminently fair to all classes in the community. It was found, therefore, soon after it was first formulated and published, seven years ago, that many people living in towns and cities approved o the platform, and desired to have the privilege of co-operating with farmers in carrying it into effect. It has been decided, therefore, to accept these offers of support from our urban centres. The original scope of the movement, therefore, has been enlarged, and we invite you to co-operate in this work. All electors, whether they live in the city or country, who approve of the platform of the party, and who would like to become supporters of the party, are invited to do so. It is proposed that they shall be given a full voice in its management, including, hereafter, the selection of candidates. The National Progressive Party does not represent a class movement as being charged, but is thoroughly democratic.

WHY THE PARTY WAS FORMED.

The inception of the party grew out of the conviction that neither of the old political parties were dealing in any adequate way with many of the national problems of the day. Both seemed more concerned about either trying to hang on to office—as the present Government is doing—or in endeavoring to get into power. Neither of them fearlessly enunciated their principles and policies and then stood by those principles. Both seemed more concerned with protecting the "big interests" than in safe-guarding the interests of the common people. For instance, who can distinguish any difference in this campaign between the tariff platforms of the National Liberal-Conservative Party and of the Liberal Party. Both disclaim high or low tariff tendencies, both clamor for "adequate" protection and neither say definitely what they will do with the tariff. Both are endeavoring to project their decisions in this matter into the future and thereby avoid having to tell the electors frankly and fully just what they do intend to do.

A GREAT PROBLEM.

One of the greatest menaces to our national welfare is the rapid decline of our rural population and the even more rapid congestion of population in our large urban centres. This has caused an abnormal increase in the high cost of living. To-day the rural population of Ontario is 159,000 less than 20 years ago, and we are producing 141,000 acres less of fall wheat, 295,000 acres less of spring wheat, 259,000 acres less of barley and 559,000 acres less of peas. Conditions now are such that a modest six-roomed house in the city rents for more than a good 100-acre farm, with a better house, good outbuildings and 100 acres of productive land. If the development of these conditions is not soon checked the results will be a further increase in the high cost of living, and even more pronounced distress and unrest in our urban centres. The final results will be fully as disastrous to the residents of our towns and cities as they can possibly be to our rural population.

"Ill fares the land
To hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates
And men decay."

Both of the old political parties have had ample opportunity to deal with this problem. Neither have done so. As far as can be seen, neither seem to know that it exists. The National Progressive Party does propose dealing with it and in a manner that will be eminently fair to all classes of our population.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION.

Where do the old political parties stand on the great prohibition question? The self-chosen candidate of the Conservative Party in this by-election is out-spoken in his opposition to it. None of the other parties represented in this campaign have pronounced themselves on it, nor have their candidates. Although the people of this Province have voted by overwhelming majorities in favor of the fullest possible measure of prohibition, the law for which they voted is being shamelessly violated because the Dominion Government still permits the importation into Ontario of spirituous liquors. Premier Meighen violated his written promise to permit the people to vote last fall on this matter and postponed the vote until next spring. We are now informed that the liquor interests propose fighting the legality of any law dealing with it that may be passed and to carry the fight, if necessary, to the Privy Council. Should not the political parties let it be known where they stand? The National Progressive Party is the only one which has done so.

OUR PLATFORM—THE TARIFF.

As the candidate of the National Progressive Party, I am proud of its platform. Space does not permit of my dealing with it in full. The following are some of its main planks:—

THE TARIFF: We realize that many of Canada's industries have grown up under a protective system. Therefore, we do not propose to make sudden and revolutionary changes in the tariff. At the same time we believe that "the Protective Tariff has fostered combines, trusts and 'gentlemen's agreements' in almost every line of Canadian industrial enterprise, by means of which the people of Canada—both urban and rural—have been shamefully exploited through the elimination of competition, the ruination of many of our smaller industries and the advancement of prices on practically all manufactured goods to the full extent permitted by the tariff."

For this reason, and in order that the high cost of living, which bears with such severity on the masses of our people, may be reduced, we advocate,

(a) That there shall be an immediate and substantial all-round reduction of the Customs Tariff.

(b) That all foodstuffs shall be placed on the free list.

(Note this last clause carefully. It shows that the farmers who support the National Progressive Party do not ask for any tariff favors for themselves on the articles they produce and that they are willing to forego such protection as they now possess. Could anything prove more conclusively than this, that our farmers are not seeking for any favors for themselves as a class?)

(c) In order that the cost of living may be still further reduced, by encouraging a greater prodtction of foodstuffs through making it possible for farmers to produce their crops at less expense, we advocate,

(d) That agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating fuel and lubricating oils be placed on the free list, and that (in order to help the manufacturers of these products) all raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture also be placed on the free list.

(e) That all tariff concessions granted to other countries be immediately extended to Great Britain.

(f) That all corporations engaged in the manufacture of products protected by the customs tariff be obliged to publish annually comprehensive and accurate statements of their earnings.

(g) That every claim for tariff protection by any industry should be heard publicly before a special committee of parliament.

PROHIBITION: The plank in the platform of the National Progressive Party dealing with prohibition, reads as follows:—

(h) We recommend "the prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages in Canada." I pledge myself to support this policy.

NATIONAL RESOURCES: In order that the shameful waste of the natural resources of the country that has charsoterized the governments of both of the old political parties in the past may be ended, we recommend,

(i) That no more natural resources be alienated from the crown, but brought into use only under short-term leases, in which the interests of the public shall be properly safe-guarded, such leases to be granted only by public auction.

OTHER REFORMS: We recommend, also, the following reforms:—

The reform of the Federal Senate.

An immediate check upon the growth of government by order-in-council, and increased responsibility of individual members of parliament in all legislation.

The complete abolition of the patronage system.

The publication of contributions and expenditures both before and after election campaigns.

The setting forth by daily newspapers and periodical publications, of the facts of their ownership and control.

A FARMERS' GOVERNMENT.

Fear was expressed before the last provincial election that if the farmers were elected to power they would not be able to give a good government. It was apprehended, also, that they would be guilty of selfish class legislation.

It is now freely admitted that the present Ontario Government is possibly the best government Ontario has ever had and that it has been absolutely free from suspicion of class legislation. We believe that the National Progressive Party, when elected to power, will do equally as well under its great and well-known leader, Hon. T. A. Crerar.

In the present by-election, therefore, I appeal with confidence to all classes of the electorate for their support and pledge myself, if elected, to give the electors of West Peterborough the best and most conscientious service of which I am capable.

Respectfully yours,

J. C. CAMPBELL,
Candidate of the National Progressive Party.

PALE, WAN CHEEKS INDICATE ANAEMIA

NEW HEALTH CAN BE OBTAINED BY ENRICHING THE BLOOD.

When a girl in her 'teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite, you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her palid cheeks, frequent headaches, breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers, as the result of their own girlhood experience, can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renews the blood supply and banishes anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system.

Among the many who have benefited by the use of these pills is Miss Dora Kerr, R.R. No. 4, Wiarton, Ont., who says: "For a long time I had been feeling tired and worn out. I was troubled with headache and backache, and would wake up in the morning feeling tired and depressed. I had to walk a considerable distance going to and from school and would feel so tired that it seemed I could not go another step. About this time a lady doctor came to the school, to examine the children, and she told me I badly needed a tonic to build me up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been used in our home before this and I began to take them. I can only say that they have greatly helped me. I no longer suffer from the headaches and backaches and I now wake up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. If ever in need of a tonic again I shall lose no time in taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

warnings, and thrived in health and strength known to but the comparatively few this age of forceful education.

Then there is also access to medical works these days, quite inaccessible a few decades since, and some of them convincingly impressive in their scientific presentation of the causes and symptoms of every ailment modern flesh is heir to, books the study of which is liable to quicken the imagination until one is firmly convinced that one has symptoms of every disease in the universe—fashionable or unfashionable—except, as Jerome K. Jerome so aptly puts it, house-maid's knee, whatever that may be. But still we cannot beat our forefathers to it in the preservation of health and being.

Now it is not the intention here to belittle sanitation properly applied in needful measure, nor to disparage advanced education—medical, gastronomical or habitual—but, to use an old fashioned metaphor, one can really have too much of a good thing. And when in a reminiscent mood I came across the following little satire, it inspired the foregoing:

Teacher and Schoolboy.

"Tommy, have you been vaccinated?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Have you had your vermiform appendix removed?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Have you a certificate of innoculation for the croup, chicken-pox and measles?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Is your lunch put in a patent antiseptic dinner-box?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Have you your own sanitary slate sponge and disinfected drinking cup?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Do you wear a camphor bag round your throat, a collapsible life-belt and insulated rubber heels for crossing the electric street car line?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"All of these?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"And a life insurance policy against all the encroachments of old age?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Then hang your cap on the insulated peg and proceed to learn on sanitary lines!"

"Thank you, ma'am."

A LOCAL DEMAND FOR FARM HELP

"Farm Help Only Wanted" is proving an unpopular announcement at the Employment Bureau, and the single men who have already found that this is the only class of employment available, are making fewer visits to the Bureau.

No matter how acute the employment situation becomes, young men still cherish an aversion to the farm, and only in desperate cases can they be persuaded to take to the land.

Married men are unwilling to go to the country, as it would necessitate their leaving their families.

At present Mr. Hugh Robertson, superintendent of the Employment Bureau, has a number of farm vacancies, and the farmers continue to register for help wanted. The majority want men by the 1st of March.

Mr. Robertson states that the employment situation is not improving very fast. A few young girls are still registered for domestic service at the Bureau.

Scientific Christenings.

Christenings in the scientific world sometimes lead to curious results. New species of plants and animals are usually given a form of the name of the discoverer, and the fuchsia, for instance, hides quite prettily in its anglicised pronounciation the fact that it was christened after a gentleman of the name of Fuchs. The naturalist who named the family of Crustacea followed an original plan, having many names to bestow. His wife's name was Caroline. He took the letters of that name, put them in a hat, and drew them out again in every combination that would yield a pronounceable name for the shrimps and their cousins. Another naturalist reversed the process. He had a boundless admiration for the sea-worms, on which Greek names had been bestowed, and he had also seven daughters. So each daughter, as she arrived, was christened after one of the worms.

Piles Cured Permanentley Without Drugs

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause

Mr. A. N. Steele Cupar, Sask., writes—"I had been troubled with my stomach, Piles and Constipation for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading Doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcered. I gradually became worse until one day when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina, Mr. Russell noticed my condition, and said 'I can cure you. Get a J.B.L. Cascade. Well I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time for weeks and in a very short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles which had troubled me for years."

If you are troubled with constipation, don't drug yourself. Internal bathing with the J. B. L. Cascade is the only permanent way. This wonderful appliance is the invention of Dr. Chas .A. Tyrrell, New York. It is pleasant and easy to use and will serve the whole family. It should be in every home. See the J. B. L. Cascade at the Warne Drug Store where it will be shown and explained to you. Ask for a 32 page booklet all about internal bathing. It is free or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which has amused thousands as a stage farce, Famous stage play has been made into a rollicking screen comedy and will be shown at the Regent Theatre next week, with Bryant Washburn in the leading role.

The story centres around inoffensive Jack Temple, who is by accident locked out all night on a roof with a designing "vamp" and invents a wild yarn to explain his absence to his waiting and jealous wife. Mrs. Temple sends a telegram to confirm the alibi. A hilarious mess of young husbands wives, and Italian manicurists follows, which is finally untangled satisfactorily.

Pretty Wanda Hawley is the leading woman, and the cast includes such favorites as Walter Hiers, Carmen Phillips, and Sylvia Ashton. James Cruze directed, and Elmer Harris adapted the story from the original by Frank Wyat and William Morris.

STRIPPING THE MASK OFF "THAT MAN" O'CONNOR

W. F. O'Connor, K.C., of Ottawa, knows that the tariff is not the issue in this bye-election.

T. J. McMurray, the Candidate of the Independent Labour Party, also knows that the tariff is not the issue.

Yet, W. F. O'Connor insinuates himself and the tariff onto the platform at a public meeting held by the Independent Labour Party in the interest of their Candidate.

And under the pretence of expounding his views on the tariff, Mr. O'Connor takes a special fling at G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE, and at the Liberal Party.

Mr. O'Connor said that he came to Peterborough for the purpose of getting his tariff scheme before the people.

Was that the only object of his sojourn here?

If so, the Independent Labour Party should have politely told Mr. O'Connor to hire a hall where he and the Honourable Arthur Meighen could talk tariff to their hearts' content.

For the ISSUE IN THIS ELECTION IS NOT THE TARIFF, in spite of the efforts of Mr. Meighen and Mr. O'Connor to thrust it before the minds of the people.

THE ISSUE IS THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE TO DECIDE WHO SHALL GOVERN THEM.

Having stepped into the spotlight at the Independent Labour Party's meeting, Mr. W. F. O'Connor did not confine his address to an exposition of his solution of the tariff question.

Had he done so his presence might have occasioned no serious suspicion.

But Mr. O'Connor took a pot shot at G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE, and also announced his intention of supporting T. J. McMurray.

Now, did W. F. O'Connor come to Peterborough to discuss his pet tariff idea, or to support the Independent Labour Party—or was he snooping with an air of mystery as THE FRIEND OF THE SO-CALLED NATIONAL LIBERAL AND CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT.

Apparently Mr. Peter McArthur, president of the Independent Labour Party, Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., and other I.L.P. leaders, and their Candidate welcomed W. F. O'Connor without a doubt as to his real mission.

What Ottawa Thinks of O'Connor

If that is the case, an editorial in The Ottawa Citizen of 26th January may suggest to them that they have been badly deceived:

> "Mr. O'Connor's relationship with the present Government is generally understood," says The Citizen. "When he proceeded to Peterborough, with the possibility of getting an organisation to nominate him for the bye-election, no one had any doubt about the interest of the National Liberal and Conservative Party organisers in Mr. O'Connor's activities. The decision of the former commissioner, and sugar refiners' counsel, to support the Labour candidate is no surprise. But it is calculated finally to eclipse the prospects of Labour in the bye-election. . . Mr. O'Connor's appearance on the Labour platform should save the situation—for the reactionaries."

The reactionaries in this election are Meighenites.

Thus does The Ottawa Citizen strip the disguise off W. F. O'Connor, K.C., and dispel the mystery in which he attempted to surround his manoeuvres in Peterborough.

Seemingly everybody was suspicious of W. F. O'Connor except the Independent Labour Party's leaders and candidate.

Did they imagine that W. F. O'Connor was travelling between Ottawa and Peterborough, remaining here for days at a time, incurring considerable expense, and abandoning his business at home, to make a good fellow of himself with the I.L.P.

Such a phenomenon as that only happens in the Golden Rule books.

And if Mr. O'Connor wished to spread his tariff doctrine, the newspapers would grab at a new idea without the round-about introduction Mr. O'Connor was pretending.

The Independent Labour Party shouts loudly against the Government, and yet they receive with open arms one of its pet friends.

Did they not know that in Halifax W. F. O'Connor was a bitter partisan, and had been a Conservative candidate for the Legislature of Nova Scotia on more than one occasion?

O'Connor's Nest Well Feathered

Did they not know that Mr. O'Connor's nest has been comfortably feathered at Ottawa?

Listen to this: From 1st May, 1916, to 15th June, 1920, Mr. O'Connor drew from the public treasury the following salaries:

"A Secretary" of the Dept. of Justice	$16,000
Soldier Settlement Board	2,000
General Returning Officer 1917 Election	2,000
Travelling Expenses for same	865
High Cost of Living Commissioner	2,833
Board of Commerce Commissioner	7,600
Making a total of	$31,298

At one time Mr. O'Connor was filling four rather important positions at salaries of:

Secretary Dept. of Justice	$ 5,000
Counsel, Soldier Settlement Board	2,000
General Returning Officer	2,000
Cost of Living Commissioner	2,000
Total	$11,000

Some persons would be glad to get one position from the Government; but W. F. O'Connor had four, bringing him in $11,000 a year.

Here is a man who held four fairly remunerative jobs appearing on the platform of a party, one of whose planks is "one man one job."

W. F. O'CONNOR, K.C., AND HIS POLITICAL GAME IN WEST PETERBOROUGH HAS HELPED, INSTEAD OF HURT, G. N. GORDON, THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

The Electors know that W. F. O'Connor couldn't pull the wool over G. N. Gordon's eyes.

This Sunday Mrs. Brigadier Green of Toronto, who is the territorial staff officer for all branches of S. A. work in Canada east, will pay a visit to the corps. Mrs. Green is a woman eminently fitted for the work of which she has charge and her visit here will be of great interest to everyone, but especially to women.

On Sunday morning there will be an open air service at the corner of Reid and Charlotte streets, followed by a holiness meeting inside.

There will be the usual free and easy in the afternoon. Following this there will be a special meeting for women alone from four to 4.45, conducted by Mrs. Briagdier Green. The Growth of Chiropractic

The Drugless Health Science of Chiropractic, although only quarter of a century old, is becoming known favorably all over the world. To-day almost every city of any size has several Chiropractors. A large percentage of all diseases is traceable to an interference with the nerve or nerve pressure at the spot where it leaves the spinal column; this interference or pressure being caused by the vertebrae (small bones of the spine) being out of position. Any competent Chiropractor can and will put these bones back in their normal positions, thus relieving the nerve pressure and permitting the normal flow of the precious Vital Force to the various organs. For the solution of your Health problems, consult your Chiropractor.

PAPER CALLS RAPARATIONS TERMS FOLLY

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN SAYS INDEMNITIES IMPOSED CAN NEVER BE PAID---ONLY TERMS REGARDING EXPORTS CAN BE EXECUTED.

MANUFACTURERS OBJECT

(Canadian Associated Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Allied reparation terms decided upon by the Supreme Council in Paris last week were described as "folly" by The Manchester Guardian to-day. The newspaper said: "We may be thankful the terms can never be executed." In the opinion of the paper, Germany will be able to pay indemnities only by exported goods.

"If she exported every year an additional three hundred million pounds sterling worth of goods to France, England and Belgium, the outcry raised by the competing manufacturers of this country would be heartrending. It is already audible," the newspaper said.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Full agreement on reparations, German disarmament, and all other important questions was reached by the Supreme Council of the Allies before it adjourned at 5.40 o'clock on Saturday evening, to meet again in London on 21st February.

The greatest result obtained was, as M. Briand, the French Premier, expressed it after the closing session, "maintenance by the Allies of a front as united in making peace as it was in waging war."

Count Sforza, the Italian Foreign Minister, and M. Briand, said the conference had resulted to the satisfaction of everybody concerned.

A protocol was signed approving the reparations scheme as agreed by the special committee appointed by the Council to consider the subject, and also the report on the disarmament of Germany, as presented by the military committee. Under these arrangements Germany must disarm by 1st July, disbanding all her civic guards not provided for in the Versailles Treaty.

FOUR SUFFOCATED BY SMALL BLAZE

(Canadian Press).

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The wife and three children of James H. Glover, Bathurst street, are dead from suffocation as a result of a small blaze in their house shortly before seven o'clock this morning. The fire started from an overheated stove in the back part of the house and apparently the oldest of the three childrn who was in the second room, was the only one who noticed anything wrong. From the position in which she was found it is believed that she attempted to reach her mother. The children were eight years, five years and seventeen months old respetively. The father left the house about six o'clock everything apparently being in order. The damage from the fire is slight.

MEMORIAL TO FAMOUS UNIT

COLORS OF SECOND BATTALION DEPOSITED IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, BOWMANVILLE, BY COL. M'LAUGHLIN, YESTERDAY

EAST ONTARIO UNIT

(Special to The Examiner.)

BOWMANVILLE, Jan. 31. —The colours of the Second Battalion, East Ontario Regiment, were deposited in St. Paul's Presbyterian church here yesterday morning with impressive ceremonies, by Col. Lorne T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O. The colours were presented by His Majesty the King and Charles Walter Band, of New York. Col. McLaughlin spoke at length on the record of the Battalion, which comprised many Peterborough men, and traced its history throughout the Great War. His address in part was as follows:

It was a sense of deep responsibility that, on behalf of the officers, noncommissioned officers and men of the 2nd Canadian Battalion, East Ontario Regiment, I have asked that the Regimental colors of the unit be deposited for safe keeping in this church.

These consist of one presented to us by His Majesty the King, and the second, the personal gift of Mr. Charles Band, of New York, a Canadian gentleman who has always taken a lively interest in the welfare of the 2nd Battalion and who has been one of its most generous patrons.

In order that a proper appreciation be had of the ceremony I would recall to you, something of the history of the 2nd Battalion. It was one of the original twelve infantry units of the 1st Canadian Division and was mobilized at Valcartier on 12th August, 1914.

History of the Battalion.

From the beginning it was markedly representative of these counties, its personnel being drawn from the Militia units of the eastern part of the province.

Proceeding to England in September, 1914, the Battalion spent the winter on Salisbury Plains and on the 11th of February, 1915, landed in France. Its first position was taken up in the trenches near Armentieres.

In less than a month the Battaloin was in action on the flank of the British attack at Neuve Chapelle, where it received its baptism of fire. Marching northwards at the beginning of April, the 2nd Battalion was again thrown into action at Ypres, participating in the defence of St. Julien against the gas attacks of the enemy. In two days' fighting the unit was reduced to less than 200 all ranks.

Re-organized at Bailleul, the Battalion returned to its original sector near Armentieres to take part in the engagement of Festubert in the month of May. This was followed four weeks later by the battle of Givenchy.

The summer and winter of 1915-1916 were spent in the vicinity of Messines Ridge, but in April, 1916, the Battalion returned to the Ypres salient. A minor operation on the 26th April at Hill 60 was followed by the heavy fighting of June 1916. In all of this the 2nd Battalion was the recipient of the warmest commendation for its steadiness in defence and its determination in attack.

By the end of August the 2nd Battalion was engaged in the protracted struggle on the Somme and after a few days in Pozieres Ridge, delivered the first Canadian attack of that great battle. On the 9th September, 1916, the 2nd Battalion successfully assaulted the enemy defences south of Courcelette and in six weeks spent on the Somme took part in five distinct attacks. Casualties in that period amounted to 695 officers, non-commissioned officers and men.

Participated in First Canadian Offensive.

The winter of 1916-1917 saw the Battalion in garrison on Vimy Ridge and on the 9th of April it participated in the first concerted Canadian offensive of the war. The battle extended throughout the month and culminated on the 3rd of May in the capture of Fresnoy on the plains of Douai. The 2nd Battalion was the spearhead of this last engagement.

On the 17th August, following a brief respite, the Battalion was once more thrown into action at Hill 70, and endured the brunt of the German

The voters' lists have not been sent in from several of the country stations but they were expected to-day, as the revision in the country was completed on Saturday.

The Examiner was unable to secure the number of voters at No. 23, Orange Hall, Galway, No. 25, Swamp Lake Schoolhouse, Galway, No. 27, David Higgins' House, Cavendish, No. 30, Harvey True Blue Hall, No. 31, Town Hall, Ennismore.

RAY OF HOPE FOR AGING WOMANHOOD

(United Press)

VIENNA, Jan. 31.—A ray of hope for aging womanhood has been discovered according to the announcement to-day of Professor Holzneost Director of the Roentgen Institute here.

It is the Roentgen Ray "Women is rejuvenated physiologically and psychologically by the treatment I have devised," Holznecht declared.

Blurred voices have become clear and fresh, he asserted. Complexions have cleared, eyes brightened and wrinkles disappeared while the patient entered her old life with new zest.

The treatment, he said, consisted in playing the feeblest ray upon the patient.

"Age is banished", the Professor declared.

Thirty per cent. of his experiments have been successful, he said.

GRAND TRUNK ARBITRATION

BOARD OF ARBITRATION TO FIX VALUATION OF ROAD BEGINS SITTINGS TO-MORROW — IMPOSING ARRAY OF EXPERTS.

EVIDENCE TECHNICAL

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—The Board of Arbitration that is to determine what sum the government of Canada will pay the Grand Trunk Railway for its holdings, so that they may be merged with the Canadian Government Railway, will hold its first sitting Tuesday in the Grand Trunk Building here. The meetings will be open. The evidence will be of such a technical and financial nature that no curiosity will be aroused. The board is composed of three members: Sir Walter Cassels, Judge of the Exchequer Court, the chairman; William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, representing the Grand Trunk, and Sir Thomas White, former finance minister of Canada, representing the government.

There will be a large array of counsel and dozens of experts in railway, financial and other matters will be called as witnesses. Among the counsel are the following. W. H. BIG INTERESTS IN WALL STREET ATTACKING FORD

DETERMINED TO FORCE HIM TO SURRENDER CONTROL OF HIS BUSINESS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 31.—Evidences of determination by certain interests in Wall street to force Henry Ford to surrender control of his business were multiplying here to-day when the Dow Jones' financial ticker service put out the following:

"Detroit— Henry Ford has reached his limit. It is beyond the powers of any one man to raise money and carry forward single handedly the manifold enterprises in which he has started. John D. Rockefeller, at 55, with more than 25 multi-millionaire workers around him, had to divest himself of the organization and get out to save his skin. He saved his skin, but lost every hair on it. His hiar had then turned gray. Doctors said, nervous dystyephsia, and only a new stomach, gotten from exercise and open air could save his life.

"Henry Ford is not a billionaire, though the Ford Motor Car Co. has earied more than $100,000,000 in a year, which is more than Rockefeller's Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, earned before the court dissolution. Rockefeller kept his organization. Henry Ford has destroyed his organization in a way to give rise to very serious inquiries.

"Day after day resignations are announced from the Ford organization, and various explanations have been given to to indicate that officials disagreed with Mr. Ford and resigned.

"Now the truth is, though it has never before been told, that Henry Ford has fired them one after another.

"He fired his $75,000 a year general manager and told him he never wanted to see his face again.

"Ford fired his chief auditor and cannot now find the items or collatoral he wanted.

ROWELL MAY YET RETIRE COMPLETELY

REFUSES TO COMMIT HIMSELF BUT OTTAWA GIVES CREDENCE TO RUMORS THAT HE WILL RESIGN HIS SEAT VERY SOON.

ANOTHER BY-ELECTION

(Special to the Examiner).

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. — "I have no news to give out," said Hon. N. W. Rowell, M.P. for Durham, and former President of the Privy Council, just before he went in to see Premier Meighen this morning.

Mr. Rowell attended the funeral of the late Right Hon. A. L. Sifton last week, but this is his first official visit since his resignation from the Government many months ago.

It has been rumoured that Mr. Rowell contemplates complete retirement by resigning his seat in Durham, and Mr. Rowell has declined either to confirm or deny that rumour. In Ottawa, however, considerable credence is given to it.

Mr. Rowell retired with Sir Robert Borden from the Government and declined to be re-sworn into the Meighen Cabinet. His reasons for retirement were not made public in extension, but it has generally been believed that he considered his connection with the Government ceased when the new National Liberal and Conservative party took up the place of the Union Government. Since his retirement he has been more or less of a Free Lance, though he was chosen as one of Canada's delegates at Geneva. He is now handling the Ontario Government's case against the Shevlin-Clark and other lumber companies.

Mr. Rowell, it is believed, would not feel any more at home on the Government side of the House under changed circumstances, than would Hon. A. K. MacLean, who has decided to rejoin the Liberals. Already, however, the Liberals have nominated W. T. R. Preston against Mr. Rowell in Durham, a fact which would indicate that he is not welcome to the left of the Speaker.

There is a general impression that Mr. Rowell will retire for a time to private practice, and there are rumours that he may again enter the Provincial field.

EDUCATIONALISTS DEMAND REPORMS

URGE MANY CHANGES IN PROVINCIAL SYSTEM ON MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

(Canadian Press).

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — F. B. Edmunds, Toronto; Walter Parke, Hamilton; J. N. McKendrick, Galt; C. T. McBride, St. Catharines; T. Sydney Kirby, Ottawa; Mrs. W. A. Tanner, London, and A. B. Peddie, Windsor, Ont., of the Urban School Trustees' Association, waited upon Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education, to-day. They asked that provision be made for appeals to local inspectors against the decsions by the attendance officer under the Adolescent School Attendance Act. They also asked for training schools for teachers, particularly of vocational subjects. The Minister said he hoped a Dominion school would be established. To the request for Junior High Schools, including the fourth book and a part of the High School curriculum, the Minister said that no such necessity would arise under the Adolescent Attendance Act. The association asked for immediate action to alleviate the text book shortage, regardless of expense. The Minister said there must be due regard to expense.

Finance Minister and Others Speak Government Cause

SIR HENRY L. DRAYTON.
Minister of Finance, who was the chief speaker in the Government interests at the meeting in the Grand Opera House on Saturday evening.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON, H. M. MOWAT, M.P., TORONTO, AND H. H. STEVENS, M.P., VANCOUVER, ADDRESS LARGE MEETING—ATTACK LIBERALS ON TARIFF.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

ing was held in the Grand Opera House in the interests of Mr. R. Denne the Government candidate.

Mr. Charles Ackerman who presided referred to the success of the campaign and especially to the reception received by Mr. Denne in the North Country.

In the evening paper Mr. Burnham asked if it was not right that in orders to the soldiers in 1917 they were told that they would have a chance to vote at a general election when the war was over. Ackerman believed that no such order could be found. At Ottawa said Mr. Ackerman the archives had been searched to try to find when such a promise was made but to no avail. Mr. Roland Denne, the government candidate was greeted with a burst of applause. During the two weeks since he last last spoken in the Opera House, he said, he had met with great success both in the country and in the city. There was only one issue in this bye-election said Mr Denne and that is the tariff. In regard to Mr. Gordon's and Mr. Campbell's policy free trade on foodstuffs, Mr. Denne said as one who had been in a position to know the Quaker Oats would never have located in Peterboro if it hadn't been for the tariff. Mr. Gordon was paid as city solicitor for anything he did to get the Quaker Oats to re-locate here, said Mr. Denne in regard to the statement that Mr. Gordon was largly responsible for the company locating here again.

A "Reputed" Liberal

Major H. M. Mowat M. P. of Toronto termed the local bye-election a "great mix up". As a staunch Liberal he told of the feeling entering their minds as the war proceeded that they were not doing all they could and so, regrettfully, many departed from the Liberal ranks. Others were true to Sir Wilfrid. "Politics and partyism must go there was only one issue to support the men at the front." The only thing they could do to save their self respect was to go in, he said or the way the solidified the old parties Sir Robert Borden he declared was entitled to the banks of this country for hundreds of years. "We didn't suffer any dictation from the Conservatives at Ottawa" he said despite statements that they would be dictated to." None were for the party all were for the state. "We think that is the best kind of government for Canada now and for some time to come. "I credit them if they are unpopular. I don't think they are but if they are. I credit them for it", said Mr. Mowat after an enthusiastic eulogy of the Union Government for their efficiency in passing necessary measures during the war. "I venture to say in two years the people won't want to go back to the old party system. The Board of Commerce had not been as successful as hoped for but it had done good work. My argument is there is not much difference betwen the old parties. The so-called

GERMANY TO DECLINE TO PAY ALLIES

REPORTED IN BERLIN THAT REICHSTAG HAS REFUSED TO EXECUTE ALLIED REPARATION TERMS UNLESS MATERIALLY ALTERED.

SITUATION SERIOUS

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Correspondent).

BERLIN, Jan. 31. — Immediately after a session of the Reichstag today it was reported the German Government intends to refuse to pay the $55,000,000,000 indemnity demanded by the Allies, unless their proposals are materially altered.

The Reichstag suddenly adjourned after a short session, "because of the seriousness of the situation."

When the Reichstag convened Foreign Minister Von Simons announced that a long note had arrived from Paris, which said that a unanimous agreement had been reached by the Allies on the reparations question.

Von Simons asked the Reichstag to put the question of paying the indemnity ahead in the order of business so it may be disposed of at once. The Reichstag then adjoutned until to-morrow. Caucuses of the various parties were immediately called to decide what positions shall be taken.

ADVERTISING THAT PAYS

This news is important to our advertisers as well as to our readers.

Wrigley's Chewing Gum today starts its 13th year of advertising in the Canadian newspapers. When they began very few people used chewing gum. Today, few people do not get the pleasure and benefit of using WRIGLEY'S "after every meal."

Regular consistent newspaper advertising convinced the Canadian public that WRIGLEY'S is good and good for them. It has built the modern sanitary factory at Toronto—recenty doubled in size.

If our advertising will do this for the manufacturer of a single item selling for the small cost of 5 cents, how much more can we do for local purveyors of general merchandise who are selling many items, some of them running into hundreds of dollars on a single sale?

TO A CAGED CANARY.

Sweet bird, in your cozy cage, sheltered and warm,
Secure from a breath of the wild wintry storm,
Though skies may be leaden, and lowering and drear,
A bright sparkling fire, affords comfort and cheer,
All your wants are attended with tenderest care,
And rare dainties furnish your unstinted fare,
With these bounties of life, all so freely supplied,
Is there ought, heart can wish for, or sigh for, beside?

But I listen in vain for the jubilant song,
That gladdened my heart, all the fair Summer, long;
Does your neat little home, but a barred prison, seem,
And of green fields and forests, and freedom you dream?
If for dear companions, long vanished, you pine,
Then thy heart but responds to the yearning of mine,
For loved ones, with Summer's sweet sunshine are flown
To a land where chill winds and sad hearts are unknown.

Yet droop not so despondent, but joyously sing,
For soon snow-wreaths will fade, in the warm smile of Spring,
Soon gay Summer returns, robed in verdure and flowers,
Bringing back thy lost mates, to their loved leafy bowers,
Whence a rapturous flood of sweet melody poured,
Will solace for all thy lone longings afford,
For me, too, when life's wearisome winter is o'er,
Gentle Springtime Eternal, loved ones will restore.

Then, birdie, sing out your blithe carol again,
Exultantly warble this happy refrain,
Darksome clouds will roll by, sunshine again, glow
'Stead of blustering Boreas, soothing soft zephyrs blow,
'Tis folly the present with gloom to o'ercast,
By regret for the brief blissful days of the past,
Though so pleasant they were, well we know, rich in store,
The future, holds pleasures, undreamed of, before.

SALVATION ARMY NEWS

During the early hours of Sunday morning fire broke out between 7 and 8 o'clock while a number of Christians were praying for "God's" spirit to be poured upon them. The fire of the Holy Ghost came down and right throughout the whole day men and women felt the heat and its melting inquence. The operations were in charge of Mrs. Brigadier Green, who has spent a lifetime in the Army, who has been commissioned to go throughout the country as one of God's own endeavouring to help, guide and assist, those of her sex whom have fallen. Those who had the privilege of listening to this orator of God's will not soon forget her soul-stirring messages and her heart-rending stories. This is only the beginning of great times for Peterborough. Next week end we are to be favored by a visit of Colonel and Mrs. Otway. We are hoping that the present standard of attendance will be maintained.

It is gratifying to see that our Temple is becoming too small to accommodate the crowds who are seeking admission. This I may say is taking place throughout the week as well as on the Sabbath.

The special feature of Sunday evening's service was enrolling of 15 new soldiers into the ranks of the Salvation Army, when they publicly swore allegiance to God and the Army.

For this week are having an interesting subject for Wednesday evening. Adjutant Bunton will take for his subject, "Pillars and Caterpillars."

The usual Friday evening Holiness meeing will be held this week, when a hearty invitation is given to all Christians seeking holliness and knowledge. These meetings are a feature of the week night services, and no one should miss them.

All our services during the week commence at 8 o'clock. We have a fine, warm Temple on Simcoe street. All seats are free and hymn books are provided.—Communicated.

MISTAKE IN DATE

POLITICAL MEETING IS ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT, NOT TO-NIGHT.

Through a typographical error the political meeting which is to be held at the Young Women's Christian Association on Wednesday night, was advertised for to-night. Wednesday at 8 o'clock is the time set for the meeting, and it is hoped that all girls and women in the city will take this opportunity of learning more about the platforms of the different candidates.

TO BE TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION

THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS.

If you do not feel well and go to your family physician, one of the first things he will do is ask you to hold out your tongue. The reason for this is that the condition of the tongue shows the condition of the stomach and bowels.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, heartburn, water brash, etc., and those troublesome piles, which cause so much annoyance and misery.

Keep your bowels moving regularly and you won't be sick.

In Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills you will find just the remedy you require for this purpose. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe, weaken, or sicken.

Mr. Jas. S. Harris, Box 934, Halifax, N.S., writes: "For two years I suffered with constipation. I could not get anything to cure me, and hardly anything would give be even temporary relief. One day my uncle induced me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and even brought me a vial. I tried them without much faith, but I soon found they were doing me good, and after using the second vial I was relieved of my trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DR. ALLEN would like physicians to take note that because their patients have Pyorrhoea, it is in most cases very unwise to advise extraction. Lashed by the Whip of Circumstance

To be lashed into action by the Whips of Circumstance is not an evil.

One needs it periodically to overcome the flatulence of prosperity.

Let us be frank with each other.

Manufacturers, Merchants, Newspaper Proprietors, and Public, we have all had a succession of fat years. Now some of us are timorous at the thought of lean months.

Well, lean months and lean years would be in store if we sat still and wailed — but not if we show fight.

We are pleased to see fighting spirit awakening. It is shown by the renewal of Daily Newspaper Advertising Contracts for increased space this year.

But, greater evidence than that—New advertisers are planning to use daily newspapers to reach out for new business with old lines and to introduce new lines into old established fields.

While such vision, and faith and courage is alive in men, there can be no fear for the future.

* * *

What of your fighting spirit? What are your ambitions?

Are you going to reach out and fight for business? Well, then, you have one mighty force to aid you — that is Daily Newspaper Advertising.

And Daily Newspaper Advertising welcomes the challenge.

The Daily Newspapers of Canada are resolved to do their part to make 1912 a Banner Year. They invite you to travel in their company.

FINANCE MINISTER AND OTHERS SPEAK FOR GOVERNMENT CAUSE

principles he characterized as so much 'humbug", Mr. Mowat said he was shocked when he read Mr. King's Peterboro speech. He had gone back on his free trade policy, he declared Oh, Mr. King! How do you expect to lead the party again? Oh! Mr. King, Mr. King," he sighed. Sir Wilfrid Laurier always adhered to his policy he said and was respected because of this.

Free Trade.

In the Parliament he had heard the Liberals advocate Free Trade. The speaker produced a report of the Liberal Convention in Ottawa, August 1919 at which Mr Gordon was a delegate to show that despite what Mr. King said that he only wanted a shaving down of the tariff the Liberal policy practically called for free trade.

Sir Henry Drayton.

The address of Sir Henry Drayton centered about the tariff. He spoke for over half an hour and was given an attentive hearing.

The Minister of Finance proceeded to condemn Hon. Mackenzie King for beclouding the issue in this bye-election. Mr. King claimed the tariff was not the issue. The absence of responsible government in Canada was to be fought on. If this was the issue, why, asked Sir Henry, was Mr. Gordon running? Why was not Mr. King supporting Mr Burnham, who on this ground resigned from the House? The tariff is the issue according to Sir Henry and he asked why Mr. Gordon had got out another protection policy if th e tariff was not the issue. The speaker read from Hansard, Mr. King's advocacy of free trade. He urged the Government then and there to put tariff reductions into effect. On his recent Western trip, Mr. King had pleased the people everywhere. On the prairie he was a tariff smasher but in the east he advocated protection. In Yale, B.C., his cry was protection of fruits but in Peterboro G. N. Gordon, Liberal candidate favours a reduction of the tariff and foodstuffs in which fruit would be included.

The speaker read extracts from the Liberal leader's Western addresses. He said he believed in giving the facts", when the other felow supplies them." He pointed out the differences between these and his Peterboro speech. His western platform was not adaptable to Peterboro said Sir Henry Mr. King always pleases his audience. For instance he said at a gathering of commercial travellers in Montreal the other day he steered clear of the tariff but acused the government of being a "class government."

Serious Offence.

Sir Henry charged that it was a serious offence against the nation to becloud the issues. The issues are grave he said. Mr. Gordon claimed all foodstuffs should be free beause of high price. Mr. Gordon thought this would be popular thing to advocate Sir Henry pointed to the Quaker Oats Co., with 1,000 employees, a payroll of a half-million yearly. They paid 60 cents for oats here as compared with 55 cents in the states and yet they sold their products as cheap heres as in the states. The Quaker Oats Company was something this city should be proud of but if there had not been a protective tariff it would not have located here. "I'm quite sure Mr. Gordon wouldn't knowingly do anything to injure Peterboro, I'm certain of it. It was something come on the spur of the moment."

People believe that it is not right to protect above the necesary level and they advocate indirect taxation. In Canada the annual tax per head is now $16.50. Most of this tax not only brings in money but enables industry to carry on. In England the tax is $15 per head but industry receives no protection, as it is a free trade country. England he said was seeking protection in other ways The tariff commission in Canada was necessary he declared. The tariff should be such as to allow manufacturers a fair return on their investment.

Standard of Living.

There was an intensely human side to the tariff that had rarely been told of. The tariff had raised the standard of living in Canada and it should be our ideal to raise it higher. On one article manufactured in this city the unit cost of labour was 26 cents, as compared to 6 cents in Japan. I know you don't want to see that standard reduced." While Labour was against the invasion into this country of Asiatic labour they did not seem to realize that in protecting Canadian industry a barrier was really placed against the invasion of foreign goods which was equally dangerous. Regarding the unemployment to-day. Sir Henry hoped that the government might soon find some way to eliminate unemployment. They were charged with great expenditures said Sir Henry but Canada's war program was a vast one and it was true they spent million. He was sure however that the people would rather have seen more done than less. (Applause). Canada is now in a critical period and one of the worst things men can do to their country is by stirring up class strife.

Income Tax

Speaking of taxation he deemed that Canada taxed those least able to bear it and left the "profiteers" alone. Canada's taxes in the lowest registers are lower than in any other of the war countries but on the large incomes Canada exacts more taxes than any other. On an income of $1,000,000 a tax of $696 000 is made in Canada compared to $519,000 in England. "These facts are open to everybody", said Sir Henry. Since the income tax was originated total collections were nearly $200,000,000.

A Vigorous Address

Mr. H. Stevens, M.P., of Vancouver, the concluding speaker, who is an old Peterborough boy, dwelt on the importance of good citizenship and the intelligent use of the ballot. To the charge that the government had usurped power and had no mandate to carry on, he said that according to the British North America Act Parliament was elected to sit for five years. If the government lost a vote of confidence in the House, Mr. King would not go to the people, but would take over the reins of power himself. No reasonable argument could be produced, he declared to show, that the government had no mandate. In Kamloops, B. C., said the speaker, Hon. King urged knocking down the tariff wall. Saw mill machinery would be imported from the States instead of from Peterborough, where it is manufactured. Notwithstanding his Kamloops speech, Hon. King here said the tariff was perfectly safe. No matter what the leader said. Mr. Gordon was pledged to the Liberal platform of tariff reduction.

Check on Expenditures.

In denying the charges of money misspent at Ottawa, Mr. Stevens told of how every cent was carefully audited and if any member questioned one item he could call the Public Accounts committee, which is composed of members from both sides of the House, and evidence unbiasely taken. For three sessions the Opposition never challenged an account till the sweeping charge was made by Mr. Sinclair of $121,000,000 misspent in England. The committee was called, and after a full investigation, the vouchers certifying the money was spent in soldiers' pay were found in London, where they were kept pending the conclusion of the submarine warfare. The point Mr. Stevens wanted to make was that charges of corruption should not be made unless one had actual facts. If he had it was a duty to reveal it.

Charges made that the government had disenfranchised voters were erroneous, he said. Alien enemies were the only ones disenfranchised. "It's about time Mr. King's bluff was called.' Although both were fighting on the same grounds, the Liberals were supporting Mr. Gordon because Mr. Burnham didn't suit on the tariff, said the speaker. As to the Liberal platform of protecting labour he maintained that the protection policy of the government for protection of Canadian industries necessary to maintain them in Canada, protected the men. He could not see how the industry could be separated from the men working in the industry and the men's welfare was bound up in the industry. As to profiteering he told the audience to tell Mr. Gordon to name industries in this city who had, to lay his finger on them, and then ask them to produce a statement of thier profits. "It's about time we stopped messing up our own nest and slandering our own people." (Aplause.)

HAD AN ANNOYING HACKING COUGH

GOT NO REST AT NIGHT

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition, that unless you get immediate relief the cough may become settled and serious lung trouble ensues.

There is no better remedy than Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for relieving all kinds of coughs or colds, combining as it does the lung healing virtues of the pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing and healing expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mrs. E. J. Ross, Penhold, Alta., writes: "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold, accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness. I was so hoarse you could not hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying, hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. I finally saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so I got a bottle. It at once gave me relief, and after using four of them, my cough had all gone. Now I always keep it in the house."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trademark, price 35c and 60c a bottle. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: The chief topic of my remarks next Wednesday evening in Victoria Hall, will be a consideration of this question:

"Why is it, that with all our resources, and with all our expressions of mutual good will, employment, and therefore our individual prosperity and happiness, hangs by a thread?"

J. H. BURNHAM

To the Editor:

Sir,—The election which is to be held on Monday, Feb. 7th, is the most important by-election that has been held in Canada. All eyes in Canada are focused on the west riding of Peterborough. By our vote on that day we will be judged by the right-thinking people of this Dominion. The issue is are we to stand for courage in public life. Our candidate, Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. Mickle, of Kingston, are the only men in Canada who were returned as members of the late Union Parliament who have kept faith with the people and handed back the mandate they gave them, when the work for which they were elected was completed.

Mr. Burnham is not a millionaire, and by taking the only stand that was open to an honorable man, he is several thousand dollars poorer to-day, but he has something greater than money, and that money cannot buy, he retains his self-respect as a public man and the respect of the electors, not only of the west riding of Peterborough, but of the whole Dominion. If the people want members to stand by them in a crisis t' y must back them up or they will be crushed by the money power.

GEORGE EVANS.

Because the seizure of the Government of Canada by this group of politicians was legislative, not physical, makes it no less a revolution against all the principles of free government and institutions.

'To him that hath shall be given'—

Was the Biblical version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., who, over 50 years ago, gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled as a tonic for the weaknesses of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor.

Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablets. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a blood tonic and system builder, makes an amazing total of thousands.

The man who goes to a money shark to raise the wind pays dearly for his whistle.
